year, mother of Harvey Pulford, is in the same hospital with a fractured femur while both Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Pulford sustained superficial injuries.

Driver Makes Choice

Other members of the road gang hurt were: Robert Hodge, Mallorytown, slight head injuries; Samuel Nowlan, Mallorytown, injuries to the left knee; and Robert Graham, Brockville, cuts and bruises. After having received treatment, Mr. and Mrs. Graham were able to leave the hospital, the latter returning to her home in Toledo. The Pulford party had proceeded to Kingston for the day and were returning to Ottawa via the Seaway town. Rounding a slight curve near Wiltsie, according to the story told by Mr. Pulford, he saw a large truck parked beside the road and on approaching from the east, Mr. Pulford said he was travelling at not more than 30 miles an hour and immediately had to choose between striking the car or the truck. He chose the later course, striking it at the rear. A rear and pair crew in charge of D. S. Clow, Mallorytown, was at work in the rear of the car but none of them were injured. available and also a distribution committee to see that relief will be started at once. In this way, it is hoped that there will be no duplication of the receiving to public appearances at the local police station—many who would rather go without than do so.

Other means of obtaining cash contributions for the fund are advanced, but the kind offer of Manager Ellis, of the Capitol Theatre, who has donated the threatre for one day, the proceeds to be for the purpose of the unemployed was cheered to the echo. The statement made by Mayor Ellis and Charlie Hanna, that the Citizens' Committee would not be dissolved and were available at any time to help out in any way, was appreciated. Many other lesser aids were also thankfully accepted; several offered to donate the use of cars and services to help gather produce given locally by the generous farmers, others such as the executive committees, relief committees, are at present devoting their entire time to the work of the unemployed and altogether it looks as if at last there will be an organization around which the city of Belleville can rally.

The meeting on the whole was orderly marred only slightly by the heckling of one or two of the members who seemed to have found fault with the actions of others of their organization. One local man of other nationality than Canadian, but now naturalized was put 'on the spot' and made to produce his credentials, also to explain why he was able to get more work than others who were present. Charges of favoritism flew thick and fast over the election of work to be done in the city and a committee was appointed to investigate and report.

While the central distribution point was only tentatively named last night and as yet not fully decided upon it will finally be named in the course of a few days' time, at the meantime the Committee will gratefully receive any assistance given them by the more fortunate citizens of the city, such as cast-off clothing, foodstuffs and coal. These will be called for and as once distributed to the persons needy who have been investigated.

No Clues To Men Who Are Setting Fires In District

Hamilton, Oct. 23 (CP)—The persons responsible for fourteen incendiary fires in Wentworth county are still at liberty, and thus far police have not even a theory to offer as to the disastrous conflagrations which have terrorized the countryside.

Yesterday brought the heaviest blow of all when the stable barn owned by Frederick Hostein, Jr., was reduced to ashes and a loss of more than $2,000 sustained. The blaze was only partly covered by insurance. Hostein, who is often ill, was not in the state of extreme nervousness that is the wife of the Conservative candidate in that riding. BALCOMBE AGOG OVER NUPTIALS

Southern English Village Prepares For Advent of Society

Balcombe, England, Oct. 28 (AP)—This little southern English town was tossing out its best bib and trappers today in preparation for becoming the centre of the stage of British society tomorrow when Lady May Cambridge, 26 year old niece of Queen Mary, will be married in the old church here to Captain Abel Smith, of the Royal Horse Guards.

The romance of the blue-eyed, blonde daughter of the Earl of Athlone, and brother of Queen Mary and the tall, 32 year old captain, who is a member of a wealthy English banking family, began in South Africa three years ago. Captain Smith was aide to the Earl when the latter was Governor General there.

Palace reports that Lady May was to be married were circulated several years ago. One of them said she planned to marry Prince of Wales, but it was quickly discredited. Another predicted a betrothal to the Duke of York.

Twelve bishops, 200 peers and girls have been rehearsing special music for the wedding for some time.

Most of Lady May's trousseau was made in a convent and a great deal of the veiling was done by cloistered nun workers. Her wedding gown is of simple design, with much beautiful handwork.

Woman Juror is Centre of Deadlock

Minneapolis, Oct. 28.—(AP)—A small, slender woman who refuses to change her mind despite the entreaties and arguments of seven men yesterday was revealed as the central figure in a jury deadlock for a week. The group completed its seventh day of deliberations in the trial of W. B. Pozhay and six associates on mail fraud charges without reaching a verdict.

Convinced that agreement was impossible after a week of conscientious deliberation, the jurors at noon yesterday reported to Judge Joseph Molineaux that they felt their task was hopeless and asked to be discharged. But he ordered them into session separately. The court, however, ordered them to try again.

When the lone woman juror, Mrs. Geo. Fern A. Clark, Minneapolis, was asked her opinion, she looked at the seven defendants, clustered across a table in the courtroom, and replied: "I don't believe it is possible." She appeared tired but determined.

Four days reports said, Mrs. Clark, below middle age, has stood alone in favor of one plea for the defendants most of the time. Others have taken opposite position.

Security of France Avowed First Aim of Premier Laval

U. S. Will Not Be Party To Boycott Or Blockades

COSTS OF ARMS

(By Robert S. Pickens)

Washington, D.C., Oct. 28 (AP)—The great desire of the White House swung, open today to admit as a guest the second European premier to visit President Hoover.

Within Premier Laval of France, and President Hoover will sit down to talk over the mutual problems facing the French Republic and the United States just as Mr. Hoover talked with Premier Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain, on naval armament, and other such delicate subjects as disarmamentis and such intricate ones as gold discrimination and war debts were on the agenda.

Behind both of the meetings was the shadow of two lesser things, yet to scan and willing to criticise any agreements or solutions which may be reached. Both will ponder the reactions of Congress and parliament before making compulsory.

Yesterday the two men met and talked together. First when the smiling little Frenchman was welcomed with ceremony after his arrival from New York and again last night when they sat down alongside each other at a White House dinner that was given to a group of distinguished guests. An interpreter sat behind them.

World Stability

Mr. Laval, in his first interview with United States newspapermen, said the conversations would cover all the subjects relating to the problems of the two countries, with the economic stability of the world in the background. In his address immediately after he had landed, he said his first consideration in all his discussions would be the security of France.

Officials here have shown plainly they will not entertain proposals looking to United States participation in any agreement which would force them into guaranteeing the security of a European nation. Such agreements reached heretofore by this country's diplomats have been rejected by the Senate.

It has been made equally clear that the United States cannot be a party to pacts contemplating boycotts or blockades in support of one nation against another.

Father McHugh was duck hunting near Levigne when he was struck in the thigh by a bullet. He died after being taken to the hospital at Brebeuf.

At the time of the accident he was alone with the gun. With him on the expedition were Rev. Bourassa Levigne and J. Bourassa. The gun was in the bottom of the boat and no one else was discharged.

Father McHugh was a son of Patrick McHugh and Ste. Marie, Ont. He had been attached to Sturgeon Falls since his elevation to the priesthood. His funeral there will take place Monday at the Sault.

JAPAN MAKES LEAGUE OFFER

Will Withdraw if China Offers To Cease Agitation

Tokyo, Oct. 22 (AP)—Kenkichi Yoshizawa, Japanese delegate to the League of Nations Council at Geneva, was instructed by the government today to inform the council that Japan will do her best to complete withdrawal of troops from outside the railway zone in Manchuria within three weeks if China agrees to cease alleged anti-Japanese agitation there.

Tokyo Oct. 23 (AP)—A veiled hint that Japan might withdraw from the League of Nations if the event the Geneva body seeks to force the issue in the Sino-Japanese controversy was voiced here today by a high government official in discapproving the league council's formula for settlement of the trouble in Manchuria.

"It is too early to talk of Japan's withdrawal from the league" the official said, "but Geneva must understand that the Manchurian situation is almost cause for life or death with Japan. The league appears altogether too eager to see Japan into acceptance in a very complicated matter. Japan is in no hurry and can well afford to wait."

Gandhi Decribed As a Mountebank

Toronto, Oct. 23.—Describing the Indian Round-Table Conference as having deteriorated to a discussion of trivialities and Gandhi to the status of a mountebank with nothing left except his publicity properties, a gun and spinning-wheel, Col. F. Fraser Hunter, D. S. O. and Croix de Guerre, late of the Indian civil service, yesterday declared that Great Britain should take a firm hand and establish a federated government to protect the minorities in India.

Hatreds between Moslems and Hindus had been transferred to London, he pointed out to the Empire Club at luncheon in the Royal York Hotel. Gandhi had failed to compose the demands of the people whom he claimed to represent and was a mere pawn in the hands of others. Unless Britain took firm control and formed order out at the chaos no solution for India's woes would be found.

Pauper's Funeral Is Asked By Schnitzler

Vienna, Oct. 22. — Dr. Arthur Schnitzler, Austrian man of letters, will be given a pauper's funeral if his own instructions are obeyed.

A codicil of the author's will, which was read last night, not only orders a funeral of the very last, or pauper class, but forbids wreaths, obituary announcements, and all accessories to the funeral ritual, such as a guard of honour.

Dr. Schnitzler, a physician before he turned exclusively to writing, asked that the money saved by a pauper's funeral be distributed among hospitals.

The codicil also forbids any funeral orations, and specifies that "absolutely no one" is to wear mourning. It is dated April 29, 1913, and also forbids that a needle be thrust through his heart to remove any doubt of his death.

Delivery Letters To Map of Chatham

Chatham, Ont., Oct. 23 (CP)—Postal authorities have had many puzzling tasks in delivering inaccurately addressed letters but they were faced with a new problem yesterday. Bearing a Windsor, Ont. postmark, a letter appeared yesterday carrying in place of an address a map of Chatham. An arrow along one street designated the house for which the letter was intended. There was no writing on the envelope, but the "poster" was equal to the task. He elucidated the map and found the address for which the letter was destined.

CAPONE GIVEN 11 YEARS AND $50,000 FINE

Writ of Supersedeas Refused by Judge, and Motion for Bail Denied

Gang Chief Stunned By By Blow of Court's Sentence

HANDS BY BACK

Details of Penalty Passed On Chicago Gang Head

Federal Building, Chicago, Ill., Oct. 24.—Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson today sentenced Al Capone to 11 years. Capone also was fined $50,000 and ordered to pay the costs of his prosecution.

Judge Wilkerson ruled that Capone might be given credit on his six months' contempt of court sentence, passed last February and now under appeal when he had served that amount of time in the Leavenworth Penitentiary.

The sentence was more than double the largest ever passed in an income tax evasion case. Jake Guzik, Capone's business manager, was sentenced to five years on similar charges.

Before sentencing Capone, Judge Wilkerson denied the defense motion in arrest of judgment.

Capone was then called and remanded to the custody of the U. S. Marshal.

His Attorneys ryled notice of an appeal.

Details of Sentence

The penalty passed by Judge Wilkerson is a fine totaling $10,000 on each of three felony counts and one year and $10,000 on each of two misdemeanor counts. Sentence on two of the felony counts is to run concurrently; however, as are the two misdemeanor sentences.

Judge Wilkerson, in ordering the defendant to prison immediately, said if the district courts should reverse the verdict on the felony counts, which charge evasion of income taxes for the years 1925, 1926 and 1927, Capone could be given over.

Team of Canadians Lead in Bike Race

Montreal, Que., Oct. 24— With only a few hours to go to the finish line, the all Canadian team of Tornby Peden of Victoria and Henri Lepage of Montreal lead the field in the six day bicycle race this morning.

At Crossley of Bedford, Mass., and Baggio of Montreal, together with the Montreal team of Gachon and De Filipo were pressing close on the leaders heels at the completion of 130 hours. The leaders' distance covered at the time was 2,099 miles.

credit for whatever time he had served, the credit to apply on the misdemeanor counts as well as the contempt of court sentence.

The misdemeanor counts charge that Capone failed to file a return on a taxable gross income of more than $2,000 for the year 1928 and 1929.

Writ of Freedom Denied

Judge Wilkerson formally denied a writ of supersedeas which would have given Capone freedom while his attorneys were appealing the case, and also denied motion for bail. He also said he would not give the defendant time to wind up his business affairs.

Chief Attorney Michael Ahern argued that perfection of appeal should automatically act as a supersedeas, but Judge Wilkerson to instruct the Marshal to delay taking Capone to Leavenworth Penitentiary. The court refused.

Capone appeared stunned by the verdict. He stood before the Judge, watching him intently as the sentence was read, his hands behind his back. After the application for writ of supersedeas had been denied Capone apparently realized he would soon be on his way to prison. the bulky gang chief walked over to his counsel, shook their hands and said, "I guess it's all over."

Manager of Factories For Past Forty-Four Years

NATIVE OF N. Y.

In the death of Francis Brennan at Deseronto on Friday, Eastern Ontario lost one of its most prominent cheesemakers and one who was well known and highly respected over the breadth of this province. Mr. Brennan had been in poor health for some months but his sudden turn for the worse on Thursday culminated in his demise on Friday morning. The deceased has spent his entire life in the cheese industry being concerned more with the manufacture of cheese than its sale and the quality of his product was known to every factory in this dominion.

The deceased was born in New York States in 1856, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Brennan who were also prominent cheesemakers and one who was well known and highly respected over the breadth of this province. In 1870 the factory at Empey Hill was taken over where the family remained three years. The deceased had been an apprentice for thirteen years and from the year 1878 his record is as follows: Read Factory 1878-1882. After which he erected Forest Hill factory and stayed there four years; Empey Hill 1887-1889; Albert Factory 1890; Stoco Factory 1895-1896; Crane River Factory 1897-1899; Deseronto Factory from 1880-1900. At this time Mr. Brennan purchased the Deseronto factory, which he operated for a period of eight years and later gave the factory to his two sons who managed the factory until 1914, when the deceased came back to the factory for a further period of six years. After the death of the late Mr. Brennan engaged in the lumber business and in 1920 again went back to the cheese industry being engaged at Mountain factory for four years and was again engaged to conduct this factory this season.

Patriotism of Canadians is Outstanding in British Eyes

London, Oct. 24 (CP)—"The most impressive thing of the whole trip for me," declared Lord Tyrrell of Carndian," said a member of a delegation of thirty-three members of the British Institute of Builders, which returned today after a visit to Canada and the United States to study the building methods on the North American continent.

"In Canada everyone was for the motherland," declared another member of the delegation. "Everyone had faith that Britain would overcome her present difficulties."

Another member said they certainly traveled in the lap of luxury, although he would not say the English buildings were far behind those on the North American continent.

"They have different styles of construction, and we could probably teach them something as well, but the standard of living is so much better without any wood at all are marvelous," this member added.

R. Costain of Liverpool was head of the delegation.

FIVE MEN ARE INJURED WHEN PLANE FALLS

Peterboro Airport Scene of Accident, Wing Catches Tree

PLANE ON VISIT

Accident Occurs When Flier Going to Land Has Not Room

Peterboro, Ont., Oct. 24—Flight Lieutenant Apps and four other men were injured at ten thirty this morning at the Peterboro flying field when a wing of the big Fairchild plane in which they were landing caught a tree and the plane nosed into the ground.

The plane had just arrived along with a fleet of six others from Camp Borden for the air meet this afternoon and Lieutenant Apps intending to land after circling down enough and in trying to gain altitude when the accident occurred. The injured were rushed to Nicholl's Hospital.

Besides Flight Lieut. Gordon Apps, others in the plane were Claude Keating, Humphrey Madden, Cpl. Oliver Gilmore, and John Hand. Lieut. Apps and John Hand are reported in a serious condition. The other five are not seriously hurt.

Flight Lieutenant Apps of England, was piloting the plane and during the air meet Leading Aircraftsman John Hand, Hamilton, Claude Keating of Moncton, N.B., Humphrey Madden of Trull, B.C. and George Gillespie of Newcastle, N.B. Hand and Gillespie are suffering from serious head injuries and broken legs.

The plane was out on a long distance observation trip and planned stops at Peterborough and Toronto before returning to Camp Borden.

Apps had intended only staying a few minutes in Peterborough and the air meet, according to do with the air meet which is being staged here today. In landing Apps saw that he did not have enough room and in trying to gain altitude again a wing of the plane struck a tree and the big ship turned over and nosed dived into the ground. The plane is a complete wreck and great credit is being experienced in getting Apps out of the plane.

Sees Ontario's Gold Topping U. S. Output

Toronto, Oct. 24.—Although the gold output of Canada has been definately overtaken that of the United States, Hon. Peter Smith said, he still thinks that the province of Ontario alone with output valued at between 43 and 44 million dollars, will have exceeded the American republic. Hon. Charles McCrea, Minister of Mines, predicted last night before members of the Empire Club of Canada in Freemasons Hall, 47 College street.

Mingling this province was quite in order and was in fact the unofficial motto of the organization, the lodge's first "Ontario Night". Dinner was served in the Ontario room of Ontario fruit cocktail, Ontario beets, Ontario celery, Ontario tomatoes, Ontario lamb, Ontario potatoes, Ontario apple pie, Ontario cheese and Ontario coffee, with cream (sweet), and coffee, which, of course, was from Brazil.

Mr. McCrea, representing the provincial government, responded to the toast to Canada proposed by W. N. Ponton, K.C., of Belleville, past grand master.

Col. Ponton flayed pessimism and pessimists, and expressed sorrow that Ontario had so many of the latter, "especially in the pulpits."

Present were four Most Worshipful Brethren, Past Grand Master Hamilton Cassels, K.C., of Toronto. Present Grand Master Herrington, Deputy by Archbishop J. C. Forbes.

Reciprocity With Canada Advocated By Democrat

Representative Celler Fears U. S. May Lose Trade

TO LOWER WALLS

Hopes Ideal of Canada's Reciprocity Favored By Hoover

Washington, D. C., Oct. 24.—Negotiations looking to a tariff reciprocity agreement with Canada were urged by representative Celler, Democrat, New York, in a letter today to President Hoover.

Pointing to the decline in trade between the United States and her best customer to the north, the New Yorker said:

"We must determine whether high tariff walls shall isolate us permanently from Canadian markets or whether we shall lower these walls and again become good commercial friends."

Celler praised the President's banking pool credit plan and expressed the hope that the "ideal of Canadian reciprocity would find a place in his rehabilitation program.

JOINT ACTION BY BANKS TO AID STABILITY

Premier Laval and President Hoover End Conversations

HOOVER PLEASED

Washington, D.C., Oct. 24 (AP)—President Hoover and Premier Laval this morning concluded their discussions of how the United States and France can expedite world economic recovery.

At brief concluding talk before 9.30 a.m. was participated in by Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, of the State Department and Undersecretary Ogden Mills of the treasury, who also were present in the long conference at the White House last night.

Washington, D.C., Oct. 24 (AP)—The basis for closer Franco-American co-operation for world recovery was laid by President Hoover and Premier Laval of France at their overnight conference at the White House.

The points on which they found themselves in complete agreement embrace certain measures for joint action by the French and United States central banking systems and private bankers to promote confidence and stabilize finances generally.

The definite commitments as to disarmament or the methods of war debt revision were not discussed, but the discussions were looked upon in official circles as supplementing toward future accomplishment in the direction.

Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, who was present at the conference, said this morning that the conversations had justified all of his expectations.

A statement is to be issued, probably this afternoon, setting forth the joint conclusions of the heads of the two governments.

WORLD TOO POPULATED

H. G. Wells, Fearing Disaster, Speaks of Ideal World

New York, N.Y., Oct. 24.—(By The Canadian Press)—The rising tide of world over-population must be checked or civilization is likely to survive, H. G. Wells, celebrated English author, declared at a dinner tendered here in his honor by the International Committee on Mental Hygiene.

Legislation for Birth Control.

"Social disorders, war, disorganization of industry, pestilence and certainly a considerable amount of famine, must be ours unless the birth control movement overtakes the world," Mr. Wells said.

He declared the fundamental issue was education—education in modern biology and in economics. Population increasing must be the very core of the new world. Alluding further to his suggestion of a "planned world" she said:

"It would be a garden of freedom, a world of free individuals, moving on from strength to strength. These alternatives are before us, before our race. The times in which we are living, whether either likes it or not, civilization's death or the dawn of a new world life."

$35,000 Relief Aid for City Additional Vote of $10,000

Mayor Reid today received notification from Mr. J. A. Ellis, secretary of the unemployment relief fund established by the two governments of Ottawa and Ontario that ten thousand dollars' further government aid has been voted for this city, bringing the total government assistance up to $35,000 on an expenditure for relief operations of $70,000 to be made by Belleville.

Information first came to Mr. W. H. Ireland, M.P.P., who has been working with Belleville authorities to secure additional assistance and today Mayor Reid was in direct telephone communication with Mr. Ellis. Mayor Reid is gratified at the result of the city's appeal.

Those who are interested in the esplanade project see in the additional grant for jobless relief a strong contention in favor of the plan for the riverside proposition, which can, it is said, be undertaken on this amount —that is the preliminary work can be begun this winter, and the rest of the operations carried on into the future.

ORDERS JAPAN TO WITHDRAW

Japan May Withdraw From League Over Order

Geneva, Switzerland Oct. 24 (AP) —By a vote of 13 to 1 the council of the League of Nations today ordered upon Japan to retire its troops to the Manchurian railway zone by November 16. The single dissenting vote was cast by the Japanese representative.

The council took this action after rejecting Japan's counter proposal by a similar vote.

The counter proposal contained "explanatory statements" which Japan insisted should be settled in a manner by direct negotiations with China. Exactly what these "fundamental points" were was not explained.

Validity of Demand

The formal validity of the Council's demand that Japan complete evacuation by November 16 was not questioned, but as the action was not unanimous, but the Japanese government was polled of the council's position.

After the vote, which was impressively staged by a roll call, Aristide Briand, chairman of the Council, made a conciliatory speech designed to encourage good will on the part of Japan and to urge speedy execution of the council's decision.

Japan's Reaction

Tokyo, Oct. 24—Official circles today intimated Japan would consider seriously whether to remain in the League of Nations if the League of Nations council, in its decision of the Manchurian question "refuses to support the principle of sincerities and justice."

Disappointment was expressed at what was called the League's intention of the council to over-ride Japan's insistence of China's recognition of treaty commitments as a condition for the withdrawal of troops from Manchuria, and considerable resentment was evident over the trefd events had taken at Geneva.

NOTED MISSION WORKER PASSES

Miss Girdlestone, Three Years in Western Field

Word has reached the city of the death of Miss Gertrude Girdlestone in Saskatoon, Sask. Known to many here by her activities and appeal in various organizations for help for the new settlers in Northwest Saskatchewan, Miss Girdlestone was wholehearted in her work of Mission, a small mid St. George's Van establishing a Sunday School by post. She taught and cheered at least eight thousand souls in the district where she visit to a next door neighbour means a tramp of five to seven miles across wheels were impossible.

Miss Girdlestone was talented. After graduating from Havergal College, Toronto, she attended the Art College in New York City. On the death of her parents she gave up her training and opened a studio in London, Ont., but when the golden west drew her into missionary work and Dr. Bryce was in Toronto she left. Death was due to pneumonia. Her loss will be keenly felt in Women's Auxiliary work. She was of pioneer stock, her mother being a Miss Pardoegast and her father a member of the staff of Cambridge University. She leaves one sister, Miss Girdlestone who is here in Belleville this week. She once expressed the wish, "I want to be in St. George's work when my call comes."

Favors Cancellation of War Debts and Revision of Treaty

With Provision That Certain Matters With Poland Be Adjusted

QUITE CONTROVERSI

Washington, D.C., Oct. 24.—(By Ken. Clark, Canadian Press Staff Writer)—William E. Borah, Chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee of the United States Senate today in the French and United States Press as having dramatically connected himself with the conversations between Premier Laval of France and President Hoover.

Bending his clear blue eyes beneath their shaggy brows, upon a score of French correspondents and twice as many United States newspapermen, the Senator from Idaho, whose name carries great weight in Europe, said he favored cancellation of war debts and revision of the Treaty of Versailles, provided the delicate matters of the Polish corridor and Upper Silesia first be settled. He also intimated that as far as he was concerned the United States would make no agreement to guarantee French security.

In the last assertion Senator Borah was echoing what has been said by other members of the touch with the White House and the State Department.

Senator Borah qualified his wide ranging statement by suggesting that many should continue to contribute to France to cover the damage in devastated areas.

Referred to Polish Corridor

The Senator's reference to the Polish corridor and Upper Silesia immediately aroused interest in the French. Upper Silesia is a matter of territory and population between Poland and Germany. The Polish corridor, the strip of land, which gives Poland access to the sea, a strip, which the Germans claim was unjustly wrenched from the Fatherland, is the physical basis of perhaps the most dangerous and explosive international question in Europe.

What is noteworthy, in connection with Senator Borah's statements, that any definite agreement that might be reached by the Premier and the President must be ratified by the Senate. This is one of the reasons advanced by those who say that nothing definite can come out of the Hoover-Laval discussions. There is no attempt to minimize the importance of what the White House describes as "an earnest frank exchange of views with a view to finding common ground for helpful action in promotion of conservative progress of the world." The White House prefers to lay emphasis on the economic rather than the political aspect of the discussions.

Runaway Horse is Principal in Thrill

There comes a breaking point with man—a time when smothered feelings of disappointment, resentment and indignation refuse to be held further in check and they burst forth in wrath— some times "etc." is called for. If so with us —why not with the noble animal, the horse. This may and may not have been the case with a horse attached to a democrat, which stood in front of Smith's feed store on Front Street, just south of Bridge Street, about four-thirty o'clock Friday afternoon.

The trouble was heavy—the horse was facing north and as far as could see down Front street was filled with cars—cars, nothing but cars—rushing this way and rushing that way and not a horse in sight. This picture was not new to the horse—many, many times it had seen these machines which have removed it and its kind from the position once held by them for centuries in man's service. Perhaps resentment came to the burning point within the horse—in any event, when its master seated himself in the democrat and turned the team south on Front Street, the horse gave vent to its feelings. It reared and kicked—chilled with rage, it hated rivals, it always fell to its knees, breaking a shaft of the democrat, regained its feet quickly—his master being thrown to the pavement and away it ran turning into McAnnany Street and on to the market square. Here it became free from the democrat and ran up Pinnacle Street where it was captured.

Now, what caused the horse to behave in this way can not be positively determined, but if you were a horse would not be sick of all those cars, which, as it were, had set you on a lower level of man's favor, make you "good and sore."

The horse is owned by Mr. Ab. Smith, 8 Bell street, and he was driving at the time the horse misbehaved. Fortunately Mr. Smith was not seriously hurt.

INDIAN YOUTH GIVEN 5 YEARS

Sentenced By Magistrate Mikel For Theft On Indian Reserve

Nelson Jaynes, Indian, resident on the Mohawk Reserve at Deseronto, after pleading guilty to the theft of money from a home on the reserve two weeks ago, was sentenced to five years in Kingston Penitentiary by Magistrate Mikel, when the youth appeared today in the Magistrate's chambers at the county buildings. He was not represented by counsel, Crown Attorney Denike, attorney, conducted the prosecution. This man was convicted about five years ago for a similar offence and Magistrate Mikel stated in passing sentence that a stiff sentence might have the desired effect.

Provincial Constables Campbell and Hammer conducted the investigation in this case and took considerable time to bring the man to justice. After committing the theft the man from whom the money was stolen laid an information and a warrant issued. The constables going to the reserve to execute the warrant found the bird had flown and for three days they hunted for Jaynes in the bush near his home to no avail. Believing that the man would return to the police went off the hunt and a few days later, Jaynes called up the city police and notified them he was at Chisholm Mills and that he would be waiting for the police constables when they arrived. Constable Hammer hurried to the scene, after receiving the information and Jaynes submitted to arrest without trouble.

QUEEN'S NIECE WEDDING TODAY

Word "Obey" Omitted In Ceremony of Lady May Cambridge

Balcombe ,England, Oct. 24 (AP) —Lady May Cambridge, niece of Queen Mary and daughter of the Earl of Athlone, was married today to Captain Henry Abel Smith, in a wedding service from which the word "obey" was omitted.

Archbishop William Carter, former Archbishop of Cape Town, South Africa, performed the ceremony, using the service of the new revised prayer book. Lady May was the first royal bride in Great Britain who did not promise at the altar to "obey" her husband.

She wore the princess lace wedding veil her aunt Mary wore thirty-eight years ago when she married the Duke of York, now reigning King. Her dress was of antique satin, falling in soft folds to her ankles. There was a buttoon satin train and the sleeves were long. Thousands In Village.

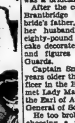
Thousands of sightseers had come to the little village hours before the ceremony, crowding around the motorlowed old St. Mary's Church and in the road near the home of the bride's father. There were extra police to handle the crowd and the traffic problem was no small detail in itself for this wedding was one of the most important of the season.

The Queen was there but the King remained at Sandringham.

Little Princess Elizabeth, daughter of the Duke of York and "Lilybeth" to thousands of her countrymen, was a bridesmaid.

After the ceremony they went to Brantridge Park, home of the bride's father, where Lady May used her husband's sword to cut an eight-pound three-tiered wedding cake decorated with hunting scenes and figures of the Royal Horse Guards.

Captain Smith, who is 33—seven years older than his bride—is an officer in the Horse Guards. He first met Lady May when he was aide to the Earl of Athlone, then Governor-General of South Africa.



He too broke a tradition today by choosing a married man as best man at the wedding. It was Major, the Honorable Cecil G. W. Weld-Forester, who served with the captain in South Africa.

At the ceremony today Captain Smith wore ordinary morning dress.

THREE DAYS MORE IN WHICH ENGLISH VOTERS HAVE CHANCE TO DISCUSS ELECTION ISSUES

New House of Commons Will Convene On Nov. 3rd

ELECT SPEAKER

Formal Opening By His Majesty Set For Nov. 10th

(By George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Oct. 24—The new House of Commons, to be elected on Thursday, will meet on November 3 but its only business on that day will be the election of the Speaker. Rt Hon. E. A. Fitzroy, Conservative member for Daventry, already returned by acclamation, is expected to again occupy the Speaker's chair.

The House will then adjourn until the following day, when the royal approval will be signified and the formal opening of new members will commence.

The state opening has been fixed for November 10th. His Majesty will read the Speech from the Throne and the address in reply will begin.

The election, however, is little concerned at the moment with the programme of the new parliament. It is the composition of the new House that is taking the attention of upwards of thirty million voters.

Three Days Left.

Only three days of campaigning, including Sunday, remain before the people register their decision for or against the National Government. It seems to be taken for granted in London that the National ministry will be returned to power, with attention concerning the party leaders and organization is how large a majority it will be. And in what relative proportion will the different parties be in the new House. Only the electors can decide.

Meanwhile the Labor party fights its staunchly against its united enemies. Rt. Hon. Ramsay MacDonald, Prime Minister MacDonald's successor as Conservative party leader, had his turn over the national radio last night, when he spoke to explain the Labor party's policy of public control of the banking and credit system. Mr. MacDonald's policy termed "mad Bolshevism" by Rt. Hon. Philip Snowden—was to consists the policy drawn up by Mr. Snowden himself three years ago.

As the fateful day approaches, both sides are warning the Conservatives to beware of "sensational last-minute disclosures." The Labor party especially the memory of the late result stands.

Much Heckling

All over the country candidates of all groups and parties continue to have evening battles with the busy heckler. Hundreds of meetings are conducted with little disturbance, but now and then a meeting broken up in disorder. At Brixton chairs were used as clubs and two stewards were injured. The police swept out Hyde Park, Tom Shaw, who was Labor Minister for the Navy, faced a rowdy gathering at Preston. A crowd of rag-tag in the body of a hall at Great Harwood, to hear C. M. Trevelyan, National Labor lieutenant of the Prime Minister, was jostled, and he arrived at Nottingham last night and fists were shaken in his face.

Philip Snowden, who is the bellhant wife of the retiring Chancellor of the Exchequer, has entered the fight at Darwen on behalf of Sir Herbert Samuel, whose Free trade principles have led to the appearance of a Conservative opponent, although Sir Herbert is chief Liberal lieutenant of the government. Mrs. Snowden told a Darwen audience the Chancellor himself, a keen trader, would have preferred had he been ill, but he was still in the charge of doctors and bunch of nurses. "Although chafing at the bit he is not permitted to travel any distance or address any public meetings yet," she added.

Contesting Campaign

Amid the confusion of Liberal voices in the most confusing of campaigns, Viscount Grey of Fallodon, is heard taking direct issue with Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George, titular head of ther Liberal party. Lord Grey of Fallodon had a strong following of his own, the old Asquithian Liberals, for many years. Mr. Lloyd George advised Liberal voters, that where the choice lay between a Protectionist Tory and a Labor free trader, to vote for Labor.

"I say exactly the opposite," Lord Grey declared. "I say the Labor is so grave, the policy of the Labor opposition is so fraught with certain disaster for the country that where there is a Labor candidate in the field I am ready to support him. MacDonald is it in the interests of every party that they should end only vote for him but they should make a point of going to the poll and I say that a Conservative who supports the National Government is returned."

T. V. H. L. Suspended for Coming Season

Hockey fans in Stirling and district will be disappointed to learn that there will be no Three Towns Hockey League this year. This was the decision arrived at the annual meeting of the league held on Friday afternoon. The following representatives were present: Frankford—Ross Turley, D. Ketcheson; Trenton—Ernie Bowen, Ken Symington, Medoc—Percy Naylor, Tom Cavers; Campbellford—Ken Hendrick, Maybee; Stirling, Thos. W. Solmes, Jack Hendrick.

The "bone of contention" was the residence rule. At last year's meeting it was decided to have the residence from January 1st to October 1st, but this season it was changed to October 1st, as they would have to secure outside players in order to place a team in the league. Practically all clubs were present for debate to discussion on this matter. After much discussion it was put to a resolution to the effect that the T. V. H. L. league suspend operations for this year for season.

No doubt Stirling will have a team, but the other towns will not have the opportunity to witness championship games.

It is reported that keen rivalry will prevail in the Rawdon Hockey League while in Belleville next winter, and as all the games will be played in the Memorial Arena, the King of Winter Sports will still be popular in Stirling.

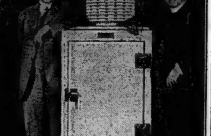
The Vicar, Rev. A. Beauchamp Payne gave the club a short and interesting talk on co-operation and the numerous worthwhile things which the club could undertake and carry through successfully.



Troops From Egypt, Naval Vessels From Crete And All Trouble Ceases

Nicosia, Cyprus, Oct. 24—The entire island was quiet last night and the disturbances resulting from local agitation for a union of the colony with Greece appeared to have been quelled, as the result of the arrival of British troops from Egypt, and naval vessels from Crete.

A fire, last night, during which it was feared there might be a resumption of rioting, which led on Wednesday night to the burning of Government House, native agitators appeared to have ceased their activities, while the populace returned to their homes and the large force of troops sinclosed at strategic points.

EASTERN PART OF DOMINION DESCRIBED BY PROF. McINNIS

Geographical features of the Maritimes and Newfoundland was the theme of an address last evening by Dr. H. A. Innis, Professor of Economic Geography in the Toronto University at the first meeting of the season of the Women's Canadian Club, which was introduced by the President of the Club, Mrs. Lord.

Distinct Community Sense

In the Maritimes one discovers a keen community sense and a distinct point of view, a different outlook than is encountered in other Canadians. The geographic position has much to do with this outlook for most natives of the Maritimes look to the sea and speak in terms of the West Indies, Europe and far away places. The old history of its sea ports is linked up in Nova Golden Age, ranging in that period of 1850 to 1876 when ships of Nova Scotia were in every port of call and Maritime sailors had a reputation for daring all their own. Slides were shown of some of the old sailing vessels, square-rigged ships in all the glory of full sail, and of boats which formerly crossed the Atlantic, now reduced to carrying pulp from Prince Edward Island to the United States.

The rolling country of Annapolis with its rich orchards, was shown in many interesting pictures, while the district the drawbridges on the wharves of the Bay of Fundy in use in low tide, the old wells of Grand Pre, the unusual types of fences, the unique type of old wakes mills and many other interesting slides were shown.

Fishing Main Occupation

Fishing is the main occupation with the lands mostly devoted to lobsters. The manufacture of pulp and paper is an important industry and the speaker showed slides of the long bridges which were used carrying the pulp in liquid form to the United States for manufacture into paper, convenient all this manner to avoid the duty.

The bleak coast of Newfoundland with its infrequent flashes of scenery of striking grandeur was described by the speaker and slides of the landscape were shown on the screen. The great industry of the country—cod fishing—was realistically brought to the minds of the audience by views of mile after mile of fishing stages, with smaller rows of homes about the coast and the larger areas covered, when the catches are spread out to dry. The hazardous exploits of the sealers have been described in a recent lecture.

The audience was introduced to some natives of the Labrador, Eskimos, and was shown views about the Grenfell Mission, the work which was most absorbing and gave the members a new idea of life in the East. The appreciation of the Club was expressed by Mrs. Logie who announced that the season's lectures would include Miss Lucy Doyle, Mrs. Arthur Hawkes and Mr. Barry Jackson and many others.

Canadian Constructor Docks With Australian Products

Salt-Cached With 46-Day Voyage From Brisbane

PREMIER WELCOMES

Montreal, Que., Oct. 24 (CP)—Salt-caked from her 44-day voyage from Brisbane on the other side of the world, the Canadian Constructor was warped to her berth in Montreal harbour this morning. The sturdy little freighter returned to her native land as an Australian trade emissary, carrying in her hold an assortment of Australian products which will be displayed like a salesman's samples for Canadians to buy.

Two Kangaroos Brought

First in interest in the capacious holds of the Canadian Constructor are two kangaroos, gifts to Canada from Bruin Downes of South Queensland. Stacked in the holds are a wide variety of Australian exports, such as raisins and canned fruits, Australian native grapes, luscious grapes, varieties of currants, some wool in several grades, and something of everything Australia sells on the world market.

Last night as the ship plodded up the St. Lawrence River, Premier H. H. Stevens from his office in Ottawa talked over the radio telephone with Captain Webb on the bridge of his vessel, offering him and the ship's company an official welcome.

Meanwhile in Montreal representatives of Board of Trade, Chambers of Commerce, the Railways, the Canadian Manufacturers' Association and Trade Commissioner's Office, were holding a banquet board with Australian visitors as guests and ground work for closer trade relations being discussed and for Century Dominion of the Antipodes.

Only the Canadian Constructor and her company will be officially welcomed at the dockside, and Canadians will inspect the Australian wares in her cargo, guided by Australian trade representatives.

Pound Will be Fixed At Ten Per Cent. Less

Ottawa, Oct. 24.—There is reason to believe that importers have furnished the government with information, which has been certified, indicating that there has been an increase in commodity prices in Great Britain since September 21st, amounting on an average to ten per cent. or more.

The belief is expressed that in accordance with the terms of the order the government as outlined to importers, the value of the pound for special duty or dumping purposes will be fixed at ten per cent. less than the par value thereof, which is the same percentage as the increase in the commodity price list.

As critics so seldom agree others say the only safe course is for individuals to discover the critic whose taste accords with their own and to follow his advice.

CLAIM MADE SELF DEFENSE

Mrs. Judd Gives Self Up In Funeral Parlor

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 24.—Murmuring a story of self-defense, Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd, 29-year-old physician's wife and minister's daughter, surrendered here last night to face a charge of murdering Mrs. Hedwig Samuelson and Mrs. Agnes Leroi, whose bodies were sent to Los Angeles from Phoenix in trunks last Monday.

The frail, attractive young woman, after hiding for four days eluding one of the greatest army of police searchers ever organized here, emerged to give herself up to her attorneys and to receive treatment for a bullet wound in her left hand. By prearrangement she took refuge in the funeral atmosphere of an undertaking parlor, where she gave herself up to her attorneys and was conferring with them about her defense when the police rushed in. Her left hand was bandaged for attention to surrender.

Fear of locker developing from the bullet wound, she said led to her detention. A slight flesh wound, she intimated, that she will base her self-defense plea—that she shot the two women in self-defense.

Operation on Hand

At the County General Receiving Hospital Mrs. Judd underwent an operation for the removal of the bullet.

"I had gone to the girls' home to remonstrate with Mrs. Samuelson for some nasty things she had said about Mrs. Leroi," Mrs. Judd was quoted by her attorneys as saying.

Mrs. Samuelson got hold of a pistol and shot Mrs. Judd in the left hand, according to the woman's story.

"I struggled with her and the gun fell to the floor," she says, as related by her attorneys, continued, "Mrs. Leroi grabbed the ironing board and started to strike me with it.

"In the struggle I got hold of the gun and Samuelson (Miss Samuelson) was shot.

"Mrs. Leroi was still coming at me with the ironing board and I had to shoot her."

Gas Company Donates Gas For Relief Kitchen

Mayor Reid today received a communication from J. T. Milner, vice-president and general manager of the Ontario Gas Company, Limited, Toronto, in which he writes stating:

"Your letter of October 14th regarding connecting up a gas range for relief kitchen. Having some of the unfortunate ones of the city in mind, I instructed Mr. Harden to connect up a range and see that the gas is turned on and it gives me pleasure to state that I am able to be one of the many to help out in the situation.

"As far as the cost is concerned that will be taken care of by our company. If I can be of any further use, I will be only too glad to do so."

Toronto, Oct. 24.—Need for research work in education was stressed yesterday by Inspector H. J. Valleau, addressing elementary teachers of Toronto. Former Alderman Is Dismissed of Charge

Montreal, Oct. 24.—Former Alderman J. Alian Bray, was acquitted yesterday on a charge of stealing city playground effects by Judge Dunton, who dismissed prosecution's argument with the remark that it was "just good material for a novel."

The charge of stealing property to the value of $2,000 was laid by Aldren Jeanneau, Phoenix bandsand, newspaper proprietors, against whom the former resident of the city executive committee has placed a counter-charge of conspiracy. This charge will be argued later.

SCHOOLS AND NEWSPAPERS

The Toronto Mail and Empire devotes considerable attention to the importance of the newspaper in the lives of children. It quotes a writer in the Midland Free Press who advocates a policy under which every school teacher who has charge of children over ten years of age should devote a part of the school day to the reading of the newspaper to them and commenting without bias upon the information they contain. "There is no doubt that what is going on today will arouse more interest in a child than what went on in Greece and Rome centuries ago. No child should be allowed to grow up ignorant of the doings of the contemporary world." The Free Press writer says:

"To-day the well-edited newspaper is really a modern college. I know of no constant newspaper reader who is not well informed and intelligent. And I believe that by interesting children in the world and its ways early in their lives the school will help them to achieve a breadth of view and a habit of forming intelligent opinions that they would probably gain in no other way. Incidentally it will give them more alertness and interest to learn and make the task of the teachers in imparting other needful knowledge to them far more easy."

This is followed by the comment in the Mail and Empire: "The experience of business and professional men is that a large proportion of young people who may be accurate in arithmetic or skilful with the typewriter are lamentably ignorant of current events. To that extent their usefulness to their employers is lessened. The community of the Free Press writer reminds us of a former successful Canadian Minister of Finance who was not known as a scholar or as a wide reader in the ordinary sense of the term. But for years he had carefully gone through newspapers from all parts of Canada, thus acquiring an extensive and accurate knowledge of even the most distant districts. Indeed, it was said that he was often better informed on local conditions than members who represented the particular districts."

The study of history is valuable and easy because facts of long ago are doubtless more apparent than facts may be just at the present time they occur. And it is a foregone conclusion that many an untruth passes through textbook after textbook and the same false impressions and conclusions are current for generation after generation. It is no doubt easier to read history than to interpret today's movements because history is in itself, interpretation of events. Whereas today throws the onus upon the living being to draw his own social, economic, political conclusions.

How much knowledge is forgotten once school is left. But anything learned in the school of humanity and hard knocks, and turning out to be useful, as interpreted by the modern newspaper, is not forgotten. It becomes a part of the individual.

The Free Press writer is right. The newspaper is more or less fully interpret the life of the present day in which the scho'ar and teacher live. One might know most of the lessons and dates knew and not know how his own family lives, for all that is taught in some of the schools.

Part of the result sought by the Free Press is being effected through the new freedom which is given childhood and youth who go to or who quit the education of the schools. And the schools are broadening.

To know the world in which one lives is loyalty to one's own community and country more than if one passes high in honors on much which is taught in school, but which has not so vital an appeal to youth.

THE BLUENOSE

Canadian fisherman and fishing schooners may rightly be proud of the victory of the Bluenose which left no doubt of its supremacy in the contest with the Thebaud.

The fishermen of the deep are the type of which heroes are made and they carry on the traditions of their calling. The Bluenose and the Thebaud crew are the pick of the men of their class and they show fishermen as they are.

The action of Capt. Pine who, though ill, skippered his ship the Thebaud for the first race aroused the admiration of the fishermen of the two nations and not the fishermen only but all classes of people for it was a case of real valor.

That is sportsmanship recognized by a special cup from Premier Harrington and it is a sign and badge of the great calling of sea-fishing.

THE FLAME

As a man may kindle a flame that glows
On a hearth in a cold, bare room
Till its dancing light, all color of rose,
Floods the place with its warmth and bloom,

He has lighted a spark in many lives
With the touch of his spirit's fire,
He has kindled the dream that through all survives,
He has quickened the high desire.

As a blaze with its glamour of ruddy light
Transfigures a room once bleak,
So the flame of his courage, clear and bright,
Brings the power the timorous seek.

He has brought into lives that were drear and cold,
Into doubting heart of youth,
A gift which has made them young and old,
The flicker of living truth!

JACOB CRONK was given the patent from the Crown for Lot 31, 3rd Concession, Township of Ameliasburg, in 1803, and the village of Roblin's Mills resulted. Much water has passed over the mill dam in the one hundred and thirty years since Jacob Cronk got his patent. At one time the village was the prosperous centre of a flourishing flour mill business with a large and busy mill, Main street and hotels. The mill buildings are still standing mute testimony to Roblin's Mills' ancient greatness, but the march of time, mass production, etc., has cut seriously into rural milling. One thing can never be taken away from Roblin's Mills, its natural charm and beauty, giving the stranger within its gates the impression of a quiet, sedate community, unhurried, unworried, resting sedately and contentedly amid beautiful surroundings, musing on the achievements of the century past to and watching with interest the moving panorama of changeful events being recorded in this new and wonderful century of education and achievement.

GARDEN OF THE GODS has often been bestowed upon the Bay of Quinte region as a title by those familiar with the generosity of the soil hereabouts and the remarkably even climate. Seedtime and harvest come with regularity and grace. Destructive storms are seldom; any drought or overabundance of rainfall to nullify the work of the husbandman. Year in and year out everything works together for the good of those who depend upon the soil for a livelihood, and those who depend upon them. Consequently, when a neighbor near or far have misfortune through adverse climatic conditions or lack of markets the favored east is always among the first to offer aid to those less fortunate. Carloads of foodstuffs and clothing were despatched this week from Prince Edward County to Saskatchewan to help the neighbors out there when storehouses are not bursting with nature's good things against the long winter sure to come. Here and there canned tomatoes, fruit and vegetables were sent in one shipment. Five hundred cans of tomatoes were canned at one factory, all products and labor being donated. And many bales of clothing were donated that they will have to be sent later. All of which goes to show that those fortunate enough to live in the Garden of the Gods, a land flowing with milk and honey in very truth, are filled with the cream of human kindness.

BEAUTY

A city's trees are a heritage that should be jealously guarded. They cannot be regrown in less than a generation—many of them would require three generations for replacement of the present growth—but they are easy to remove, with their disappearance something of tangible beauty has vanished perhaps forever. Montreal is particularly well endowed with shade trees, but that is no reason why these should be reduced in number without the slightest consideration for the loss that cannot be repaired.

Similarly, along our provincial highways, there is need of much greater care in the conservation of trees. This province presents many avenues of incomparable beauty, particularly at this time of the year, and when such avenues are marred or eliminated it makes way for power poles or other unsightly utilitarian conveniences, the province loses in natural beauty—one of its most valuable assets for the future. Let us by all means save our shade trees everywhere whenever it is within our power to do so, and not sacrifice them wantonly, for lack of foresight or ignorance or of sheer inability to know beauty when we see it.—Montreal Star.

MEGALOMANIA

Megalomania is a common human failing. It is illustrated in the inherent desire to be known as made this week in New York to prove by a number of figures and areas that the American city exceeds London in population and therefore possesses the right to the title of the world's largest city. In Canada the same passion is being displayed in varied analyses of some of the advantages recently published. There has been an inordinate desire on the part of some people to make Montreal appear to be bigger than the official return of the Census of Statistics shows it to be in population; and Toronto is constantly giving figures to demonstrate an increasing superiority in size and numbers. Against all this is to be remembered the right viewpoint which is finding expression in regard to the question of density of large cities. The question is asked if it would not be better if the big cities should become smaller—whether it would not be a commendable thing to encourage a counter-movement away from them. The development of rapid transportation will, it is submitted, make it profitable for many factories and large offices to remove their main body of workers to rural sections and maintain a relatively small executive office in the city. There would be no doubt the change of environment would be beneficial to new ways and ideals for thousands of workers. The solving of problems of housing and recreation on the present scale would not be difficult. Perhaps, after the most depression, we may see that "point with pride" to large increases in population will be seen to may find more virtue in basing that our cities have become smaller; virtue in that they have made our people within reasonable commuting distance of their work.—Montreal Gazette.

OCTOBER FOR APPLES

It is said to be the to men Woodstock wagon point again ... piles of industry, even though in a reduced way. The writer has taken the opportunity of viewing the activities of the Ontario Fruit Co-Operative, now busily arranging for the packing, storing and shipping all the market varieties of apples. The British market will set a high standard for Canford fruit this year, and while, according to all reports, production per orchard is not up to the average, the depreciation in sterling is going to affect prices severely, everyone will hope that returns may repay the producers here for their labors in the face of a high-class article.

Independent residents of the city and neighborhood have an unrivalled opportunity to see exactly what they want in the apple line, and at remarkably reasonable prices. Besides the regular packing of any staple food product priced for the family budget, there is Thanksgiving Day coming, when wintry varieties are always available, and for the man who is not keen on slicing, Oxford is noted for its apple orchards, but the product has suffered considerably from lack of advertising. It has often been said that Ontario apples fail to attain their rightful place in the retail trade of Canada because of careless marketing, negligence as to grading and poor display in tempting quantities. Let everyone get together as it is doing, Oxford Fruit Co-Operative, and secure for it a better deal.

There is no occasion to set forth here the healthful qualities of the king of fruits. It has other merits which at this season should bring it into prominence on the daily menu, surrounded by pie-crust or liquidated in applesauce. And if any housewife is in search of new recipes, the publication branch of the department of agriculture at Ottawa has a booklet specially devoted to the subject.—Woodstock Sentinel Review.

Poet's Corner

THE HILL OF STARS

Ah, surely here the heavens incline
More near to me in this high place,
The stars that solitary shine,
In the blue solitudes of space.
From strife that scarcely knows success,
From care, from the noisy night that lies,
By paths of pleasantness and peace,
I climb the shining hill of stars,
And silently they fold round me,
The mantle of their mystery.

Absolution Given To Dying Cleric

Sturgeon Falls, Ont., Oct. 24—Absolution was administered to Father Lonergan today on Lake Nipissing with a bother priest, Rev. Father Clarence Hetherington, C.S.B. of Ste. Marie was mortally wounded by the accidental discharge of a shotgun in their boat. He died ten minutes later of the wounds in the abdomen and right thigh and severed a major artery.

Father companion, Rev. Father Lionel Bourassa of Lavigne, was paddling in the canoe at the time, but not seriously.

Father Bourassa said that Father McHugh was sitting in the craft with his back to the guns which were resting on the gunwale of the boat. When one gun went off, Father McHugh fell backward and he could not live, asked for absolution, which Father Bourassa gave.

"We were about four miles from shore," said Father Bourassa and are living in the Sturgeon Falls district. "Father McHugh was dead by the time we reached shore. We then paddled ten miles through the woods to get to Sturgeon Falls.

Father McHugh's body is being sent to Sault Ste. Marie for interment.

Revolt Spreading In Cyprus Towns

London, Oct. 24—Swift action last night was being taken to restore order on the island of Cyprus, in the Mediterranean, where nationalistic agitation for the culmination of a local campaign for union with Greece, has grown fierce, broke out last night.

Governor Sir Ronald Ciline, Egypt, today told of the burning of the residence of the British Governor at Nicosia, capital of Cyprus, and from Cairo said that while strong naval reinforcements were being rushed to the scene, the trouble was spreading to other towns, particularly Famagusta, where women and children were being evacuated from the British Consulate.

The cruisers London and Shropshire, the destroyers Acheron and Acaster, are expected in Cyprus from Crete to-morrow. Six troop-carrying Vickers "Victoria" airplanes, capable of carrying 22 men each, will take off at dawn from Alexandria with a company of the King's Rifles. Another company of the King's Rifles entrained this afternoon for Port Said, where a trawler is being prepared to take the men to Cyprus early tomorrow.

Letters to the Editor

POTATO SUPPLY

Ontario Marketing Board.
Toronto, Ont.

To the Editor—

We are enclosing copy of a letter we have written to the Mayor of your city. We think you will find this interesting and deserving of comment.

Yours very truly,
(Sgd.) W. B. SOMERSET,
Chairman.

Re Potato Supply

Your Worship:—

It is estimated that your city will pass through this winter without being required to supply food to needy families. The purpose of this letter is to direct your attention to the present potato market situation.

Potatoes have long been noted as a source of cheap food and for their low cost. A bag of potatoes will sustain a family for a given period perhaps a lower cost than can now be done with any other commodity. Potatoes are the logical food to turn to towards supplying a balanced nutritious meal.

Potatoes may be purchased now at sacrifice prices and we believe that you will find this an opportunity to reduce your cost of relief and thereby cover more families with your appropriation, or if this is not necessary your expenditures may be reduced to the relief of tax-payers.

We are quite sure that the purchase of potatoes for the sole purpose would benefit all of your citizens in perhaps a less direct way, nevertheless a very definite manner and would be appreciated. We feel all will agree that prosperity depends upon supported agriculture and that when our farmers cannot sell they will not buy.

The potato market is demoralized, not because we have a large carryover in Ontario but rather due to general conditions, an urge for cash and panic reports. This was the conclusion arrived at by a representative meeting of producers from all commercial sections of the province called by the Ontario Growers' Markets Council and held on October 2nd. This meeting appointed a committee to consult with the Ontario Marketing Board. This Board has been interviewed and a solution of the present situation has been agreed upon.

This is to ask you:

1. To urge growers to grade their stock carefully and to offer for sale only first class market potatoes, the remainder to be kept for stock feeding purposes. The crop this year is excellent so that the percentage culled out will be small.

2. To ask the co-operation of the trade and consumers through Ontario's crop before importing this year.

3. To suggest to those who may reinstate their requirements to purchase now at harvest time and take advantages of prevailing prices.

We hope we may have your co-operation in this matter and offer our services if additional information is required.

Yours truly,
W. B. SOMERSET,
Chairman.

P.S.—Could you urge your Councillors to prefer Ontario potatoes?

Editor Ontario Intelligencer:

Dear Sir—

The question of the esplanade presents so many sides which need very serious consideration. The greater aspect just now appears to be the need of meeting the unemployment problem. Even though the government is not at all we would wish it is now quite certain the money will be spent in the interests of employment this winter, and perhaps next winter also.

Another aspect is the criticism of the esplanade scheme in the city who refer to the difficulty of finding parking space.

Another aspect is the desirability of keeping up with other places in maintaining a standard of civic appearance. You recall the scriptural truism that a country without vision will surely perish. This applies to every community and we cannot allow ourselves to drop behind through a lack of public spirit.

Civic pride is as old as civilization and from the ancients started from the inertia of civic indifference. So let us, while respecting the opinions of those who do not consider that we are in excess of civic zeal, continue to present the very obvious advantages of the scheme under consideration.

(Sgd.) Addison Vandervoort.

C. N. Gordon Discusses Speech of Harry Sifton

Toronto, Ont., Oct. 24—(By The Canadian Press)—Speaking before the Women's Liberal Association here yesterday, Hon. G. N. Gordon, who was Minister of Immigration in the late Dominion Liberal Government, declared that Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King, Dominion Liberal Leader, lacked the power to force a judicial enquiry into the source and disposal of party funds, Mr. Gordon was discussing the statement of Harry Sifton last Tuesday, criticizing the remarks of Mr. King on the Beauharnois matter, at the Liberal convention in London, Ont.

"When Mr. Sifton says he is satisfied with disappointment to the remarks of the Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King in his explanation of the Beauharnois matter, I may submit to you he has not given the matter sufficient study," said Mr. Gordon.

Mr. Gordon said not better examination of Liberal principles could be made than those set forth in Mr. Sifton's statement but he declared Mr. Sifton had not appreciated the difficulties of leaders of a party out of power. Mr. King's hands were tied, he said.

WELTERWEIGHT TITLE PASSES TO CANADIAN

Lou Brouillard Winner of Crown From Jack Thompson

DECISION POPULAR

Thompson Seemed Burnt Out and Slow of Foot

Boston, Oct. 24—Lou Brouillard, 30 year old French-Canadian youth from Worcester, today occupied the welterweight throne and he appears capable of injecting new life into that division which has lost considerable standing in recent years.

The rugged youngster ejected the apparently burned-out Jack Thompson, who gained the title from Jackie Fields two years ago, during last night's 10-round bout in the Boston Garden. The title passed on a unanimous decision.

The championship bout, the first held in this state in 11 years and the first such welterweight contest since Honey Mellody, a Boston product, defeated Joe Walcott, one of the outstanding ringsters of all time, drew a capacity attendance of 18,500. Boston garden officials estimated the receipts at $53,000 but the internal revenue checkers totalled it as $44,543. "Thompson's" contract calls for 50 per cent. of this amount and Brouillard received 30 per cent. in addition to the championship.

Chased About Ring

Thompson allowed himself to be chased about the ring during most of the fifteen sessions, Brouillard pounding his head and body with lefts as he followed. Occasionally a few of the many straight rights aimed at Thompson's head were beaten to the canvas in the 10th and 11th, staying down for about both rounds. He forced the fighting only in the final round and regained the edge in two other sessions with a counterattack that surpassed Brouillard's aggressive tactics." Brouillard landed a dubious left hook that was described as a foul by several observers who had an excellent view of the bout. Thompson and his handlers protested but Referee Johnny Ravaud refused to heed them. The negro suffered from its effects during the next two rounds, during which Brouillard was able to better him for as long as 90 seconds at a time without a return. Brouillard was equally decisive here several months ago when he outpointed Thompson in a 10-round no-title affair.

It was a sad scene. For the Evil Line, in that small and paper-littered office WA. remained with his old friend and adviser—his desk. As he sat down to it, the old, battle scarred desk seemed almost to speak: "Good old pal. For thirty-one years you have been with me, and although you have kicked me, pounded me, scratched me, and cut me with the scissors and razor knives, I bear you no malice. I have known you rise from the greenest sports editor to the most famous in all Canada until your name has become a byword in sport from coast to coast. You helped organize the Ontario Amateur Hockey Association and mould it into the world's greatest; years ago you helped start the Interprovincial Rugby League; I remained true to you on the three occasions when you left me to lead Canadian hockey teams to world championships at the Olympics; I have watched with pride your rise to fame in horse-racing circles, from just a clocker, to a steward, and member of almost every Jockey Club in Eastern Canada; but the thing that I'll miss most of all is the way you used to talk to me about sport. Not daily columns of news of sport that was always so fair and just, always in the best interests of sport—I'll miss that while you go on to better things, to manage a press row Hockey Arena, where they will give you a fine office, and a highly polished walnut desk. Good-bye, Bill, old pal." Thus passes Bill Hewitt from the sporting editor's desk in the Toronto Star; no longer will he man ever put pencil to paper or led in the activities of clean sport. The Maple Leaf Hockey Club is the gainer by the change. His successor? None other than Lou E. Marsh.

GIRLS' TEAMS WIN 2 GAMES

Senior Squad Wins 30 To 24 and Juniors Defeat Picton 39 To 21

Belleville's first basketball match in the Bay of Quinte division of the O.B.S.A. was played against Picton Collegiate on Friday evening and proved a triumph for Belleville. Both senior and junior games were won by Belleville the first having a 30-24 score and the latter 39-21.

Teams Little Changed

Belleville Collegiate is to be fortunate this year in having many of its old players back on the teams.

The games last evening were very good and in places the play was fast and furious. The senior Belleville squad got away to a good start but in the last minutes of play seemed to slacken up and Picton nearly snatched the game away. In fact had the period been any longer the score might have been a far different story. Agnes Sheley Picton's splendid forward, tossed in basket after basket. Marjorie Hudson, Belleville, made some splendid long shots in this game.

Junior Game Close

The junior game was very close and the first period ended in a score of 13-12 for Belleville. The Belleville team that took the floor showed evidences of careful training and a good deal of practice and do credit to any seniors. Annie Crull was the flashing player of Belleville's team. She scored about twenty-five points of the total 39, with her sterling aim. Belleville jumping centre with very little effort knocked the ball at once into the forward's hands and a score followed.

Good Loop

The basketball league in this division includes Trenton, Napanee, Picton and Belleville and some good games are promised. Miss Allison, a new member of the Collegiate staff, is the director of athletics this year.

Last night's game was refereed by Miss Helen Grange, Napanee.

After the games the visitors were served lunch.

Just Common Reptile After Close Examination

Ottawa, Oct. 24.—The supposed Jersey Devil, or desert lizard, which it was said had been "released from its tomb" by mountain climbers, is by miners at Hudson's Hope, B.C., recently, when opening up a seam of coal, turns out to be a reptile of the Salamander species and of modern origin.

The specimen was despatched to the National Museum, and Dr. W. H. Collina, director, declared yesterday there was nothing to suggest the aeons of history with which the living specimen had been credited.

ATTEMPTED MURDER CHARGE

Toronto, Ont., Oct. 24.—A true bill was returned yesterday by the Grand Jury on charges of attempted murder, wounding and carrying firearms concealed weapon, against William (Big Bill) Cooke, former member of the Ontario Tar. Cooke is in hospital under police guard with a bullet wound in his leg. Police alleged he shot himself in attempting to hit Michael McDonald.

CRUCIAL GAMES IN GRID LOOP

Important Tussels Carded For Saturday's Game In Football

Toronto, Oct. 24 (CP)—With the weatherman lending a touch of perfect football weather, hosts of rival followers will have an opportunity of watching their favorites in Toronto, Hamilton, Kingston, Ottawa and Montreal, this afternoon, when the teams buckle down to business in the third week of play of the Eastern Canada rugby season.

Thousands of people will join their way into Molson Stadium, Montreal, to watch the greatly improved Wingfoot Wheelers aggregation tackle the Big Four championship squad, Hamilton Tigers, in the feature game on the afternoon's card. A battle royal is expected to develop between the two teams as today's meeting will decide a group leader of the interprovincial section, at least.

Toronto Argonauts are the attraction in the Capital City when they take on the Ottawa Rough Riders in the other interprovincial fixture. Both outfits will be fighting with their backs to the wall as a loss for either team will drop them into the cellar position of the league.

McGill at Queen's

Two games are carded on the intercollegiate programme, the feature being played at Richardson Stadium, Kingston, when Queen's and college champions meet McGill of Montreal. The other game is scheduled for Toronto where the University of Toronto twelve tackle Western University of London. The Toronto gridders must break into the win column this afternoon or forfeit their rights to any title hopes in the Intercollegiate Union.

Balmy Beach of Toronto and Ross City Cycle Panthers, Kitchener, will fight it out in Toronto for the leadership of the Eastern section of the O.R.F.U. Although the Dominion champions had little trouble in defeating Peterboro R.C.A.F. squad in the opening game at Kitchener, they are expected to have their hands full this afternoon. The Panthers have improved greatly since the opening of the season.

University's Main Object Is Cultural Training

Toronto, Oct. 24—"The University is not only for experts—but for voters and citizens", said Dr. MacIlwraith, Principal of Queen's University, Kingston, speaking at the annual charter day at Victoria College here last night.

"The main object of a university is not professional but cultural", he said. "The majority do not belong to the expert class, yet their labor at the university is not wasted."

He pleaded for more absorption in the work of industry and finance and less attention to "filthy lucre" as means of combatting depression.

BOY FOUND WORKING

Maurice Airey, fourteen year old son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Airey, York Road, has been missing from his home for two weeks, was discovered and brought back to Trenton some days ago. The young star, it will be remembered, was found pitching on Saturday, Oct. 3rd, and since that time a prove-ourselves search had been made for him by the police.

Deputy Desk, who lives near Morrisburg, wrote here to say that he had seen what he believed was the boy working on a farm with Constable Harry Gray was called about 8 p.m. and went over to make an investigation. As a result of his enquiries he also visited Hartings during the night. A rather amusing event occurred when Mr. Gray was making an examination of the premises in the rear of the creamery. While he was using his flashlight another flashlight was turned on him and a demand was made for information as to what he was doing there. Gray responded with the same demand in regard to the other party. Developments revealed that the other party was Constable Lyons of Napanee, who had not heard of the robbery, but was looking for another party and seeing the light had gone to investigate.

Eliminate Overlapping By Ottawa and Toronto

Hamilton, Ont. Oct. 24—A plea for elimination of overlapping of services in greater co-operation between Dominion and Provincial governments was made last night by Hon. W. N. Price, Attorney-General of Ontario, addressing a local Masonic lodge.

"It makes no difference what one's views may be, Communistic, Socialistic or any other, so long as a man expressed them with force and without license, not seeking the use there in other throwing order," he said.

Labor Parley in England Stands Same As Before

London, Oct. 24.—Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, former Labor Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, and new leader of the Labor party, last night replied in a broadcast address to criticisms of the Labor party's program by Rt. Hon. Philip Snowden, retiring National-Labor Chancellor of the Exchequer.

Mr. Snowden, Mr. Henderson said, "has made his attack chiefly on the Labor party's proposals regarding banking and credit in particular ridicule.

"In 1926," Mr. Henderson continued, "Mr. Snowden submitted our banking and currency policy to a national conference of the party. The statement of policy declared in regard to the Bank of England was that "its constitution ought to be such that it would be directly under public control, and the governing body should be managing individuals That." Mr. Henderson added, "precisely where the Labor party stands today."

Advice to the Lovelorn

A Domestic Crisis

Beatrice Fairfax as Authority Problems of Love and Marriage).

"After threat that she would leave home for good, a young girl has returned to parents and by her parents to come and go as she pleased and to keep company as she chose. This has been going on for some time. The anxious mother, clinging to ideals of the older generation, spends hours in prayer, if not in weeping. She looks on with fascination bravely, while modern youth is fling. She no longer opens door with tears on her cheeks and reproaches on her lips. But she does not mean that she has any other than uneasy anxiety. Surely does she rest until her daughter has come home. From her room, despite the lateness of the hours, the girl chats with her friends. These broken snatches of talk, heard by mother over-hear, add to the anguish of her bewilderment.

"The father has been appealed to and in the early stages he assisted discipline. Finally, when no agreement could be reached, he shut down on the daughter's threat) "Don't wait for that, throw me out!"

A mother's heart is made of leather and she has her alternative. Hope is being tried while an appearance of calm is kept.

Now while this case is the recital of a true story, I have dealt only with its present aspect. In its earlier stages, a little discipline may have helped. But it is true that this only child is always over indulged. She had more to state her case than any other thing; the parents would run a close race for the honor of which to be the first to win their daughter's approval by unstinted lavishing.

Finally even as a young girl her extravagance went beyond bounds. The father was the first to revolt. His position was that there is one form of disgust if not indifference. He openly tells his daughter that she like to "cut the whole show."

To cut the whole affair into his responsibility. It won't help his daughter, nor will it bring ease to the stricken wife and mother.

Perhaps a solution is impossible. But, in addressing someone, this daughter has developed a streak of cruelty that is for the moment in evident suffering, and the sensation her conduct is arousing among the family and friends.

It is needless to say that the discipline which was lacking in childhood is largely responsible for the present feelings of this girl. Her selfishness and cruelty are unmistakable and reconstruction will not help.

While the mother was weak and indulgent during this girl's childhood, she is now giving a heroic example of forbearance and patience, and I consider it worthy of certain sympathy from the father.

Indeed, both parents seem to have erred through kindness to an only child. One must not confuse that through inheritance and patience, this girl may develop a better corner toward happiness for herself and her parents.

Mlle. Laval on Woman's Career

(By Marguerite Young)

Washington, D.C., Oct. 24 (AP)—In its opinion of Mlle. Josette Laval, the answer to the most question about women's combining a career and motherhood "depends upon the woman—and the career."

The 19 year old daughter of the French Premier gave her observation in a formal statement released today. After facing the glare of news moving picture cameras, she said:

"Can one be a mother and have a career she was asked.

Flashing her confident smile, she made no answer.

"Could you do it?" someone persisted.

"I don't know," Mlle replied.

"Would you then?"

"I don't know," Josette responded. Hastening to add, "many women in France do."

Three Times for Luck

by Thomas Carter Todd

"Why, Jane Sutton, whatever has happened to you? You're blooming like a rose."

Marsha Elliott spelled off her chair and ran her fingers quickly through her hair that was clinging in damp tendrils to her forehead.

She began to rock herself back and forth furiously, the while her hot motions causing the chair to start gradually blotching itself across the floor.

The rocking and the fanning suddenly ceased. Martha sat bolt upright in her chair. After a long moment, her mouth opened and words came forth.

"I know what's the matter with you, Jane Sutton, you're fixing on getting married again. Now, don't deny it." Jane had not said a word, but the flush had deepened in her cheek, suffused her forehead, and then proceeded to cover her chin and her face and neck until it disappeared under her collar rather gave her the appearance of guilt.

"Land sakes", Martha resumed her monologue, her fanning, and her rocking. "I'm good enough for you, but not good enough of married life."

There was Joe Dobson, who was so mean, you had to divorce him after less than a year. Now, you not a word in his defense. I've always suspected that you cared more for that scallop than you would admit.

Then, there came Joe Sutton. He might have made you happy, if the Lord hadn't seen fit to let that mule kick him so he never recovered, and, at least, he left you a home that you could call your own. And, now, Jane, what's his name this time?"

"What's whose name?" Jane answered, as she started pulling the table cloth.

"The name of the one whose brought the sparkle back to your eyes, the color to your cheeks. The name of the man whom you are fixing to marry."

"Well, Marsha, you are absurd. Just because I'm waking up, and taking notice in the morning, you accuse me of planning to marry. You old matchmaker."

Martha arose, carefully laid the fan on the table, and proceeded to pick it up. "I don't say, is, true, that you'll find the attentions of a man, who will make me all about-it; second, I hope his name is Joe, also. Then there is anything is lucky."

Jane laughed helplessly as her friend went on. "Martha, you old matchmaker, you. Why don't you like Martha, bless her, to ferret out secrets of a young girl's heart" her desk and took an envelope from the top of a pile of similarly addressed one. Taking out the letter, she read the short typed message again. With the queer little prickles of excitment raced up and down her spine.

"Dear Janie," she read, "I have been patient; but my patience has come to an end. You know that I love you, and I believe that my love is returned by you. Two years is a long time. I shall arrive at your house on August 3rd, at 7 o'clock. Be ready to name our wedding day. With all my love, Joe Bates."

Jane folded the piece of paper and put it back into its envelope.

"Janie," she murmured to herself, "how strange that nobody ever called me that before. It makes me feel so different."

She looked at the calendar hanging on the wall. Yes, this was August second. She looked at the clock, ticking so mertly. It registered 6:30.

Jane sat in the rocking chair, and let her thoughts wander over her past life.

The cause of her unhappiness with Joe Dobson lay in the fact that they had seen so little of each other before they were married. No, that couldn't be it. Wasn't she contemplating marriage with a man whom she had never seen? Jane pondered awhile. Joe Dobson had been moody, sullen, and always dissatisfied. He had tried in every way which she knew, but nothing she did seemed to please him to be right. Their frequent quarrels, left only one course open, separation. Joe Sutton had been a good man in his way. He had come along every time Jane was in the depths from loneliness, and shortly after the first, they were married.

It was in this mood, that Jane answered a letter appearing in an issue of the Lonely Hearts, that had been signed by Joe Page.

Something in that letter had touched chords in Jane's nature that even she had not known existated. Through letters, offly, she had become acquainted with the man's every mood. She knew that he was wealthy, that he was owner of a sporting goods farm; that he appreciated the same things in music, in poetry, and in literature that she did.

At this point in her musings, Jane's heart literally leaped up into her throat, turned a few back-somersaults as it fell back into place; ceased beating entirely for one eternal second then proceeded to race faster than the little clock on the wall could tick.

A man's footsteps could be heard, turning in the gate, crunching the gravel on the walk, mounting the step by step. Just as the last step was reached the little clock triumphantly struck seven strokes. In the resounding following the timid knock on the door, sounded to Jane like a clap of thunder. Somehow, she got out of the front room and got the screen door open.

"Joe Dobson!"

"Jane, My Wife!"

The two stared at each other. The man was the first to recover.

"I am sorry," he said, "I was really thinking of you, but set out to see someone else. My thoughts led me to you. It's seven o'clock. I must go, or I'll be late." He turned away, slowly. Somehow, all the light had gone from his face.

Jane, while he talked, had been thinking rapidly. "For whom were you looking, Joe?"

"For a girl whose name is Janie Sutton. That's strange, though, I am sure that this is the right house. Do you know of her Janie—Jane?"

"Why, I am Jane Sutton, I'm married again after you—after we—"

With a laugh of cheer joy, Joe gathered Janie into his arms.

"Then, I am free, he said. "Here I've gone and fallen in love with my wife, and, But why didn't you tell me it was you."

"It sounds queer, Joe, but I had never used your handwriting before. And your name, why did you change it?"

"Because my uncle asked me to, and wanted things carried on in his name. Being with him so constantly is what made me see things differently than what I had been doing. That was the only thing I could do to show my gratitude.

"As I changed, I began to long for you, as I put that letter in the Lonely Hearts, thinking that you might see it. I had completely forgotten that you wouldn't know me by that name."

"I had been thinking of you," Jane took up the story, "and when I saw it signed Joe, I became hopeful, but when I saw Bates, I was disappointed, and then—"

Joe finished for her, "and then, we found that first love, is really true love."

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Unpleasant voices are caused by too much tension of the chords and too strong an air blast from the voice box. Strange that pretty girls don't pay more heed to tones and volume of speech. Find a beauty in which all members shout and you will find a family cursed with unstable nervous systems. They fall into unpleasant explosions, indignant outbursts, quiet, moments. The guest of the shouting family departs in a state of nervous irritation or physical exhaustion. A sweet voice is a beauty treasure that no money can acquire. All she has to do is to soft pedal.

Loud plaints are registered by the woman who has pepper and salt hair; she believes she would prefer her glory crown to be either white or white, so she seeks some agent that will place her tresses in the capped sisters. Can't be done. And bleach almost always leaves them brittle as string enough to insure the structure of the hair shaft. The transition period must be endured. It isn't so bad.

Good circulation is one secret of a fine complexion. Pale cheeks can not be coaxed to bestir themselves by various means. Deep breathing is one method, and all exercises help. The face cream that is massaged in only whips up circulation, but clears the skin all over the body of dead tissues and dirt. A handful of table salt, run into the flesh with vigorous friction, turn on the cold spray, then have a brisk rub down.

Instead of sachet bags, one can have perfumed tablets, made of flannel-like materials, delicately perfumed. Slip one into pocket or bag in handkerchief and glove boxes. Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Newer Versions May Given

Dear Mrs. Beckman:

1. Should one remove one's glove before shaking hands? I have heard the expression, "Excuse my glove," is that correct? What is the correct thing to do?

2. My husband died some months ago and of course when I meet people they make an expression of sympathy. I am always at a loss to know what to say. Most of the time I am so touched that I cannot make a reply. Do you think I am rude?

P.R.

1. Never should one, either a woman or a man, say, "Excuse my glove." If a woman is going to shake hands with a man, it is not necessary for her to remove her glove, and therefore, of course she does not "excuse" herself. A man is expected to remove his glove, and he should do it, not ask to be, "excused."

2. If you just say "it is very kind of you," that will be enough, and your friend will be sympathetic and understanding about your not saying more.

Never Omit the Title

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My employer and I disagree on the following points:

1. When addressing a letter, business or otherwise, to a man, is it proper to omit the title Mr. from the address in the letter?

2. Which is the more correct dence address is—or My residencia letter?

1. No. Always we should use a title, just as we do when we address a letter.

2. Better than either, any home address it, for this is simpler.

A Late Announcement

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have been married for some time and as yet have not announced it. Now that I would like to announce it, I am puzzled as to how to word the announcement. Will you help me?

Under these circumstances it is best form for the bride and groom to send out their own cards to friends, and to write notes to those whom they wish especially to know within calling on distance. The wording of their cards should be brief enough!

May I say that I enjoy your home address it, for this is simpler.

Mourning Attire

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My brother died a short time ^o and I would like to know what I should dress in mourning for him.

Is it necessary to wear all black? May I wear gray and white? Is it proper to wear all white?

At age makes any difference I will appreciate it, as my brothers was eight years old.

S.

Today, when the wearing of mourning is not as strict as formerly, it is quite proper for you to wear gray and white, if you prefer. It all depends on how you feel about it and if you wish to wear it and it pleases you. Some persons will not wearing mourning does not give the right to wear it. It is a matter of taste and is the easy and convenient mode for you to follow.

Lace Mittens

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am going to attend an extremely formal affair and to match my frock I am going to wear lace mittens which reach well over the elbow. These mittens have an opening and I would very much like to know how to use them. What is the proper way of handling food. Should one remove the lace, or cut or wash on eating as the finger bowls are not provided for.

You should remove your mitts while you are eating.

Hands that come in contact with too much hot or cold water, are likely to take on a permanent blush. Wear rubber gloves when washing dishes, use a dish mop or wear rubber gloves. Have a bottle of hand lotion near; use freely twice a day, especially at bedtime.

Poet's Corner

THE GAP IN THE RIDGE

It is tiring along the highroad
In the heat of the noonday sun.
It is lonely in every by-road
When summer days are done.
But oh! how the spirit rallies
When again in the homestead bring
The gleam of light in the valleys
And joy to our wayfaring.

On the road to the great hereafter
When the shadows round us fly,
And the echo of all our laughter
Is heard the wind's sad sigh.
May we find in the darkest places
A gap in the ridge to show
The beauty ahead and the faces
With heavenly light aglow.

Limiting Children's Hopes

I think you'll agree that, if we hear a statement made over and over, we finally come to believe it. It is particularly true with children who are trying to live up to being a good deal wiser than we really are.

The mother who says in their presence: "My boy could be a big man, but he would have to send away to school", or "Mary is musical but she'll never be able to take lessons," or "I'd prepare for a piano and lessons," or (as a mother told me recently), "Jimmy can't expect anything from life except to grub-hoe all week," is sowing seeds of discouragement and stunting her child's growth.

Why not tell him the TRUTH, which is that while he may be a boy, given the courageous spirit, he has pulled himself up through many handicaps through study at night, through library study, through a correspondence course, through one of the hundreds of channels which are open to men who have the right creed and who has the idea that anything is worth while if it will succeed?

This applies to all the limiting remarks staled here and all those we have made to children. When we learn to substitute encouragement for discouragement, we have limited him in ANY way, he has the right to develop to his full capacity. Why not teach him courage and resourcefulness? It is little more faith in a Father who surely helps us when our desires are RIGHT wouldn't come amiss either.

No matter how much you feel your child DOESN'T tell him about it. Tell him everything you can think of that may help him from himself from those limitations, for nothing is limiting to the individual tries Bard and earnestly enough.

Be Sure Your Child Understands You

(By Constance Cameron)

Many a child would have avoided if we take a little more care to find out whether or not the child understood what we mean. Le, has gathered the full import of our words.

We adults take in at a glance a whole situation, and usually react speedily to build up for us the conclusions we instantly form. conjectures as to cause, and from past experience we instantly jump to the end result. Children do not.

But a small child hasn't the experience to bridge gaps which would give him a full understanding. So instead of many words of explanation, so let be sure he understands the few we use.

A little boy and girl lived in adjoining houses. The little girl would often visit with the coming-on of the children at play. One day the little girls mother came running in tears to the mother of the little boy saying: "I have had a telegram. I must go to my mother at once; it is a matter of hours. Will you keep Sandy? I can't take him, dars?"

The boy's mother readily agreed to care for the dog and the little girl left. Sandy was the constant "is Sandy our dog now?" "Yes," replied his mother, "for a little while, he's ours." Now the "little while" part was utterly extraneous to the lad. He snapped onto what he wanted to believe, just as we all do. He forgot the "little while" part, and gloated and boasted and bragged over the unexpected endowment that Sandy was "our dog." When the little girl and her mother returned, Sandy, and the little boy was heart-broken.

All this because his mother hadn't realized how literally he had taken the statement she had made. She had no more meant to mislead him. It was something any of us might have done, unless we had thought beforehand about what we were going to say.

When a mother says to her child: "I'm going to the store," she knows that she is coming back, but the child may not know. Let her say: "I'm going to the store, but I'll be back in a little while," and the child understands.

Make sure your child doesn't interpret your words incorrectly, and you will spare him or her many a heartache.

OPTIMISM IN STOCK SHARES ON EXCHANGES

Constructive News Helps Market Lists On All Exchanges

MANY GAINS

Golds Show Most Impressive Gains in Price

(Written for the Canadian Press by Thomas C. Thompson)

Toronto, Oct. 24.—Optimism again gains by Warsaka. International Nickel and Brazilian Traction reflected a revival of investment and speculative interest on Canadian stock exchanges this week.

Not only were the leaders of the Canadian list all of much above their levels of a week ago, but buying of certain issues had a significance than any similar movement in the recent past. It was reported this much of the demand came from investors, who paid cash, and that quiet investment accumulation was in progress throughout the week. This is the surest ever, definite reason for the reviving confidence of buyers, and, the fact that Canadian wheat prices have combined to attract a little spurt of improvement were also evident in the markets for other commodities.

Steel trade reports from the United States, usually discouraging to observers here; the pending world copper conference, which is expected to have beneficial results for Canadian copper producers, and, on the whole, there was less visible concern over European political conditions. Particularly important to holders of stocks in producing gold mines was the announcement that the Dominion Government will continue to pay a bonus on the equivalent of the United States dollar. These and other factors are assured of the price for their product regardless of dollar exchange changes.

Constructive News

For the first time in many weeks, news affecting the stock market was almost entirely constructive. Brazilian advanced to 13¼ to show a net gain of almost 3 points for the week. Sales were made as high at 13¾ and much of the buying was believed to be of an investment character. Nornada surged forward from $13.50 last week to $18.25 despite intermittent profit taking.

Interlake stocks, traded in Toronto and Montreal, benefitted from the consistently favorable earnings reports on the New York stock exchange. Financial and industrial movements were sensitive to the New York trend and at 11¼ Nickel comes in with about 2 points of the close of last week. Pool of Canada "A" has risen from 13¾ to 14¾.

C.P.R. Rally

C. P. R. displayed a rally with the railway group at New York, and while there was considerable profit taking in C.P.R. at Canadian centres the price advanced from 14¼ to 16¾. Steelton's profit showed within narrow price limits, Walker's also fluctuated narrowly, but on the week compares with 3¾ last week, while Massey Harris, also in new prominence with heavy trading on the buying side, it was reported that accumulation of Massey Harris has been in progress most of the week with the result that the price has recovered from its record low point and at 4¾ is 1¼ above the concerned level of last week.

Golds greatly displayed more impressive firmness than the golds. Dome at 31¼ showed a net gain of 2½ cents for the week, but Hollinger at 8.10 compares with $8.45 last week. Sherritt Gordon advanced from $18.50 to $19.25, and Lake Shore rose from 8.50 to 8.75 and Kirkland 84 a share. Demand for Lake Shore was stimulated by Friday's profit announcement that the company's earnings were $6.37 a share compare with $1.56 in the previous year.

If the market was deeply interested in developments affecting Canadian enterprises it was not evident in the week's trading in oil stocks. Apparently the favorable trend of golds and industrials the oils attracted scant notice. British American Oil rose to 10 1-8 from a price of 9¾ a week ago, while Imperial Oil moved from 11¼ to nearly a point net higher, and Imperial Oil at 11¾ displays a gain of a full point. Other members of the group were inactive.

Plan To Re-establish McDougall and Cowans

Montreal, Que., Oct. 24 (CP)—A comprehensive plan for the re-establishment of McDougall and Cowans, Montreal stock exchange brokers, who went into bankruptcy on October 5th, is now in the course of preparation, it was declared before the creditors for their approval at a meeting which is to be held on November 10, the Montreal Star says today.

Creditors of the firm will participate in a company which is to be formed, receiving stock in accordance with the amount by which they rank as creditors. This company will share in the profits of the McDougall and Cowans, partners, who will resume business in their former style as brokers, the paper continues.

"The scheme, it is learned, will be advanced by the partners under the auspices of the trustee and inspectors who were appointed at the first meeting of the creditors. While there is no statement to this effect, it is known that the plan provides practically the only means by which the unsecured creditors will receive payment of claims. It also provides for the avoidance of liquidation of the assets of the estate, which would lead to disastrous burdening an already oppressed market with securities by an immediate liquidation."

Two other charges of conversion against Hett were preferred by Magistrate McKessock, who heard the cases Messrs. W. A. Hays, K.C., of Harrie represented the defendant.

BULLISH TONE IN SECURITIES

Wall Street Firmer In Last Half Hour of Trading

(By Claude A. Jagger)
(Associated Press Financial Editor)

New York, N.Y., Oct. 24.—Security markets ended the week quietly but with a tinge of bullishness today.

The stock Market was extremely dull. Speculative interest was kept alive by the taking up of a few of the merchandising and specialty issues. Most of the rest gains were fractionally, but a few shares were pushed up 1 to 3 points. The turnover was only moderately more than half a million shares for the two-hour session.

The foreign issues featured the Bond Market, rising moderately, possibly in expectation of a constructive plan for stabilizing internationally developing out of the conversations between Premier Laval and President Hoover.

Commodities maintained their recent gains with the cotton trend still profit taking. The cotton market closely barely steady, recessions of 10 to 35 cents a bale.

BRISK DEMAND FOR METALS

Turnover Brighten On Toronto Standard Exchange

Toronto, Ont., Oct. 24— Gold mings and golds dominated the stock section on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange Market today. Turnover was bright in a number of issues and gains were practically general among changes on the list. Base metal and oil sections were inactive.

Minimum price restrictions were withdrawn from mining companies, Granada, Chemical Research and Sherritt Gordon, as notices of advices were to the effect restrictions would be withdrawn from the list. Only around 65c each while ducks sold for around $1.25 each. It is questionable whether or not the farmers of the surrounding district were able to sell all the fowl that were offered on Saturday's market as there were more chickens in evidence than have been seen on the local market in quite some time.

The outside market presented a beautiful array of fall farm products and all kinds of fruits and vegetables were offered to the public at considerably less prices. Snow, Mac-Intosh Reds and Tallman Sweet apples sold for $1.50 per bushel and cooking apples were $1 per bushel or per bushel. All of these seemed to be very best apples that could be procured and were soon bought up by the citizens. Other vegetable market prices remained about the same as last week and consisted of purchase beets, carrots, parsnips and turnips for 5c per peck and five bunches of celery for 5c. Fine heads cauliflowers were sold at 5c to 15c each while beautiful cabbage was offered at 5c each, squash, of the large variety, sold from 5c to 10c each and honey retailed at 15c per section.

One of the added attractions of the market was the sale of pets. Rabbits and small collie pups were offered for sale and although they were not in evidence, no chickadees no buyers were in evidence.

CITY MARKET

Under perfect autumn weather the Belleville market was largely attended on Saturday morning. It presented perhaps the largest array of farm products that have been seen locally this season. The potatoes also were in evidence when they crowded the market to capacity.

Prices at the inside market remained much the same as last week. Butter selling for around 25c per pound and eggs demanding in the neighborhood of 40c a dozen. Dressed poultry declined around 15 cents, but Sherritt Gordon held firm and Chemical Research and Granada remained steady. There is a tone of reviving unusually strong support.

Belleville earnings of $1.26 a share last year and 75 cents in the first quarter of the current fiscal period ended Sept. 30, Lake Shore established a new high of $29.25 on the curb market on the day. Mc-McIntyre moved to just below $20 for a gain of $70. Noma regained 50 and Wright Hargreaves was up 1 week ahead.

Gains ranging from one to three cents were registered in Kirkland Lake Gold, Kirkland Townsite, Bralorne, Pioneer and Siscoe. Thousand Hudson Bay added another 10 to recent gains to sell at 90. Sherritt was also firmer on the curb.

Mclntyre moved to just below $20 for a gain of $70. Noma regained 50 and Wright Hargreaves was up 1 week ahead.

Gains ranging from one to three cents were registered in Kirkland Lake Gold, Kirkland Townsite, Bralorne, Pioneer and Siscoe. Thousand Hudson Bay added another 10 to recent gains to sell at 90. Sherritt was also firmer on the curb.

Stocks Stronger On Toronto Board

Toronto, Ont., Oct. 24.—Stocks were irregularly strong on the Toronto Exchange this morning. The usual pivotal issues were included and sold back into drift trading with activity limited to a few specialties.

Nornada continued its upward movement for a goodly portion of the turnover. Sales were made at around 18 and at the current level of 2 and 1-8 to 2 and 1-4 with the pegged price restrictions were removed last night. Slipped off fractionally under the 2 mark and closed at 1 7-8 to 2 bid.

Brazilian closed firm at 13 1-4 and Nickel unchanged at 11 1-4. Nornada was up a fraction and the gold stocks were also strengthened. Siscoe made a new high on the recovery when sold at 2.30. Pool of Canada advanced about 1-2 point to 14 3-4. Walkers at 3 1-2, Canada Bud at 10.

Imperial Oil was slightly higher at 11 3-8. International Petroleum was firmer at 11 1-2 and B. A. Oil unchanged at 10.

BRINGING UP FATHER. By George McManus

THE GAY BANDIT OF THE BORDER

by TOM GILL.

A glow in the sky ahead told her Verdi was nearing and with it came a recollection that the major would be at the Bob's on the far side of his freedom. At the crossroads she turned toward the ranch.

Once she looked up at the stars. "Dear God," she whispered, "he must come, and Uncle Paco must listen."

Turning through the gate at Bob's hacienda Adela swung fast; a band of horsemen clustered about the corral. Swarthy, sombrero'd men with ammos swung over their shoulders, sitting their horses in silence; and within the scabbard of each a rifle was stuck. Intent on her mission, the girl gave no thought to that silent group of armed riders, but drew up before the steps, and, without knocking, threw open the door.

Inside, the major and Don Bob lingered over their coffee and cigars, their dinner clothes in strange contrast to the half-dressed vaquero of the morning. One might have said that here are two leisured gentlemen, idly talking, enjoying a quiet hour of relaxation before the evening. Actually nothing in Don Bob's manner would have betrayed the fact that for the last two months of his freedom were swiftly passing.

Both men started to their feet as the girl burst in upon them. Major Idly Acted told them of Ted's capture and of her uncle's mad joy at the taking of Bob. Major's memory of the light that had flashed in Morales' eyes came fresh to her.

"He wants you hanged, Bob. He is going to do his best to have you hanged, and Ted—dear God, I don't know what he may do to Ted. Already he has sent for his vaqueros. He threatens to shoot Ted before them all because he was your accomplice."

"Ted never was."

"I know, I told him that. But it's an excuse. He hates Ted because I love him. There's nothing he won't do to keep me from Ted—not even execute Major you've got to come back with me and make him give Ted up, even if you have to send your cavalry. Bob, you've got to if your cavalry came."

Bloomin's face reddened. "The damned old viper. He knows he hasn't the right."

"Major," Bob interrupted quietly, "it's not talk of right when we speak of Morales. Adela's plan is the only possible way. Either you force him to give Ted up, or I'm afraid to think of what may happen to the boy."

"But I can't invade Mexican territory with cavalry."

"You've already invaded it, chasing me."

"My orders were to get out and stay out of Mexico as soon as the capture was made, Bob. I can't call on the soldiers to use force on Morales. I'd be court-martialled. We'll phone the consul—"

Bob's fist fell with a thud on the table. "Man, by the time a consul begins diplomatic investigation, the thing is done. Force is all that Morales will give heed to. Force he understands, and nothing else. You've got to bully him. threaten him. There's no other way, I tell you."

The little major walked to the window. "Adela, I'd do anything in the world for you, but this thing I can't do. Every paper in the country and in Europe tomorrow would be raging about armed intervention of the United States in Mexico. God knows where it would end. The government couldn't back me, for it would mean war. Every civilized nation in the world would be watching. The government would have to repudiate me. I simply can't do it. I'll go myself. I'll threaten, I'll promise."

Bob shook his head. "I'll won't do. By yourself you can do nothing. It's too perfect a chance for Morales to revenge himself doubly on me and to rid the country of the man Adela loves. Nothing in Don Bob's manner would have betrayed the fact that for the last two months of his freedom were swiftly passing.

Both men started to their feet as the girl burst in upon them. Major Idly Acted told them of Ted's capture and of her uncle's mad joy at the taking of Bob. Major's memory of the light that had flashed in Morales' eyes came fresh to her.

THURLOW REEVE'S GANGPLOW DEMOLISHED

Gangplow Catches in Rail, Demolished by Train, Tractor Saved

Reeve Mitchell Suffers Loss of Hundreds of Dollars

TRACTOR TAKEN

Every Effort Fails To Rescue Plows From Track

Becoming caught under the rails of the C.N.R., a gangplow attached to a tractor, owned by Reeve R. M. Mitchell, of Thurlow, was struck by an eastbound C.N.R. express at Bay Siar yesterday after five o'clock and demolished. The tractor was saved but the loss to Mr. Mitchell will be in the neighborhood of $200.00.

The reeve of Thurlow was returning to his home from the north concession of Thurlow with the tractor and plow after working in a nearby field and in order to reach his home from the field had to cross the C. N. R. tracks. The tractor negotiated the crossing in safety but the plow attached became stuck under the rails. This stalled the tractor and Mr. Mitchell tried in every conceivable way to remove the plow to safety. It was impossible to reverse the track and blows on behind the plow owing to the obstruction of the rails.

While endeavouring to remove the plow a heavy light loomed in the west and Mr. Mitchell, being a resident of that district for many years, knew the express was on her way. He detached the tractor from the plow and waited for the crash. The train struck the plow and threw it clear of the tracks but no damage was done to the train. The express brought his train to a stop and after learning that no one was injured the train proceeded on.

Feminine Traveller, 97, Ends Her 3000 Mile Trip to Coast

Burns—News has reached friends here of the safe arrival of Mrs. David Moran and party at Vancouver on Thursday.

It will be remembered that Mrs. Davis Moran was the "grand old lady of Crofton" who was ninety seven years of age last spring left Crofton about the 11th of September for Vancouver. She was accompanied by her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Eaton Moran and her grandson Mr. Morley Moran. Mr. Hazel Delong accompanied them as far as her home, Lake City, Iowa.

They visited for a week with relatives in Lockport, Ill., Chicago and Garry, Indiana and stayed four days at Lake City, Iowa. Mrs. Moran throughout enjoyed every bit of her journey which took her across Nebraska, Wyoming, Idaho, Sacramento Valley, California, up the coast highway through Seattle to Vancouver. When crossing the desert Mrs. Moran saw a number of the famous covered wagons. The scenery through Iowa, over the mountains, Idaho, California and up the coast was beautiful, but was not so nice through Nebraska and part of Wyoming. Mrs. Morran says she would not have missed the trip for all the world and looks forward to returning in the spring.

30 CRUISERS DESTROYED

Two Hundred Thousand Dollar Loss at Penetang

Penetang, Ont., Oct. 24—Fire, breaking out in the Gidley Boat Company's plant across the bay from here yesterday destroyed 30 motor cruisers and storage building, with estimated loss of between $100,000 and $2000,000.

The loss of the plant is estimated at least $100,000 will be borne by vacationists residing in New York, Chicago, Detroit and large cities in Canada.

The cause of the outbreak is a mystery. The resident watchman discovered the blaze in the north end of the storage building, and in half an hour the plant was gutted. The storage buildings was located some distance from the factory.

Last Tuesday, the boat had been placed in storage, according to Harry Hancock, manager of the Gidley Company. All wiring and batteries had been removed from the hulls as a precaution against fire.

Shortly after the fire was discovered, the alarm was given the Penetang fire brigade but the flames were unable to reach the scene in time to be of any assistance, having to cross the Bay.

The boats, which is covered by insurance, while the boats were stored here by their owners at their own risk.

Wilbert Robinson Removed as Manager

New York, Oct. 24—The factional war that has been raging within the Brooklyn baseball League team for the past year culminated yesterday in the removal of Wilbert Robinson, one of baseball's colorful old guard, as manager, and the appointment of Max Carey as his successor.

Carey's elevation through the past season as the only solution of the bitter controversy between Steve McKeever and his backers and Manager Ebbets, co-owners of the club, "Uncle Wilbert" was removed by unanimous vote of the five directors, and Carey given a one-year contract.

Cenenary Fowl Supper

Anniversary services of Centenary United Church will be held Sunday, October 18th, and good concerts rendered by the special minister, Rev. Mr. Merrick of Bowmanville, both morning and evening. The church was prettily decorated for the occasion and special music was rendered by the choir. The thanksoffering was cheering to all present. A fowl supper on Tuesday evening the annual fowl supper was held and was voted a very successful one. The tables were literally groaned with good things to eat which the ladies of the church had prepared. Of course the turkey was the main feature on the menu, and it could be had in any style from stuffed to fried. Pies of every kind were there to be had. Tarts and everything to satisfy the whim of the inner many. The tables were also prettily decorated with marigolds. Following the supper an excellent program was given. Those assisting were West Belleville Orchestra, Miss Ruth Bell, P. Mott, Miss Anna Brown, Miss Helen Bell, Miss Dunning, Angelo, Rev. Mr. Merrick and Mr. Thrasher. The pastor, Rev. J. R. Butler, was in the chair and acted on behalf of the Women's Association in a most hearty way in thanking all those who in any way helped to make the evening a success, and most especially to those who so kindly helped in the programme. The proceeds amounted to $70.00.

"Ned" Symons Transmits Account of Consecration at Fort Rosebush

Seated at his instrument at Fort Rosebush, Ont., within the shadows of miles north of Edmonton, Alta., Ned Symons sent out to the world the graphic description of the consecration at Fort Rosebush of the Right Reverend Isidore Clut, the vicarate apostilique of Mackenzie River. Bishop Clut, who is an O.M.I., who has labored for many years among the Eskimos and Indians in that far off land. The consecration took place on Sunday 16 and it is said that never before in the history of the country of the world, have the rites of consecration been witnessed at a point so far north.

Mr. E. A. C. (Ned) Symons, son of Mr. A. E. Symons, Bridge St., Symons, Sinclair Sirret, is stationed with the Royal Canadian Signals at Fort Resolution on Great Slave Lake and it was from there he transmitted the account of this consecration from the Government Radio station. The doing of this is not considered a big matter, but once by "Ned"—only part of the story. Ned is in the habit of listening to his many friends in Belleville. "Ned" was sent to Fort Resolution from Camp Borden a year ago last June and in a letter home he says that he enjoys his work and likes the surroundings very much. There are about twenty white people at the Fort, associated with the Royal Canadian Mounted police and the Royal Canadian Signals. Quite a number of people pass through during the summer months, but during winter they are sealed up tight. This summer Mr. A. E. Symons has planted quite a garden and catching fish, which are in plentiful supply, dried during the winter. Socially, the family of twenty people, manage to have a very good time.

Firebug Stays Hand as Police and Farmers Arm to Save Property

12 Provincial Constables Join Posse in Wentworth

SHOTS FIRED

Insurance Co. President Sees Plot to Wreck Firm

Toronto, Oct. 24—Determined to co-operate with county authorities to the fullest extent in running down those responsible for the series of incendiary barn fires in Wentworth County, General F. A. S. Williams, Commissioner of Provincial Police, yesterday dispatched 12 additional officers to the Hamilton district, where they will work with the permanent force in patrolling the countryside.

This brings the total provincial forces in the Hamilton district up to 19.

Three extra motor cars were assigned to Wentworth County for patrol duty, and several more motorcycle constables were instructed to patrol Dundas Township under orders from Inspectors Miller and Jordan.

The dozen men sent from Toronto have been added to the provincial school and are on probation preparatory to being put on permanent force. They will remain in the Hamilton district until the present mystery is cleared up, General Williams said.

Fire Fiend Lays Low

Hamilton, Oct. 24—The flaming torch of the fire fiend was believed to have been extinguished Saturday last night when, for the first time in many days, 24 hours passed with out a single alarm.

There were rumors from several parts of the country, persons with a perverted sense of humor calling Hamilton and to report barn and fire diagrations, and the police busy investigating the calls.

Despite the lull in the barn-burning activities, farmers were not optimistic enough to believe that the pyromaniac had departed, and the watch was maintained, with special police officers again reporting for duty.

It is expected that the property owners will protect their property for some days yet, but the belief was expressed that the search for the incendiary becomes more difficult before enough to threaten the capture of the fiend at an early hour, and that is the end of his depredations in this district.

Police in Huddle

Those in charge of the investigation met at the courthouse and planned a campaign of watchfulness. The session was held behind closed doors, and no announcement was made of the result of the journament.

More than a dozen farmers telephoned to state that they had found suspicious characters, who would take a staff of men to assist in the efforts to catch the fiend.

Almost every man who is not a resident of the district is regarded by the men who have been called to assist in the search as one whom they are watching their places.

Insurance Co. Views

A. W. Hilborne, President of the Wentworth Farmers and South Waterdown Fire Insurance Company, stated that he believed the fires were the work of a maniac, and not of the company. Eight of the thirteen barns destroyed had been insured by his company, Mr. Hilborne said, but added that this was no more than a coincidence. Claims against the company from the fires in question amount to $25,000 it was stated.

It is the opinion of the police that one or two of the fires, and possibly three, were not caused by the firebug, but by spontaneous combustion. Another theory which was given consideration was that the firebug might have started the fires by previously packing rags around the linseed oil in the cans of barns. This would cause a fire to start within a short time, it was stated.

George Ballard, Crown Attorney, has been contacted the temper of farmers in the district, with so many fires occurring but he warned them to be cautious in the use of fire-arms. "Because a trespasser ran away when confronted by a property owner did not justify shooting, he said, and it would be an unpleasant task to prosecute any one who wounded a trespasser, unless it was shown that the circumstances justified shooting, he said.

Gandhi's English Goat Too Well Fed, Ready to Bunt Mahatma

London, Oct. 24—Throwing aside the cares of India's destiny, Mahatma Gandhi called yesterday on the goat that has fed him since he came to England and drew thereform a morsal.

The goat, with great affectionately and irocked its whiskers. But the animal, named "Mahatma" after Gandhi, had eaten prize at the British dairy exhibition, lowered its head in an attitude that might be termed "non-co-operation."

Gandhi was greatly amused, but the goat's owner, Miss Mary Harrison, covered her embarrassment by explaining that the English goat was no Indian one. Gandhi replied there was no comparison between English and India goats.

"Our goats, like ourselves, are peaceful people," he said, "they increase only four months yearly."

What Theatrical Managers Say of Coming Attractions

At The Capitol

DOROTHY MACKAILL, IN "PARTY HUSBAND" NOW

Dorothy Mackaill, whose recent characterizations have won her such high acclaim, appears today and Monday in "Party Husband," at the Capitol.

She plays the part of a sophisticated bride who means to keep her individuality, to take a position in the business world, and to associate with whomever happens to take her fancy for the moment. In this she is abetted by her husband, who sincerely believes that wedding ties should not cramp one's style and that both goose and gander may partake of the same spicy menu.

Jay is to be a strictly party-husband, and Laura a partywife.

Laura accepts a position in a publishing house, with a wordly gentleman-editor, who has a penchant for arranging broadcast programmes, all of which sounds eminently proper. Jay is taken under the doubtful protection of a busy-and blue-less lady named Bee, a mutual friend tries to slow Bee's speed, Laura's employer takes her to a distant city on particular business. Jay begins to doubt the love-and-let-love theories which he has advocated—and follows in his haste.

From then on to the satisfactory close of a most satisfactory story, the witch's brew begins to brew, and when it boils over, the audience will have gleaned from "Party Husband" that new ideas do not blend too well with old-fashioned marriage.

James Rennie plays the part of Jay with conviction, and Dorothy Peterson, Don Cook, Joe Donahue and Mary Doran are included in the excellent supporting cast.

The programme is made complete by comedy, cartoon and the Pathe Sound News.

"THE STAR WITNESS"

"The Star Witness", featuring the wonderful child actor, Dickie Moore, Walter Huston, Charles (Chic) Sale and Frances Starr, (Nancy Vorhes of "Five Star Final") comes to the Capitol on Tuesday and Wednesday.

This great picture, whilst having as its theme the danger which all of us run, of innocently falling foul of underworld characters, combines the most thrilling melodrama with heart-warming comedy and pathos.

"The Star Witness" in the Walter Huston, who so unforgettably played Abraham Lincoln—Sale, whose characterizations of rural folks have made him beloved everywhere—and Frances Starr are ably supported by a cast which includes Sally Blane, Grant Mitchell, Edward G. Nugent, Ralph Ince, Tom Dugan and Robert Elliot.

LAUREL AND HARDY HIT HIGH MARK IN "PARDON US"

Laurel and Hardy, whose comedy shorts have always been more of an attraction than a theatre's featured production, are finally seen in a full-length production of their own in "Pardon Us" which opened to a large matinee audience and filled houses at both performances last evening (Friday) at the Belle Theatre and by the way it was enjoyed by all shows that it is a laugh from start to finish. This pair who are funny even without special prepared "gags" and episodes, run riot through an amusing travesty of the typical prison melodrama.

There is no let up in hilarious situations. The pair are jailed when they innocently mistake a drink—they subsequently make life miserable for their fellow prisoners by their naive stupidity which gets everyone in trouble, prevent them their escape and disguise themselves as negro cotton-pickers, they get caught again and participate in a union riot.

It is in this last episode that they train a machine gun on the inmates of the prison lodged out of the keepers and thus achieve a pardon although the whole thing was a result of bungling.

Novelty Comedy "Gags"

Laurel, with his baby-faced pout and helpless gestures, is an inimitable as ever, while the corpulent Hardy has only to register disgust to get his share of laughs. An outstanding comedy gag is the idea of having Laurel emit a "Raspberry" because of some denial uttered. When he finally emerges from the seeming process of having a tooth removed it turns out to be the wrong one and the dentist is the first to get the "rass" again.

The direction of James Parrott shows an eye for speed and an ability to get full value out of every comedy incident. Capable supporting players include Wilfred Lucas, Walter Long, June Marlowe and James Finlayson.

Laurel and Hardy may be congratulated for their daring venture into the full-length comedy field. Here's hoping there will be more like "Pardon Us".

A Chamber of the Deep

A thrilling adventure on the deep sea provides one of the "short features" of entertainment offerings seen at the Belle in some time. Also a splendid Kartoon offering that pleased called "Clowning" and paramount News showing many scenes of the (late) Thomas A. Edison, the World's greatest inventor. Chief Mitchell Edward G. Nugent, Ralph Ince, Tom Dugan and Robert Elliot.

CLIVE BROOK AND KAY FRANCIS IN "24 HOURS"

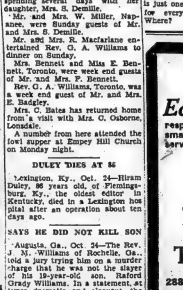
Clive Brook and Miriam Hopkins in a scene from Louis Bromfield's grand-scale novel, "24 Hours," starring Kay Francis and Regis Toomey, commencing at the Belle, Monday

The amazing sum of drama, suspense, romance and adventure that is tallied in the big cities of today, and most frequently is enacted all about us without our eyes and senses fathoming the very-present clues and symbols, is projected for our benefit, energetically and eloquently in the new photoplay being headlined for exhibition at the Belle Theatre, Monday and Tuesday matinee daily, entitled "24 Hours" a Paramount feature.



As a novel and Cosmopolitan Magazine story called "Shattered Glass" this Lloyd Douglas narrative of tangled lives and loves treated against the background of the modern New York City sees it, proved highly attractive to entertainment appetites.

With a cast featuring Clive Brook, Kay Francis, Marian Hopkins, Regis Toomey and a number of other stage and screen performers equally talented "24 Hours" was destined to succeed.

The story for those who have missed the novel or serial, traces from plot-germ of crime and, in the same hour, a span of the sun from sunrise later, a man who has sought the solace of an affair with a neighbor's wife, to cover up the void straying wife, finds himself accused of his paramour's murder. The discovery of the social comedian of himself and wife is strangely turned in favor but as he confesses his relationship with the slain man a dramatic snake of the dead woman is brought to court for another crime, and unwittingly clears the accused. Priest in many incriminating shadows of the past, he is rejoined to his wife, whose own affair has gone on the rocks, and together they go forth to cope to nurse the re-budding affection and trust of her mate.

The underworld and Junior Features are announced for exhibition late this week-end, including Sir Harry Lauder in a clever Sonofun-a-gun-at Dairy," Lloyd Hamilton delivers an orchard of laughs in his latest, "An Apple a Day." Our Gang Follies, News, and an interesting Traveltalk will also be exhibited.

Each lady attending the Belle Matinee Monday will be presented with a Blue Pearl Dresserware gift with the compliments of the management.

Rogers Takes to the Air for Sake of Relief Funds

Characteristic Talk is Made By the Humorist In Appeal

GOT HIM IN

Los Angeles, October. Will Rogers, talking from Radio station KFI here was one of the speakers for the national broadcast in which President Hoover opened the community-wide campaign for community funds for unemployment relief.

The humorist, in a speech of unusual length for him, said:

"How don't get mad and start turning off the radio. I'm not advertising anything. If the thought wash you are using is the wrong kind, you will just have to keep on using it, and I don't know what cigarette will drag in your Adam's apple, unless you lay off apples.

"Mr. Owen D. Young and Mr. Clifford asked me to come on this program. You just heard Mr. Clifford, the fellow that has contacts all world, a very fine high-class man, but what a job he has got! Mr. Hoover just told him, 'Gifford, I was a pretty good mixer, but the dead woman is brought to court for another crime, and unwittingly clears the accused. Priest in many incriminating shadows of the past, he is rejoined to his wife, whose own affair has gone on the rocks, and together they go forth to cope to nurse the re-budding affection and trust of her mate.

The underworld and Junior Features are announced for exhibition late this week-end, including Sir Harry Lauder in a clever Sonofun-a-gun-at Dairy," Lloyd Hamilton delivers an orchard of laughs in his latest, "An Apple a Day." Our Gang Follies, News, and an interesting Travelatk will also be exhibited.

Each lady attending the Belle Matinee Monday will be presented with a Blue Pearl Dresserware gift with the compliments of the management.

"Whose? Why, right where you are. Look around. You see a lot of things to do, weeds to be cut, fences to be fixed, lawns to be mowed, filling stations to be robbed, magazines to be catered to, there is a million little odds and ends that somebody can get that an idle man can turn his hand to every day.

"Of course, he won't get paid for it, but he won't get paid for not doing it. My theory is that it will keep him in practice in case something does show up. You can lay off so long that you can lose the habit, so keep practicing so you won't be a novelty when it does come. You eat just as much loafing as you do working. In fact, more: you got more time.

Urges That We Wake Up

"The trouble with us today is we are in such bad shape that it takes us all day to tell about it. We keep yawning and yapping for the old days, and call 'em 'Oh, for the old days.' Well, we might just as well wake up. Those days aren't coming and are not coming back any more. How we all escaped a humble existence during that time is more than we know now.

"Right now there is only one everything under the sun that anybody had to sell. I had a 50 per cent. supply in mine. I'm not in America now.

"Now here we are worrying and bothering about a few hundred hundred different problems that they got us and our country mixed up in, believe they amount to some thing. This country has got just one problem, and it is not the reparations of Mr. Mellon's budget (that's the Secretary of the Treasury) and the League of Nations that you read a lot about. It's not the silver question. Not one of those things mean a thing to the average man as long as we have 7,000,000 of our own out of work.

"That is our only problem, and to arrange the affairs of this prosperous country again (prosperous right now), so to arrange it so that a man who wants to work can get work, and give him a more equal distribution of the wealth the country produces. Now if we can get back in the next year or two to the way we worked in the last three years, that's all.

"What does all this yapping about disarmament mean? It appeared to me to be a first nation in the history of the world to put a warehouse in an automobile.

"Our soldier's Fields are surrounded with granaries full of wheat.

"Now if there ain't something wrong with our economic system like that, then this microphone in front of me is a balloon.

"It's simply a case of getting it back. All the boys are going into one manger and the stock on the other side ain't getting any of it. We have more of that all these other nations that are hard up. Why haven't we got all the gold in it, but we don't know how to split it up.

"I guess we'll get it fixed, for everybody is aroused and thinking about it. It's been so long in the last few years getting radios and talkies and Graham wafers and straight eights that we forgot to get out of bed any bacon and beans.

Call on Every One to Aid

"Now a miracle can't happen and all these people get a bath over night. It's going to take time, so they must not get discouraged, perhaps all Winter. Every one of us that have anything got it by the aid of these very people. Three yet to one every business man in the country that hasn't contributed to the wealth of. every millionaire in America.

"The working classes didn't bring this on. It was the big boys that thought the financial drunk was on the level last time and every one bought, overmerged and. overcapitalized.

"Now the people are not asking for money, they are asking for a job, but there is no job. Towns and cities can't use they haven't got the money. Last year the same amount of money is in the country as when times did their level best. Everybody got it. Last Winter we didn't have the heat. But this Winter we got no excuse, it's been shown to us all Summer.

"I have said for the last two years that things would pick up by this Winter. Why? because it's an election year, and the Republicans always see to it that things look good on election years. They give us three years and then one good year, but the good one is the voting year. Elections are cheaper in Europe, who hates us and thinks we are arrogant, self-made and everything else, but they will tell you that we are liberal.

"Prosperity is around the corner.

"I don't know anything about 'America being fundamentally sound.' I only know that Mr. Clifford and Mr. Young and especially Mr. Hoover, for the last three years have allowed to appear on the same program with me.

"There is not an unemployed man in America tonight that has worried as much, or taken the situation to heart as much as our President. I know that he would rather see the problem of unemployment solved than all the foreign problems put together. He has had a long, tough, hard pull and for every town and city to get right out and raise their funds would make him mighty happy, and happiness hasn't been a diet with him, and he is a very human man.

"I thank you Good night"

Separate Grading Would Only Cut The Price

Edmonton, Alta., Oct. 24—Separate grading of garnet wheat as suggested by the Grain Standards Board of Winnipeg would merely result in cutting its price probably ten cents per bushel under maquis and other hard wheats, in the opinion of Edmonton grain men.

They feel that such a move would prove a severe blow to farmers of northern Alberta who have been largely growing this variety because of its early maturity.

MONTREAL BANK CROP REPORT

Wheat Harvest Below Five Year Average

157,000,000 Bus.

Montreal, Oct. 24—Below will be found a brief synopsis of telegraphic reports received today by the Bank of Montreal from its branches.

Assuming the crops of the Dominion, it can now be said that the total yield will be much greater than expected, a approximately 157,000,000 bushels being now estimated, with corresponding reductions in the yields of coarse grains. The crops of the main staples in Ontario are also generally have been heavier than expected and a good quality, that in British Colum bia is reported to be of excellent quality satisfactory, and that in the Maritime Provinces the yields of apples and hay have been above expectations, while the potato crop and potatoes below average. In Quebec the yield of fall wheat, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics estimates at 177,700,000 bushels 400,000 bushels more than 22,100,000 acres, which compares with their estimate of 21,700,000 acres and 21,900,000 acres last year and a five-year average of 22,400,000 bushels. This year's cut crop is placed at 254,011,000 bushels against 254,011,000 last year, whilst the five-year average is 250,000,000 bushels contrasts with 100,402,000 bushels last year. Land sown to coarse grains are estimated at 24,700,000 acres or 1,720,000 acres less than in 1930, a decrease largely on account of drought, high winds and colder.

Province of Ontario

Favorable conditions prevailed throughout most of the season. The area slightly heavier than last year but the yield per acre will be below saved. Corn acreage increased approximately 4 per cent. and the crop was outstanding with little damage from frost. The bean crop estimated acreage and yield the same of crops respectively are as fall wheat, 631,500 acres and 16,- 700,000 bushels; oats, 2,713,000 acres and 82,100,000 bushels; barley, 1,- 232,000 acres and 36,000,000 bushels; rye, 139,000 acres and 2,- 548,000 bushels. These compare with 1930 figures of 2,713,000 acres, 2,468,913 acres and 39.8 bushels and 566,571 acres and 16.1 bushels for 1929. The quality and yield, particularly of oats and barley, were adversely affected by the dry weather, extremely hot weather early in July which also reduced the yield of canning peas to approximately 2.5 per cent. average. Potatoes in largely increased acreage are a heavy crop as are also mangolds and turnips.

Crown Witnesses State Accused Threatened McDonald

With Wife Doctor Leaves For Homewood Sanitarium, Guelph

Cobourg, Oct. 24—Dr. George Fields, Cobourg, appearing before Magistrate Colt, W. Boyd, Saturday afternoon, last, charged with being in possession of an offensive weapon for the purpose of intimidating the public peace and also charged with manslaughter, Douglas MacDonald, elected to be tried by a County Judge and jury, was committed for trial at the next Court of General Sessions of the Peace. He was remanded by order K. V. Crowder, until January 15 under $4,000 bail. Dr. and Mrs. Field left the Homewood Sanitarium, Guelph, the same night, it is understood.

Only evidence for the Crown was taken before Magistrate Floyd, Mrs. Douglas MacDonald, wife of the deceased, and Mrs. Wm. Cullough, Mrs. Cullough, Mrs. Harry Field and Mrs. Field, wife of Dr. G. W. Mrs. Field testified that when Mrs. Fred Field had sent her husband word that Douglas MacDonald was on the point. Billy Field asked to see Mrs. MacDonald. He said he might make a copy of it, agreeing that it was in order and that he was Mrs. Fred Field's solicitor, where she, According to the evidence, Douglas MacDonald and Mrs. Field was not satisfied but spoke in a friendly manner. Then came the most virulent language. "I must say I did not think she was that kind of a woman," Mrs. Field said.

Col. Boggs: "What did she say?"

Mrs. Field: "Why, they are words I wouldn't repeat it."

Mrs. Hall, K.C. (for the defence): "What did MacDonald say to you?"

Capt. McCullough: "He did not say anything until she had used those foul language against him and his family and then he asked her why Dr. Field didn't come himself and was he a coward hiding behind a woman's skirts. She used the same language and then turned on me and lambasted me with cuss-words. I walked away from her."

Mrs. Field then left the house and later Dr. Field came in according to the witnesss, in a very excited state. The evidence of Capt. McCullough, Mrs. Cullough, Mrs. Harry Field was almost the same. Mrs. Cullough said that when Dr. Field came in when Dr. Field was in the room, he said to Douglas MacDonald with what appeared to be a flashlight in his hand. Macdonald stepped back and Dr. Field struck him his shoulder, failing to the floor. Mrs. Cullough said that when the doctor came in he wanted to know what Douglas MacDonald was and when Billy Field said he didn't know Dr. Field said he would tear him (MacDonald) to pieces.

"I tried to quiet him down," said Billy Field, "but unfortunately Douglas came in. Dr. Field sprang at him and struck him with what looked like a flashlight, he seemed to hit him on the head. Douglas ducked and Dr. Field struck him on the head. I told Douglas to beat it. He started to run but I thought the trouble was over but he came back. I told him to get out and he would get Macdonald, "If I don't get him, I might I'll get him tomorrow." Dr. Field said that he was sorry. "If you don't I will."

"Up to the time Dr. Field said I had been good friends I have been for 15 years. I have always said if I feel it is my duty," said Billy Field, in continued. "Capt. McCullough and I calmed down and he went to the mainland."

Douglas MacDonald stated that he was present in Billy Field's cottage. I heard Dr. Field say he was going to beat," stated Macdonald. "When I came back Dr. Field pointed at me with a flashlight in his hand. I dodged and it struck me on my shoulder. I then left the house. I went around to the back. Dr. Field got up and walked around the house threatening to kill me and went away. I thought I was shot at once. He went from room to room. I was afraid to go in the house as I was behind the kitchen door. I then ran up the road to my car and that he would wait until I came back. I left the road and went to the mainland and informed the police.

Harry Field: "I was in the kitchen when I heard a shot in the house. He seemed excited and asked me what happened to my son say he wasn't in the house. Dr. Field then said he wanted Macdonald. Macdonald came in and he ran out the next thing I saw was Dr. Field with a flashlight which what looked like a flashlight in his hand. He struck at him several times."

Mrs. Field: "I was in the kitchen when I heard a shot in the house. I then heard excited and asked for Macdonald. I heard my son say he wasn't in the house. Dr. Field then said he wanted Macdonald. Macdonald came in and he ran out the next thing I saw was Dr. Field with a flashlight which what looked like a flashlight in his hand. He struck at him several times."

Mrs. Cullough: "I was in the kitchen when I heard a shot in the house. I then heard excited and asked for Macdonald. I heard my son say he wasn't in the house. FOUR CHILDREN MADE WARDS

Children's Court was held at Cobourg on Friday afternoon before Judge R. S. Casemen of Madoc. Inspector Ben Dunham of the Children's Aid Society, being in attendance. Four children, aged 12, 11, 9 and 5 years respectively were made wards of the Children's Shelter, Cobourg. The children left Warkworth their new home in Belleville, where Women's Institute officers recluded every child and also provided for a change of clothing. The inspector appreciated very much their kindness to the children who were scantily clothed and under nourished, when the conditions about the home were investigated.

TERSE TALKS on TIMELY TOPICS by

"NOT ON YOUR LIFE"

Fellow Citizens:

They wanted me to make a speech at a convention the other night. Well, Not on your life. How can I can make a fool of myself fast enough without making a speech at a time." If any crowd ever gets a real opportunity to judgment on me as a speaker it is going to be a mighty crowd of twelve—and because I know it.

The only speech I ever made in my life was when I was asked, "Not guilty"—and the judge wouldn't believe it. He said, "You don't want people in this town who don't know a liar when he's born." "I know it," said I, "and that is the reason I was trying to get out of your hair just as fast as possible."

Talk is sometimes a darned expensive luxury. I know ten words in the English language that have cost billions of dollars—WILL YOU MARRY ME? KEEP ON IT! WHAT YOU GOT?

I don't mean to say, goodness knows, that every man who makes a speech makes a fool of himself. I just mean that the chance are no one will ever find out how much of a fool a man is if he just keeps his mouth shut.

Moreover, a man can't be too careful what he says—and if I got up to make a speech I might start to brag about my work, because I'm a nut on good work and you might think I was a liar, and that no work is as good as I say.

I am no "speecher"—and I don't have to—for Garn Dobby's work speaks for itself.

Yours for short,

SLOW COOLING TOUGHENS RAIL

Process In Use Whereby Danger of Cracks Is Eliminated

Sydney, N.S., Oct. 22.—A system of so treating steel rails during the cooling process that the danger of fissures developing after the rails have been put into use is eliminated, has been adopted at the Sydney steel plant. Heavy rails now being rolled for one of the great Canadian railway systems are being cooled according to the process, which was developed by T. C. Mackie, chief of the Dominion Iron and Steel Company's metallurgical department. Application for patients has been made in Canada and the United States.

The Mackie process depends on the discovery, after several years of research, of the precise stage in rail production when too rapid cooling results in "shatter cracks" from which transverse fissures subsequently develop when the rails are in use. Under the new method the rails are taken before the critical stage is reached and their cooling checked and regulated by cooling tanks so regulated as to release their heat by carefully graduated degrees.

From twenty-four to thirty hours elapse from the time that the rails leave the rolls until they are ready for inspection tests.

A recent inspection showed that the new annealing process was producing rails capable of withstanding tests which standard rails manufactured by the old method would not undergo.

Outlining the process used, Mr. Mackie remarked that the sudden breaking of rails was a serious menace to safety in railroad operations. In a large proportion of cases, the fractured cross section showed that the railhead interior had been ruptured for a long time before the break. This type of rail failure—transverse fissure—had been steadily increasing, and was the most dangerous type of rail defect.

"About fifteen years ago the discovery was made that rails which had failed from the effects of transverse fissures contained a large number of cracks distributed along the rail in about the centre of the mass of the railhead. At first it was contended by the rail manufacturer that these cracks were not present in new rails but developed due to severe usage in the track. During the last few years an increasing volume of evidence has been accumulated to show that the previous proportion of perfectly new rails contain these internal cracks which have been given the name "shatter cracks." All indications point strongly to these cracks being the origin of the development of transverse fissures when the rail is put in service. Usually it takes some years for fissures to develop to a dangerous point but cases have been known of rails failing from fissures after as short a time as thirty days.

"The trouble has steadily grown with the use of heavier rails of harder composition and with the increased weight of rolling stock and volume of traffic.

"For some years past the opinion has been growing that these cracks in new rails are the result of stresses set up in the rail at some stage of its cooling after leaving the mill rolls. A number of advances have been made to protect the hot rails more or less from cooling as the mill hot beds, but these attempts have to eliminate the cracks because the protection was inadequate and was applied only while the rails were at too high a temperature. At the Sydney plant a thorough investigation of this problem has been carried on for the past two years and it has been found that the crack inside of the railhead takes place at a comparatively very low temperature during the cooling of the rails, long after they have lost their visible red heat. The process has been developed and is now in use on a large scale whereby shatter cracks are entirely and completely eliminated, and therefore more a rail is produced in which the cooling stresses existing in rail heads have been very much annulmised. At a certain stage after the rails have left the hot beds and they are lifted with magnet equipped cranes and placed in large cooling tanks where they cool very slowly over a period of twenty-four hours. They are kept in these tanks until the temperature of the rails has reached a point only a little above atmospheric.

"It is confidently believed that this treatment which completely eliminates any trace of the cooling or shatter cracks will either eliminate or completely prevent the development of transverse fissures during the life of a rail."

LIBRARY CORNER

General Sir Ian Hamilton's — "Gallipoli Diary, 1915"—is now on the shelves at the Corby Public Library. In this personal diary the events are recorded day by day as they happened. Sir Ian points out that the war as fought on the Eastern front was very different from that on the Western. No dug-outs were possible as there was no timber or roofing for their construction and all ranks were thus exposed to continuous fire, night and day. The joys of a canteen were unknown and water for drinking and washing was almost as precious as fine shells. Sir Frederick Maurice, Sir Hugh Baikie, ex-commander of the British artillery at Cape Helles, says in his tribute to the officers and men of the Eastern ranks "To them alone is due the credit for any success which the artillery at Helles may have attained in what was one of England's greatest tragedies, but also one of England's greatest glories." The book has many excellent illustrations and maps.

The youths struggle to find the meaning of life as he wanders through the countryside in revolt against the authority of home and teachers is told by Waldemar Bonsels in "Flowers and Animals." The author shows the successive influences which built his character. The whole meaning of the volume is summed up by the author "At some time in the course of our lives the companions of our youth come back to us, even from the dead. The inner meaning of their return lies in the atmosphere it brings us. We are compelled to search until we see what value the past events in our life would have had for the journey of our souls." Bonsels has been very popular in Europe, especially in Germany.

The translation of an absorbing treatise "Confucius and Confucianism" written by Richard Wilhelm, late professor at the University of Frankfort after a lifetime in China has been issued since his death in 1930. Dr. Wilhelm went to the Orient as a missionary in 1899, but showed little aptitude for such an extent that he became radical in his views. His account of Confucius's life, a discussion of Confucian writings and an outline of the doctrines of Confucianism make up the volume.

Charles Strachan Ward in "Build ers of delusion" has endeavoured to show the uselessness of logical fied observations. The first half of the book shows the difference between inner or mental experience and objective study and the second section gives examples discussing philosophy, psychology, education, war, etc.

JOBS for GIRLS

by Constance Cameron

It has long been a mystery to me why, when a high school girl considers work, she invariably turns to the idea of being somebody's "secretary." Just as years ago those women first dared to think of being other than wives and mothers—the only self-respecting jobs seemed to be those as teachers, so now the mass of prospective girl workers seem to feel that typing and short hand are the standbys.

It seems to me that branch of work must be fearfully overcrowded. I have read statistics which prove it, and have also seen months on end in the employment of girls who could well afford to do the work at all or, as an alternative, could take years to prepare themselves for some task immediately more interesting and of more value to humanity.

I am addressing myself today to those girls whose fathers are well enough supplied with worldly goods to make it unnecessary that you throw yourselves into the present glutted labor market.

There are girls who aren't so fortunate as you, girls who have a special background which might take them higher than the post of stenographer. But you who have the background and opportunity to continue to study, why don't you, in the name of plain business sense and incidentally altruism, learn that type of work for the girl who can go no higher, who must work now with no chance to wait any longer.

There are many things you can do, so many truly interesting things. There is room for you in scientific research. There is a need for expert dieticians. You who can go abroad have the chance to master a foreign language which will make you valuable as an exporting house. And for you, who aren't quite so serious about it, vocation, it's profitable and interesting to train kennels, specialize on a certain breed of dog. It is interesting to teach bridge. If your bent is in that direction. You girls who are motor minded should be excellent teachers for women who are learning to drive a car. And you can do any of these things and hundreds more!

Think up some individual job for yourself, and leave the routine work for girls less fortunate, girls who haven't the time or opportunity to specialize. There never was a period when more needed zeal in the business world, nor such a golden time to prepare yourself to be best in a given line of special work.

INVENTION TO MAKE RUBBER

Edison Beat Death By Five Days To Last Invention

West Orange, N. J., Oct. 23. Thomas A. Edison beat death by five days in his last great invention, the manufacture of synthetic rubber from golden rod and other ingredients.

Synthetic rubber, this correspondent learned from authoritative sources today, was finally proven practical in the wizard's laboratories last Tuesday, even as Edison sank downward through a stupor into the coma which ended in his death.

The long series of experiments, which ended a twelve-year search for a substitute for rubber under Edison's whim, were successfully completed by Fred Ott and Charles Daly, associates of the inventor for more than fifty years.

Edison was almost certain he had discovered the process when he took to his bed on October 9. He himself, had already worked out a method of manufacturing latex, the ingredient which fuses the other elements in the synthesis into a practical and durable rubber. But he was not positive. And he was worried.

The two old men set themselves to make his wish come true. They became prisoners in the laboratory working day and night. They reported at nightfall every day to Edison's physician, Dr. Hubert Lloyd.

But time passed and death began to close in on the inventor. Experiment after experiment proved a failure. The week which ended on October 10 saw Daly and Ott groping in the darkness, missing the intellect of the master who solved difficulties with a flashing stroke of a brilliant touch. On Sunday, October 11, they came to him and told him that the longer process still eluded them. And he turned his face wearily to the wall.

On Monday he started to sink into a stupor. But Daly and Ott were still pounding doggedly at their experiments. And on Tuesday night the solution flashed out of the mysteriousness nothingness, just as they had often seen it do when Thomas Edison was directing the experiment. They telephoned the news to Mrs. Edison, but, it seemed it was too late.

Perhaps it was not, though, for Mrs. Edison, on Friday, reached down into the sinking consciousness of her husband and touched the spark of his dimming intellect by telegraphing in Morse code by pressure on his wrist. And so it was that the secret of the success of rubber and if she did the inventor will know no greater heaven.

RELIEF ACTIVITIES WILL BE CO-ORDINATED

Many Thrills Mark Last Day of British Election Campaign

Welfare and Relief Organization Formed to Care for City Needy All Relief Will be Coordinated Relief Committee of Citizens Representative of All Organizations to Co-operate With Women's Christian Association in Caring For the Needy In Belleville This Winter.

WORK, CLOTHING, CASH REQUIRED

Campaign Will be Started to Raise Funds, Secure Odd Jobs For The Unemployed and Clothing —Government Will Supplement Cash Donations of Citizens—All Civic Organizations Will Co-Ordinate in Relief Committee.

At the public meeting attended by representatives of all organizations in Belleville interested in relief work a committee was appointed to formulate a plan of action to co-operate with and assist the Women's Christian Association, which has always looked after the relief work of the city, in co-operation with the churches, in relief work this winter.

For years the W.C.A. has looked after the relief work of the city in a very efficient manner and has had a great deal of work to do, especially in the winter months. Last winter over two hundred families in need of assistance were looked after. This year with more unemployment increased demands are anticipated and it was felt that the citizens generally should take an active interest in the work and render assistance in cash, supplies and work. A public meeting was called by Mayor Reid, the question thoroughly discussed and a committee appointed to effect a permanent organization which would function all winter in co-operation with the Women's Christian Association.

Saturday evening a meeting was held in Mayor Reid's office and the following organization was affected:

A Relief Committee was appointed to supervise all relief measures in accordance with Government regulations, the personnel to be local organizations in relief work. Representatives of the committee are as follows:

Chairman—Geo. A. Reid.

Treasurer—Harry Stock.

Secretary—Fred Chamberlain.

Finance Committee—Jas. A. C. Welp, P. C. MacLaurin, P. H. Wills, F. J. Frederick, C. R. Sulman, H. J. Burley, S. J. Graham, Ed. Worth.

Supplies Committee—R. V. Ellery, C. N. Sulman, A. McCle, J. V. C. Truesdell, Mrs. W. G. Mikel, A. J. Cameron, W. S. Herring and President Red Cross Society.

Employment Committee—Lorne Green, Jos. Sheetz, W. H. Lusk, W. J. Lynch, Reuben Deacon, Ed. Burnsaglo.

Publicity—C. T. Dolan, J. O. Herity, A. G. Davis.

Several communications were received and were dealt with by the Relief Committee, one from a wholesale firm offering two per cent of their sales returns in Belleville in the local relief fund, and other from the Red Cross Society pledging full co-operation in relief work.

Relief Work for transients will be left in the hands of the police as formerly but assistance will be given by the relief committee. The City Council is arranging to have the basement of the O.W.V.A. hall fitted up as the accommodation of needy transients, where they can obtain a bed, meals and breakfast and any other ministrations needed.

Arrangements are being made to assist any resident young men who may be out of employment.

Mayor Reid has arranged to have the office quarters formerly occupied by the Civic Gas Department used as relief headquarters and the basement of the City Hall will be used for the storage and distribution of clothing, etc., sent in by citizens for the use of those who may be in need this winter.

Plans are being perfected for the co-operation of all citizens in the work of relief and announcements will be made in the press shortly with full details of organization and operation.

Meetings of the Relief Committee will be held every week, the next meeting being Saturday at 5 p.m.

A campaign will be started this week to secure funds, clothing and odd jobs for the unemployed. All funds received for relief purposes in Belleville will be supplemented by cash government grants.

Relief headquarters will be in the City Hall (former gas office) and the telephone number will be 69W.

ITALY'S AIR CHIEF PLANS TREMENDOUS UNDERTAKING WHICH EMBRACES THE GLOBE

If plans completed in time General Balbo, Chief of Mussolini's flying blackshirts, will lead flight of 24 planes in a jaunt around the world. Each plane will carry two pilots, a mechanic and a radio operator, similar to the planes which flew across the South Atlantic to Brazil a year ago. Above is an informal pose of Italy's willkownn air ace, while right is a map showing the line of flight from Rome to Vancouver (below) then on to the Aleutian Islands, Japan, China, India, the Suez, Mediterranean Sea, and home. It is undoubtedly one of the most daring flights ever attempted.

Permission to fire shotguns in the air has been granted in the city; the fire department has mounted the hose on the birds; and generally they haven't been greeted with open arms. Many swarms were reported to be waiting for the south yesterday, but there are plenty left.

P. C. Ten Eyck Denounces Scheme for Great Waterway

Address To New York Waterways Association

INJURY TO N. Y.

New York, N.Y., Oct. 26—The proposal to build a canal from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic Ocean, following the St. Lawrence River, at an estimated cost of $132,000,000, with Canada and United States contributing equal shares, was denounced today by Peter G. Ten Eyck, president of the New York State Waterways Association, at the 32nd annual meeting of that organization.

Ten Eyck departed from his prepared report to denounce the St. Lawrence project.

"I urge you all to put forth renewed efforts to arouse the citizens of every section to the menace to our commerce and transportation facilities which will result of projects now pending, stifle the development of our waterways in expending so much money elsewhere that our projects will suffer," said Ten Eyck.

"I am not going to camouflage," declared Ten Eyck. "I mean the St. Lawrence project, the canal from the Great Lakes, where it is proposed we will spend half a billion dollars, or $1,500,000,000 of the estimated cost to develop a canal in the St. Lawrence in Canada."

Ten Eyck also expressed his opposition to the proposed federalization of the New York State barge canal.

Draught of Boats Fixed By Commission

Ottawa, Oct. 26—Orders of the Department of Railways and Canals fixing the draught of boats using St. Lawrence River canals at thirteen feet, three inches as reported from Montreal last night, followed a series of amendments and agreements to the regulations that have been made necessary this season through almost the entire system of inland waterways embracing the St. Lawrence River and Great Lakes. Water levels throughout the lake and river system are much lower during the season just closing than at any time in the last seventy years over which period records are available. Lowering of the draft limit at which navigation may be safely carried on has been necessary at many points from Montreal to the lakes.

Ruth Nichols Stumbles from Burning Plane at Landing

Plane Takes Fire At Louisville, Ky., While Warming Up

AVIATRIX LEAPS

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 26 — Ruth Nichols, youthful New York aviatrix today as she was warming up to take off for New York and she barely escaped from a window of the cockpit in time to escape the flames.

The young aviatrix half stumbled as she reached the ground and mechanics aided her away from the blazing plane before she was hurt. The plane was reported a total loss.

She was taxiing her Lockeed-Vega monoplane over the turf to warm the motor when the accident occurred. Spectators saw a burst of flame as gasoline spurted from a valve.

There were shouts from mechanics, "Get out! Get out! It's off!" but before Miss Nichols could cut off the engine she had to leap. The flames had begun to reach the main gas tank any moment, but despite that a group of attendants rushed up with fire extinguishers.

GOGGLED MEN GET $5,000

Movie House at Montreal Suffers By Visit of Bandits

Montreal, Que., Oct. 26—Two men wearing goggles were held up by assistant Manager G. Duffy of the Princess Theatre here today and escaped with $5,000 collected at the week end receipts of the movie house.

The robbery occurred as Duffy was preparing to leave the theatre for a bank to deposit the money. The bandits thought two tickets shortly after the performance had started. Entering the theatre they made straight for the manager's office.

A gun was shoved into Duffy's ribs with the warning that he'd more. One of the bandits grabbed the satchel containing the money and escaped followed by the other gunman.

Both entered a small car parked outside the theatre but were forced to abandon it at the nearest intersection owing to a flat tire but they ran off escaping all pursuit.

The car, apparently stolen, was traced by the police to a Shebrooke, Que., owner.

Boy Wanderer Is Found In Desert

Sydney, Australia, Oct. 26.—A four year old boy, son of a rancher in the South Wales district, wandered after wandering alone for a week practically fifty miles across country, without food or water.

Imitating what he had seen children or the natives do, he kept himself alive by eating crowsfoot, a clover-like plant, and drinking dew off the leaves which he licked up.

Searching parties of cowboys and natives scoured the wide plains in vain. The boy was finally found waiting at a government water tank for cattle to come along for any of the ute routes. He said he knew white men would pass there sooner or later.

Detective Writer in Pulpit is Thrill on British Election Eve

Edgar Wallace Says He Goes To Races and Theatres

LATE THRILLS

Broadcast From Catholic Church Over Letter

(By Thomas T. Champion, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Oct. 26.—With polling less than twenty-four hours away, the British election campaign over the week-end was sparked with highlights. Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, leader of the Labor party, may continue his electioneering from a sickbed. Confined to a hotel room at Burnley, he has been forbidden by doctors from taking any active part in the campaign for the present. The Labor leader, who developed a severe chill after attending chapel, is being opposed for the constituency seat of Burnley by Rear-Admiral Gordon Campbell, Conservative, and Miss Wilson, Communist.

Assaying a new role, Edgar Wallace, writer of detective thrillers and Liberal candidate in Blackpool, occupied the pulpit of Westminster Congregational Church last night. "I am a typical sinner," he told the congregation. "I go to race meetings, mix with all classes of men, attend theatres, and occasionally lose money on them, but Christ means something to me and not only on Sunday."

Staging a local sensation, Rt. Rev. Thomas Henshaw, Bishop of Salford, yesterday broadcast from every Catholic Church in the Gorton division of Manchester a scathing denunciation of unwarranted interference in the election, a letter which had been used by agents of J. Compton, Labor candidate in the riding. The letter, wishing the Laborite success in the election, had been written by a Catholic Priest of Manchester.

Exhibiting a sense of subtle humor, Philip Guedalla, well-known writer and Liberal candidate for the Wembley division of Withington, issued an election leaflet as a frontispiece to which he added a verse he had been born in London of Jewish parents. "It might be with the leaflet added, "for Conservatives to remember the name of their revered leader, Disraeli."

A Communist gathering in Liverpool told a local audience, "Yes, the combatting the counter-attraction of the election will be hard, and the general wave of economy that has swept the country, but remember above all that closed here Saturday attracted 3,000 people. Two years ago, the attendance this year was 186,000 compared with 124,000 last year.

OTTAWA, Oct. 26 (CP) — The road programme submitted by the government of British Columbia, amounting roughly to $7,000,000 exclusive of municipal undertakings for the proposed extension of the Canadian National Railways, seems to exceed an amount possible of acceptance, Hon. Two Youths are Convicted One Dismissed, Re-arrested

Grant Potter and George Lyons Given Three Months

SCRIVENS DISMISSED

Three young men, Reginald Scrivens, Grant Potter and George Lyons, appeared on police court on Monday before Magistrate Mikel facing charges of breaking and entering and theft, the result of an investigation carried on by the Provincial police two weeks ago. Reginald Scrivens was charged with breaking and entering the Lloyd service station in this city and Kenneth Chesney of St. Frankford, Grant Potter faced three charges, they being, breaking and entering Chesney's service station, Belleville; Ketcheson's garage, Frankford, and Baker's garage, Stirling, while George Lyons answered four counts, they being Lloyd's service station, Belleville; Ketcheson's garage, Frankford, Chesney's and Baker's garage, Stirling. All elected summary trial and pleaded guilty to the charges as read, excepting Reginald Scrivens, who was dismissed of the charge he is charged with, after hearing three months and not more than two years less one day in the Ontario Reformatory in Guelph and George Lyons was given a similar sentence.

A sensation was sprung at the court at the conclusion of the trial when Provincial Constable Grey of Cobourg, with Detective Rose on the same town, arrested the young men in charge of breaking and entering a garage at Milbrook. As Scrivens was not convicted in this court he was taken to the court house stairs but the other two were taken to the police office in this city in order to have them removed to Cobourg to face charges. Crown Attorney Payne, K.C., appeared for the youths and H. C. Donnan conducted the prosecution.

HOUDE PUT UP DEPOSIT COST

Evidence Given Today By Mayor of Montreal

QUEBEC, Que., Oct. 26.—Camillien Houde, Mayor of Montreal, personally furnished all the money required for election purposes in connection with the contestation of proceedings taken against the election of Liberal candidate in Three-Rivers riding in the last general elections on August 25.

The former opposition leader made this statement here this morning when testifying before Commissioner Justice Sir Francois Lemieux in the Trenton Electric Company case. The preliminary objections to the contestation were dismissed by Mr. Lemieux, K.C., presiding judge. In replying to a question from Hon. Ernest Lapointe, defense counsel, Mr. Houde stated that at a meeting of the defeated candidate's committee, it was decided to contest the sixty-three seats.

"You are one of these defeated candidates," asked Mr. St. Laurent.

"Doubly so," was Mr. Houde's reply.

"Did the organization of which you are chief try in any way to accept contributions contrary for the deposits", questioned Mr. St. Laurent.

"The organization of which I am chief".

"Well, the organization of which you were chief".

Mr. Houde replied all the necessary money was furnished.

Mr. St. Laurent: "To whom did you give this money and do you know how it was distributed"

Noel Belleau, who was counsel for the petitioners, objected to this question, stating that the witness did not have anything to do with proving the case. The witness were not qualified to act in that capacity.

Mr. St. Laurent maintained that he was gradually getting evidence on that subject.

Asked by Chief Justice Lemieux if he thought Mr. St. Laurent was getting near the subject, Mr. Houde replied: "I really don't know. He is getting to".

The question was finally permitted and the witness replied that he gave the money to Senator Perrier of Montreal, but that he did not know how it was distributed.

Lower Air Mail Postal Notes Ordered

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 26.—(By the Canadian Press)—Representations from business men all over Canada that the present high air mail postage rates would stimulate them to greater activity through the transmission of their letters have been acceded to by the Post Office Department, it was announced today. Effective from November 1st, the rate will be reduced by 5 cents per half ounce, instead of 10 cents as at present. Notices have been sent out to postmasters throughout the country informing them of the new rates.

No change has been made on the initial ounce, this remaining at six cents; but on each succeeding ounce the rate has been cut in half—from ten cents to five. In general, the new rate is a flat 5-cent one, the exception being that the first ounce is being the amount of excise tax.

For International mail, however, there is no alteration in rates.

Royalty Here 30 Years Ago

"It was wonderful." That's the word and that's all. Where in the world all the people came from who were in the city yesterday, puzzles a Philadelphia lawyer. By the time the Royal and Governor-General's train arrived at 9 o'clock there must have been easily eight thousand people massed around the station yard. They waved their hats and cheered, and the result, perhaps for the Duke and Duchess is for the first time in their career, to know coming King was before them.

Well, the Royal couple cannot complain about the warmth of their reception in Belleville. And rousing cheers and waving flags they kept up all the way from the compartment they went out. The Royal chorus composed of the school children and members of the city choir were under the direction of Prof. Hurst, Mrs. Gilbert Reid with his cornet; they sang "Rule Britannia" and "O, Canada."

The royal train and that of the Governor General arrived the night before and taken to the Y north of the station. A guard was placed around the Royal train consisting of the Belleville Rifles under the Capt. J. Miller, C. A. Gibson, H. Renfrew, W. Wilson, Sergt. Bridges, C. Boyle, Hyland, H. Smith and F. Lynn.

The 49th Hastings Regiment and the Forty-ninth Formed a square north of the Royal car when it backed to the Y, then the singing and they and the police had their luncheon. Then the platform was crowds who were determined to see the Royal couple.

Mayor Graham welcomed the Royal visitors and Mrs. Sewell, in behalf of the Local Council of Women presented a magnificent bouquet to the Duchess.

Such in part was the loyal welcome of Belleville to the Duke and Duchess of York, who years ago this month to be exact on the twelfth day of October 1901. No thought that the little sons would be here this afternoon to receive the welcome of Belleville and district for that land they represented, then as the Duke and Duchess of York, now as King George V, and Queen Mary.

Citing the long and creditable history of John Street Church over a period of more than 87 years, he applied a sincere tribute of respect and veneration to the "men and women who from their labours rest", whose lives have been spent there, they, too, felt like giving up but something held them to their course and that something was their faith. That is the buttress of confidence upon which believers lean in times of stress and crisis; the belief that through the grace shed by mighty foes they are supported and re-enforced by a mightier ally.

Rev. Robert Hall Refers To Value of History As Corrective

John Street United Church congregation on Sunday held its anniversary observances, commencing with special sermons by the minister the Rev. Robert Hall in which he referred to the past record of the church and also pointed out the value of history as a corrective of a limited view in regard to the present situation. The musical service was in accord with the festival occasion. Mr. Frank Howard's Mr. B. Riggs and the choir taking the major part of the service in the morning for a program of music of surpassing quality. The work of Mr. Riggs was of the usual high standard to be expected of him as he rendered the offertory. The organ and the choir inspirational music from many of the old hymns of the past, choir, very large in numbers, has been rounded into perfect form by the choirmaster and the result was apparent throughout the day and especially at the evening service. Last evening Mr. Riggs introduced as Belleville's own composition "Prayer of Thanksgiving" sung simply and with fine effect by the organist assisted by the choir. The male voices in the quartette were: Messrs. Howard, Riggs, Miss Leona Riggs, Mrs. Ross, Mrs. Bateman, Mrs. Foster and others was excellent. 5 "Transients" were Ordered Out of Town

Five young men enroute from Montreal to Toronto, who left there at 8 fast freight, suddenly altered their plans and left the train at Belleville Junction, arriving in the city about thirty o'clock. They roamed around the streets for a time and were not much interested in the makes of automobiles that were parked there them all over and eventually left Dundas street and proceeded down the city. They were busily engaged inspecting a range of cars parked on the north side of Victoria square, when Constable Isard of the city police approached them and demanded:

"What are you fellows looking for?"

One of them replied: "We're looking for the police station," so the constable accommodatingly directed them to it and they were actually noticed. In this however, the constable was mistaken. The watchful eye of the city police and their plain clothes detectives were just young fellows, between the ages of sixteen and nineteen years. Three of them claimed Montreal as their home and two of them came from Three Rivers, Que. As they had not committed an offense, they were liberated and ordered to "get going" and not to lose any time in doing so.

Christ Church Rector Bids Parish Farewell After 8 Years

Hundreds Take Farewell Communion With Rev. C. E. Clarke

FAREWELL WORDS

Taking their last communion with Rev. C. E. Clarke, rector of Christ Church as their rector, hundreds filled the church on Sunday morning, the service having to be put in accommodate all the worshippers. The communicants numbered among them many of the five hundred and sixty who had been confirmed in the past eight years during the rectorship of Rev. Clarke. Rev. Ben Bunday will preach as the new rector of St. Michael and All Angels Church, Toronto.

The minister spoke feelingly as he delivered his farewell sermon. "If I were to attempt to tell you how much I feel I should break down," he said. "If ever a pastor loved his congregation I do that congregation. For eight years I have affirmed in the past eight years during the rectorship of Rev. Clarke. Rev. Ben Bunday will preach as the new rector of St. Michael and All Angels Church, Toronto.

Confirmation Spirit

He appealed to the worshippers, particularly those whom he had prepared for confirmation to recapture the spirit of their confirmation. In these days it is easy to drift slowly away from church attendance. "I beseech you earnestly to stand at another altar administering the sacrament to another people but with the same spirit of love and joy. I beg of you in the services which I shall be privileged to pray for Christ Church so that in these days when the attendance at the congregation shall be a witness to bring worth while living. Let us accomplish much more than you and I can appreciate. I will be praying that you will do this. May God bless you abundantly here."

Faith To Win

Rev. Mr. Templeton and Rev. M. Lavois assisted at the communion service.

In the evening a large congregation gathered as Rev. C. E. Clarke delivered his farewell sermon to a congregation that he had ministered to for eight years. There was an under-current of sadness in his hearing but joy that he had been privileged to minister to them and took for his text "we are not men who shrink back and to perdition but have faith so to win our souls." Mr. Clarke spoke of the privilege of leaving until the end of the discourse and then with deep feeling and sincerity thanked him and he kind to him during his ministry and hoped they would all continue to have faith in God and Jesus Christ.

No Fence About Church

"I have tried to preach faith in this congregation and faith in God, faith in Jesus Christ and faith in one another and I will go away happy if my poor attempts find God nearer to you all and easier to believe through my being amongst you," said the speaker. "I have tried to make God more real and Heaven more vitally attractive because I have ministered. I have administered without fear and favor and faith in you. I will hold until death that all. more you mingle with other Christians the more you will realize their creed have something in common as the years pass.

Don't put a fence around this church and don't exaggerate your differences but seek an approach other denominations with a sympathetic view of them and the Church that God was forever bringing before the people."

Thanks Congregation

"I believe," continued Rev. Mr. Clarke, "that I shall hold you firm in your faith and for any failures on my part during my ministry I humbly ask your forgiveness. You must look beyond and see Him, who is all in all before you. I wish to thank the congregation for the kind and considerate attention shown to me and my family. When I came to Christ Church it was like a new world and I did not know what to expect but I have met many that have something of the nature of God, May God keep you and bless you and fulfil you in the faith. Rev. Mr. Clarke also thanked personally the the voluntary service of Rev. A. L. Green and Harris Lavois during the years. "Their help has been much appreciated by me," said Rev. Mr. Clarke, and I am certain that service was rendered without thought of remuneration but through a faith in their church and rector."

Faith Essential

Speaking from the text, the rector said that they had his difficulties and his alternatives. "This day in which we live is one of rapid transitions and what we once believed is changed. The newspapers and magazines are sometimes advocating there is no creeds but in spite of that we have creeds and creeds every one must believe some creed. It is absolutely essential that to face conditions in this age," said the speaker, "we must have faith in his business if it will succeed and we see the best workers in those you will see the best workers."

The Sunday School is a place of faith and the success of the Sunday School is not important for the teachers and the pupils, but for the school the parents send their children to Sunday school to get a little rest at home but in Christ Church the Sunday School is a place of faith and the best place for the simple reason we believed in the Sunday School and we have tried to give the child a clearer vision on God and Christ. Others of the Sunday School in the Diocese of Ontario." The retiring rector hoped that his work would be carried on in a greater effort.

"If you do not believe you can help in the activities of your Church? and this question I will answer with a positive "no". If one really believes in Christ he will be willing to make any line of endeavour. "Faith is the power liberating and binding the soul of God and I beseech you not to let your faith die," said Mr. Clarke and there were difficulties in the way of faith but these were only to be overcome by faith. We have in Christ Jesus.

On Tuesday evening a farewell dinner is to be tendered Mr. Clarke who leaves this week for Toronto.

ANOTHER PROMINENT VISITOR TO THIS CONTINENT

STILL WATER

by Dorothy Radcliffe Scoville

Ben Warinor was aboard his little grey fishing boat pottering with the engine when Leah Chandler came sauntering along the wharf. Her slim brown hands were stuffed deep into her sweater pockets and the rain staring scarved with an absorbed concentration, apparently indifferent to the other fishermen's interest in watching her as they idled about their boats.

"Right out this morning?" she hailed before Ben.

"Might now," he nodded. Without asking his permission she stepped aboard. A moment or two later Ben started the engine and they chugged out harbor.

From her kitchen window Allie Bassett saw them go. Saw Ben turn toward Leah Chandler, laughing as he steered, not even remembering to look toward the little house in the lee of the dunes where Allie would be waiting for him on the step to wave to him.

"There goes Ben with that woman again!" observed Mrs. Bassett, sniffing. "I declare, I wouldn't stand for it if I was you, Allie."

Allie sighed and made no comment.

"Don't know what Ben's thinkin' of to be takin' time on a trip with a girl—her today, gone tomorrow," snapped Mrs. Bassett, "and when he's at sea gettin' a mite lonesome for you."

She said she likes it here because it's so peaceful and quiet," said Allie. "She told me she'd like to spend the rest of her life in a place like this."

"Huh!" Mrs. Bassett turned to stare at her daughter. "Looks to me as if she'd be plumb certain as the nose on your face."

"Ben doesn't seem to mind," said Allie.

"Maybe he don't," said Mrs. Bassett vigorously. "He's flattered to death—same's any man. I tell you right now, Allie, when I was your age I wouldn't a let anybody run off with my man—not me!"

Allie smiles a little and looked at her mother. "I'm going to the store tonight to get Mr. Roderick, so I'll come in the side door," she said.

"Oh—ho!" Mrs. Bassett thoughtfully pursed her lips. "Still waiter runs deep, hey?"

"I guess he don't," said Mrs. Bassett vigorously. "He's flattered to death—same's any man. I tell you right now, Allie, when I was your age I wouldn't a let anybody run off with my man—not me!"

ADVANTAGES OF EXPLANADE SCHEME

In the consideration of the explanade project, citizens must not forget that the results of such an undertaking are such as will redound to the city's benefits in the years to come.

Firstly, the removal of old buildings, means an increase in the value of this part of the city; secondly, the property along the proposed street would undoubtedly carry itself in a few years and in probably ten years be paying the city a revenue in taxes from newly erected buildings; thirdly, the possibility of reduction of fire insurance rates on the buildings in this district; fourthly, the continuous benefit to the trades and building unions of the city in the probability of continued construction in this area for years in the future.. Of course the fact must be recognized that emergency relief work is provided the jobless in Belleville, and the measure of relief of $35,000 offered by the Government is found if Belleville will spend $70,000 in all upon relief.

The rival proposition which has been under view as a relief measure is an auxiliary pipe line from the pumping station at a cost of about $80,000. Outside of the advantage of the double main system and the provision of relief work thereon, (though winter construction of a main of this kind with the necessary excavation and tile laying probably incident upon arrangement for a right of way are disadvantages in this proposal), the continuity of benefits do not appear so large to so large a class of people. Once the main is down, the work on it is dong and it is a closed matter, whereas unless all criteria fail and the trend here runs counter to all developments of a similar character in other cities, the boulevard scheme is one which will grow in importance year after year.

SPEED LIMIT

Attention has been again focussed on the highway speed problem by the recommendation of the Chamber of Commerce of Ontario to the government urging the removal of the top speed restriction and demanding safe driving.

Fast drivers according to those who drive the highways are not necessarily reckless drivers. Some who rarely exceed the speed limit of thirty-five mile an hour are reckless and dangerous in their manner of driving by swaying back and forth across the roadway, by refusing to allow a car to pass without a race or by driving slowly. These persons appear to believe that as long as they do not drive beyond thirty-five miles they are safe drivers but the fact is they are not.

The driving limit is broken by most drivers today, according to police knowledge. Fast driving clears the highway and does not permit of such jams as occur when slow drivers manage to get together and stop the movement of cars so that a whole line of motorcars is held up, whereby danger is created.

Whatever the speed limit the driver is held responsible for the safe operation of his car, even if he is travelling but two miles an hour. An unrestricted rate might lead drivers to be more careful and not settle themselves smugly behind a speed limit.

When roads are wet and there is congestion then the first and last word is the exercise of every measure of care to prevent accident. The only speed allowable is that dictated by safety.

The speed that counts is the safe speed, that which respects life, limb and property.

PLANS AND PLANS

China has evidently caught the "plan" from Russia. But China will carry it forward on a grander scale over ten years and with an expenditure of eleven billion dollars. The United States has been talking of a ten year plan.

This is to be contrasted with the plans before the slump started in the year 1929. Then it was every man for himself and it seemed they had all eternity for making money and expending it.

Millions of people have formed plans too, but theirs are modest as compared with the pretentious efforts of the speculators before the crash or of the Russian and Chinese enthusiast. Russia's result have been felt in part but the final story remains to be told.

There are plans and plans, wise plans and plans not so wise. It pays to have a wise plan.

It was a BBC announcer who prefaced the 10.30 weather report by saying it was raining cats and dogs in London and the streets were covered with poodles

SYMBOL

By Aline Michaelis

In every blade of grass upthrust
To sunward from the choking dust
We find a hint of life's vast plan,
The same in grass-blade as in man.

In each insistent vine that creeps
By bush and tree from jungle-deeps,
Intent upon the light, its goal,
We see the hunger of man's soul.

Of far-flung boundaries he dreams,
Of regions bright with heaven's beams,
As upward, outward still he grows
Away from ancient fears and foes.

He leaves suspicion and deceit
Which to his progress spell defeat;
The narrow thoughts which twist and wind
Through dubious grooves he leaves behind.

In every grass-blade, sharp and keen,
That lifts defiant sword of green
Is type of man, who from the sod
Thrusts upward to the light, and God!

OTTAWA IS SURE DOLLAR IS COMING BACK, so reads newspaper heading. Sure it will come back when we have something Uncle Sam wants bad enough to pay gold cash for. When the boom days was pouring over and under the St. Lawrence the Canadian dollar was the big noise in New York, with the golden calf still an out booze, let's try them on sweet apple cider or somefin. As a matter of fact one wise guy has secured a Dominion license to manufacture apple cider in Canada for the New York market. That English type cider made by the Ontario Liquor Commission would pay off the National Debt if turned loose in the United States—here it hardly makes a ripple on the ocean of alcoholic beverages available here. It's a right good drink but the government sure asks too much money for it, 50 cents for a short quart, but what a pretty bottle, oh my, just-like Mumm's Extra Dry, or somefin.

A POWERFUL RADIO STATION has been established just over the border of Mexico by an individual who was refused a license to operate a radio station in the United States. The station is more powerful than the largest in the United States and when it goes on the air all other stations anywhere near that wavelength have to take cover. This is just one gun in the war recently started in the United States to determine who owns the air, litigation having recently been initiated by the owners of Chicago stations which have been eased off the air—by the United States Radio Commission as superfluous. Canada's claims to a place on the air have been met with a very small section of cleared channels reserved by the radio moguls of the United States for this country, and even these channels are often disturbed by more powerful stations in the United States. Who owns the air? will never be satisfactorily settled until there is an international commission in charge of radio matters. Perhaps the League of Nations will take it up, but Uncle Sam does not belong to the League —and there you are, or ain't, as the case may be.

They had returned from their holiday abroad and he was looking through his morning post.

Suddenly he gave an exclamation of surprise.

"Gracious, Marie," he said to his wife, "do you remember that couple we met on the Channel boat and took a violent fancy to? I mean the couple we invited to visit us?"

"Yes, yes," she replied. "You don't mean to say—"

"Yes," he groaned, "the idiots are actually coming."

Other Papers' Opinions

FRENCH AND UNITED CHURCH

Specifically, what the French have asked before, and what M. Laval will doubtless request from President Hoover, is an assurance that the United States will not again stand aloof in a crisis of grave peril to the political and self-sufficiency which there is a threat of war on a large scale. In other words, France does not see how supplementing the Briand-Kellogg treaty, this would ask the American Government to agree to that "consultative pact" which Secretary Stimson at one time, when in London, seemed disposed to accept for his Government, but which afterward was repudiated at Washington. That way, according to the strong French conviction, lies security for France. Once assure her of that and she is ready to go great lengths in the way of disarming.

This is the first meeting which lies behind the expression "the organization of peace." The French Premier might well hope to see a cordial advance toward that conception by the American Government. Our State Department, without being bound under any treaty obligation to do so, has at least twice made bridge the gap between it and Kellogg pact. The Government at Washington has, in fact, consulted with other nations, though it had given no binding promise to do so. It has, in progressive emergencies, moved in such a way as to show not only that it is against war and wishes to throw its full influence against it. But is ready to decide upon it, "if and" while, any aggressor. Now, if we stand prepared to do less than that, why refuse to pledge ourselves to something more? The question that the French have asked of us, and will continue to ask, until they get an answer, is one that Americans really believes in the duty to its own civilization and to the whole world, not merely to talk peace but to propagate the very principle which will not be sent away from Washington empty-handed.—New York Times.

GOODWILL SHIP

It is possible to visualize a future in which this goodwill ship will be followed by a fleet of commercial Empire products to Empire markets where at the moment there is no prospect that Canada will be in a position to negotiate reciprocally beneficial trade treaties with New Zealand and South Africa. Both these Dominions have signified a willingness to discuss ways and means of improving their trade relations with Canada. South Africa being particularly anxious to enter into a new commercial arrangement without delay. Conversations with New Zealand unfortunately have been hanging fire pending the settlement of domestic problems in the latter Dominion but the prospective general election there may clear the way for a new understanding. The latest action of the New Zealand customs administration in diverting to Great Britain, or proposing to divert, two-thirds of their newsprint business promised to have an adverse effect upon Canada's export trade to newsp ad at a time when the industry can least afford it, but with any of its business, and this situation emphasizes the importance of pursuing the negotiations with New Zealand to a satisfactory conclusion.—Montreal Gazette.

COMING WINTER WEATHER

Dr. Starr, official meteorologist wisely declines to predict the Winter weather. But amateur prophet rush in where experience fears to tread. The squirrel is their favorite animal as a premonitor. Oscar Knop of Lincoln Park, Chicago, observes that fur on the squirrels is so thin that you can see right through the brush of their tails. The ducks have only white Winter pin feathers on their breast hardly any feathers.

C. A. Donnel, Chicago's government forecaster, remarks that the country is full of amateur authorities. If you guess right you be right, he says unfeelingly, it will be because the luck of guessing is with them. A gentleman who bears the imposing title of chief engineer and general manager of the Palisades Interstate Park System, declares for a long and severe Winter, because squirrels and beavers are hoarding food. An ornithologist in Scandinavia and an Arctic owl with such a coat of feathers that he be ready for anything ready for below-zero temperatures. —New York Times.

THE WORLD GOES ON

Certain persons in England have confessed that when they heard that the gold standard had been given up they had a vague foreboding that the world was coming to an end. The evening and the routine of breakfast that morning surprised them. They had an impression of unreality when they found that trains were still running on the usual time, that the shops were open and busy, and that passers-by might even be observed to laugh and smile. Soon, they felt these strangers would awaken to the dreadful actuality, and then—but after all, what? What exactly were the expecting?

It is the nature of moments of sensation to be temporary; either the expected blow falls, or it does not, and in either case human nature has a way of adjusting itself to the event. In the year 1000 A.D. people in all Christian countries, having been led by students of prophecy to expect the millennium awaited the end of the world with trepidation. In 1931 they resumed a normal routine. In the ninth decade of the seventeenth century Sir William Petty observed that Englishmen were depressed by the scarcity of gold, the lack of trade and employment, the severity of taxation, the rise of prices, and many other evils. But he also observed that in spite of all "this out and drink and laugh as they used to do," and he refused to believe that the state of the country was so deplorable that it would not recover.—C.S. Monitor.

Girl Pilots Start For Flight Record

Toronto, Ont., Oct. 24.—(CP)—Two girl pilots leave Toronto today for St. Louis where they will obtain a Lockheed Vega aeroplane for their proposed attempt to establish a long distance flight record for women. They plan to start their flight from Burnside about two weeks' time.

Miss Stanford sold the plane which won her fifth place in the Santo-Monica-Cleveland Women's Air Derby and is using the proceeds for the purchase of the new craft.

AUTUMN

Autumn is not just leaves turning red.
It is our stroll before going to bed;
It is your pipe giving smoke to the night.
Autumn is not just corn getting ripe.

Fall is not only leaves in the walk,
It is a your mood and the way that you talk;
It is that vague thing saddens your eyes.
Fall is much more than colorful skies.

GOLD SEARCH IN PROGRESS

Geological Survey Service of Canada Closes Field Work

Ottawa, Oct. 21 (CP)— Field work in connection with the geological survey service of Canada is over for the year, all parties having returned to Ottawa to prepare their reports. Additional information respecting the vast stores of Canada's untouched mineral wealth will follow from these compilations, several of the groups having decided themselves to the acquisition of data if that connection.

In northwestern Manitoba geological conditions of an area several hundred square miles in extent in the Oxford Lake district are declared to be favorable for gold prospecting. Dr. J. F. Wright checked out the survey in this region.

Keen search for new sources of this metal is in progress in British Columbia. Dr. C. Hanson and Dr. H. C. Gunning conducted the operations on the Pacific Coast and report intriguing production from quartz.

Geographical and geological surveying of a large area of sedimentary and volcanic rocks near Hayden Bay, on the West coast of Hudson Bay engaged the attention of Dr. L. J. Weeks. Observation flights over the whole area were made by airplane in addition to numerous canoe trips. At the close of the season the party was conveyed from Hankets Bay to Churchill, whence it returned to Ottawa.

LOST ALL HER "PEP"

Customs worker in one of the Border Cities tells of great benefit from Dr. Williams' Pink Pills (tonic). Says they were her "best friend".

"I became quite myself again." (Sgt.) Beatrice M. Gehan.

"I was employed in a Customs Office in one of our border cities," writes Miss Beatrice M. Gehan, now resident at Stoney Creek, Ont. "And after four long months' business strain I began to feel as though I were losing all my 'pep' and energy and my work seemed a drudgery to me.

"A girl friend advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and see if I couldn't soon feel better.

"Before I finished my first box I was already feeling better, and the color was coming into my cheeks. By the time I had taken my third box I had become quite myself again, but still I always kept a box on hand. They were my best friend."

That is just one letter from hundreds received from all parts of Canada. If you could read all the letters received you would certainly be convinced.

Often it seems like the height of health-building from Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is almost uncanny. Actually it is all quite natural.

The iron and other elements in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills increase the hemoglobin (life-giving element) in the blood, enabling the blood to carry more oxygen to the tissues. This, in turn, sharpens the appetite and produces a feeling of well being.

Take advantage of this sale and prove your health is better than ever. Go to a drug store and get a supply of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. 50 cents a package. Feel as if they don't help you wonderfully.

THE GAY BANDIT OF THE BORDER

by TOM GILL

As the stars paled in the breaking dawn a tall, gaunt figure stood in an upper room of the hacienda de Hila black eyes rose to the steep edge of the roof, where the growing light cast in black outline the Cross of the Conquerors. Armed horsemen were circling up there, and even as he watched more men joined them, while still farther back galloping riders hurried on to the mesa's rim. He turned his eyes to the south, where from beyond the river, drawing nearer and nearer, came the shouts of Yaquis, their thick black hair streaming behind them, their naked bodies shining bent low over foam-flecked horses.

For a silent moment he watched those gray, dim figures of approaching horsemen, then silently and methodically he circled

Slightly Easier Tone is Marked at Opening of Market

Toronto, Oct. 26.—Toronto Stock Exchange began this week under a slightly clouded appearance in sharp contrast to the state of affairs last week. Disappointment over the failure of the Hoover-Laval statement to show any clear cut plan for international co-operation in the European debt position in turn was transmitted to Wall Street and other markets on this continent.

Brazilian Traction reacted most severely locally, selling off a point to 13 1-4, Bell Telephone lost 2 and 3-4 points on a few sales. Pool of Canada was down from 84 to 82 1-2 when it firmed. C.P.R., Steel of Canada and Canada Northern Nova Scotia were down fractionally.

Oils were again quiet, practically unchanged from Wednesday's close and early in the second hour but then slipped back to its former position.

Massey Harris was the most reported issue, touched 3 for a time, liquidation was fairly steady all morning.

Prices Ease Off After Opening In Sympathy

Toronto, Oct. 26.—Strong gains in the first hour prices on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange, and developed some irregularity towards noon today, reflecting a softer tendency on the industrial boards. Trading was brisk on the opening but fell off as lesser dealers lost buoyancy.

Chemical research, in comparatively light turnover, featured early action, price advancing 43 to 43.75 under evident accumulation. Norando also moved fractionally higher but gave up its initial gains.

Wright Hargreaves was a strong spot in the golds, selling for 2.90 a shade above 2.8 and starting at that level for a gain of 3 when taken at midday. Hollinger, Teck Hughes Corp. firmed 5 each, while Teck Hughes Gold and Lake Shore Minerals moved up 2 each. Dome was down 15. Sylvanite showed a small loss of 2 and Howey, Sisco and Mooy were a cent above their last sales.

Norando softened from the outset, showing a loss of 70 at 1.315.00 when taking its first turn, and closing 25 to $2.10. Mickel just holding and Sherritt Gordon and Mcintyre-Porcupetory up a cent or so apiece.

TRADING SLOW ON NEW YORK MARKET TODAY

Bonds Hold Steady But Shares Slide

PARLEY'S EFFECT

(By Claude A. Jagger)
(Associated Press Financial Editor)

New York, Oct. 26.—The Stock Market found further bullish stimulus today in the sharp gains of the week end, and prices drifted lower in slow trading. Bonds were generally held fairly steady.

While the announced results of the Hoover-Laval conference were widely hailed as encouraging, there were too nearly in line with Conservative expectations to have produced any violent bullish impulse to share prices. There were occasional feeble rallies in shares, one occurring in the early afternoon.

Losses of 2 to 4 points had appeared in such issues as American Telephone, American Can, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Allied Chemical, Dupont, Consolidated Gas, North American, Public Service of N.J., Case, Eastman, Westinghouse, National Biscuit, Newmont Mining, Central Foundry, and Santa Fe. Royal Dutch was weak, losing nearly two points. It was also weak in the London stock markets, reflecting a rumor that the government may pass its dividend.

Wall Street was keenly interested in the closing of the Hoover-Laval conference, and several prominent bankers felt that the groundwork had been laid for a reopening of the Intergovernmental debt question in a manner more likely to assure a tranquilizing effect on various Nationalistic points of view. Some Washington reports also hinted that further initiative in the matter would come from the other side of the Atlantic, as indicated in the Bankers' statement.

The copper negotiations were said to be progressing satisfactorily and coupled with the pick-up in demand for the metal, there was some expression that the prospects of an early advance in prices from the current level of 7 cents a pound to about 8.

Salt Problem In Cyprus As In India

Lanark, Island of Cyprus, Oct. 26. —Following Mahatma Gandhi's stand in India a great crowd gathered today at the Salt Lake near Limassol and proceeded to make salt.

In this British crown island as in India, the government has a monopoly of salt manufacture.

Last week there were serious disorders here when a section of the people, agitating for union with Greece, burned Government buildings at Nicosia. British warships were sent to the province's capital and half a dozen leaders of the uprising were arrested.

Hunter was injured early in the fourth period of the game as he tackled Robert Lassiter, Army halfback, of Charlotte, N.C., on the Yale 22-yard line. The latter had just received the kick-off from Captain Price of the Army on his own 10-yard line.

Washington, D.C., Oct. 26 (AP)—Charges by the United States Navigation Company, Inc., that the Cunard Steamship Company, Limited, and twelve other lines had entered into a conspiracy to drive its ships off the seas, today were taken up in Federal court at Washington.

It had accused the companies of granting lower rates to shippers who agreed to deal exclusively with their lines.

Today's Verse

HOMELY ODORS

There is the fragrance of all hay field flowers,
That gits their loveliness to breath and sight;
There is the pungent Balm-of-Gilead tree;
Cereus, and Four-o'clock of their delight;
The untamed grape ascending oak-en towers
With ethereal perfume to let fall its drip
From fairy blossom of Eden, and let drip
Loveliness more dainty than an orchard's flowers.

All gracious scents, and yuet to one, are odors
But honest odors are peculiar to the garden
A chining, Ace cuts out of resined pine.
From coppery beach, an acid oak-or rotting trees
That farm climb up on by their thin toe-tips;
And these more intimate in woods and mea-dows,
Especially if chopping day is been And I, the chopper, find what odors mean.

Superstitions of Present Day Explained by Dr. Brunt

Origin is Desire of Primitive People to Appease Spirits

LEGEND, TRUTH

Montreal, Que. (CP) — Why do people "touch wood" when they boast, say "God bless you" when someone sneezes, and throw rice when there is seven years bad luck in breaking a mirror? The basis for these superstitions lies in the origin of the static emotion embedded in the racial memory" was revealed by Dr. H. D. Brunt, head of the English department, Macdonald College, in an address on "Myth, Legend, Truth and Folklore" at the opening meeting of the Notre Dame de Grace Women's Club in a short time ago.

In the days before people knew anything about the laws of causality, they felt that there was a spirit in everything related to be alive the "spirit" within them wanted to get free. Hence the legend of certain illness, as when a person sneezed, it was to drive the spirit out. Hence the incantation to prevent it: "God bless you."

Again, in spite of the fact that the spirit wanted its freedom, people believed that once it got it, it was jealous of those who had remained alive and home about keeping do on them harm. Boasting was supposed to increase its malevolence, and became the custom to knock loudly on the nearest wall to prevent the spirit from hearing about the conversation turn that way.

Another curious superstition was based on the belief that the reflection had an existence of its own—that it was a spirit. The carved head of Jack in the fact that the mirror was broken but that the spirit might be destroyed.

Going back to the earliest days when man first emerged as such, Dr. Brunt said, "we find him on a tree somewhere else." Dr. Brunt then traced the myth and legend in literature, painting and sculpture—the imitative magic. Men, knowing nothing of the laws of cause and effect imitated coincidence for desired results, thinking of the power of their own muscles, peopled the atmosphere with spirits to help harvest, but more powerful and more malevolent.

Thus they felt upon the idea of sympathetic magic, that the thing they desired to bring about in miniature in order to bring to the actual thing. Hence the sprinkled fields with water to call down the rain. This type of mimic account for the sexual immorality of the early religions. The fertility dances were performed to encourage the crops. Even from these fertility dances that music, the folk dance, drama and poetry have sprung. Few once held in the efficacy of a ritual passes and the ritual is still performed by a few instead of the community as a whole, it becomes an art, the speaker stated.

Legends, he continued, differed from myths in that they had a core of historic truth, while folk-lore was the combined truth and legend. Both were believed true by men.

There was, Dr. Brunt concluded, a definite relation in this literature of long gone days; in it the historian found the first development of that keen long ingenuity, progress of the human race, while the world of imagination found the source of the most splendid things man has produced in the realm of art.

WHAT ONE GIRL WORE

By Betty Brownlee

Have you noticed the winter coats this season? Beautiful, aren't they're lovely. Fur has never been used so lavishly for trimming. At least, if it has, I can't remember it. Some models which I observed were rich extreme with their fur treatment, revealed deep cuffs and huge collars of fur and sometimes detachable capes that are so warm and comfortable for cold weather wear.

A soft wool fabric—or a duvetyn on Princess lines, is entirely used for the cloth coat. The color shown is wine—but black and a delicious rich shade of dark brown are leading in popularity. If you prefer the brighter shades you may choose that delightful Spanish blue or any one member of the green family.

The —coat illustrated today is developed of a soft brown wool. It wears in the material most fur. The bodice is fashioned of brown Persian lamb and the cuffs are deep and of the same fur.

Secrets of Better Flavor in Cooking

By Hannah Wing

In making brown sauce, brown the flour in the fat, getting it a little darker than you want the sauce, and the liquid will make it lighter. Never brown the fat alone as that burns it and gives an acrid flavor.

In order to have the flavor of a stew evenly blended throughout add enough water in the beginning for the entire cooking and then let the stew cook down as vegetables and so forth are added.

In flavoring any cooked mixtures, such as custards and that like, let them cool thoroughly first. Otherwise, the warmth causes the flavoring to escape with the alcohol with which it usually is preserved.

Flour browned in a warm oven is often kept on hand to make into paste with cold water for thickening and flavoring meat drippings or gravies.

To flavor a sauce with chopped onions, cook them in butter first to draw out the flavor, but do not brown.

A few grains of sugar added to any sauce, soup or other dish containing much tomato takes away the sharp, harsh appearance of the acid, it contains. This I also true of dishes containing vinegar.

To give a rich smooth flavor to thick, old-fashioned vegetable soup, stir it with a knife used to cut a piece of garlic in opposite directions. Repeat this several times just before serving.

For an indescribably pleasant flavor in French dressing, use a half of lime with as much lemon.

It is perfectly possible to fry fish and have it crisp, but not heavily and dry. Have it sliced very thin, season it well, dip it in heavy pan, being careful to pour off the fat as it cooks out and to turn the bacon frequently.

This depression isn't going to last forever, and most of the sufferers for it have been dispersed. — Sir Josiah Stamp.

The Beauty Box

By Helen Follett

Hair stretched straight back, sleek and severe without a sign of a wave, may give a real Egyptian face-washed look like a forest after a spring rain, but it may also cause her to appear austere and unapproachable. Many women don't get away with the lacquered coiffure minus undulations. Particularly is this true when the face when sassy hais chucked over one eye. The sketchiest needs a style of hairdress that is soft and flattering. Striking classes are the order on these days in the world's beauty marts.

To achieve a thorough cleansing of the teeth, the brush should be used with a brisk movement away from the gums, then dental floss passed between the teeth and a mouth wash used, rubbed about so that it will pick up bit of foreign substance that may be floating about. If teeth are washed, but once a day, the scrubbing should be at night.

Keep in mind that rouge forms shadows. If the chin is of the receding type, care must be taken the line pad to it, as it will make matters worse. Also, the full face cheeks must not rouge in the centre of the cheek, but high up near the eyes. When earches aren't as small and dainty as they should be a touch of rouge will have a disappointing shadowy effect upon them.

Women who have the permanent habit of biting their nails know that they wear the steaming little bottles that are to be purchased at druggists. Contenient if one likes to enjoy toilet water and perfume both. Simply moisten a handkerchief than dabbing and, considering the odors of the bottle, a delightful perfum economy is something that should be thought about.

FIREBUG IS INACTIVE

Hamilton, Oct. 26 (CP).—Farmers in the north County breathed easier today after the firebug, who is alleged to have been at work in the district failed to strike over the week-end.

County and Provincial Police have no new developments to report.

Advice to the Lovelorn

Where Absence Failed

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have been going with a boy for three years, during which time I have been absent ten months out each year, and home for two. We correspond and he told me that he loved me, spoke of getting married and then I was called away. When I came home this summer I found his letters had ceased. He was going with another girl and me that absence does not make the heart grow fonder, but love, and never dreamed that could happen?

Heartbroken.

If you were not engaged to this young man, I am afraid you will have to fall back on your pride, put up a stiff upper lip, and show the world that his going over to another girl has not hurt you. Certainly, if he no longer loves you, you wouldn't want to marry him. Think of the mess such a marriage would make of your life. I am quite prepared to believe that you think you love him with all your heart, but a love that is not reciprocated cannot last. I think your chances of getting this young man still be very good before you do not show that you are deep hurt by his conduct.

Her Love Dilemma

Dear Miss Fairfax:

A little while ago a terrible tragedy occurred in my life and, just as I was beginning to realize that my young man I care about said he hardly knew me any more. I found after that I saw him, if I thought he was true to me, I would give him up. I care enough for that. Then I met another young man, and, if he cared, don't you think he would have phoned me? He was very attentive. After this I feel I could never trust him again. There has become one, who cares a lot about me, and he is a real man, considerate, kind and always play squarely. I expect to hear from him soon again and want to be sure of my conduct.

B.D.

It seems to me that a girl wouldn't be long in deciding what to do in such a case. Any girl or young man who goes off in an emergency and fails to communicate for the real man who would always give squarely. You are in no doubt about which one of these two you should favor, don't attempt to settle the question. Your self doubts have been made clear.

The Fashion Department

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I was born last January, leaving me with five children who need a mother's care and who have a good housekeeper. My older sister, aged sixteen, had a school friend who is a year and a quarter. This girl seems to be sweet and kind-hearted, but very fond of the house. I was strongly tempted to ask her to come to me, but was afraid to do so. I am a widower, 36. Do you think I am too old? Eighteen would make a good wife to a man of my age.

J.D.S.

She might make a very good wife indeed, and an excellent stepmother for your children, would be cruel to take advantage of her youth and tender years and present her with a baby before she has her children and the responsibilities of motherhood thrust upon her. She would probably be a nervous wreck by the time she was 25. Wait a while again you might find yourself a widower with even a more extended family. Don't you think it would be well for you to look about and marry a woman of more suitable age? In the long run, you perhaps would find that more satisfactory than a girl in her first youth who has not had her childhood yet, and who would be likely to break under such responsibilities as your family would entail.

Fashion Flashes

By Alice Alden

Take a bow and you've got an evening dress. More and more this season frocks are using bustle bows to accentuate their line lines. Velvet bows are among gown of fuchsia taffeta cut on princess lines and trimmed with a huge bow of chartreuse green ribbon at the base of the almost vanishing length decolletage.

Bright afternoons are in store for us since so many of the new afternoon frocks are of lame. Typical of the new styles is a model in dusty, patterned gold and brown lame with, brown crepe pipings edging the hem and short with sleeves.

Mind your elbows are trimmed with fur. Some of the smartest suits are featuring ruffs of fur at the elbows as do a suit of brown woollen. Diagonals cut and with a wrapped effect it has a round collar of fox and the same fur trims the elbows of the jacket.

Stay home and wear one of the elegant new loungers which are displayed at the smartest shops. A sumptuous model is of gold lame. It is cut on Empire lines and has groups of pleats at the sides, from the tight sheath skirt and wide sleeves are caught at the wrist with velvet ribbon cuffs.

Tucked right away under the arm we will carry the new afternoon handbags since they are long and narrow and have no handles. A nice model is made of black velvet and trimmed with an appliqued large bow-knot of pearls.

The day of days finds velvet the favorite of many Autumn brides. A new and lovely wedding gown is of antique velvet in ivory white, with a long train and tulle veil. Orange blossoms and is trimmed with Venetian lace.

No Silken Stockings In This Country

Something of modern conditions in Russia, is made clear in what was said to get out of," was presented by the Agricultural Students in the Royal York Hotel, Tuesday, by Ivar Knudsen, Secretary, National Council of Y.M.C.A.

Reports that railways were in a filthy condition, he said, were not correct, but the people who travelled in the crowded third class carriages were extremely poorly clothed, and although many of the travellers were women he did not see a silk stocking in the station through which the trains passed. The peasants turned out in large numbers, some appearing in sheepskin coats and downbridden. Parts of Russia had great agricultural possibilities, but he noticed a great quantity of agricultural machinery lying idle.

"What I wanted to have in Canada," he concluded, "is a better perspective of what is going on in Russia." He thought there was a difference between the ideas of Russia and the manner in which they are being carried out."

W. M. S. Meetings

AIKINS' W.M.S.

A large number of the ladies of Aikins' motored to Stirling on Wednesday afternoon, October 21, to the home of Mrs. Roy Dulmage, where they held their regular monthly missionary meeting. The weather was ideal for the drive and all enjoyed the beauty of the beautiful Autumnal tints that nature has so lavishly painted. Mrs. T. Hall, the president, had charge of the meeting. The meeting opened by singing 'Praise God from Whom all Blessings Flow,' and the Lord's Prayer followed by the devotional leaflet, "The Light of Men." The answering to roll call by verse beginning with "Rejoice" and closing with that it will. It was decided to invite Rev. Mr. Patterson to take charge of the autumn thankoffering service.

Mrs. T. A. Hinchcliffe, the Temperance Secretary, led in the temperance department. "Throw Out the Life Line" was sung and two splendid temperance readings by Mesdames Grills and Sexsmith were given.

Mrs. T. A. Hinchcliffe was made an honorary member of the W.C.T.U. at this meeting. Mrs. C. McCullough gave a splendid and excellent report of the Sectional Rally held at Foulton, bringing home many helpful ideas which can be used in the locality.

Mrs. Lee Grilli favored with a beautiful piano solo. "Meet be the Tide Used in a Manner"

Laval Insists Initiative Rests With Germany By Young Plan

Washington, Oct. 26—Groundwork for sweeping readjustment of German reparations and allied war debt payments to the United States has been laid during conferences conducted here Sunday by President Hoover and Premier Laval of France.

Germany is expected shortly to take the initiative by asking for relief from her present reparation burden. France is expected to co-operate in recognizing Germany's ability to pay, and radical reductions are considered inevitable.

The United States, which collects no reparations from Germany, however, does have vast war debts outstanding from Germany's allies and is ready in turn to do its share as a contribution to world stability. A re-opening of the debt question is expected to follow immediately on any change in reparations.

In addition to finding a common ground for action on these important question, the Hoover-Laval discussions paved the way for agreement for Franco-American unity of action to protect the present gold standard monetary systems based on the gold standard in the interests of stability of international exchange, and to assist the world recovery every possible measure of financial basis.

The conferences were almost wholly economic. They did take account of the disturbed political situation of Europe, as a factor of world depression, but they attempted no political solutions. There was no talk of United States participation in any form in European security, and the discussions did not touch upon the question of disarmament.

Way Paved for Action

A joint statement issued by the President and the French Premier predicted that there will have been paved for helpful action by the two Governments, because of the confidential discussions of putting concrete proposals into exact language, the announcement did not contain details.

At the same time, the White House issued a specific denial that the theory had been proposed by Laval a settlement of the question of the French occupation of the Rhineland would have been paved for helpful action by the two Governments, because of the confidential discussions of putting concrete proposals into exact language, the announcement did not contain details.

At the same time, the White House issued a specific denial that theory will not be affected by this change in view, which was made necessary by recent financial discoveries disagreeing with Einstein's earlier idea of the universe.

Says Versailles Treaty Should Be Revised

Naples, Italy, Oct. 26. — Premier Benito Mussolini told 800,000 persons crowded into the Piazza Plebiscite Sunday that the Treaty of Versailles should be revised and that the Fascist government must take "a new road toward the people of Italy."

Looking out over the largest audience he had ever addressed, the Fascist premier spoke with his usual vigor in reiterating his government's desire for modification of the World War treaty and the reparations settlement.

Five-Dimension Universe Einstein's Newest Idea

New York, Oct. 26.—A universe with five dimensions instead of four, is the latest conception to which Albert Einstein has given form in a statement written by him and made public by the Scottish Martyr Jr. foundation.

Dr. Einstein scientist's relativity theory will not be affected by this change in view, which was made necessary by recent financial discoveries disagreeing with Einstein's earlier idea of the universe.

South Wellington Choice Is Gamble

Guelph, Oct. 26—William P. Gamble, of this city, a retired manufacturer, was chosen by the Conservatives of South Wellington to be their candidate in the forthcoming by-election to be held within three weeks, but he was not elected until after Mayor Beverley Robinson, of Guelph, had declined to run.

That he (Robson) had carried the nomination was supposed by a few persons whom he had fought in previous years.

That "three or four persons in this city had run things for years," and thought they always will, would obey orders.

That the local Conservative association "machine" removed delegates by "underhand methods" if they weren't going to vote right, and reciprocated "favors".

Liberal or Red

That officials of the association had conducted a whispering campaign against Mr. Gamble which included his name from the list of executive officers of the association so that he would not be notified of meetings at which the selection of a candidate would be discussed.

The mayor's address delivered in the hard-hitting style which as characterized his last year's successful campaigning for the office of chief magistrate, was delivered amid roars of applause from the audience.

But the comparatively small group of delegates in front of the hall rose a few minutes later and voted against him by a count of 172 to 85.

His friends then moved that the nomination be made unanimous.

HAILSTONES LIKE MARBLES STRIP LEAVES

Church Services Are Interrupted By Elements

NO DAMAGE

Trees Bared By Beating of Hailstones Upon Them

Sunday morning was ushered in with balmy summer like weather, but about the hour of worship a change came and hailstones fell with such violence that they literally stripped all the leaves from the trees in the city. In many cases the trees were left as bare as in mid-winter.

Fortunately the hail was of short duration and did no damage to buildings or windows, although it lasted for about 15 minutes. Many persons were overrun with water owing to the clogging of storm sewers with the falling leaves.

Church services were interrupted by the pattering of the hail on the windows, and in the case of the Tabernacle the sermon was suspended till after the storm had subsided.

Wounded Hunter Is Carried Eight Miles

Sudbury, Oct. 26 — Seventeen hours after he had been shot, Ernest led by the accidental discharge of his gun, Ernest Salisbury, Creighton Mines, had the bullet removed from the local hospital and stands a fair chance of recovery.

The accident occurred far back in the bush, and companions of the wounded man were compelled to carry him by hand, truck and hand to the hospital. For eight miles of the distance they carried him through dense bush.

Ernest Salisbury and six companions were in the bush on a hunting trip intended to spend the week end in the woods. Ernest, 17 years old, John Vrsnik, picked up a rifle. He pulled the trigger, thinking the gun discharged, a mushroom bullet smashed into the boy's leg.

One of the men walked to Blezard Valley, a three hour hike, and notified the police. Constable Ernest Keen of the local provincial police, and several residents set out for with him. The wounded man was carried over the first seven or eight miles to the highway, and then began the balance of the distance by truck.

Religion and Church are Not Slipping Says Dr. Chown

Preacher at Tabernacle United Church Anniversary

In a beautiful church built high upon a hill overlooking the still existing building which was for thirty two years the spiritual home of the founders and builders of the present church, the congregation of the Tabernacle United Church on Sunday celebrated the 75th anniversary of the dedication of their present house of worship, in using it was an eighty-fifth anniversary as the original church building was consecrated in 1846. Today it is still standing in the rear of Bridge street, being used by the Coca Cola Company.

Prior to the building of this church the congregation had no regular church building. The circuit to be served by the minister took in all of Hastings county. The church was at that time the Methodist Episcopal Church, as was also the present Tabernacle Church until the Methodist union in June, 1884 and in 1839, Rev. George Greenleaf, grandfather of Mr. H. W. Greenleaf, son of Mr. Charles O. Greenleaf of Belleville, was the first minister on the circuit. In 1839 Mr. James Gardiner, father of Miss Ella Gardiner, was married in Belleville after years of devoted and successful work at Ameliasburg, Oct. 26 — Mr. Percy Hayes had the misfortune on Saturday to have his truck turn over and was badly hurt.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Mastin spent the week-end at Peterboro as guest of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Lawrence.

Mr. and Mrs. George Aires visited at Mr. Reid's at Wellington on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Carrington, Mrs. Carley and Mr. R. Shickergs visited at Mr. and Mrs. S. Mastin on Sunday.

Mrs. Hattie Dyer and daughters spent the week-end with Mrs. Gordon Boyle.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Blakely spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. E. Humphrey.

Miss Eileen Gamble spent Monday afternoon with Miss Helen Adams.

The First Church.

The first church at the foot of Church street hill was dedicated on January 22, 1846, by Bishop Alley of the Methodist Episcopal Church, who preached from the text given in the 24th chapter of the 28th verse of the Psalm: "How amiable are Thy Tabernacles, O Lord of hosts." In the afternoon, Rev. Gideon Shepard was the preacher, and in the evening Rev. Cameron Governor of Belleville Seminary, out of which Albert College was developed. In the evening Bishop Alley preached. The money received in offerings at the door amounted to one hundred and twenty-five pounds. The church building and land cost six hundred and fifty pounds. The first pastor of the church was Rev. Philander Smith and the first minister to be ordained a deacon by a Bishop of the church. In 1855 Rev. David Wilson, father of Rev. Dr. C. W. Wilson, and Rev. D. D. F. Wilson, now residents of Belleville, was the pastor. From 1863 to 1869 Rev. Dr. Wild was pastor, after graduating from the University of Hebrew at Albert College and Belleville, a short time before his death. One of the original church were: Samuel Stevens, T. O. Seldon, W. Ponton, Jas. Bleasdell and Cornelius Gould.

Growth in Membership.

The membership of the church grew until the building became too small to accommodate the congregation and so in 1870 it was that the present Tabernacle was built and dedicated in 1875. Dr. Sutherland, in opening service was Rev. Dr. Dyes, a Methodist Episcopalian minister of great reputation and at the time in the United States. The first minister to be ordained was the Rev. Dr. Bidwell Lane.

Since that time many able men have been pastors of this church and great work for good has been accomplished.

The anniversary services Sunday were very well attended. Large congregations were present at the morning and evening services.

The special preacher for the day was the Rev. Dr. Chown, then the general superintendent of the Methodist Church, now the United church, Rev. A. E. McCutcheon, in welcoming Dr. Chown spoke of the many changes during the day that had occupied in the church and its condition—he had been a marvelous power for good and it was a great pleasure and honor to have him speak to the congregations at this anniversary.

Dr. Chown chose as his text the 24th verse of the seventh chapter of the book of Revelation: "They not thou, what is this cause that the multitude are before the throne? For thou dost not require wisely worship Thee."

World Better.

The world today is a better place to live in, said Dr. Chown, than it has been at any time in the past to give us the marvelous inventions that has so wonderfully improved living conditions. Since Rev. Dr. Chown invented the steam engine, people have been saying that the world is not so well to hang and detriment to the world. In some quarters, for instance, for fear and prejudice to its advent to the old, that it was sent that what they considered a detriment was a blessing. So it is today, and the world is better for progress is being made, it will be found that it is not a question of what can I do to be saved" said Dr. Chown, but what can I do to save others?" If a man does not feel that he is doing this, he cannot hope is there of him turning back—there is no opportunity for service, no opportunity for the church to do the right road.

Dr. Chown spoke of the founders of the Tabernacle and how they had heard their faith in their foundation—they were testifying Christians. In this generation, there is no room for God and to support the advance ment of His Kingdom, not only with money but with their hands.

The sermon of Rev. Dr. Chown was a masterpiece of thought and power, and was listened to with marked attention by the large congregation.

The musical portions of the services were delightful. Special anthems and solos were given under the able direction of the organist, Mrs. M. P. Duff.

Mrs. Duff's voluntaries were exceptionally well rendered and much enjoyed. The anthem by Knapp, "Hear my Voice" was fine and was sung by the choir in a very fitting and pleasing manner, the solo part being taken by Mr. Al Stillman, who has a fine voice. Mrs. Horton Brown rendered the solo, "I Will Praise Thee, O Lord", by A. W. Ketelbey, in a very pleasing and finished manner.

At the evening service Rev. Dr. Chown preached an excellent sermon from the same passage as was the text contained in the twelfth verse, "The same came thereforo to Philip, which was of Bethsaida of Galilee, and desired him, saying, sir, we would see Jesus."

The musical portions of the service were splendidly rendered. Large congregations were present at the morning and evening services.

Belleville Grid Teams Won Two Games from Trenton

Seniors Win 6-1, and Juniors By Score of 20-0

PLAYER HURT

M. Hood Receives Injury To Back But Not Serious

Belleville Collegiate grid teams are sailing in high gear and all members of both junior and senior squads will have to become fast campus mentors in order to be beaten out of the group titles. On Saturday at the old exhibition grounds, the seniors defeated Trenton by a score of 6-1 while the juniors plastered a 20-0 count on their young rivals from the same burg. Neither team have been defeated as yet this season and there does not appear to be anything in the Interscholastic group that can take them in their remaining games.

The Juniors have run up a sensational count on either team in their group and they appear to have a team that will take some beating in the future playoffs. To date they have scored 106 points and nary a marker has been counted against them. They have simply run the other teams ragged with their speed and general ability. In Jimmy Halwell, starting halfback, they have a boy that should go far in the fall pastime. On Saturday, single-handed, he defeated the Trenton squad, scoring every point made by his team. He simply could not be stopped and he was forced-ed remarkable support by his team mates.

Jimmy was out there on a slippery gridiron playing with an injured wrist, where every movement of the arm hurt. Yet he kicked the pigskin for good distance, bit like like a battering ram and ran the ends like Nimkii. At every plunge he left at least three tacklers in his wake. The line did splendid work and at no time were the kids in danger of losing. The forward pass was used relentlessly in both games but it appears to be a play that has a threat rather than being a consistent ground gainer. The opposing team has to develop a defence for the play and in consequence the line is less cohesive and the natural sequence is that the game is opened up and the spectators are given more thrills. The team expert in this play point 'have a ball tosser and these are hard to find. It requires weeks of practice to successfully hurl the pigskin accurately and at the same time get distance, while the team is taken by surprise at completion. Forward passing is to football what a smart pair of ball players is at the Keystone sack.

The touchline marking in the senior game that was much regretted by all in attendance. Young Harris Hood playing on the half line for Trenton, was tackled heavily and had to be carried off the field. When he did not recuperate, the player was taken to the hospital and from there to the surgery of Dr. McGregor. Fury's fullback was slightly injured but it is believed is will not be permanent. He was able to join his team mates when they returned home. Before his injury he was one of the best of the visitors and was always a threat. Especially on the offensive.

Junior Game

In the first quarter the Belleville team scored seven points, five on a touch and one on a rouge. The line work was better than Trenton's and the play clicked with precision. Only one point was scored in the second quarter, a rouge. Following the kicker. In the third quarter Halwell resulted after the ball had been worked into scoring position and in the last quarter he scored another point after touch was Belleville's portion making a total of twenty. Pole well was always in the limelight, and he received a nice hand as he trampled off the gridiron. Andrews, at guard, played his game well, while Angel at flying wing with Wales, and Schreiber at outside handled the opposing halves to perfection.

The lineup:

Belleville—Flying wing, Angel; quarter, Andrews; snap, Hamilton; left inside, Harris and Cushman; right inside, Hamilton and McKinnon; outsides, Wales and Schreiber; snap, Cole; subs, Hay, Kidd, Carruthers, Graham and Bradford.

Trenton—Flying wing, Derry; quarter, Grey; snap, Miller; halves, Johnson, Mackey, Fox; insides, Lawrence and McNeil; middles, Smithen and Donnelly; outsides, H. Johnson and Quackenbush; subs, Harrison, C. Johnson and Spicer.

Referee—Vern Brown, Queen's University; umpire, James Grimmond; linesman, H. Kelly.

Senior Game

At one time it looked as if the Belleville winning streak was to be broken, so poorly did the local squad play, especially in the first period. Trenton was always in front and secured not only points of the quarter, when Mullion kicked in the deadline. The Belleville team was paper mache in the middle of the first but stiffened when they reached the shadow of their goal posts. The second quarter was different, when Philips made the play of the afternoon. The Belleville team was only three yards from their own goal line when they secured possession. The first bunk failed but the second clicked and Philips was sent around the end. When he broke into the open field, his straight speed was conclusive and the galloped the length of the gridiron for a touchdown. It was a smart play. There was no score in the third frame and Reynolds scored the last point when he kicked to the goal line for a single point with only three minutes to play. The team played much better from start to finish. The line secured a trifle weak while the backs were particularly strong. Many of the plays could be laid directly to the quarterback, Hood, who ran and stedily during the game.

The lineup:

Belleville—Flying wing, Scott; halves, Reynolds, Graves, Philips; quarter, Gerrard; snap, Bell; insides, Rogers and Sargent; middles, Morgan and Flagler; outsides, Hoople son, Hall and Dolan.

Trenton—Flying wing, Johnson; halves, Chambers, Hall, Hood; quarter, Baker; snap, Kelchesen; insides, Corbett and Weaver; middles, Hunter, Gregory and Harris; outsides, House and Chambers; subs, Donnelly and Mullion.

Referee—"Pepe" Brown, Queen's University; umpire, J. Grimmon; head linesman, H. Kelly.

HAH! HAH! HAH! JACK'S BACK!

The boys around the University of Toronto campus are singing loud hosannas and making much whoopee ever since Jack Sinclair came back. Jack as you may not know is the star kicking half of the Toronto Varsity team, and without him—well we can't like to say anything about the substitutes—but they might just as well throw up. The was shown in their first game with Balmy Beach, last year's champions. They put up a good fight, but they were no match for the masterly kicking of Ab. Box. But now that Jack is back, even the Balmy Beachers are not waiting around with a smile on their faces. It certainly puts Varsity right back in the picture as far as the Intercollegiate is concerned. They sure need him.

The second quarter was different, when Philips made the play of the afternoon. The Intercollegiate team was only three yards from their own goal line when they secured possession. The first bunk failed but the second clicked and Philips was sent around the end. When he broke into the open field, his straight speed was conclusive and the galloped the length of the gridiron for a touchdown. It was a smart play. Baseball's Old Roman is Dead

Eagle River, Wis., Oct. 26.—Baseball's Old Roman is dead. Charles A. Comiskey, 72-year-old owner of the Chicago White Sox of the American League, died early today at his camp refuge here.

He had been in failing health for several months. He rallied, however, when his club won the city series with the Chicago Cubs of the National. Shortly afterwards, however, he began slowly sinking toward death.

The colorful old warrior whose life story was synonymous of the rise of professional baseball had taken refuge during his declining days in the quiet fastness of his forest tract here.

Comiskey became a famous figure in the baseball world long before he established his White Sox in Chicago. He was a known fighter, a free spender, and loyal to those, who were loyal to him.

M. A. A. Head Big Four Loop Defeat Tigers

Largest Crowd in History See Thrilling Dogged Contest

QUEEN'S TIED

Toronto, Ont., Oct. 26.—(By The Canadian Press)—With the halfway mark of the Eastern Canada Senior Rugby schedules now a thing of the past, coaches of the Senior grid squads of the different leagues will send their proteges through the home stretch drive of the autumn campaign in an effort to improve their league standing and earn the right to a play-off berth. The second games which in the majority of cases were clean-cut hard fought contests, showed little bearing on the league standings which has practically remained the same since the opening of the season three weeks ago.

Doubtless the biggest smash drive to unseat the mighty Hamilton Tigers from their perch at the top of the "Big Four" Union, which they have held for the past five years, Montreal winged Indians remained undefeated this season in a series of exhibition and league fixtures, when they subdued the Hamilton team in Montreal Saturday. By virtue of their victory, which was witnessed by one of the largest crowds to ever watch a "big skin" game in the Eastern city, the Montreal aggregation are now leading the Inter-Provincial parade with the Tigers trailing closely on their heels. Toronto Argonauts by defeating Ottawa Rough Riders in the capital Saturday now occupy third place while the Ottawa squad bring up the rear.

Queen's Fray Behind

For the second time since the autumn grid campaign opened three weeks ago, Queen's University of Kingston came from behind in the final minutes of play to put themselves in the running and almost shed out a win over McGill of Montreal. In the opening Inter-Collegiate game at Toronto, the Limestone City crew kicked a field goal in the last minute to beat Toronto Varsity while Saturday they threatened to down McGill when they came within a single lay to knot the score at 9 all. Queen's remain at the top of the College group, followed by Western University of London, who hold a point margin over the Montrealers. Toronto Varsity who have yet to score in this season occupy the cellar position.

Balmy Beach, Dominion champions, strengthened their official of the bands of Varsity "orphans" on Thanksgiving Day staged a comeback in Toronto, Saturday, when they handed Western University Waterloo Panthers, 10-1. Superior kicking on the part of the diminutive Jack Box followed by Archibald accounted for the Torontonians win, which pushed them at the top of the Eastern section of the O.R.F.U. Kingston Frontenac had a slight lead over the Twin City squad as they have a game in hand with the Ontario champions scheduled for this week.

Current Sport

By The Observer

A lot besides wider has passed under the bridge since we last had the privilege following the world of sport. As we notice considerable doings have taken place, for instance, Uncle Wilbert Robinson says that he is terribly surprised at being let out as manager of the Baltimore We might add that he is the only one who is surprised.

Big doing are expected at the annual meeting of the Bay of Quinte girls' softball league meeting that is to be held next Monday evening, November 2, in the Y.M.C.A. It is rumored that one or two new teams will be represented at the meeting and they will apply for a berth in the loop. It is at these annual meetings that the managers usually air their petty grievances of the past season so a good time is assured all those who intend being present.

It is an open meeting and all are invited to give their views, etc. as to how the league should be run. Step up here.

We are glad to see that Kingston are about to spend $53,000 on their Fair Grounds. With the amount of work on hand it will no doubt present, in the future, a ball diamond that is worthy of a city the size of Kingston. Perhaps a few diamonds are a shrewd to ask they seem to be all the rage. No one knows it better than the Ponies themselves.

Although the baseball season over Babe Ruth comes out with the statement that he expects another big year, although at the same figure that he received in the past few years. His hitting this year warrants his getting more for his services. He says that after two more years he is going to have "one big blow-out." Which no doubt is justified in seeking whoopee after his good behavior in past years. It will be a long day before there is another "Home Runner" like the "Big Bambino."

Then there is "Pepper" Martin's salary for next year is no consideration. The money earned by Martin will get a substantial raise over last year's salary. Now Dame Rumor has it that he thinks that he is worth as much as any of the "big guns." Well, perhaps the management of the Cardinals will simply say to him, "go out and prove your worth this season. That is a very good answer, too. But we believe that Martin will prove his worth if he assumes the same attitude that he did in the first five games of the World Series.

Considerable controversy is being stirred up over the calling of Frankie Frisch as being the most valuable man in the National League this past season. Frisch proved his worth more emphatically any that Frisch should not get the call over the head of Chuck Klein who is playing on a second division team perhaps that is the reason for their choice or their thinking that may be Frisch's last year as a regular in the major maybe a little sentiment was added when Frankie got the call. The Cards have purchased a new second sacker in the person of Jimmy Gleason and it is expected that Frisch will do more coaching than playing in 1932. All of which goes to add to the glorifying of Frisch in his passing.

The B.C.I. Seniors continued on their march to the league title when they won from Trenton on Saturday by a score of 20 to 0. The Collegiate juniors won two games under this session and have yet to taste defeat. They have scored 95 points against their opponents while they themselves have yet to be scored upon. This is a record for football teams of this district in most some time. In Saturday's game, Falvoil, at centre half-back for the locals, had the honor of scoring all the points for his team. He raced over the line for three touchdowns and kicked the remaining points with his trusty right foot. Coach Hinds is mighty proud of the kids and expects them to win their group.

Although the B.C.I. Seniors kept up their winning streak by beating the Trenton Collegiate seniors by the score of 6 to 1, they were run into a snag when they met Queen's. Three consecutive for half of the game when Jack Sinclair broke away and ran 105 yards for a touchdown in the dying seconds of the second quarter. The B.C.I. seniors have not lost a game to date and have five straight victories to their credit. The showing of the two B.C.I. football teams speaks very highly of the coaching of Lester Shiloh, who, the boys are thoroughly behind to a man. (In union there is strength.)

Queen's very scanty run amine on Saturday when they played a 9 to 9 tie with McGill at Kingston. McGill played a wide open game and had it not been for the deadly kicking of Gilmore the Tricolor might have come out on the short end of the score. As it is Western are a close second to the new league leading Queen's are in the Intercollegiate group.

Canada is now running a race with the United States for second place among the world's gold-producing countries.

ANCIENT WALL BEING REBUILT

Forts of Historic Louisburg Are Being Slowly Restored

Sydney, N.S. — The sturdy fortifications of Louisburg, once called the Dunkirk of America, upon which Louis XIV. expended more than $130,000,000 to make it a great French stronghold in North America, are slowly emerging again from the greasy grounds that have hidden them for the past century.

Agitation resulted three years ago in a decision to partially restore the fortress which in annuality the palaces of hundreds of Americans as troops from New England once captured the fort in 1745 and assisted in its second capture in 1758. The past few years has witnessed a programme of excavation and restoration work being carried on under the auspices of the Canadian Battlefields Commission, with the result the whole site has been on many of its original forms.

Several of the old streets of the English town have been re-located by the surveyors from the charts obtained from Paris and Ottawa. Rue D'Orleans has been surfaced from Rue St. Louis to the east gate, and bridge thrown over the moat at the latter point so the old French and English military memories can be easily reached.

The roof of the bombproof casemates at the southern end of the King's Bastion has been skilfully repaired with concrete, preserving perfectly the old French masonry effects. The gateway between the chapel and barracks has also been opened. Already three hundred valuable relics have been unearthed and are being housed in a temporary museum until a permanent fireproof one is available.

At the citadel the southern wall of the barracks, the King's chapel, and the governor's home and office have been exposed. In excavating the latter every care has been taken to protect the tomb of Lieut. D'Auvray, who died at Halifax during the disastrous expedition against the English, and whose body was later removed to Louisburg fortress for burial. The basement excavation is 50% work, but already the walls of the hospital are showing for a distance of about three and one-half feet, and the arches of the doors and windows of the basement stores can be seen in several places about the fortress.

When the British sappers and miners undertook to destroy Louisburg in 1783, in accordance with orders from England, they blew down the upper works and buildings creating a mass of debris which in turn covered with drifting earth, then grass, until eventually both walls and huge green mounds were visible. Years ago antiquarians discovered that beneath these hillocks existed intact the greater part of the massive walls and edifices of this old military fortress.

It is recognized that it would be undesirable, even if possible, to restore the full fortifications. What is proposed is to restore a little at a time of the principal gates, bastions and other works sufficient to show the strength and extent of the place at its greatest period in history.

Ottawa has complete copies of the original plans and specifications made by Vauban, the celebrated military engineer back in the seventeenth century. These are accurate in every detail, so much so that modern engineers can locate exactly by instrument the site of any desired gate or wall.

When the excavations are complete, the showplace of the fortress will be the huge hospital. It may seem curious to modern people to know that in Louisburg nearly two centuries ago there existed a hospital of one hundred and four beds besides private wards, with hot and cold running water on every floor, and many other conveniences which are usually thought to be of quite recent invention.

Seek Transfer of Estate Administration

Ottawa, Oct. 24 (CP)—Application for transfer of the administratorship of the estate of the late Allan M. Snetzinger, Cornwall merchant, from George A. Stiles, missing Cornwall lawyer, to the Royal Trust Company, will be made to the courts shortly. The estate valued at $300,000 is to be divided among eight relatives. The application has been filed in court records. Stiles is missing from Cornwall and is sought on warrants charging the theft and misappropriation of funds totalling $6,000.

Snetzinger died intestate, leaving $196,036 on May 9, 1929. Stiles was named administrator and disbursed $44,000, but, it is understood, after two years one of the beneficiaries, Mrs. Violet Whian, of Montreal, asked for an accounting of the estate. Other beneficiaries also sought, it is stated, an accounting and inventory of his stewardship.

Orphan Girl Deprived Of Share in Estate

Toronto, Oct. 24.—(CP)—Elizabeth Baker Patterson, 25-year-old orphan of Victoria, B.C., is deprived of any share in her great-grandmother's $3,500 estate by a judgment of Mr. Justice Wright at Osgoode Hall today.

The judge holds that she forfeited any share because her mother pre-deceased her grandmother. He rules that her two aunts, E. Beatrice Holmes and Jane I. A. Holmes are entitled to share the estate.

What Theatrical Managers Say of Coming Attractions

At The Capitol

"PARTY HUSBAND" CAPTIVATES CROWDS

The audience at the Capitol on Saturday gave enthusiastic approval to Dorothy Mackaill in "Party Husband," she is cast as an ultra-modern bride who believes that she should keep her individuality though married—should take a place in the business world—and frankly tells this to the people who are congenial, whoever they happen to be. All goes well at first, for her husband is of the same opinion. Laura and Jay are agreed to the right of each to live life as seems best at the moment.

Laura gets a job with a publishing house, Jay arranges programmes for radio broadcasting and all seems well—till a busy lady by the name of Bee—succeeds in fatally singeing Laura's pet theory by blandishments to Jay. Laura's employer goes with her to a distant city, presumably on business—Jay hotfoots it after—and pandemonium breaks loose—which is but a hint of the story—so human, so tender, with such touches of real comedy that the hardness of the modern theory is all tossed into the everlasting practice—which Kipling describes as "the heart of a man and the heart of a maid, ever the wide world over."

Miss Mackaill is ably supported by James Rennie—as the party husband—whose finish stamps the leading party-of-the-first part. Dorothy Peterson proves her versatility by playing the part of a not-so-modern friend of the newlyweds—who hides her own love for the young husband—a part absolutely different from the highly emotional title role of "Mothers Cry," which she recently did.

Helen Ware is grand as the husband's wily mother-in-law, who takes a hand at the critical moment. Joe Donahue, brother of the famous Jack, of "Shanty" fame, is excellent in a comedy role, as is Paul Porcasi. Mary Doran and Barbara Weeks are also in the cast. "Party Husband" appears at the Capitol for the last time tonight, and you owe it to yourself to see it.

"THE STAR WITNESS"

AT ORPHEUM TUESDAY

On Tuesday and Wednesday at the Capitol "The Star Witness," a picture which is unique in being both melodrama and heart-warming human comedy, will monopolize the screen.

Its grim theme—the danger which we all incur of innocently falling prey to the evil characters that walk every town, big and little—is made less grim by the characters to whom we are introduced, and which we feel we have always known and always want to know.

The high-speed action begin when Gran'pa Summerill, the Man Who Knew Lincoln (you must have seen Chic Sale play this part in wonderful style) gets a forty-eight-hour leave from the Soldiers' Home to visit his married daughter and her family, in town. The family, including Bob Reed and Ma, the pert young daughter, the grown son, the two small boys and, of course, Gran'pa—all supper when they are called to the window by shots, just in time to see a man shoot another. The thugs rush through the Reed's house, followed by police—and escape.

This puts the family in the position of being the only ones who saw the shooting. The gangsters beat up Pa Reed, and intimidate the rest of the family to prevent their testifying before the district attorney. Finally the little boy is kidnapped.

It is Gran'pa Summerill, in his Grand Army blue, with his shrill fife in action, who wanders about the haunts of the gang—free the kid, foils the thugs, gives some true tips to the cops—and finally acts as star witness. But it is the amazing things that happen along the way—the thrills—the fun and the pathos which makes "The Star Witness" so compelling.

Walter Huston is up to his high standard in his portrayal of the district attorney; Chic Sale is, of course, inimitable as Gran'pa Summerill, star witness, Frances Starr is fine as the grandmother and mother of the kidnapped boy. Others in the cast are Beryl Mercer, Sally Blane, Grant Mitchell, Edward J. Nugent, Dickie Moore, Ralph Ince, Tom Dugan, Russell Hopton, Fletcher Norton, Robert Elliott, Guy D'Ennery, George Grant, Mike Donlin, Noel Madison, Ed. Deering and Bert Sprotte.

William A. Wellman, who directed "Wings" and recently did "The Public Enemy" and "Night Nurse," has been eminently successful in his direction. This is a picture that no one should miss. Take the whole family for an evening of grand and glorious entertainment.

At The Belle

LOUIS BROMFIELD'S NOVEL "24 HOURS" AT BELLE TONIGHT

Blue Pearl Dresser-ware Tonight

A beautiful Blue Pearl Dresser-ware gift to each lady attending the Belle Tonight.

The novel is closer to the screen than the stage, according to Louis Bromfield, a Pulitzer Prize winner, whose best-selling novel and magazine serial, "24 Hours" has been cemented by Paramount and will show at the Belle, Tonight and Tuesday, matinee daily.

Bromfield made this statement on his last visit to Hollywood before the publication of "24 Hours."

At that time, in commenting on Hollywood he named Lilyan Tashman, Kay Frances and Joan Crawford as three of his favorite actresses.

Since then, Miss Tashman has become a Paramount featured player, and Miss Francis is featured in his mystery story of modern New York life.

Bromfield skyrocketed to prominence in the literary world with the publication of "The Green Bay Tree," several years ago. "Possession" was his next, and then came "Early Autumn," which won the Pulitzer award. Among his other novels was "A Good Woman." He wrote a play, "The House of Women," and one chapter of a novel, "Rabbed Hair," by twenty authors.

Bromfield, now in his thirties, was born in Mansfield, Ohio, and educated at Cornell and Columbia universities.

He was in an American ambulance corps attached to the French army during the World War and was awarded the Croix de Guerre. He spends considerable time abroad each year.

"24 Hours" reveals how husbands, wives and lovers are abruptly brought to their senses, amid glamorous big city settings, when the survivors of a vicious social circle are incriminated for the death of one of their lot.

A splendid list of junior Features have been arranged for exhibition on the same program, including Sir Harry Lauder in "She's My Daisy", Lloyd Hamilton in a ribtickling comedy "An Apple a Day" and the popular Pox News, with its gist of important happenings, garnered the world over.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS, MARY BRIAN, KENYON, MILLIGAN, POWELL "ROAD TO SINGAPORE"

Doris Kenyon's return to the screen has been one of the most successful in theatrical history. Her career was halted for several years which she devoted to the care of her husband, Milton Sills and their son Kenyon, now seven years old.

The sudden passing of Mr. Sills, just when his friends seemed restored to the point when he might resume his enviable screen position, left Doris Kenyon the alternatives of a life devoted solely to the boy, or the return to the work in which she had been so successful.

The advent of the talkies had made possible the save of one of the fair lady's most exceptional possessions—her voice. For years she had been studying singing and languages. Incidentally, she is booked for a European concert tour for the coming year. Miss Kenyon's return to the screen is marked by many widely divergent roles, which demonstrate the range of her emotional genius, and which have elicited praise from press and public. She will be seen Wednesday and Thursday at the Belle in support of William Powell in Warner Bros. "The Road To Singapore"—in which she plays the part of an English woman who comes to Orient to marry a physician—through whose neglect she afterwards falls under the spell of a suave and fickle profligate. Her performance is marked by passionate sincerity and she is unforgettable as the woman made for love.

In "The Bargain," First National screen version of the Harvard Prize Play of Phillip Barry, she is the wistful wife and mother. In "The Ruling Voice" another First National picture, starring Walter Huston, she portrays with startling vividness a brittle, highly-strung rich woman of the world and in the latest George Arliss starring vehicle, "Alexander Hamilton," she is seen as the trusting wife of Mrs. Alexander Hamilton, a human rights, who falls under the spell of a scheming adventuress.

Others in support of Mr. Powell in "The Road to Singapore" are Marian Marsh, the latest Warner screen discovery—Louis Calhern, cracking comedy "An Apple a Day" and the popular Pox News, with its gist of important happenings, garnered the world over.

WILL SHE VISIT YOUR STORE?

Mrs. Housewife has many interests competing for her attention. She can devote only a small part of her day to shopping. Obviously she cannot visit ALL the stores in an effort to shop to her best advantage.

Therefore she selects those stores which have given her advance information through the advertising columns of her daily newspaper. She has learned that it is always more efficient, and usually more economical, to do the greater part of her shopping right at home with her Ontario Intelligencer.

It is not enough for you to give better values or service in your store. You must let Mrs. Housewife know about them. It is not enough to employ good salesmen. Impressions of Britain in Crisis-Torn Days of Present

Thomas Webster Relates His Experiences in British Isles

OPINIONS FORMED

With a general election on in England and conflicting statements as to conditions per there, the views of a traveller who has recently visited British Isles are of exceptional interest at this time. Mr. Tom Webster, Canadian Manager for Dr. Scholl's Foot Remedies of Cash labels, recently returned from an extended visit to the Old Country and in conversation with a representative of this newspaper gave his impressions of conditions in England at the present time and the outlook for the future. Mr. Webster is a native of England which gives his observations and opinions greater force.

The first was rather a depression, as "Tom" would say, as when the "Montcalm" drew alongside at Liverpool it was, typically enough, raining hard but we still had the glorious impression of the southeast bathed in the sunshine of the previous day. My straw hat seemed rather out of place, for I subsequently discovered that it was the only one in London, I changed it for the more popular felt. Bowler hats were also numerous in evidence and, more rarely, top hats, generally black but still occasionally in fawn. There is a fancy for light brown.

The dingy old Tilbury station had disappeared and the new construction is large, clean and efficient. Baggage was passed through the customs with a minimum of delay.

The coaches on the local train to London seemed small but were comfortable and the train moved fast. St. Pancras and Euston stations more gloomy than ever but busy places!

The quickest mode of transportation in London is by the 'buses which are very well managed and more comfortable and less crowded than any I have used since my return either side of the Atlantic. The other popular conveyance, the taxi, is equally efficient and here again I noticed a decided improvement on buses elsewhere. The London street cars, or trams, do their best to meet the keen competition and the latest models are very fine, and comfortable, with central seats on both decks. Incidentally, all the London buses and street cars are of double deckers, and mostly with the top deck enclosed.

Whilst on this subject, I might refer to the long established "bus" which England has led the way in this form of transportation and for many years has had, in addition to day buses, fine "pullman buses" for overnight travel, which are increasing hugely. I believe the fares are at least equal to thirdclass on the railways as it is easy to understand why the latter has been so badly hit by this competition.

The railway situation in England is indeed serious, not only in passenger but also in freight transportation, the motor bus and 'truck have claimed a large percentage of the traffic. The advantages of this in a country in which the distance between cities is so short that can be readily understood, the truck delivering from warehouse to factory or store without the transfers or stidings. I was told that the market price of railway shares now represents less than the value of the land and buildings owned by the lines, without considering rolling stock, etc. That any railway can seriously been made to turn the railways into closed highways and to perhaps as fantastic as it sounds at first.

I hired a car and, at about five dollars per day, which included full insurance, by the way. Public Liability Insurance is compulsory in England and, in addition to the driver's license it is necessary to carry an insurance card. The car was an eight-cylinder (not a "Baby") about the same size as the Lincoln or Packard, new and a very neat, efficient job. The price was about one thousand and ninety five pounds — about $6050. at par and much less at present rate of exchange. Standard equipment included a clock and dash signal light which glowed when the engine was running on the battery. A very useful feature was the two small compartments on both ends of the dashboard and very convenient for books, papers, thermos, etc. The Austin Motor Co. recently declared a dividend of 200 per cent. Gas ranged from twenty cents to twenty-five cents per imperial gallon and as this included 12 cents tax, it was remarkably cheap. I understand much of the gas came from Russia and that the Leeds Corporation had made a contract with the Soviet that would net the latter four cents per gallon.

In England traffic is on the left instead of the right hand side of the road but one quickly becomes accustomed to the change. The opposite gear shift was slightly more confusing, as it made reflection necessary and there is a much time for that in the London traffic. This latter has been quite a problem, with streets curving and crossing in all directions and it is wonderfully well handled under the circumstances, the gyratory system in operation in Piccadilly Circus and elsewhere being very good, although bewildering to the novice. There is a story of a lady driver who entered this whirl and did not know how to get out of it with the result that she drove round and round until finally her gas gave out. I cannot praise too highly the courtesy of the English police.

Apart from the late war period, England has always possessed good roads and this has been particularly noticeable in the second and third class roads. In recent years they have been brought to a very high state of efficiency, being in many places widened and straightened out to meet the demands of the increasing automobile traffic. The old Roman roads were of course constructed in a straight line across plain and over hill and dale but the Saxon roads were winding and hilly. Chesterton gives a fanciful explanation in The Fly Inn" of this winding. The present day 'straight road may be a Roman highway brought up to date or one of the new automobile roads. In London and other large centres, as well as in the country, the "By Pass Roads" are called because they avoid the busy centres and are usually fine, wide boulevards.

London retains a perpetual charm for both resident and visitor and the reasons are obvious, for in addition to being the largest city in the world, it is the seat of the Court and Government, capital of the Empire and saturated with historical associations and interests. The Tower perhaps leads as the centre of historic interest, the changing of the guard at Buckingham Palace and St. James' from the spectacular and (forgetting theatres and movies for the moment) the 200 and Madame Tussauds from the entertainment standpoint. The latter is to be regretted in fine new premises, following the fire some years ago, which should have been an unforgettable sight with the tons of burning wax. Other favourite places are of course the British and other museums, galleries, etc. The buildings are not so imposing as the skyscrapers of the American continent but have frequently a charm and dignity of their own.

The departmental stores on the whole are not as large or well arranged as the ones on this side but the variety and prices of the merchandise render them very attractive to anyone accustomed to our higher prices.

Many volumes of descriptive literature would be required to cover the interesting and beautiful spots in England. It is pleasing to note that there is now a Government Department charged with the duty of "Ancient Monuments" and care of "Ancient Monuments" and preservation and something constructive is being done in the city, particularly in the case of places which have a unique interest. One of the most fascinating places recently thrown open to inspection is Dover Castle, which has recently passed from the control of the War Office to that of "Ancient Monuments" and has been formed under the name of Trust Houses, Limited, to ensure the good standard of comfort and reasonable charges at a large number of the inns. Others are under the auspices of the Automobile Associations, all of which is conducive to the benefit of the traveller, whether on business or pleasure. Many of these good standards of years old and there is a point of pride in the fact that it is now a distinct form of quality preserve in ancient forms whilst adopting modern comforts.

Many of the Memorials are both original and beautiful in form, one of the most attractive being the Memorial Garden in the grounds of the ancient Canterbury Cathedral, to which the old walls contribute.

Not having experienced the boon period that was enjoyed on this side of the Atlantic, the people of England are hardly conscious of any unusual depression. It is difficult to think of England as dependent or destitute, from a point of quiet determination, courage and progress. When the enormous burden in taxation and the way Great Britain is meeting its obligations is taken into consideration, it is difficult to entertain any sentiment than admiration and faith. The dole has been generally condemned as being a bad thing partly due to a misunderstanding. In the first place, the term "dole" is not correct; as the payments are made under the Unemployment Insurance scheme to which workers as well as employers and the Government contribute. It has, however, owing to the heavy unemployment resulted in a much greater expenditure than was ever originally anticipated and the extra cost has had to be borne by the public funds. Again, about two and a half and there are many cases of people not merely unemployed but unemployable because they have no desire to work. Many people have been drawing money for years without ever having done any work and in some cases carrying and setting up a home on their point receipts from this source. Undoubtedly these abuses must and will be eliminated and the expenditure reduced to a reasonable amount. It is not all expense as apart from the workers' own contributions, the Government and the people have derived certain benefits which are liable to be overlooked. There is an absence of the poverty and misery, claiming the car of direct charity, which was noticeable in previous times. People are not seen going around in rags and barefooted. A large number of prisons and workhouses have been closed in recent years, all of which stands as a saving to expense.

The Labor party, or at least some of its leaders, have probably increased their prestige during their period of office by following a more temperate course than was anticipated, but it must be remembered that this moderation was imposed by the fact that it did not have a working majority and depended upon the Liberal party. It has been accused of extravagance which brought about the present financial crisis but it must be recalled that much of the expenditure was not initiated by the Labor Party. In short, it has not yet had an opportunity of showing what it can do. The section of a sound government would undoubtedly prove helpful at this stage.

Opinion in England is still divided on the matter of tariff. It probably has the support of the majority of the manufacturers but many traders favor free will curtail import and export operations which have been a source of income and outside of manufacturing. It is somewhat difficult to understand the opposition of the Labour Party to a tariff, although the recent influence and the very decided opinions of Mr. Snowden may be responsible to a degree. The matter may be summarized as follows: whilst the best informed opinion may still be divided on the tariff policy in particular, realizing that free trade is impossible in a world that is now almost universally protected, it is prepared to adopt this policy in practice.

The people of England appear on the whole to be comfortably clothed and housed. Homes may not contain as many modern appliances as on this side (although their number is increasing) but they are usually as large and well (if not better) constructed and furnished and one sees beautiful and well kept gardens everywhere. They seem to have money for amusements and the "movies" and other entertainments are everywhere well patronized. The number of car owners is less in proportion to the population but it is increasing. Money which would have be invested in cars is frequently employed by English families to send their children to expensive schools. After all, the country is small and it would be impossible for many car owners to find road space. Even now, parking is often a problem, particularly as in so many places and the streets are so many blocks. Many municipalities collect a parking fee of 13. cents for fifteen minutes, frequently employing war veterans to collect the money, but this minor taxation mounts up when many places are visited in a day. The people of England are more temperate than formerly and this is probably due as much to economic as to licensing restrictions.

I found people very much interested in Canada—this interest has always existed but was undoubtedly increased by Canada's fine work during the war, and, incidentally, our Canadian soldiers were very popular in England. Again, Canada's remarkable progress has attracted attention.

Discussing the world depression with a banker, after mentioning the world war aftermath as the principal cause, he was surprised to hear him mention the Canadian Wheat Pool as a secondary factor. Subsequently, he said that by accumulating stocks, the Pool had practically forced down the world's greatest primary product, with the result that other foodstuffs were bound to follow suit and with the farmers' reduced purchasing power, other commodities were affected. That is, of course, merely quoted as one opinion. In reply to my question, he stated that there has been no real reluctance to purchase Canadian wheat; in fact, dealers were found to buy in the cheapest market if they were to stay in business.

Taking everything into consideration, I came to the conclusion that England is managing well in spite of heavy burdens and, will continue to maintain its financial and industrial prestige because the people of the country are fundamentally sound, wise and progressive as ever.

Argument Stage In Bribery Cases

Toronto, Ont., Oct. 26.—(CP)—The York township conspiracy and bribery trial reached the stage of argument before the Fall assizes jury today and a verdict may be reached this afternoon.

While K.C., defence counsel, declined to submit any evidence on the conspiracy count, He had moved for the quashing of the conspiracy charge and Mr. Justice Kelly reserved the motion.

The men on trial are, W. G. Mewsbury, former Reeve; W. G. Armstrong, William McQueen, J. Little, I. C. Woolner and A. E. Peter Baker, former councillors, D. C. Grant, formerly of the township engineering department and Basil Holden of the Nelson River Construction Company.

It was clear in his mind Mr. Justice Kelly told defence counsel that the motion to quash the conspiracy count must fall as regard seven of the defendants, although as regards Strathearn against whom the evidence was taken ill with a cold here yesterday was improved today.

His temperature had subsided, but the physicians decided it was inadvisable for him to leave his bed for the present. He had to cancel all campaign engagements for today.

CHURCH STRUCK BY LIGHTNING

Widest Disorder When Building Is Wrecked

Welland, Ont., Oct. 26.—The little congregation of A'l People's Mission, on Mitchell Street, Port Colborne, narrowly escaped death or serious injury yesterday when fifteen minutes after they had been dismissed following the morning service, lightning struck the building causing damage estimated at $4,000. Many doors torn in the roof, plaster was ripped from the ceiling, windows blown out and, their sashes and frames, bits of heavy scantling crashed to the floor of the auditorium, wrecking seats and creating the widest disorder.

BODY FOUND IN RIDEAU

Smith's Falls, Oct. 26.—The body of Ralph Nelson, 25, was found in the Rideau Canal here today. Missing since late Saturday night, it is believed he was taking a short cut across a dangerous part of the railway bridge, stepped off the bridge into the canal.

Have you time to read this about the DEPRESSION

WHEN THE TOP OF THE HILL is in sight

RE YOU PUSHING—OR JUST sitting tight

WHILE thousands of Canadians are out of employment—and many businesses are at a standstill . . . and Governments are courageously planning to make work to relieve coming winter's distress—there is another—and brighter—side of the picture. The problem is being tackled—somebody is "doing something about it". Better times are nearer than just-round-the-corner—they are in sight!

For every one person who is unemployed—there are scores who have jobs—pay envelopes—salaries—incomes—stipends—dividends. Saving deposits in Canada are greater by $40,000,000 than a year ago. Canadian Firms will in September pay out over $15,000,000 in Dividends. And even though many firms are not piling up the profits of 1928-9, thousands of factories are working. Stores are buying—railways are hauling—places of amusement are thronged—radios shout from every house.

Somebody has money—somebody is spending.

The old 'bus of business is near the top of the long hill of Depression. It needs a strong, concerted push to the top. But who is to do the pushing? Certainly not the unemployed—they can't do it. It is for those who are in jobs—in positions—in office.

In almost every line of merchandise today's prices are lower—values greater—than at any time in the last 20 years. Today is the purchaser's opportunity—an opportunity to secure those things you need now—or will need in the near future. A New York Bank is reported as advising its 250,000 depositors to "reserve against emergencies—at least six months' salary, "and with the surplus" make careful purchases of things you want for permanent use, while prices remain low".

This Bank also says—

"In our opinion the millions of savings and thrift-depositors in this country have it in their power to change the whole aspect of industrial and trade conditions."

We make no comment—we quote it only as an evidence of the Bank's courage to make such a proposal.

The fact is, if commodities are bought, someone must receive wages for making them . . . someone thus has money to spend—has money to buy things. When commodities are bought, someone must make them—someone must receive wages . . . (well, there we are, right in the circle again).

The two busy B's of Buying and Business must be twins!

Did you ever stop to figure out the wages you create when you buy a piece of upholstered furniture (for instance). You cuts the lumber—who makes the glue—the springs—the fabrics—the moss—the fibre—the felt—the cotton and silk materials. Men and women! Who carts all these to the factory—who makes the motor trucks—the truck's tires—who supplies the gas—who serves out the lubricants. Who prints the catalogue—who photographs the chesterfield—who makes the paper—ink—and who binds it. Who sells the Furniture to the Retailer—types the order. Who makes the dress the typist's wages buy. Who sells the machine she uses—ribbons—and repairs. Who sorts the letter in the Post Office—delivers it—. Who sells the furniture to you—who delivers it. (We'll be mentioning more car tires again, if we don't watch out!). Who makes the sales slip—pencil—and tags—the string—paper—crates. Who pays rent—employs window dressers and window cleaners.

It makes one dizzy to think of all the people and wages involved in the purchase of any commodity . . . artists and artizans—managers and mechanics—drivers and drovers—clerks and clergymen. Multiply by ten thousand transactions and the total PUSH is staggering in its force.

Surely those who are able—those who possess the money—those who have steady employment should RIGHT NOW, get-out-of-the-bus, and PUSH!

So if you need any Commodity or Service—and possess the money to purchase it—buy NOW—and PUSH!

CAPONE'S DAYS SEEM ENDED

Gangster Chief Very Bitter Over 11-Year Term

Chicago, Oct. 26 (UP)—Chicago can hardly believe it, but Alphonse (Scarface Al) Capone actually is in jail.

Seven years of imprisonment were before him. He days as "the world's worst gangster" apparently were over. His reign of terror seemingly was done.

He sat coatless and collarless in cell No. 2 of The D as Cook County jail. "Scarface Al," known as "Snorky" to his intimates, was bitter. He received the heaviest sentence ever imposed for violation of the income tax laws. In addition to his record-breaking prison sentence, he must pay a fine of $50,000 and court costs of about $100,000 more. And that isn't all.

While he is doing the first honest work in his checkered career behind the walls of the penitentiary, Government agents will be seeking out his assets, his numerous automotive cars, his jewels and his antique furniture in an attempt to recover the $215,000 he should pay but didn't.

His sentence calls for 10 years in the penitentiary and one year in the city jail. When behavior himself well enough to obtain "time off," he will serve an actual total of seven and one-half years.

When he gets out he will be more than 40 years old. Police promise that every last vestige of his gang will have been wiped out, and that Capone will be just another ex-convict.

National Margin Of 100-200 Seen

London, Oct. 26—With polling day on Tuesday, leaders in Great Britain's general election campaign spent the week-end making last minute appeals from public platforms and over the radio, urging their workers to get out the vote.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald brought to a close the series of radio addresses made by leaders of all parties. In his peech he stressed the necessity of the people appreciating clearly the alignment of the parties in the present campaign. The Government, he pointed out, "is composed of three sections, each independent of the others, none of which has given up its principles by co-operating for national welfare.

"When their action has been effective," Mr. MacDonald said, "there is a clear understanding and shall all return. It is wish, to our ordinary party position."

On the other side, the prime minister said, there is the Labor party led by Hon. Arthur Henderson, former Labor Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, who, in the midst of the crisis, wishes to raise the issues on ordinary party political question.

Mr. MacDonald claimed that already some good results have come from the action of himself and his colleagues in the National Government. Already, he said, there are signs of a return of business and unemployment figures have decreased at a rapid rate. Even if the country they had habitually increased. He said he felt confident the next week's returns would show the same tendency.

Advice to Scrap Politics Given

Montreal, Que., Oct. 26—(By The Canadian Press)—Women of Quebec were urged to scrap politics and spend their time working for the good of the country, Speaking as the inaugural meeting of the Montreal Local Council of Women held here recently.

The meeting was formally opened by the Hon. L. A. David, Provincial Secretary, in the absence of the late Hon. L. C. David from whose home the organization takes its name. Mr. David emphasized the necessity not to forget in their interest in politics that they are citizens first and women in every sense of the word, and that it is the duty and privilege for them to merit the qualifying term "better than their politicians."

The Hon. Fernand Rinfret declared himself in favour of votes for women in this province, and stated that it be kept in mind that politics were a minor matter as compared with a relief programme.

Mrs. Emily David, president of the club, in answering the speakers, said that the women fully recognized the great need for their services in the field of politics and politics meant too much for them to desert the field entirely. "We shall do so," she announced.

Canadian Students Will Send Petition to Premier Bennett

University Students Make Strong Plea to Hon. R. B. Bennett

FOR ARMS PARLEY

Montreal, Que., Oct. 26.—(By The Canadian Press)—A request to Premier R. B. Bennett to select and instruct the representatives of Canada" at the forthcoming disarmament conference at Geneva, "as to insure that Canadian interests will be carried vigorously on behalf of significant reduction of armaments" has been drawn up into a petition which will be circulated among students at all Canadian universities. The movement began at McGill University, Montreal, and received the co-operation of Sir Arthur Currie, principal. Col. Wilfrid Bovey, head of the department of extra-mural activities, is on behalf of the petition for signatures as possible from as many Canadian Universities as can be reached.

The petition reads as follows:

"Students Petition respecting Canadian representation at the Disarmament Conference: To the Right Honorable R. B. Bennett, P.C., Prime Minister of the Dominion of Canada: The undersigned students in Canadian Universities, recognizing the gravity of the decisions which will be made at the Geneva Conference on disarmament in February, 1932, and appreciating the responsibility which failure in that conference will impose on the youth of all nations, respectfully but urgently request you as the head of our national government, to so select and instruct the representatives of Canada at Geneva as to insure that Canadian influence will be exercised vigorously on behalf of significant reduction of armaments.

"We further suggest that there are in Canada men of international ability, not now identified with public affairs, including those who have served their country as prime ministers, whose experience gained both give weight to Canadian representation and whose services we thought of our best "ilsens; and we earnestly suggest that the Government of Canada be constituted by professional experts in the armed services, but by statesmen representing the higher aspirations of the people for the maintenance of peace."

Principal Currie, who has given his whole-hearted support to the movement, had the following to say in a statement:

"The next disarmament conference must be a success. It must be so, if it does not ensure an honest effort to reduce armaments, the race of actual killing and wounding power will be resumed with all the evil effects of our institutions and the end of western civilization. Let me repeat that a disarmament must be honest, must be mutual and must be universal. Remember the veterans of the Great War, to the youth of the world, to me it is that governments determine on disarmament or else for there will be no other chance."

Under the leadership of the principal, interest in the disarmament and League of Nations topics have gradually increased at McGill. The McGill Debating Society Union has held several meetings which have concerned themselves with League topics, a Student Disarmament Committee has been formed with the object of drawing attention to the problem, and a new student movement towards disarmament, The Student Council has also taken interest in the subject and will supervise the distribution of the disarmement petition.

3 Castaways Upon Desert Isle in Pacific

San Diego, Calif., Oct. 26.—Three adventurers who have led a "Robinson Crusoe" life on a tiny Pacific island for the last six months will be forced to remain there for some time longer, it was learned by United States navy decides to send a ship to their rescue.

The three, said to be Elmer J. Hollister, of San Diego; Paul Stachich, of Huron, S.D., and Gordon M. Crawford, of Springfield, Ill., set sail from Clarion, Mexico, in 1930, in a yawl, "West Wind." They were believed to have been marooned on Cocos Island since April 15.

Rescue was obtained from the pleasure yacht of Julius Fleischmann, wealthy Cincinnati, O., sportsman, after word had been stated that a note in a cabin on the island indicated the three men had gone to the interior of the bit of land, but had not returned, to calls from the rescuer party.

The radio said the yawl had been wrecked and requested that relief ships be sent to search for the men on board. Naval officials here said they would refer the request to Washington.

It was thought possible that the men might have attempted to sail north to Salbach Island. No additional reports were received to indicate whether they had been found on the island.

Young Couple Die In Crossing Crash

Skrola, Oct. 26.—Angus Maw, 25, and his wife, Ethel, 27, of Nolalu, a fallen Township, 16 miles east of this city, were killed at 7.30 o'clock Sunday when their car, driven by the husband, was struck and hurled 100 yards by a passenger train on the main street of Wyoming, Lambton County. Maw, who was employed with the fast C.N.R. International Limited, leaves two children, Doris, aged 2, and Howard, aged 6 months, who were miraculously with slight injuries.

The Maw family resided on the 161st concession of Enniskillen Township, and were driving through Wyoming, visited with relatives in Wyoming until after midnight.

With the children asleep, they started homeward, driving south along the main street of Wyoming to reach a connecting link on King's highway No. 21.

Thomas Barr, the gatekeeper on the crossing, saw the car approaching while the locomotive was rushing through the town at seventy miles an hour. He lowered the gates. The car shot across the crossing and the automobile crashed through the gates, carrying off part of the arm of the gate.

The brakes had apparently been applied to the automobile, and in the time it struck the gates, but the momentum carried the car across the side of the fourth Pullman, causing the overturning of the car and in the Pullman brake mechanism, and eventually stopping the train.

ONE CHARGE FACED HETT

Statement That 2 More Are Pending is Corrected

Toronto, Oct. 26—On Friday night last the Canadian Press carried on its wires a despatch from Parry Sound that "J. R. Hett, barrister of Orillia and Parry Sound, had been committed for trial on a charge of fraudulently converting $450 belonging to Mrs. D. D. Cone of Parry Sound, to his own use. Two other charges of a similar nature were dismissed. Hett still faces preliminary hearing on two addition al charges, both involving client money."

The Canadian Press is now informed Mr. Hett does not face two additional charges and very much regrets the mis-statement quoted above. The error arose through the confusion with the two charges dismissed.

Insanity Plea Will Be Made For Woman

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 26—Indications that insanity will be the basis of Winnie Ruth Judd's plea when she is arraigned for trial next week for the killing of Miss Hedvig Samuelson and Mrs. Agnes Anne Le Rot cropped out to day as investigators began collecting evidence to contradict her story.

Dr. Winfield C. Judd, the defendant's husband, gave what authorities considered an intimation of a defense when he said he "had confidence in his wife." Her mind is failing—she seemed to think she had to be her hospital room all last night."

CATHARINES, Ont., Oct. 26.—(By the Canadian Press) — Approximately half of the work yet to be done on the Welland Ship Canal will be undertaken by the Federal Government, according to word received by Hon. Medicine and Spiritual Healing Not Opposed

Toronto, Oct. 26 (CP)—"There is no opposition between medicinal and spiritual healing," declared Rev. T. E. Rowe, of Victoria, B.C., in an address on spiritual healing in St. Simon's Anglican Church here last night.

"The great stumbling block to our spiritual healing today is our lack of co-operation. The doctor is present with us through his holy spirit, and the doctor is the physical as potent as it was in the days of His earthly ministry," he said.

Suffer Big Loss Through Illness

Do you know that the average loss of time in illness for each man's worker in a year is five days, and for each woman's seven days?

When you add to its cost this loss of time, the expen e of medical attendance, medicines, hospital treatment, for non-workers, invalid chairs, trusses, and other appliances from the national insurance the amount runs to $600,000,000 a year.

Surely a common cold is the worst offender and is responsible for 39 per cent of all absences from work of men and 31 per cent on the part of women. In other words, cold accounts for one-third of all the loss of wages and one-third of the total cost to the community of all kinds.

Already interesting discovery has been made, namely, that young people suffer far worse from colds than old people. The number of sufferers among people under 30 is 50 per cent, but the decline in people between 60 and 70 it is only one in ten. It is for this reason that folks take more care of themselves as they grow older, are killed off before they reach the age of 70 on score.

Malaria, that fever which is spread by mosquitoes, renders rich and poor alike in some parts of the continent of Europe almost unmarketable to the white man. It causes more than a million deaths a year in the world at least as many in China, and probably a million more elsewhere.

From the point of view of money lost, the third worst of the world's diseases is pneumonia. It is indeed the most disabling of all diseases, and with the exception of the Royal Sanitary Institute, Sir W. Wiggin stated that it caused a yearly loss of 3,141,000 weeks' work among insured workers alone. General hospitals and nursing homes are the special victims of rheumatism. Rheumatic cases are caused by metal poisoning.

Unlike many other diseases, rheumatism is easily preventable. But it accounts for one-sixth of the total loss of work in Great Britain, Germany, and North America.

HANGS SELF

Toronto, Oct. 26.—(By The Canadian Press)—In custody on a charge of wilful murder, Nicholas Jastyzran, 62, Toronto, hanged himself. He fastened his leather belt to his neck and then attached it to an iron bar on the upper part of the cell, police said. His married daughter and son-in-law were in the police station at the time arranging bail for him.

CAST IRON PAVEMENTS

Passengers on railroad trains are not the only ones to ride on a Parisian pavement, for they are paving the streets of Sweden with cast iron. In Stratford, a London suburb, a section of highway paved with cast iron has been laid. The iron paving is surfaced so as to prevent skidding, and is cushioned underneath by a bituminous float so as to prevent vibration being carried through to the foundation. Despite this sounds modern, a similar venture was tried more than 50 years ago in London. The iron rails were and waggons then, however, must have been designing compared with the modern behavior of our present rubber-tired conveyances.

Mr. E. Cockburn Kyte, librarian of Queen's University, Kingston, is to speak at the Tennyson Club Monday evening. A banquet will be held at the Hotel Globe.

Firearms Cannot be Discharged in City

The "wide and open spaces" afford the only suitable places for the discharging of firearms, so far as the police authorities of Belleville are concerned. Several complaints have been received recently that rifles have been fired in the city limits and the police are determined that it must stop. Saturday afternoon, Detective Sergeant Reaveley found that a boy was firing a gun near the Bridge street school and at once in the police car to investigate. The surprise was complete, the boy there with a Winchester rifle and several shells. He brought the boy to the police station and after being reprimanded he was allowed to go home.

The city bylaw regarding the use of firearms within the limits reads as follows: "Any person who shall fire or discharge any gun, pistol, air gun or other firearm or set off or explode any squib or fire cracker or fire cracker in the Corporation of the City of Belleville without the police department is desirous that the boys of the city should have the benefit of these regulations and that they govern themselves in accordance with them, and the police will call on the boys to have a good time, but there are certain limits within they can not permit them to do.

The African estate of "Bolly" Joel, famous South African race horse owner, estimated to be worth many millions, totals only $57,275.

Letters to the Editor

COLD COMFORT

Editor Ontario Intelligencer,

Dear Sir,—

I can endorse all that Veteran said in Friday's issue of your paper in my letter through the mail box. All he pictured was vivid to me. I had the honor of fighting in that line trenches for twelve months and by the help of God and some better (once before and after for five francs—about four shillings and twopence in English money—less than a dollar. Going into action, one of our officers told us that if the Government paid us $50.00 a day for what we were doing it would not be a cent too much. In a few minutes after he spoke, he was killed. He would have made a good administrator he had a chance. It is no bad that so many of those who now have to do with the returned boys welfare never saw one of them there or they would say nothing is too good for them say accordingly. I am now suffering with a return of war wounds and cannot get twelve cents a day consideration. I have a letter from the Commanding officer recommending me for bravery on the field of battle, but this makes no differences now that war is over. Some day we will wake up (when we're dead) and realize a 6 months "Pit for heroes to live in." The deaf are not the only ones whose objectors were wise in refusing to fight.

Unknown Boy Shoots, Hits One in Ankle

Toronto, Oct. 26 (CP)—One boy was shot in the ankle and other cronies were sent scurrying for shelter Saturday when a 12-year-old youngster with a rifle called to his companions:

"Get back or I'll shoot you all to bits."

Peering behind a tree, the others urged the boy to drop the gun, but the latter only pulled trigger. Then one of them, Edward Borden, 13, tied up a slope to another tree. The bullet made a magnificent bougue to his ankle.

The name of the youth who held the rifle was unknown to the other boys after the shot was fired. As he ran up to Borden and said: "I thought I knew I'd hit you, according to one of the group.

FRESHIE ONE UP ON SOPHS

Tocc Boat Trip With Girls, Eluding Capture

Kingston, Oct. 26—Arts freshmen of Queen's University slipped a fast one over the harshly sophomores and seniors on Saturday night when they chartered the British Isles, the Yacht, within lines and accompanied by lady friends made a shooting trip to Clayton, N.Y. Although the sophomores were "wise" to the fact that such an undertaking was being considered, they were unable to ascertain the time or place of departure and the outward journey was successfully accomplished.

Shortly before midnight the sophomores and seniors prepared a great reception for the freshmen and the shores of the waterfront were patrolled from the Kingston wireless to the wireless station at Gananoque in order that the freshmen should not land without being detected. Thugs dashed along the waterfront carrying students armed with scissors, rope and paint, and about midnight it was announced that the yacht had appeared in sight.

Approaching the Brock street wharf Captain Malone, who was in charge of the vessel, contemplated the danger to his vessel of the students. who now numbered about 500, attempted to "rush" the vessel in an effort to get the freshmen; but decided away from the wharf out into the harbor. Word was sent to Professor John Cleary to take two customs officers out to the yacht so that a customs examination could be made. This was completed with little difficulty, while the customs men were doing their duty, the freshmen got together and decided to send the ladies of the party to the shore in the pilot boat. The ladies were necessary to carry all of the ladies to the wharf at the foot of Johnson street, and they were not molested by the students. The lights on the British Isles packs were then put out, and the vessel proceeded up the harbor. The course was later changed, however, and the freshmen were landed at a secluded place down the river and made the journey home on foot. In the meantime the sophomores and seniors searched vainly for the landing place of the freshmen and eventually had to admit defeat.

It is against the rules of the Alma Mater Society of Queen's University for freshmen to hold social events for the first few months of the term.

Money of No Use In This Country

Montreal, Que. (CP)—Tales of a land where money is of practically no use, and even the best way of buying anything is to take your shirt off and trade it for what you want were told in Montreal recently by a visitor at the City Hall, a relative of one of the salesmen who preferred to maintain his incognito. He had just returned from the Peace River Country.

"Practically no money is used amongst the pioneers in that recently opened country, he stated. On several occasions, wishing to buy anything from food to gasoline, he found it necessary to trade articles of wearing apparel to get them. On one occasion he traded a shirt which he found somewhat too small for him, and bartered it in a village hostel for his night's lodging.

On another occasion he spent a night playing cards with a policeman and a third party. Next morning he asked the policeman where the third friend was and was informed he had been taken away early in day on next lap of a journey as he owed money for the wharf he would be tried for murder. He had knocked a man dead with an axe some time previously.

Embarrassing Moments

Worrying Wives and Others

by Beatrice Fairfax

An Authority on Problems of Love, Marriage

Are you getting pouches under your eyes and crowsfeet, too, worrying? Take heart, for the things you worry over seldom come to pass. Poets and prophets have said this in a variety of ways which would take too much space to quote. Stripped to bone and marrow, the substance is, what you fret and worry about will not happen.

And suppose it does happen — worrying isn't going to help. On the contrary, you're going to open up all sorts of calamity channels in advance by stewing. Instead, try the opposite and do worry records backward.

Throw them out as you did the cracked graphophone records last year. That had a general cleaning.

Apart from being the greatest silly ass getter for the time of any parlor business, worry has no real market value. Two or three days of good, self-indulgent worry, with a little sleep-night and the side will put more lines in your face than a spell of illness and the loss of your pocketbook combined. And when it's over —your worry cause—you'll be just where you were. Your problems unsolved, things you fretted over piled high as furniture on moving day.

I've used the word carouse intentionally, for people who would be horrified at the idea of drinking, or dodging golf for a month or so to kick out of a prolonged worry spree. They seem to feel there is something creditable in stewing and fretting over what might, could, would, or should happen.

The reason for this gentle reminder of the futility of fretting is a score of letters from people who have, in the past, immediate family circle, some thirty-third degree worrier who drives them and drives others of the family to distraction.

With these worry-experts anything will do. Let the weather upset over the job, the vamp or her companion get into mischief, the shekel with equal gusto they can worry over health, children, loss of youth, beauty, money—none of which is worth the price. Worry is not by your trouble-whooping state of mind is made a bit more certain.

If it's the job you're fretting over, put past that much nerve force into your work, or hide-bound for a new job, or applying your energies to thinking up new ideas that will land a job.

And if it's a vamp you're worrying over, don't lose your good looks fretting—you pored them! To a wife who has to suffer the ignominy of seeing her husband's eyes stray to another woman, the best advice is to keep her mind of balance and not to fret. If she nags and raves against her rival, she has thrown away her last card. The husband won't have nothing more to lose. His wife knows the worst.

But if a woman can keep her head, and just a little grain of humor—if the straying of her husband off the reservation is regarded as temporary madness—the chances are that he'll come back. The balance of things is on your side. And probably made a fool of himself. If cables to cut—there are a hundred ways of keeping him at home. But my dear sister ,worrying won't help. There are children, they make hard nor pink eyelids, nor—nagging.

STEAM POWER FOR AIRPLANE

Discarded Source Power For Autos May Be Used For Airplanes

Cleveland, Oct. 26—Steam discarded as a source of power by the automobile industry and giving way to electricity on many railroad lines, may soon find its haven in the airplane.

Engineers of the Great Lakes Aircraft Corporation are working on plans for a steam power plant that would enable the construction of transport and military planes of much greater size, capacity and speed than has ever been projected.

The steam power plant for airplanes is nothing new, Hiram Maxim used one in a plane model he built in 1893 and Prof. P. Langley used a steam engine in the plane he flew three years later.

But the type of steam engine the Great Lakes engineers have in mind, and which they are now building and testing, is said likely to be of quite a revolutionary character. Greatest promise for it is its proof against serious boiler trouble, since the element will consist of a number o' small tubes.

Possibility of building a steam engine for airplanes arose from the development of light steel strong alloy and rustless steels, which were unknown only a few years ago. Thus a compact, very light plant will develop some 2,000 horsepower.

Four such engines would supply the power of all 12 engines on the huge DO-X, now in Germany. The possibility of 75 and 100-passenger transports is brought within the span of three or four of these steam engines.

The principle of steam power is simple. The plant principally consists of a steam tube water boiler, a high speed turbine with reduction gears to the propeller, and a condenser. The water, drawn from a tank, is heated by a burner from a supply of crude oil. The resultant steam passes into the turbine, rotating that at a fast speed, then goes out to the condenser and back to the tank to be used over and again.

The design and arrangement of these parts are such that the engineers say they will permit streamlining effects to be built into the body of the plane, further to advance the resultant speed.

The engineers believe that this will be a very economical and efficient form of power for large transport and military planes. They add, further, that it will lead to greater power combined in the steam plant will enable a pilot to cruise several miles without looking for a suitable landing place, whether he is out of fuel or any mechanical trouble arises.

The airplane steam plant also will be practically noiseless and vibrationless, they say, and its fewer parts will permit lower cost of maintenance. Higher flying speeds also are predicted.

Besides the steam plant should assure closer range control, because of its lack of an ignition system. And it would provide an adequate cabin for winter flying.

Women Sees Chance Here

Montreal, Que.—C.P.—Canadian Women are preferred to those of Britain in the United States by Mrs. Katherine Steven of Aberdeen, Scotland, who returned recently to Great Britain after attending the world conference of the Women's Christian Temperance Union held in Toronto.

"The American women, it seems to have gone to the other extreme, and far from being dependent she seems to delight in being 'spoiled' which in my estimation is not an ideal feminine characteristic."

URGES CURE WORLD'S ILLS

International Chamber of Commerce Asks Action

New York, Oct. 26 (CP).—A copyright cable from Paris to the New York Herald Tribune today says in part:

"The council of the International Chamber of Commerce composed of representatives of the finance and industry of the world, has unanimously adopted at its meeting here yesterday five resolutions which will call on the governments of the world to take immediate steps to formulate and co-operative action to cure the ills of the world.

"The resolutions urged definite settlement of the debt and reparations questions, stressed the need of disarmament, called for a lowering of tariff barriers, demanded prompt action to restore the gold standard and suggested the universal adoption of rigid governmental economies They are regarded here as the most forthright and definite decisions the chamber has taken in many years.

"The first resolution affirms the cessation of confidence", is phrased dramatically. It says:

"World conditions become daily more critical; confidence wanes, capital hesitates, commerce stagnates, unemployment spreads and enterprise is paralyzed. Nevertheless these factors are not symptoms of any organic ailment in our economic system. They are rather the signs of a pathological condition and the results of errors—a situation which can be corrected.

"The attention of the governments is drawn to the necessity for treating the question of monetary stability and the normal operation of the machinery of international exchange.

"(2) Adoption of economic policies which will make possible the temporary requirement of every nation, small lead ultimately to free international movement of goods, capital, persons and services."

"(3) A definite settlement of the inter-governmental debts.

"(4) Restoration of monetary stability and the normal operation

"(5) Elimination by all governments of expenses not absolutely necessary, and reduction of the tax burden to the lowest level consistent with strict balancing of the national budgets."

HUGE VOTE POLLED IN BRITAIN DISPITE FOG

Election Sun is Blotted Out by Peasoup Fog in London, but Vote Large

Antipodean Goodwill Party Will Stop Here

City In Midnight Darkness at Midday, Then Blanket Lifts

FOG SPREADS

Vote at Seaham Most Interesting Because of Premier

London, Oct. 27 (AP)—London's characteristic pea soup fog blotted out the election day sun and threatened for a time to reduce voting to a minimum, but when the polls closed for the day long lines formed at the polling places and it looked as though this would be one of the heaviest votes in many years.

Up to noon the city was in midnight darkness. Lights were turned on in the streets and in the shops but even so traffic was retarded and fleets of trucks conveying voters to the polling places ploughed up in long delays.

Then for a time the blanket lifted and the big parade began to the ballot-boxes. Toward evening the mist closed in again but the newspapers pressed their private cars into service and a fairly normal record fogbound at home.

Up to noon the city was in midnight darkness. Lights were turned on in the streets and in the shops but even so traffic was retarded and fleets of trucks conveying voters to the polling places ploughed up in long delays.

Then for a time the blanket lifted and the big parade began to the ballot-boxes. Toward evening the mist closed in again but the newspapers pressed their private cars into service and a fairly normal record fogbound at home.

The fog spread into the Midlands district but the chief interest was where Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald is running as a National candidate against Mr. Manchurian barr man and another, the ten shons all day long.

The experts were banking on a stable majority for the government. With this accepted generality as a foregone conclusion interest centred in the contests which involved outstanding personalities.

"The most fascinating, but," was the most interesting, but at Darwen, Sir Herbert Samuel, liberal leader of the Government Liberals, was in a three-cornered fight. At Burnley, Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, Labor leader, was contesting against a Conservative and a Communist. In Plymouth, Lady Astor was opposed by a Labor candidate and the odds were even.

More than 30,000,000 entitled to the 30,000,000 entitled to the ballot can vote inside this election. Crews from their business addresses and once from their homes.

Since the trouble began last week four civilians have been killed and thirty-one wounded. Thirty-five soldiers and police have been wounded.

SHIP WITH TWO DEAD SEAMEN FOUND ADRIFT

Schooner Evidently Lost Last Week in Gale Off Coast

MASTS GONE

Sailors Apparently Are Drowned By Heavy Seas in Hold

Chetcamp, N. S., Oct. 27 (CP)—A derelict of the storm, manned by two dead sailors, the thirty-foot schooner Lendaal Schooner Catalogue was picked up fifteen miles off the Cape Breton coast on Sunday morning by the Sydney schooner W. A. F. and towed to Chetcamp.

Captain William Fraser of the W. A. F. said the schooner was dismasted, with her decks awash, and probably had been victim of the storm that lashed the Gulf of Saint Lawrence more than a week ago. Two men were found in the hold where he thought they had been trapped and drowned when the seas swamped the vessel.

Word from Newfoundland today indicated that the schooner was owned at Saint Lunaire, and efforts were being made to get in touch with shipping men there to identify the dead seamen who were buried at Chetcamp yesterday following an inquest.

H. C. Schofield, chairman of the Harbor Commission Board, has in turn communicated with the city council, presenting the request of the premier and the matter is expected to be dealt with at a council meeting later today.

What They Say of Esplanade

Street Corner Editorials On Project Of River-bank Development

Perhaps no other project that Belleville has ever contemplated has intrigued the interest and the curiosity of the citizens of Belleville so much as the construction of the proposed esplanade, therefore these "Other Peoples' Opinions" should excite more comment than half a dozen feature articles would.

They are culled from the "man on the street", are asked at a time when he is not so disposed as to stop and give on a lengthy talk on the subject, and are a true criterion of the state of mind on the subject of the person spoken to and thus all the more interesting.

Mr. Berkwhistle, mechanic:

"The absorption of the money for the project, made necessary by the cost of the buildings and material, will not relatively compensate the laborer, for whose benefit the work is supposedly undertaken, as in the case of the construction of the water main from the filtration plant to the city, where more actual pick and shovel work is involved. I am in favor of the water main."

J. Bargman, grocer:

"I am in accord with any program which will provide work for my customers."

Geo. Bennett, contractor:

"It is absurd to think that such an undertaking as the esplanade can be built for the amount estimated. The project will cost somewhere in the neighborhood of a half-million dollars."

J. Clippert, out-of-town construction foreman:

"It should undoubtedly benefit Belleville, usually and at the same time beautify the whole water front, but your estimate should take into consideration the extra cost involved owing to frost and the consequent delay. You could not start this a cold weather job as there is too much material to be used, with a possible loss of some of it in cold weather. Then again it is a waste of money attempting to work in the winter."

N. Seaberg, claims adjuster:

"Anything is preferable to the mess along the river that now exists. I believe the city should have no hesitation in commencing at once; it should have been done years ago."

Mrs. Spencer, housewife:

"I had no say anything wrong with the idea, but I think the proposed water main from the filter would provide more actual work for people."

R. Neatham, laborer:

"Certainly I am in favor of it—that it providing they wait until after the new election before commencing anything."

Justice Kelly Defines What Agreement to do Wrong Means

York County Conspiracy Case Goes To Jury

BRIBERY COUNTS

Toronto Oct. 27 (CP) — "The mere intention of doing a wrongful act is not sufficient to constitute an offence, but what is most important is the intention to carry out the agreement to do a wrong, even to a greater extent than wrongdoing itself," was Mr. Justice Kelly's instructing the jury into whose hands in the Toronto County conspiracy case was placed today.

The jury returned its verdict of the jury are: E. G. Westbury, former Reeve of York township; W. G. Armstrong, Dr. Little, William McQueen, Isaac Woolner and A. E. Baker, labourer; Frederick W. G. Strathearn, formerly on the township engineering staff; and Joseph Basil Holden of the Nelson River Construction Company.

The conspiracy charge is being tried separately from the bribery charges in which Holden is charged with giving and the others with receiving $40,000 in connection with township contracts. The charge at present before the jury is the conspiracy count.

Radio To Link U.S. Canada and Alaska

Washington, D.C. Oct. 27. — A radio service linking Canada, the United States and Alaska was outlined to a radio commission examiner today by W. H. Walker, Chicago, representing the Telephone Bond and Share Company.

Walker said he applied for permission to establish a radio telephone station at Ketchikan, Alaska, said his company had assets of more than $40,000,000 and that establishment of the system would fill a great need in that section where no other country prevented telephone lines.

Hamilton, Oct. 27—Their car so completely demolished that bystanders were unable to tell what color it had been a sedan or a roadster, two men escaped serious injury in a collision with a motor truck on the Longwood road this morning. Centenarians Vote to "Save England" Many Over 100 Years Ballot

One Voter 101 Years of Age Calls Girls of To-day Forward Hussies

FLEETS OF CARS

Tory Nobleman Uses Plane To Carry Voters To Polls

(By George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Oct. 27.—Heavy polling was reported from all points in the British General Elections as the day progressed, despite fog and weather in London and some parts of the country.

Three centenarians at Folkestone were among the earliest voters, as was the oldest member in London. "I am going to save the country," said Mrs. Nesbitt, aged 105, as she left for the Pumpshed poll. Mrs. Marriott, aged 101, drove to Thanet Electric Hall cheering casually of the corn laws.

"People don't understand today what it means to see people starving," she said. "It's a tragic shame that the modern girl was a "forward hussy."

In Bexley, a woman of 96 years took her first motorcar ride to the polling booth.

Lord Apsley, Conservative candidate in Epping Forest, used two aeroplanes to bring voters from Cardiff to their own constituency at Epping.

Oct. 27.—(CP)—There are 615 seats in the House of Commons. Before the polling 469 members had been returned—29 by acclamation and one by advance mail vote in Wales University.

Of the remaining 547 results about 221 are expected tonight. Tomorrow, when the bulk of returning officers make their declarations, there will be another 321 results.

That leaves five seats. Two are in the far north of Scotland and their results may not be known until Thursday or later. Two more are the seats for the English universities which two members are elected by proportional representation, the only case where this system is used in the election.

The remaining seat is that for London university. The graduates have until Friday to register their university vote. Some of the keenest university voters have no resident overseas, chiefly in India, the Dominions and Colonies. But owing to the short time allowed for nomination day and polling most of them will be unable to vote.

Those who are here in England however, are expected to vote to a man.

Thus the new parliament will not be completed with the completion of the election returns. The ancient palace of Holyrood Scottish peers are to meet under the presidency of the Lord High Commissioner to choose their representatives in the House of Lords for the duration of the next Parliament.

"Domestic Unrest If Folk At Home See Pictures"

CARRIES ONE

Newark, N.J., Oct. 27—H. G. Wells, British novelist, who has written with unabashed pen about the flights of men from man's earth, today found himself confidentially embarrassed at the prospect of a little plane ride to Washington, D.C.

It was not the air that frightened him, but the battery of newspaper cameramen who surrounded him as he was about to take off from the municipal airport.

Said Mr. Wells:

"The folks at home don't expect me to fly and it may cause domestic unrest if they see the pictures."

Finally however, the novelist consented and the cameras clicked merrily as he stepped into the plane carrying what airport officials proclaimed a new note in the well-dressed aerial passenger's equipment, a heavy gold-headed cane.

Prior to her marriage she came to Belleville to reside, Mrs. Crowe being a member of the staff of the Continental Life Insurance Company here. Besides her husband, her father and mother, two sisters survive.

The funeral will take place this afternoon from the residence of her parents in Trenton, the funeral services being conducted by the Rector, Rev. Percy Heywood. A large number of friends were present at the services and the many floral tributes bore testimony of the popularity of the young matron.

Interment was made in St. George's Cemetery. The pall bearers were Messrs. Frank Kelly, F. Yeast, L. Cullen, D. O'Neil, H. Kennedy, Trenton and R. Purdy of Belleville.

MICROBES MAY BE MOBILIZED FOR NEXT WAR

Bacteria and Deadly Weapons To Be Experimented With

ROTARIAN SPEAKS

World peace was the subject of discussion before the Belleville Rotary Club on Monday, the speaker being S. J. Graham, chairman of the International Service Committee of the club. Mr. Graham handled the subject in a very interesting manner pointing out the ghastly results how monocrafte with new and terrible chemical preparations. Bacteriology is also being studied with a view to use during possible future wars, and it is said that means have been found whereby entire nations can be destroyed at will through bacteria. Painting the horrors and uselessness of war the speaker said if the money spent upon armaments last year by the various nations had been expended upon public works of a permanent nature the world would have benefitted. Great Britain spent $375,000,000 last year, the United States $782,000,000 and other nations in proportion.

International peace will must be fostered through such organizations as Rotary and kindred societies to the end that war shall be no more. Rotary has 156,000 members in thirty different countries and can influence public opinion to a considerable extent. The Y.M.C.A. has had a wonderful world influence for good, as evidenced being the fact that in the cabinet of the Chinese President of China today there are five ex-Y.M.C.A. workers.

Last December representatives of twenty-seven nations gathered to discuss disarmament but had to adjourn until next February on account of world conditions, particularly France's distrust of Germany, engendered by the memory of 1870. United States desire to see on a naval parity with great Britain was also a stumbling block.

Too much politics and not enough patriotism is the stumbling block in the way of disarmament and world peace, said the speaker, who referred to the present dispute between Japan and China, its causes and probable effect.

World problems can only be solved satisfactorily by the nations realizing that they all worship the same God and repenting of political and international sins and uniting upon one basis of international trust, confidence and good will.

Visions 2000 ft. Buildings in 1981

New York, N.Y.—Future generations of 1981 or thereabouts will live in superskyscrapers perhaps 2,000 feet high in an ideal "climate" controlled by mechanical means as to sunlight, temperature, humidity and atmospheric purity, Joseph H. Chanin, architect engineer and head of the Chanin organization, recently predicted. The structure of a half century hence will have walls of metal or glass—probably the former—instead of masonry. Fifty or sixty of them, each with a population of considerably greater than that now living on Manhattan Island.

Such a building, if 2,000 feet high would occupy a ground area of 400,000 to 500,000 square feet and would be located at least a half mile from the next superbuilding. It is believed 100,000 occupants would travel to other great buildings by a system of radiating rapid transit lines operating at speeds much faster than those of existing subways.

The huge shaft of the building is devoted entirely to residential uses. Communal kitchens and dining rooms on each floor will replace individual facilities for preparing and serving food. Artificial lighting transmits a highly efficient amount of ultra-violet rays. The air is kept within certain temperature and humidity are always maintained at the scientifically ideal standards. While many terraces are included, they are always purely for their decorative value and for their aesthetic value to the inhabitants.

The base of the building is devoted to the business and retail facilities supporting the residential portion of the building—which in reality is a complete city. The roof of the base portion of the structure is here shown planted. With the development of a braking device or the perfection of the gyroplane, it may serve as a landing place for aircraft.

Theatrical Landmark To Be Demolished Soon

New York, N.Y.—The old Empire Theatre where some of the country's most celebrated actors and actresses won their stardom, is going to be sold at auction soon. The Empire and the Metropolitan Opera House, glamorous relics of the Nineties, are the last surviving of the playhouses that once lined Broadway from Forty-Second Street down to Herald Square. The theatre district now lies in the upper forties and lower Fifties.

First night audiences in the old days applauded Maude Adams at the Empire, and Viola Allen, John Drew, Margaret Anglin, Henry Miller, William Gillette and the youthful Ethel Barrymore. More recently Katherine Cornell has appeared in several plays there. Her latest vehicle, "The Barretts of Wimpole Street", based on the romance of Robert and Elyzabeth Browning, was at the Empire.

Charles Frohman opened the house in 1902 with a masterpiece by David Belasco called "The Girl I Left Behind Me". The critics panned it, and it lasted only two performances. But later it was produced again and became almost as famous as David Belasco himself.

U.S. stamps are of some 47 different varieties and in 15 different shades.

EDISON WORKED AS A NEWSBOY

Only Because He Wanted Extra Spending Money

Toronto, Ont. (By The Canadian Press)—"It was the schoolteacher mother from Vienna, Ont., who gave Edison most of his education," Apart from that, it is said, that he spent only three months at a regular school—and was considered stupid. In his earlyteens he is found working as a newsboy on the Grand Trunk system which had recently been extended from Toronto to Port Huron and thence to Detroit. Young Edison's run was between the two latter cities; his family lived in Port Huron. He was not working as a "newsy" because there was any poverty in the home. Indeed, he was making pocket money with which to pursue his chemical experiments which were already engrossing his attention."

German Prince Punches Clock Enjoys Labors

Detroit, Mich—Punching a time clock at the Ford Motor Company plant here with other employees, Prince Louis Ferdinand von Hohenzollern, a grandson of the former Kaiser, enrolls in the army the time of his life. He thinks United States Army is "is what you call 'hot stuff'," professes to have no political opinions and is proud to be a factor of philosophy degree received from the University of Berlin that he is of his time of Prince.

The youthful Prince—he is 22 years old—is endeavoring to learn industrial methods and merchandising practices from the ground floor, going to work in every department of the automobile plant.

"I had to work darn hard for that degree," he explained in telling why he would rather be called "Doctor Louis Ferdinand" than "Prince Louis Ferdinand."

Aside from admitting he is antibellicistic, Prince Louis dodges all efforts to lead him into political discussion. He would rather discuss the relative merits of motor cars.

The Prince believes that the turn in world affairs that overthrew the Hohenzollern dynasty in Germany brought to him a sort of "new freedom." Far from being resentful, he is enjoying it, he said.

He refers to the former Kaiser either as "my grandfather" or just "the old man."

Vital Statistics Down in Canada

Ottawa, Oct. 27.—According to a bulletin issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, births registered in September in 53 cities of Canada numbered 7,135, deaths, 3,700, and marriages, 3,207 as compared with 7,179 births, 3,702 deaths and 3,219 marriages in September last year, giving a decrease of 1 per cent. in births, 2 per cent. in deaths, and 9 per cent. in marriages.

The nine months, January to September show 66,116 births, 34,697 deaths and 22,664 marriages registered, as against 66,874 births, 35,733 deaths and 25,411 marriages during the corresponding period last year, a decrease of 1 per cent. in births, 3 per cent. in deaths and 11 per cent. in marriages.

CONSTABLE BADLY HURT

Orillia, Ont., Oct. 27.—Police Constable O. B. Strong of the Windsor force is in Hotel Dieu Hospital with a fractured skull. His condition is reported as favorable. The officer was injured when he was knocked from his bicycle when he crashed into an automobile. He was no duty at the time.

Wages Lowest in 15 Years on U.S. Farms

Washington, D.C.—Farmers faced with an abundant supply of help and the necessity of cutting production costs, are paying their hired men the lowest wages in fifteen years. The Agriculture Department's latest index was 113 per cent of the pre-war average, compared with 150 per cent a year ago.

The usual seasonal trend of higher wages from January to October, at the end of the harvest, has been reversed this year. The index fell from 129 on January 1 to 113 in October.

This trend has been accompanied by a decline in demand for help and an increase in supply. The demand on October 1 was 68 per cent of normal, compared with 75 a year ago, and the supply was 113, against 106.

First Empire Bible in Afrikans Words

Cape Town, South Africa (By The Canadian Press)—Not a great event for the Dutch-speaking section of the community as well as for the philologists interested in development of languages, according to the Cape Argus, of Cape Town, will be the appearance of the first complete Bible, printed in that language. There seems to be two versions of the Bible in Afrikaans, but Rev. R. P. M. Steyn, local secretary of the Bible Societies states his organization is only concerned with the official version to be published in the United States Army, at present travelling the country with Dutch churches in the Transvaal and Orange Free State. Three men collaborated and have been at work for some years.

The whole of the translation has been carried out in South Africa independently and no effort to perpetuate passages that could legitimately be objected to in other translations. In order to clear up doubtful points, the translators obtained the assistance of Dr. Jan Celderen, an expert in Semitic languages, from the Calvinistic University at Amsterdam, who visited South Africa about four years ago. In 1921 the gospels and psalms, as translated by the five professors mentioned, appeared. Next year, the complete Bible will be published. Both to avoid misunderstanding the Afrikaans Bible will conform to the latest requirements in the language, distinct from the High Dutch text. A word that has always caused a great deal of difficulty is the old Dutch "gy," as applied to the Deity. It was felt that the familiar Afrikaans "jy" would not do. Many philologists, however, considered the formal "U" too stiff. The translators in the end decided to use this word wherever an inferior addresses a superior, and consequently in referring to Christ or God. On the other hand, where these two speak to men, the forms "jy" and "julle" are employed. A copy of the MS. has arrived in South Africa. The printing is being done in England on the score of economy and superior technical arrangements. There will be several editions, varying in price according to size of type, binding, the presence of references, etc. Prices will be about sixty dollars for similar editions in other Western idioms. The Bible Society has already published the book in 642 languages, distributing about 1,000,000 copies of Bibles or parts every month.

Hamilton Realtor Found Shot Dead

Hamilton, Oct. 27.—With a bullet wound through his heart, the body of Charles R. Whitfield of 320 Wilford avenue South, a well-known realtor and member of the firm of Whitfield and Price, was found lying in a ditch on a North Grimsby farm shortly before dusk last night.

The fatal injury was suffered, it is believed, by the victim stumbled across a ditch, accidentally discharging his shotgun.

He had spent the day shooting pheasants, and when he failed to return to the farm of his nephew, P. O. Reinke of North Grimsby, a search was instituted. The remains were discovered a half mile from the house.

The North Atlantic highway is the busiest of the world's trade routes.

WE HAVE SOMETHING TO SELL

Like every other merchant in Belleville, we have goods to sell and service to charge for. Like the more progressive business houses we believe in displaying our prices and letting our clients know exactly by the much their arrangements with us will cost.

Our showroom differs from other up-to-date showrooms only in the type of merchandise it has to offer. On each casket to be selected from appears a price card showing to the dollar the entire cost of a Ticketl and Browne Funeral when that type of casket is used.

There is no difference in the cost of a funeral from our Funeral Home and Chapel, or from a private dwelling.

95 per cent. of our funerals cost from $59 to $180.

Our charges less than elsewhere regardless of funeral selected.

New Elizabeth Play Pageant-Drama Show

London, Oct. 27.—(By The Canadian Press)—"Elizabeth of England," by Ferdinand Bruckner, adapted from the German by Ashley Dukes, British dramatic author, and presented at the Cambridge Theatre, is thus analyzed by The Times theatre critic:

"Herr Bruckner accepts without embarrassment the limits which history puts on the free play of drama. Nothing suggests he would have preferred to illuminate the complex and dazzling personality of England's queen in the story of his own invention. Rather we feel that if the facts presented on film by the historian had not existed he would have invented them. Elizabeth stirs his imagination, but so in equal degree does the history of her tragic relations with Essex and of her conflict with Philip of Spain. He has an eye for character but an even keener eye for the spectacular contrasts that an age of baroque can be made to yield. So, at the end, the evening closes in a tangle with pageantry and we end by applauding its defects.

Mr. Dukes' version of this piece is without victories of its own. It takes us triumphantly into the presence of a real woman—so Dukes Elizabeth, living with the garlands of faded romance—a woman who is "majestical, terrible, incandescent, yet admirable and even heroic," as Lytton Strachey insists, by virtue of the lengths to which she is carried by all the qualities of character necessary to be without. This victory of the Elizabeth of Mr. Bruckner is firmly consolidated by Miss Phyllis Neilson-Terry. Her Elizabeth is a queen. Her neither spares nor belittles Elizabeth. This Queen is a queen indeed, and in fabulous and odious way with the courtiers who take her favors. Mr. Dukes's treating Cecil and Bacon in a voice which gives the latter more manly masculine as she warms to her work; she lies with superb dignity and full of regal pride in mild provocation; and, tremendous egoist as she may be, we are ready to believe that she is a passionate lover of Essex.

"Essex, played by Ian's Peirtrain, is a fine piece of romantic portraiture, and Mr. Perrins puts immense skill and vigor into a performance which gives the Earl a heroic height in the character with what is vulgar and showy. The scene in which he seals his doom by crashing into the Queen's bedchamber, and his reserve of self-deception, surprising her in her nightdress and curlers are accustomed to see her before she is painted and wigged, are admirably managed. It is also successful as the attempted kidnapping of Essex by his friends in her night attire is unsuccessful.

"After this affair has ended, spectacle steadily gains the upper hand, and our interest in the love affairs of the drama slowly evaporates. Philip of Spain played by Marius Goring is attending Mass in the Escurial when the chanting of the priests is interrupted by the raucous laughter of Elizabeth presiding over a Petty Council on a higher stage. Mathieson Lang's careful study of the vain and wasted lapse of interest into unimportance, and the costumes of Charles Ricketts, R.A., the designer, the sculptor and author, a continual delight—done with the authority of the actors most of our attention. Even more successful, because more moving is the double scene showing how the news of the Armada defeat reaches the Court of Queen in St. Paul's, and how the same tidings were brought to Philip at which Ashley Dukes has used in his free translation in blank and formal but it seems less well suited to the vigorous inconsistencies of the Elizabethan age when it might be a later and more artificial period, and the characterization of the Cecils and the Bacons and the Queen of Isabella's servants hardly goes deep enough."

With Bullet in Body Girl Defends Youth

London, Ont., Oct. 27.—That the shot which almost cost her life was accidentally fired by her friend, Percy Dymond, was the sworn testimony given in the city court yesterday by Dorothy Seigel, 17-year-old King street girl.

Dymond was charged with failing to use reasonable precaution and so endangering the girl's life. He said at first been charged under the more serious section of the Criminal Code with causing grievous bodily harm.

Magistrate T. W. Scandrett reserved judgment after hearing the girl's story. Her father in his testimony introduced the suggestion that the boy had been playing with a revolver.

The bullet has not been removed from the girl's body, because physicians reported that it would be more dangerous to undertake an exploratory operation.

The last $10,000,000 paid by The London Life under its policy contracts was distributed as follows:

$2,836,270—to beneficiaries of deceased policyholders.

$7,163,730—to living policyholders.

Whether it is to provide for your own future or your dependents, Life Insurance never fails.

The London Life has been built on a carefully laid foundation which has carried it successfully through every phase of this country's economic history since 1874. The experience so gained stands it in good stead in these days of changing conditions

COORDINATION OF RELIEF AGENCIES

Coordination of all relief within the city together with the collection of donations to make the lives of the less fortunate more comfortable during the winter has been effected here. The decision to coordinate all the relief agencies of Belleville is one of the most important of decisions reached at the meeting of the executive committee on Saturday night. This decison provides for the collecton of funds for local relief which will be trebled by Governmental aid and it guarantees that there will not be duplication and overlooking of worthy cases.

The local movement is in keeping with the movement throughout the continent to make conditions more bearable for those who have through the depression fallen on evil days. These people will be assisted to make the best of the conditions and will in time be able to repay in bringing back the days of prosperity.

ACTING QUICKLY

Hamilton Spectator speaking of gifts to the community fund of that city remarks:

"The time to respond to the generous impulse is now. All know how great the need is and all are aware of the difficulties of raising money at this time. The temptation to leave the duty to others, to make excuses, to plead inability when inability really does not exist, is one which all self-respecting people will avoid. The community fund is just what it purports to be —the response of the whole community to local needs. It is the combined effort of all sections and all creeds. Every citizen, according to his or her ability, is expected to assume a personal share of the responsibility. The smaller contributions may be of more importance, in the aggregate, than the larger contributions. The success of the campaign depends upon the number of subscribers rather than upon the amount of the individual subscription. There is still time to help the fund to attain its objective and to encourage those who are giving freely of their time and energy to the work of collecting and distributing. So much depends upon the answer to this appeal for help from our local charitable and welfare organizations!" The same holds true for Belleville and other cities.

MAN AND FIRE

Man is naturally fearful of fire.

Then what must be the mental state of the farmers of Wentworth County with a trail of fourteen fire losses in fewer days!

Fire is one of the best friends of man, and one of the earliest discoveries of man that helped the age of invention. But it is long before the age of invention. Man cannot live without it even in the warmest climes for he needs it to cook his food even at the equator and he needs it in the north to keep him warm as well as to cook his food.

A great foe if not mastered is fire. And particularly so when a pyromaniac is at large spreading ruin which may burn not only property but cost the lives of men and women.

The situation in Wentworth is getting to the primitive state for the people will defend themselves — they will when it comes to the last fight for their preservation as they have threatened.

CHEMISTRY TO SAVE WORLD

Pressing of inferior coffee into bricks as fuel for locomotives is suggested in Brazil which has an oversupply of the product. If the coffee bricks should prove economically possible as fuel then there opens a great opportunity for the coffee industry.

This suggestion shows several things —that the locomotive is not soon to pass —that human knowledge despite trucks and it also shows that science can do almost anything. The chemist and the research worker in many spheres are carrying the burden of civilization for out of the most unlikely things synthetic products result which fill a new need, and which bring comfort and pleasure to untold millions.

The whole thing seems like a revolution of the wheel. Science has made possible larger crops and larger crops have precipitated a crisis, which has threatened civilization (though there appears to be a rift in the clouds of financial darkness which have been enwrapping the world since 1929.) Now science has to try and find further uses for products which it has created.

A New York Times writer thinking over these problems explains, "Chemistry may yet save an overpoliticed world", and cites the attention which Mr. Edison was giving to chemistry in his latest years. And so the endless chain will continue. The interruptions as long as man can ultimately consume or use the products of industry to advantage in whatever form they are presented

The romance of invention and, research is greater than the romance of Robinson Crusoe on a lonely island in the sea. His romance affected the minds of millions of readers but science is affecting the minds, bodies and souls of every one of the hundreds of millions of human beings living in the civilized and semi-civilized states.

PEACE

By Aline Michaelis

Peace is the lotus flower adrift
Upon the waters that lift,
Breeze-stirred, along the placid pool
Where moon-rays linger, white and cool.
In other gardens there may be
Hibiscus flower and red-rose tree;
Fierce passion, flaming in the sun,
Hibiscus, till its hour is done;
And love, whose rosette bloom and grace
Rank first in all life's garden-place.
But I would pass hibiscus by.
An ardent blossom, soon to die,
And love's red rose I would resign
If but the lotus flower were mine.
This pale lotus-flower, adrift,
Its petals in the moonlight lift,
No other blossom I desire,
No scent of rose, hibiscus fire.
Peace like a lotus drifting by
Upon the waves that lift and die,
Peace floating in the pool of time
Would make of life a thing sublime.

"PARDON US", in which those eccentric comedians, Laurel and Hardy, do their first full-length screen scream, drew capacity crowds to the Belle Theatre during the week-end. Many local theatre-goers recognized in the Warden of the prison in the story, Wilfrid Lucas, a Canadian, once a favorite actor in road shows with Belleville audiences.

GIVE UNTIL IT HURTS was a favorite slogan in war-time campaigns among the Canadians. Canada is mobilizing now to combat conditions somewhat abnormal, but no one will have to give until it hurts, because all giving whether of cash, work or supplies will be a pleasant task, and the co-operation of all will make the mountain of difficulty shrink speedily into a molehill which can be speedily obliterated.

NAPOLEON, by Emile Ludwig, is a book well worth reading, throwing as it does a new and more favorable light upon this great national character. Ludwig pictures Napoleon as a great warrior, almost unbeatable in the field, but defeated by the ingratitude of friends and relatives whom he had raised to high positions, but who paved the way for his downfall in treachery and intrigue. The story is very human and intensely interesting, dealing as it does in such an intimate way with one of the greatest national characters of all time.

COMFORT ON WHEELS

After a long period of fairly standardized equipment, railroad coaches have recently gone in for various new-fangled conveniences. Crack trains are now equipped with bedrooms, shower baths, radios, telephones and, in Summer, refrigerated air. The New York Times tells of one line that has lately installed on one of its flyers a more old-fashioned sort of comfort. It is a concession to the passenger who defies all rules by comfortably propping his feet up on the opposite seat. The new device is a kind of footstool, 18 by 20 inches, topped by a cushion with springs. It clamps to the heating pipe and is supported at the other end by two collapsible legs. Placed between the two seats, it transforms either into a chaise-longue—a pleasant lounge for all but long-legged travelers, who must develop collapsible extremities like the footrest itself. Perhaps the trend toward comfort may lead to the installation of ash trays, mechanical cigarette lighters, clocks and an occasional vase of flowers, such as are to be found in London buses. Then all may yet come when there will be Maxim silencers for open windows, extra blankets for everybody on cold nights, and longer berths for passengers over six feet tall.

THESE GOODWILL TRADE SHIPS

Direct from the Antipodes with a cargo of Australian products, the Canadian Constructor has reached Montreal. This is the direct and welcome outcome of the new Canadian-Australian trade treaty, and the gesture will be fully reciprocated when the same ship loads a cargo of Canadian products for Australia. Inter-Imperial trade cannot but receive a powerful impetus from such an exchange of goods on a goodwill basis and it is only fitting that the occasion should be marked by a banquet to the Australian trade officials, which is to be by L. H. MacGregor, Dominion Australian Trade Commissioner in Canada.

The example was set by the Old Country when her manufacturers and exporters banded together in a patriotic scheme to regain their foreign trade and to wrest their lost markets from foreign competitors. To this end they chartered a Trade Ship of twenty thousand tons' displacement and with four full decks devoted to exhibits by one thousand, five hundred individual firms, from the ship itself, from stem to stern, being an exhibit of British shipbuilding and engineering.

Every square inch of space was booked long before the vessel sailed, and her exhibition decks resembled long avenues of magnificently dressed shop windows, with all goods displayed to the best advantage and with experienced agents in charge of each, all able to speak the languages of the countries they will visit. This ship stopped first at South American ports, following up the great British Empire Exhibition opened by H.R.H. the Prince of Wales. Thence her itinerary comprises South Africa, Australia and India, and thus back home, the whole tour occupying. It is anticipated, a period of two years. Similar cruises are projected at stated intervals after that.—Montreal Star.

PRIZE MONEY AT FAIR FAILS WELCOME IN HARD TIMES

We referred recently to the great success of the Peel Plain throughout the province, except in some districts where rain kept away the spectators; but that was not the fault of either exhibits or exhibitors. There is one feature of these fairs which has not been dwelt upon, and that is the abundance of the prize money, which the Alliston Herald thinks was this year, in some cases, a heaven-sent benefaction. Many agricultural societies, Alliston, Beeton and Cookstown, within a radius of 12 miles, paid out over $6,000, and if Beeton be added the disbursments would be over $10,000. Moreover, some of the exhibitors moved from one fair to another. An exhibitor of sheep and swine at Cookstown told the Herald that he had been at 13 fairs and won more than $500.

"Having access to all the prize accounts of the Alliston fair, the Herald knows what the fair means to breeders of pedigreed stock and growers of high-class grain and roots in this district. The breeder's winner at the local fair was a farmer who specializes in Hereford cattle, Shropshire sheep and Yorkshire hogs. The pick of the cattle and swine herds and the choicest crops were all neatly loaded in a truck and, with one load, the farmer took $80 in prize premiums. Another man won $47, another $41, and, smaller, but still worth while totalled between $15 and $25 were quite the rule rather than the rule here. The same may be stated of other fairs in the district, and if it were possible to get an accurate statement of the total prize awards to some of the busiest and most consistent exhibitors it would probably be surprising how much of the cash collected from the agricultural societies money enough to pay their taxes this fall."—Mail and Empire.

AUTUMN OF 1931 PAINTED IN THE GLORIES OF INDIAN SUMMERS

Not long since it was necessary to instruct an enquiring soul as to the true meaning of Indian Summer. For this purpose recourse was had to the unfailing memory of one whose love in this favored land have been long. In his description of the essential characteristics of a season that comes not every year but only once experienced, is lont to be remembered, he came as near to poetic rapture as at any time I ever saw the stock market crash of 1929.

Since then, Indian Summer has tarried in our midst. The last few days, that is, days since this copy of paper was written, have been of such sunlight resting like a benediction on autumnal glories that paint the woods in harmonies of yellow, brown and crimson—these days have shown how far inadequate words must fall of conveying any adequate impression of its charm. —Toronto Telegram.

So they say, and I bleeve their pop pop said, and I said, We'l Oh pop, if you spent 3 hours travelling in a aeroplane would you get more eduscation out of it than if you had spent 3 hours reeding a eduscation book?

That all depends, pop said. If you happened to get into a poker game with 3 or 4 fellow passengers up there in the clouds you would be very likely to get a short but liberal education in high finance and cerbacd expenses, and you would remember it much longer than you would remember anything you mite of red in a text book during the same period of time, such as the fact that the exports of the Canary Islands are bird seed and swinging perches, or the fact that Richard Conqueror's middle name was Wm.

But O, pop, how about manners and customs? I said, and pop said, Luckily, Im glad you brawt that point up. I know a man who travelled from one end of China to the other, and what was his serprise to see not one single Chinaman, he said.

Yes sir, what was it? I said and pop reid, It was terrific, he realised that a'l Chinese are not born in Chinese laundries after all, and now he's going to tramp the length and breadth of Armenia to see if it is also a fallacy that all Armenians have lice in their hair. And now how would you like to do a lit'e travelling yourself and report to me in the morning weather you mind feels broadened or not? he said.

Meenling to go to bed. Wish I did feeling spleasi it.

NEW COURAGE EXPERIENCED

French People See More Clearly Future Trend

PARIS, Oct. 26.—(AP)—French financial newspapers said today that smaller banks and business men who have been withdrawing credit balances from the United States have taken new confidence in the dollar as a result of the conferences between President Hoover and President Laval.

One outcome of those meetings papers agreed, is that the European signatories to the Young Plan, probably under the leadership of France must confer regarding any alteration of that plan affecting German reparations payments, for it is not thought likely now that the Hoover Moratorium will be extended and the relief under the Young Plan is Germany's only recourse.

In some quarters the belief was expressed that the Franco-American conversations have only begun and that some way may be found to rescue credits frozen in Germany by some new form of economic relief.

The newspapers generally found support for the French thesis regarding disarmaments and security in a phrase of the official Communique issued at Washington to the effect that the real test of next year's disarmament conference is each instrument of a durable organization for peace.

La Liberte said that Mr. Hoover told Premier Laval that the United States does not want to commit itself to anything but will refuse to reserve the right to examine each development on its merits. The newspaper's correspondent characterized this viewpoint as reasonable.

Plaintiff Fails, In Action Against Administrator

One of the most important and interesting cases in the history of this County was heard at the adjourned sittings of the Supreme Court in this city on Saturday before Mr. Justice Sedgwick.

Walter Spry of Trenton brought an action against Silas Spry of Rawdon Township as the administrator of the estate of his brother, Walter Spry, who died at Trenton Township in February, 1930. The plaintiff claimed to be a son of the late Walter Spry and claimed the sum of $10,000.00 on his share as a son of the late Walter Spry. The plaintiff based his claim on the alleged marriage of his mother to the late Walter Spry in April, 1889, some two years after his birth, thus bringing his claim within the benefit of the Legitimation Act. The action was defended by Silas Spry and the other heirs on the ground that the late Walter Spry never married the mother of the plaintiff, and that therefore the plaintiff was not recognized as an heir-at-law.

The case first came before the sittings of the Supreme Court here on the 14th inst. Mr. Cameron for the plaintiff, who produced a marriage certificate and gave evidence that she married Walter Spry at Belleville on the 23rd April, 1889. The production of the marriage certificate of Walter Spry and Mrs. Cartwright re the marriage was a complete surprise to everyone, as no one had ever heard of the marriage. Mrs. Cartwright admitted under cross examination that she had never lived with the late Walter Spry as his wife after the marriage, and that she had never met Walter Spry in the meantime until about two weeks ago. Further Mrs. Cartwright admitted that she married one Cartwright following that her husband, Walter Spry, was still living, and that she knew that her husband Walter Spry had married one Ethel Mary Kirk, in December, 1917. Owing to the non-production of the certificate Mr. White acting for the defendant was able to secure an adjournment of the action until the 24th inst.

The marriage certificate showed that the marriage was performed by the late Rev. Canon Greene of Belleville. The plaintiff adduced documentary evidence to show the signature of Geo. Bodle on the certificate was genuine, and that it was duly witnessed by law to perform marriages.

The trial was full of surprises and it is doubtful if a more interesting affair has ever been unfolded in the local Courts.

The defendant called evidence to show that the late Walter Spry had only one name, and that the second name on the marriage certificate did not belong to him. Further that Mrs. Cartwright, mother of the plaintiff was Emma Elizabeth Spry before her first marriage. The marriage certificate was Martha A. Pyatt. The defendant was able to show that Emma Elizabeth Pyatt was the sister by the name of Martha who married Rodgers of Hungerford Township. The defendant produced the marriage records of the city of Belleville, and the township of Thurlow to show that the alleged marriage of Walter Spry to Rodgers, and many certificates from the Registrar General's Department at Toronto.

As the case drew to a close a sensation was created as Mr. White introduced evidence by means of powerful lenses to show that the dates and the names on the marriage certificate had been erased and written over, and that the whole certificate had the appearance of being traced over.

The plaintiff was unable to produce any evidence in reply to explain the condition of the marriage certificate.

At the close of a lengthy argument by counsel on both parties, judgment was delivered dismissing the action with costs, the Court holding that the plaintiff had not satisfied the onus on him to establish a connection between his mother and the late Walter Spry.

The late Walter Spry left an estate of about $20,000.00. The court room was crowded with friends and relatives of both parties, many coming from Rawdon Township.

Messrs. Wallbridge, Cameron & Co. appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. Geo. S. White of Madoc, for the defendant.

Fog Shrouds London as Voters Seek Polling Booths

Long Queues Are Formed Outside of Polls At Opening

LIGHTS AT NOON

LONDON, Oct. 27.—(Canadian and Associated Press Cable)—Throughout the lengths and breadth of England, Wales and Scotland today the polls opened at 7 a.m., and more than 25,000,000 electors of all classes wrote on the ballot papers their prescription for Britain's economic and financial ills.

Heavy fog in London and bad weather and fog in some country districts hampered early polling but voting generally began early and with great cold weather in the majority of districts, a heavy poll was looked for. transportation concerns made preparations for a busy business transporting the crowds to hear the returns this evening.

Polls Hidden in Fog.

Early voters in some London districts had great difficulty locating the polling booths because of a thick fog. Reports from outlying sections of the city said traffic was tied up. The fog developed into the thickest of the autumn.

In one district bell-ringers were sent out to guide the voters to the polls. "Polls on the Bell," shouted the men as they clanged their way through the murky streets.

In another district where a school-room was the polling place blinds and eyes were placed on the white sheets laid on the ground to guide.

Crowds at Opening.

As the morning progressed the fog showed signs of lifting but for the voters pour ed in, mostly on foot in many instances, furnished by rival political organizations. The lights of the streets were turned full brilliance ib pierce the fog.

In some districts queues of voters, men and women, were formed at the polling places when officials opened them at 8 o'clock. In isolated instances the polls were open at 7 a.m.

Clerks reported that in no previous election could they recall so interested an electorate among the voters. Nightworkers voted before going home.

It was estimated that 200,000 police and special constables were busily engaged in carrying the voters to the polls. Seventy-five thousand cars were employed ceaseing the returns.

The fog in London descended over many areas like a heavy blanket. Along Piccadilly gazes appeared at the street intersections. The street lamps were lit at noon, and omnibuses and motorcars dropped their way alcng.

BARN BURNED NEAR PICTON

Quantity of Hay and One Horse Were Lost in Blaze

Picton, Oct. 27 (Special)—A barn, owned by Thomas Denipsey, on the eastern limits of the town, was burned to the ground in the early morning. Cause of the fire is unknown. A large quantity of hay and one horse were burned. Some machinery was removed to safety. The firemen succeeded in keeping the blaze from setting fire to nearby buildings.

Lay Theft Charge.

Edgar Wilson of South Bay was arrested on Monday, charged with theft of a quantity of cigarettes and a sum of money from Howard Skinner's store at South Bay during Saturday night or early on Sunday morning and is lodged in Picton jail awaiting trial. On a search warrant, the police searched Wilson's home and it is alleged found much of the loot. Entrance was gained to the store by boring holes and removing a section so that the safety lock could be released.

Song Kitchen Probable.

Central relief will probably be a vogue here this winter. It is hoped by consolidating this work to prevent overlapping and to do it more thoroughly.

Edgar Welch states that unless some of the local men get work on the Bridge Construction, a soup kitchen will have to be opened here, as many men are unable to get work or pay their board, he states. There are 150 families in Belleville in receipt of relief. Word from the Unemployment Relief Board as to whether Picton will get the $2,500 grant asked for, or the $2,500 is far from satisfactory and it is felt that this town is not getting its right share.

It will require several months more for flood waters to be drained from the Yangtze valley of China.

Masterpiece Critics Call O'Neill's Drama of Doom

New York, N.Y., Oct. 27.—Eugene O'Neill like some Gutzen Berguim carving a giant drama from the cold stone of an ancient Greek tragedy, had created today in "Mourning Becomes Electra" what critics generally called his masterpiece.

The dramatist's 14-act, three in play equal was given its premiere yesterday. The curtain rose on the first of the three evening dramas, titled, "The Homecoming," at 4 p.m. at the conclusion of "Home Coming" at 8 p.m. There was a dinner intermission following which the last drama, "The Haunted" was played. The performance ran past 11 o'clock.

O'Neill's has based the mood of this new drama upon the Greek tragedy, "Electra," and one feels the unfavorable effect of death throughout the performance.

Alice Brady, Alla Nazimova and Earle Larimore won long ovations from the first night audience for their performance. Miss Brady is the only member of the cast who appeared in every act of the play. All critics praised her performance as the greatest in her long career.

The scene of "Mourning Becomes Electra" is placed in a New England sea coast village. The Mannon family overshadows the town, and itself is overshadowed, by death.

New England Setting

General Mannon returns home from the civil war to be greeted by a betraying wife, who climaxes her hatred for him by murdering him in his own bath. His daughter, Vinnie, vows for revenge. But she is unable to gain the co-operation of her brother, who believes his mother innocent.

In the end the son discovers his mother's guilt. The parlor-bedroom-bath of Vinnie, divided both the mother and the son by suicide and Vinnie, half-puritanical witch and half-pagan, is also survives and is condemned to pay for her sins of asceticism by living among the ghosts of those who have died.

The play is marked by the morbid, introspective characterizations seen in most O'Neill works. The revelations are kept of open expose so many abhorrent and depressing human traits that the audience was stunned into several moments' silence at the final curtain before it began an ovation that lasted for fully ten minutes.

SORE SPOT IS U. S. TARIFF

Miss Agnes MacPhail Is Heard at Jacksonville, Ill.

Jacksonville, Ill., Oct. 27.—Present tariff rates are the basis for trade obstacles in the way of closer relations between Canada and the United States, Miss Agnes MacPhail, the only woman member of the Dominion House of Commons, said last night in an address before the third annual Pan-American Institute.

"The United States tariff is the most serious sore spot," Miss MacPhail said. "Although Canadians have denied it, there has been actual retaliation in form of boycott against United States products. Canada has cited statistics to show trade has decreased since enactment of tariff, and that Canada was invited to speak it was answered, 'It is impossible the latitude truly Pan-American." Discussion of various treaties has been confined to United States and South American problems.

"Our Canadian friends did not stand for is condescension from the United States." Miss MacPhail said. "All talk of annexation is dead and buried. We have a friendly appreciation of Canadian-American relations must be on the basis of dealings between two sovereign nations.

"While one is admittedly the more powerful, each is equally free. The Monroe Doctrine no longer now has reached the place where it will not tolerate infringement upon any American state," Miss MacPhail explained.

"No problem arising over Canadian-American relations ever could be serious, but that doesn't mean there will be plenty of difficulties. Canada is British, but at the same time it is north American and will settle all misunderstandings on that basis.

One specific recommendation by Miss MacPhail was better feelings between the two peoples was that both governments be more careful in selecting immigration and customs officers for the international border, as many unfortunate things can be done by surly officials.

Canada-United States relations Nations was passed over briefly by the progressive member for Grey Southeast, She said Canada is for North America and will act on that basis in the future.

She said Canada will not become a member of the Pan-American Union, "if it has to play second fidle to the United States."

Arms Holiday for One Year

Washington, D.C., Oct. 27— United States will reply favorably this week to a League of Nation's request for extension of the one year disarmament holiday.

The proposal under to which 58 nations have been invited to join, by the League of Nations General, President Hoover and Secretary of State Stimson.

They believe it will add greatly to the prospects for success at the general disarmament conference in February, and take a heavy financial burden off the world.

A detailed communication, specifying the military and naval construction activities that this country will be free to undertake, is framed at the State Department before Tuesday, the expiration date set by the League of Nations.

Brantford Doctor Discovers Cancer Serum Which Cures

Dr. Hett Says Only Final Stages Impossible Of Cure

SERUM DIAGNOSES

KITCHENER, Ont., Oct. 27.— After forty years of research into cancer, Dr. Hett, of this city announced today that he has discovered a serum that diagnoses and also cures cancer. Dr. Hett claims he has made the serum on a sufficient number of presumably incurable cases to thoroughly test out the results.

The serum according to Dr. Hett, is effective in the initial and advanced stages of the disease. Cases however that have gone into the final stages of the malady are beyond the help of the serum.

Definite Reaction

The feature of the serum most interesting ot the medical profession is its effectiveness in diagnosing the presence of cancer in the body, either external or internal. Accord ing to the claims being made by Dr. Hett, patients suffering from Cancerous growths in all stages but the final, establish a definite reaction to the inoculation. There is no reaction to the serum if the patient is not a cancer sufferer.

Dr. Hett states that inoculation with the serum arrests the growth of the malignant cells and that thus makes feasible the combination of surgery in the treatment of the cancer may be removed either before or after the use of the serum.

Dr. Hett has convinced cancer is of germ origin. He is now working on a method of immunization that he expects will render cancer germ viable.

NATIONAL WIN IS PREDICTED

Mr. W. E. Schuster Looks For Big Victory in Britain

Never before has an English election created such widespread interest in Canada as the one being held in the United Kingdom today. Many Bellevillians have been following the campaign studiously and carefully and the result is eagerly and anxiously awaited by them.

Meeting Mr. W. E. Schuster on the street this Tuesday morning and, assuming that he spent three months in England during the past summer and that while there he was a member of the National Liberal Club and the Royal Automobile Club, where he had the opportunity of meeting and conversing with many prominent business and professional men, a member of the Ontario Intelligencer staff greeted him with the remark: "Well, how would you like being in England today?" "I certainly should enjoy being there," replied Mr. Schuster, "it is a most interesting country to visit at present and with interest but not with anxiety, as I feel confident in predicting that the National government in to-day's political contest will be returned with a majority of two hundred. I maintain that MacDonald and Snowden have been the idols of the British working classes for thirty years and that they will not turn on them."

"You had an excellent opportunity to observe public opinion while in England and what you say is interesting," remarked the newspaper man. "I had, indeed, opportunity, as you say," replied Mr. Schuster, "and I predict further that the result of Canada's political contest in England will be such a blow to the socialistion principal that it will be buried for fifty years. The position of every man, woman and child in England and Canada will be decidedly improved on Wednesday when the British Nationalists will develop and expand and Canada will be directly benefitted."

"Hope you are right," replied the newspaper man as he left. Mr. Schuster to discuss the election with another citizen, who came along just then and who is also much interested in British politics.

Premier Laval Analyses Differences and Agreements

New York, Oct. 27. — Premier Laval departed today, stating that France and the United States—since his conversations with President Hoover—understand each other better and know what to expect. His last day was filled with receptions and sightseeing, including a meeting with Premier Governor Alfred E. Smith at the top of Empire State, tallest building in the world, and a luncheon as a guest of the French Chamber of Commerce. At these affairs he was present and many of them were French.

We drafted no protocol, the Premier told the dinner guests, in reference to his conversations with the President. "We were animated by the resolve to study the questions thoroughly in the course of a free and frank discussion of various problems which the various crisis raises.

"Our effort has not been in vain. Our countries are far apart, separated by a vast ocean, and democracies have not the same constitutional basis. Our traditions and institutions, often differing, suffice to explain certain misunderstandings which from time to time have grown up between us. Henceforth there are results, for we know what we want, we know what we expect of us.

"Co-operation between our two countries will thus become closer, since our governments will have a clearer understanding of their respective interests and their common aim. Such were the fruits of our conversations in Washington had had the privilege of gathering. We have fulfilled great hopes. This is the moral benefit of our meeting."

He spoke in English and his remarks were translated. Marshall Petain, hero of Verdun, was among the listeners.

New York, Oct. 27.—A new attack on United States participation in the St. Lawrence River waterways project was made today at a meeting of the Atlantic Deep Waterways Association by Peter G. Ten Eyck, president of the Albany Port district commission and president of the association.

"I want it clearly understood," said Mr. Ten Eyck, "that I am not opposed to the construction of a ship canal in the St. Lawrence River by the Dominion of Canada, but am opposed to the United States governmental going into partnership with Canada and spending the money of the people of the United States on a development, 90 per cent. of the entire length of which is within foreign territory."

INSTALMENT I

When Sandford Dexter came out of the post-office at Valley Center, his daughter Lorraine, seated at the wheel of the family car, at the curb, saw instantly that he had received some mail of a disturbing nature. His head was bowed a little, as from a blow, and in his tread there was a lag that bespoke an inhibition slightly greater than that induced by the bullet that had shattered his hip many years previous.

When he reached the car he leaned against the front door; then slowly his head came down until his face was hidden. He shivered faintly and a sigh, half pain, half despair, escaped him.

His daughter weighed him with something of the alert, professional concern of a trained nurse. Only to Lorry Kershaw's eyes, profound affection and pity showed.

She leaned from the car, suffered from angina pectoris, and two doctors had told her a long time ago that she must be prepared to lose him suddenly. They had warned her against exhibiting the slightest concern during one of his attacks, since that would merely add to the grief and worry of her father and perhaps hasten the end.

So the gift waited until he raised his face and smiled at her a little sheepishly. "That was a real twister," he gasped. "I figured I was a goner for sure. I don't think I could stand another like that one, Lorry."

"Nonsense," Lorry urged him with great zest.

"You ain't sympathetic," he protested, with a show of irritation. But the girl knew he was secretly pleased; that her comradely badinage, helped materially to allay his excitement and the resultant furious pounding of his heart.

"Too bad about you, isn't it?" she jeered. "You know very well the doctor's orders are to avoid excitement and to cultivate a placid outlook upon life at its worst. Nevertheless, you've received a decisive bad news you selfishly hoard it. Don't you think it would have been split between us dogn't occupy near by so much valuable space in the stuffed breast of yours? You climb into this car. Hance Kershaw, and cease your moaning."

Hance Kershaw grinned at his daughter fondly. He was always being bullied by her, for he was fully aware her reason for bullying him was aware that under her calm, debonair exterior there were tears and sorrow.

He climbed laboriously into his seat beside her.

They drove in silence for about two miles, then her father said: "You were right, darling. I found a real bit, waiting for me in the post-office. The Valley Center bank has brought our mortgage from the Santiago Bank and Trust Company. Salmon's called it. Got to pay up in five days or he shall enter suit for foreclose."

"Yes, that was quite a shock," Lorry agreed, "but it might be worse. We have a year in which to redeem the land, and in that time we may be able to refund our mortgage."

"We'll be counted out thirty days after the suit is filed," her father said, "or will close in on us and take the cattle as soon as he hears Bishop has filed suit. I'm afraid that we wouldn't be worth while tryin' to refund that mortgage unless the cattle ranch without cattle on it is a liability."

"Still we're not downhearted," the girl protested. "We have two thousand head of feeders that are not mortgaged to Nate Thchenor and we can get twenty dollars a head for them. If we sell them now we can escape with forty thousand dollars, but if we hold them to summer in on the Babson or Vasco Tchenor will stand ready to buy and cover a deficiency judgment. Forty thousand dollars would be made to earn five per cent net. That's two thousand a year. And I have a high school teacher's certificate secured in the University of California. I can earn eighteen hundred dollars a year teaching school—and can thirty eight hundred a year now, and I can live the life of Reilly. Not a worry in life, old-timer."

"You can live the life Reilly on it, honey, but I shan't. It will kill me to give up Eden Valley—an' you know why."

"It would have been a blessing if our family had never seen Eden Valley," the girl cried passionately. "It's been paid for in blood and tears and heart-break and bitterness, ostracism, and all we have to show for the years is a private cemetery filled with Kershaw dead—all who died heart-broken and Kershaw men who passed away with their boots on. And at last the Hensleys have triumphed over us."

"They got two more in their cemetery than we have, Lorry."

"But they haven't buried Gibbs—and after fighting fifty years to own all Eden Valley that is a victory. Nate Tlchenor must have money enough to buy in our mortgage at the sheriff's sale. Well, he's earned his victory. If anybody is to get our part of Eden Valley, I hope it will be Nate Tlchenor, I wonder what sort of man Nate Tlchenor has turned out to be?"

* * * *

"I dunno, Lorry. I wouldn't attempt to figger even a half-breed Hensley. His father, folks do say, was a right peaceable, fair man, an' when he married Angie Hensley he wrote me ornithin' his photograph, an' advisin' me that married into the Hensley family didn't mean he'd married into the Hensley-Kershaw feud. He suggested that we an' him when we met I could pass him the time o' day without gittin' a bullet in answer. I took him at his word—an' he kept it. But his son Jim hated a Hensley. He went armed after his fifteenth birthday. I figured him an' your brother, Owen, would about fit out some day, which was a mistake to be sure, on his high school at Valley Center. The principal discovered Wade Tchenor were a forty-five in a shoulder holster, an' ordered him to leave it home thereafter. Jim Hensley Tlchenor wouldn't do it, so they have him out in the back lot half-an'-hour to do say he was the smartest boy in the community.

"He's been gone from Eden Valley since, the war," Lorry mused. "Nine years of life outside have made him civilized him. I hope so. You've got to admit, dad, that he hasn't been an inquortunate creditor."

"He don't have to be. The longer he holds off the more interest'll accumulate an' the more cattle he'll have to levy on to make up deficiency judgment. He's smart. He don't have to be—he's half-way licked from the start."

"Well, whatever happens to us it will be worth while," the girl finally suggested, "provided it ends this senseless bloody feud."

The feud ended," Rancefoord Kershaw replied, "when Jim Hensley was killed in France. The last survivor I knowed of was Jim's son, one of the runnin' A man so cripple he couldn't walk a mile or set a horse but got to walk five minutes to come to him."

The car had climbed a low ridge and debouched into Eden Valley; Lorry Kershaw's favorite view of all the world. Before her lay the heritage of the Kershaw name. Since 1920 when Angie Tchenor, the last of the Hensleys had died and her son was with the army in France, the Hensley headquarters ranch had deserted the ranch having been leased, through an agent of a friend, Ford Kershaw—much to the latter's surprise!

For thirty years Rancefoord Kershaw had never passed that gate without keeping a wary eye on the Hensley headquarters. And since the habit of thirty years may not be broken in six, he gazed upon the buildings now—and started as he saw a column of smoke issuing from the chimney of the low ranch-house Lorry saw the smoke also, and instantly stopped the car.

"It'll be too late to dispose of them two thousand feeders now," her father told her. "Nate Tchenor's back. Him an' Babson have been after us. They'll strike togethree Ah, poor Lorry—my poor little girl. Sorry, honey—so sorry—"

He sighed deeply and lurched over against her; his head fell on her shoulder. She set the brake moved a little in her seat so that the right arm around his neck to steady him and with her left lifted his face upward toward hers and kissed him. For a few seconds his thin, gaunt flames met hers with a look of love unutterably racked by excruciating pain, nevertheless his thin smile was equal to the effort of a smile; and then the light went out of his eyes and his heaving breast was stilled forever.

For a long time she had known that some day he would leave her thus—suddenly, awkwardly — * * *

After a while her thumb pressed the button in the centre of the steering wheel and a series of raucous, long-drawn shrieks from the motor horn.

The Kershaw pride was in the dust at last. The last of the Kershaws was appealing to the last of the enemy for help!

For two hundred years the Kershaws had been able, with patient submission, to tolerate more than a modicum of civilization. The first progenitor in America arrived in Baltimore in 1680. Thereafter each generation moved at least one state farther west, one might have traced the begins of the tribe by its headstones, albeit many a Kershaw died in unmarked grave at all. They were hunters, trappers, soldiers, and adventurers.

When Robin Kershaw at the age of twenty-two, came home from the Mexican War, he discovered that during his absence his father's property in northern Texas had been raided by Comanche Indians, his mother murdered, his sister captured or dead in a drought.

Robin Kershaw rode with bitterment to California and, when gold was discovered, was among the first to stake a claim in the Sierra foothills. Before the snow flew in the winter of '52 he had amassed a fortune of half a million dollars—and it was time to be moving on.

He was now twenty-eight years old and a confirmed bachelor. But he liked the cattle business and he liked Texas. So the ancient primitive urge for free grass and free water, he acquired a woman who walked to California beside a covered wagon in '48 and with her rode up into north eastern California and cast about for a spot where the Kershaw odyssey should end.

On a day in the year of 1853 he drove his three pack mules out of the timber on to a bald spot on the crest of what is now known as the Goose Nest Range, and saw three hundred feet below him the land of his heart's desire.

"Lovely—and lonely," the girl behside him murmured, and she spurred her horse below the bench and slipped her soft hand into his, so rough and calloused. Thus they looked down upon Eden.

It was a wild elliptical valley nine miles in length. Kershaw estimated it should contain nearly seven hundred thousand acres. It was in reality, a vast mountain meadow. No trouble to winter cattle there. Two hundred feet below him was the lowest bringing them out in the spring strong and fat. A large stream meandered down the approximate centre of the valley above the dark blue of sugar and white pine timber on the sides of the mountains. Wild fruit trees were snow appeared.

After a long searching, wistful contemplation of the scene below him Robin Kershaw said: "We'll call it Eden Valley." The two youth ful pioneers slid down through the brush and pitched their last camp at the beginnings of Eden Valley—a canyon which opened on a wide side and four miles long.

Kershaw rode his horse out into the brown whirling creek waters until they lapped his stirrups, then turned back and joined his wife on the high ground along the side of the hills.

"A creek in the summer and fall, but good stout river in the rainy season and spring. Lorry," he announced. "There's bound to be a lot of tributaries tumbling down into the valley from the hills on both sides. There'll be no dry years in this country. Lorry, and there'll always be a world of water for summer irrigation."

The partner of his brave dreams nodded, for she, too, was a child of the soil and could understand his enthusiasm. "The country's laid out like a frying pan, Robin. This narrow canyon is the handle and the valley below is the pan."

Kershaw on the high ground at the base of the hills they journeyed down the Hassler canyon to the fording numerous lateral torrents that roared down the mountainside to the main stream.

Debouching from the Handle into the Pan for the first time enabled us to allude to the peculiar disposition of the country Kershaw discovered that the creek was now, indeed a river. And, as the case is in the Handle so it was in the Pan. Carefully a mile on the west bank of the stream the ground was inundated.

"God's the ditch-tender in Eden Valley Lorry," he exulted. "Once a year he opens a sluice. His grave free surface irrigation on a strip two miles wide and no man knows the cost."

He left her and rode out into the stagnish wash to a point within a hundred yards of the main channel, threw down, to six inches deep," he announced when he had joined her on the high ground. "What a grand soaking! And then a couple of inches of new rich silt from the high country back yonder is left behind to fertilize the grass when the waters recede to the channel!"

She smiled upon him, rejoicing with him in the discovery of an limited free grass and water.

On a mesa about forty acres in area, and backed up against the western hills, they found the location for their future home. Perhaps a hundred stately pine trees grew upon this mesa, and the ground was rough and calloused. Thus they began their labors.

On a mesa about forty acres in area, and backed up against the western hills, they found the location for their future home. Perhaps a hundred stately pine trees grew upon this mesa, and the ground was rough and calloused. Thus they began their labors.

"I can have a garden." Lorry murmured rapturously.

"And here's timber to our hand for our home and outbuildings," he added. "We'll build a grand big log house and we'll furnished. When this valley has been surveyed and proven and the squatters well have a squatter's right to this site, on account we've been here first.

They camped that night in the pine grove. Side by side on a footdeep bed of soft fir boughs which they lay under the stars that night and talked and made their plans for their future.

Their nearest were as Adam and Eve in the Garden of Eden; there, indeed, was the same woolen blankets content in each other's love and they saw no vision of the Serpent. They dreamed of the hatred and envy of human-kind that one day would make them their children fight to the death for this dear silent land; that one day the sweep of a new civilization would creep them; that one day they should be crowded!

The following morning they continued their journey down the valley, noting with growing satisfaction every mile or so the many lateral streams that ran down the encircling mountains to Eden Valley Creek, Kershaw observed, tons that many thousands of acres were subirrigated pedeomatic due to snow water that seeped down through the granite sands.

Half-way down the valley, however, the land on each side of the creek rose at a slight angle toward the hills on each flank thus gradually narrowing the area subject to annual overflow from the creek. The channel of the creek grew deeper, too; the man who would irrigate these lands in summer would have to erect a new system of dams to raise the waters above the bank level and divert them over the bayiands. Unquestionably, the upper half of the valley was by far the most desirable from every point of view—and here rose the heart of Robin Kershaw a fierce desire to own it. Yes. he must have not less than fifty thousand of those rich acres. He could support a cow to every three acres, probably less; that meant he could run, in the valley alone, not less than fifteen thousand head.

"I'll be the cattle king of Eden Valley!" he told his wife soberly.

Presently the valley commenced to pitch downward at the angle of pitch increasing gradually as they rode. The grass was not nearly the quantity or the grass decreased with the pitch, the valley contracted sharply to a ptinch in itself finally they found themselves riding through a great, almost bottomless red knee. walled in by towering granite cliffs about a hundred and fifty feet high. The gorge suddenly debouched into a vast, and world plain within which the surging torrent of Eden Valley Creek promptly gradually flattening out in the inhospitable soil,

"Not a warm wario." Robin Kershaw protested. "The land's too porous to carry water. And it's flat as a billiard table."

He turned in his saddle and look back at the valley he had come to; there was some other good country of Lorry under that wasted irrigation. he could easy put in a dam in this same canyon. Plenty o' buildin' material right handy—

The buttress of forested mountains on the eastern side of the valley had gradually decreased in height until the lower end of the valley they had degenerated into a spur of grassy hills.

On the crest of the spur they halted. Directly below them lay an old valley road—a road which led from Valley, but save on its eastern side the land was deserted. It was, in fact even remotely, as verdant as Eden Valley.

Russian Farmers Ask Modern Science To Improve Livestock

New York, N.Y. — Soviet Russia will start a scientific research venture in science when Dr. Leonard M. Bridges, of the Carnegie Institution of Washington, arrives there to spend four months teaching Russian scientists modern methods in agriculturalists.

Hitherto Russia has sought practical scientists and technicians by correspondence. The present move aims to teach the latest principles of heredity to Russian scientists, and then aid them in applying their own practical applications.

Dr. Bridges is internationally known for his studies which show that the keys to breeding lie both in new plants and animals and evidently genes which are scarcely visible, thread-like chromosomes in the cells. Dr. Bridges' experiments with yeast flies he has proved that "learning" is inherited and that a fly partly male and partly female.

He has obtained evidence that the differences between sexes is due to a balance, that is, whether there is a preponderance of male or female gene characters.

Dr. Bridges' Communistic start with the single, simple cell as the beginning. He frankly holds that millions of years before cells existed there were living chromosomes which had the power to reproduce themselves. He will go to the jury today. Following the jury's decision he refuses to offer any evidence, yesterday's hearing was occupied with addresses by defence and Crown Counsel.

Those jurors on the trial before Mr. Justice Kelly in Fall Assizes are: E. G. Westbury, former reeve of York Township; W. J. Armstrong, J. J. Little, A. E. Baker, William McQueen and Isaac Wagner, former councillors; D. K. C. Macdonald, former township engineer, and Basil Holden, of the Nelson River Construction Co.

In England and Wales the cost of educating a pupil in the elementary schools has risen in the last few years from £25.75 to £26.10 a year.

North Manchuria's wheat crop is 15 per cent greater than that of last year.

CHILDREN SET TRAPS TO GET THEIR LIVING

Boys Live in Tent So As To Attend School Car

MUSH 40 MILES

Story of Endurance of Lads Nine and Seven Years Old

Toronto, Oct. 27.—Supporting themselves by trapping two children, aged seven and nine, endured the hardships of winter in the North Country living in a tent so that they might attend school. This was the story told last night by Dr. J. H. McDougall of the Provincial Department of Education addressing the convention here of the National League of Compulsory Education officials. In their home at Fort Severn, the children, David and Arthur Clement, whose mother had died and whose father had returned to his trap lines on Hudson Bay, mushed 40 miles with a dog team to attend their tent in five feet of snow in a spruce forest, and attended the land school car all through the winter on the 30 days each month which is was in their district.

Those living with relatives sank to 50 degrees below zero they did not miss a day, he said.

TARZAN OF THE APES, No. 6.

(Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.)

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

At Sidi-bel-Abbes, Tarzan soon became a great favorite with the French garrison. Among the officers he met was the very man he had been ordered to track. For a month nothing of moment happened. Then orders came to move into the desert far to the south. Promised some lion-hunting, Tarzan gladly joined the expedition.

Tarzan, as he mounted his horse, caught a brief glimpse of a strangely familiar figure eyeing him from a native house. Later he noticed the fellow in whispered conversation with the suspected lieutenant Here was something that bore watching. The march into the desert continued, and he saw neither of them for two days.

Market day at Sidi Aissa brought camel caravans in from the desert. Fascinated at these new sights, Tarzan lingered a few days march behind the soldiers. Before leaving the bazaars he hired a youthful Arab as interpreter and servant. Toward nightfall, Abdul plucked at Tarzan's sleeve, whispering "Look, Master.' ... scornfully.

"Behind us," Abdul pointed at a figure disappearing in the shadows. "He has been following us about all afternoon." Tarzan caught a glimpse of an Arab in a blue burnoose and white turban. "He is hiding his face. Tha tis not the way with honest Arabs. He is bad!" —said Abdul

Wall Street Ponders Over Local Trade

Traders Are Wary On Buying Side of Market

New York, N.Y., Oct. 27.—Wall Street's attention returned to domestic affairs today, and further consideration of the status of corporate earnings and dividends seat some values into another decline.

Colorado Central's dividend omission, while expected, had an adverse influence on sentiment, and traders were wary of the buying side of the market pending the announcement of the next dividend announcement of the U.S. Steel Corp., due after the close of the market.

Illinois Central's dividend omission takes that stock off a dividend basis for the first time since before the Civil War. The stock had paid at least $4 a share in every year since 1854. The last quarterly dividend was $1.

Wall Street, generally expects that U.S. Steel will pay $1 a share as it did in the last quarter.

The weekly condition statement of weekly reporting Federal Reserve member banks pointed to the further indications of the strengthening of the general financial structure. Loans on securities dropped $85,000,000, but loans grew by the $6,000,000,000. Some bankers have felt that this level should represent the effects of liquidation of bank loans against securities. Furthermore, the weekly condition showed that banks had allowed their "cash in vault" to decrease by $10,000,000. Banks have been hoarding cash in unexpectedly large amounts, for fear of unexpected withdrawals and a reduction in their hoard was regarded as reflecting a change in that depositor confidence was returning.

TENDENCY IS DOWNWARD

Losses On Toronto Exchange Are Small and Unimportant

Toronto Oct. 27.—Toronto Stock Exchange opened in the easier this morning, though losses as compared with last night's close were small and unimportant. The inter-listed issues were chiefly affected, reaching with New York declines on the general trend was Brazilian Traction, which opened lower and then reversed the trend, rising to 13 1-2 for a net gain of almost 1-2 point. International Nickel, Noranda, Hollinger "A" and "B", International Petroleum were also lower. Massey Harris absorbed buying and firmed.

Dominion Stores opened slightly better but slipped to 16 3-4, its previous close. The same was true of Imperial Oil. B. A. Oil was inactive. C.P.R. was another of the leaders which made a belated appearance.

Steel of Canada sol dat 22, its former figure. Distillers Seagram was changed at the minimum price of 31 shares. Walkers sold 1-2 point slightly. Ford of Canada firmed at 14 1-2 to show a small net gain, though at times it was under the best for the morning.

WOULD STUDY ECONOMICS

Belleville's Workmen Have Opportunity To Form Loop

Dr. J. Wesley Bready, M.A., B.D., Ph.D., (London), of Toronto, addressed a gathering of interested citizens in the auditorium of the collegiate last evening. The topics which Dr. Bready took for his address were psychology, economics and practical Christianity.

Dr. J. Wesley Bready is a Canadian-born citizen and received most of his education in Canada. He has spent the past ten years studying the social conditions of the world and those present last evening had the privilege of enjoying his far-reaching experience along these lines. Dr. Bready has written numerous books on the social and industrial progress of the past two centuries. His studies have taken him to European countries where he has had the opportunity of observing conditions of the present and past.

The object of the meeting last evening was to see if there were a number of workers in Belleville who were interested in form a club for providing general information in the way of psychology, economics and current events of the day. The course, which is sponsored by the university extension, will cost the small sum of $2.00 but if any class wishes to have a speaker to come to attend, gratis, they are welcome to do so, explained Dr. Bready. He went on to explain that a class would be formed in Belleville when there were at least twenty members enrolled. At these classes the members will be given the benefit of the present day conditions and then the causes which have brought the discussed by those present. Besides this, any outside subjects which the ideas will also be dealt with such as world peace and the five year plan, etc.

Questions of the past will also be debated such as class hatred that at one time predominated in Europe, prohibition and other vital questions of the day. The meetings are intended to be of a liberal education than a chance to express his views.

There are similar classes such as proposed in Belleville, being carried on in many cities throughout Ontario. Besides four or five classes in Toronto there are classes in Prescott, Brockville, Kingston, Cobourg, Peterboro, London, Hamilton and Windsor. If there are sufficient enough interested tradesmen in Belleville can be procured to form a class here for their general information the classes will be held either Wednesday or Friday evenings.

Stamp Mills In Desert Again Work

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 27.—Stamp mills are rumbling between stamp mills that sprinkle the desert in the Southern California Arizona and Nevada mining areas through the ore crushing ore, for the first time since 1929, it was reported.

While better prices for copper, gold, silver, tungsten and other mineral products of the southwest have not yet been offered a resumption of mining activities within the last month is held to indicate the belief of operators that the depression has reach prospect. Cheap labor is a factor.

In many of the old gold mining camps, the ore dumps are being reworked—because the ore does contain gold.

New Heart Surgery

New York, Oct. 27.—A recently perfected operation on the heart designed to save patients with certain hitherto fatal types of heart disease as well as another operation to prevent the necessity of amputation in'a widespread condition of the arteries of the legs were described by physicians at the eighth in the fifth session of the New York Academy of Medicine's Graduate Fortnightly in the academy's building, Fifth Av.nue and Fifty-First, says the New York Times.

Special instruments to determine hardening of the arteries before they become dangerous it by the physicians can determine the extent of customary tests and to diagnose heart disease without the use of a stethescope also were presented to the more than 2,500 physicians attending the two-week post-graduate course on heart disease.

Motion pictures which graphically portrayed the valves of the heart in action were shown during yesterday as part of the session's huge collection on heart and blood-vessel diseases. These pictures, which made by the American Heart Association, showed how four major valves of a human heart open and close when it is beating and how the stethescope can determine the exact amount of sclerosis in the walls of the small arteries. It was explained.

Dr. Chevalier Jackson, of Western Medical School, Cleveland in a special demonstration presented an operation upon the heart which promises to save the hitherto fatal cases of Pick's disease. This operation followed years of successful work by Dr. Pick and his colleagues at the clinic. Pick disease produced the same disease in dogs and then perfected their operation upon the animals.

In pointing out the importance of the Pick operation, Dr. Jackson in opening the conference explained that this was the first time in the history of medicine that the disease had been reproduced in animals resembling Pick disease, it was explained, was caused by permanent constriction between the heart and the tissues surrounding it as the result of an infection which the heart. As a result of this, the heart muscle is unable to pump the proper amount of blood so that the patients become invalids and ultimately die.

The operation upon the heart Dr. Beck and his associates involves the exposure of the heart and the separation of the tissues covering the heart from the heart muscle proper. In reporting this new treatment Dr. Beck cited the first case upon which the new subject was successfully treated. The patient was a boy, 18 years old, who had been bed ridden before the operation, but since then has been able to do any ordinary task.

New Field of Heart Surgery

Dr. Beck in his address later explained that he and his group of workers as the result of this successful operation, are planning to construct a special room in which heart operations can be conducted without the possibility of shock to the patients. Special surgical technique is also being evolved, it was said so that a new field of surgery to save patients suffering from valvular disease of the heart as well as from attachments between the heart and the surrounding structures may be developed.

"The problem of exposing the heart," Dr. Beck said, "without shock to the patient, can be overcome if the patient from the chin down is placed in a special operating room whose air pressure is below that of the heart pressure. The patient can breathe in another room because of a specially constructed aperture for his head. The problem of entering the body with instruments to remake valves that have become partially closed or adhered so they can no longer function properly is purely one of technique. That problem we are now studying."

Dr. Alfred W. Adson, chief neurologic surgeon of the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minnesota, in his paper entitled. "The Results of Sympathectomy in the Treatment of Thrombo-Angiitis Obliterans," revealed how a group of patients with "gangrene disease" has been successfully treated by cutting off nerves from certain blood vessels. This surgical treatment was successful in 80 per cent of the patients at the clinic treated over a period of ten years.

Thrombo-angiitis obliterans or Buerger's disease affects the larger arteries of the leg so that the inner walls of the vessels become rotten and block off the blood supply. By stipping the nerve supply from the outer covering of the affected arteries, Dr. Adson said, he was able to save the larger percentage of his patients the loss of their limbs.

Dr. John Homans, associate professor of surgery, Harvard Medical School, protested against the widespread use of ice-bags in the preoperative treatment of varicose veins of the legs, which interfere with nature's healing processes, he said. He urged the use of rest and warm applications.

MENUS FOR HARD TIMES

By Hannah Wing

A food budget is a necessity if one is to live within one's income. A condition said to be the most comfortable of all to both mind and body. Every one who tries to save money realizes that it is poor economy to spend so little for food as to jeopardize the health in its most vital way. Cheap foods are dear dearer. There are important in any diet which are important. No matter what the cost. Should be provided first, then others added to give palatability. Food luxuries should be included only if there is money to spare.

Best economy in food means being thrifty but the money wisely spent in food is one of the best kinds of health insurance, selecting first the most important foods and adding others if there is money to spare, losing as little food value as possible in preparing the meals and using up the left overs, and taking the trouble to make the wholesome foods attractive so that the family will like what it has to eat rather than eating merely what it likes.

In substituting one food for another of lower cost it is essential that an equally good food is chosen. Any greens may be used in place of spinach which can be eliminated from season. Tomatoes may be used for oranges as this cheese are high in prices. Apples are usually cheap and should be used as often as possible.

By combining the fruit with cereal foods it may be stretched and to appear often but in small amounts. A piece of all fruit pie could be economical to purchase if a generous cooking apple is 10 or 15 cents a pound because the food value is similar and the cost is less.

Cabbage should be served raw as often as possible because it is more rich in minerals and vitamins than cooked. Potatoes, turnips, carrots or raisins are among the best and cheapest of the dried fruits.

When eggs are 40 cents a dozen or more, it may not be advisable to use them often. They may be reduced or eliminated from the diet, but when eggs are cheap they should be included in the diet as a source of protein which food value but should be made as digestible as possible particularly in the case of Bean soup is probably its most acceptable form. Cheese is another great are attractively prepared the only may afford more than a dessert otherwise possible. Even this amount may be stretched by combining meat with cereal foods and vegetables.

Bread and cereal are somewhat interchangeable, but it is important to emphasize the whole grain products. Other sweets may be used in place of sugar if they can be secured at as low a price per pound.

If liberal amounts of fruit and vegetables are allowed, if bacon and marmalade are added to increase the satisfaction and food value of the breakfast, if cream instead of top milk is provided for cereal and coffee, and other similar touch spots of flavor are included, an extra amount must be added to the weekly allowance.

An extra allowance will have to be made on any budget if food is purchased out of season, if it is wasted, or if prices are more than moderately high.

When a diet is generous or on a luxury level, there is more temptation to exceed the limit of moderation especially in the foods that fatten but do not strengthen the body. Special care should be taken to see that the amount of food is not more than health requires and that the selection is of the best.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beekman
Ten Beekalls

Dear Mrs. Beekman:

I would greatly appreciate it if you would help me out in preparing for a tea to be given at one of our city hotels.

The young lady in whose honor I am giving tea is become my sister-in-law as she is to marry my brother, I planned to have only relatives, her friends and some mine. I want my friends to meet hers.

Will you please tell me how to invite them? Should I send my personal card to all to meet her? Or just write them? and so on to those who do not know her?

Thanks—also any idea as to the correct seating of my guests. Also as to the table decorations. My kitchen and help are inexperienced, guess a gift and corsages to the guests?

When do I make arrangements with the waiter as to the settling of my bill?

D.

I am very happy to talk over your party with you. Let's talk first about the arrangements at the hotel. Have in mind about what you wish to serve, how many guests you are going to invite, and what you wish for table decorations. Then, in an hour when the headwaiter at the hotel is free so you plan to give the tea is likely to be more or less free to talk over morning hours or in the middle afternoon hours—go to the hotel when you plan.

The menu will for tea of course consist of sandwiches, simple kind of course, cucumber, watercress, tomato, cream cheese and Pimento or a combination shape of caviar or pate de foie gras. Or if you wish to be more elaborate, you could combine any two of these for a choice. With the sandwiches serve hot and cold, for preferences between hot and cold are very distinct and many people always prefer hot tea. Of course, but not necessary, to have an attractive to tea, such as coffee chat or cream cheese, nuts, olives and or a punch of some "modest" kind.

The second course is the sweets course and for this usually there is a choice as to ice cream, pastry, or an ice and small cakes, assorted.

All of this can be definitely ordered and the check for it paid in advance, by arrangement with the head waiter. And it is a great help to have this all off your mind, so that you can have a free attention to your guests, to be with your guests—which is more important than tea, is it not?

Arrange to have a low centerpiece for yourself a chart of your guests, so that you will know how you are going to place them. Also, to avoid awkward, for hostess and guests alike, as the gauche hostess who forgets whether she has placed her guests, and makes them wait while she figure out where she is to place them. And of course usually you the awkward and hurried moment, she does not seat them as she would have wished.

You seat your guest of honor at your right.

Whether or not you give the guest of honor a gift is a question of your choice—like the providing of the corsages, it is for you to decide. If you wish to have generous attention of details you might buy the guest of honor one of those charming French evening bags made like a flower, with a mirror in the bottom, and lovely to look at inside, and have the natural flower corsages of the guests made or harmonize with this. Do you like the idea?

Your invitations may be written informally as personal notes or on your visiting card which is a bit more formal but still not too formal. If you wish to have invitations on your visiting card, you write via your visiting card, you write "To meet Miss Brothers (fiancee) on the 2nd, with the other information as to the tea.

The great point about all these arrangements is the vital one of having all your details so provided for and visualized that you will have a pleasant mind for your hospitality. If you follow the arrangements as I have outlined them, you have everything attended to be forehand except the feeling of the waiter, and this can be very unobtrusively done as you leave.

The Beauty Box

By Helen Pollett

With backs of evening frocks growing lower and lower, exterior decoration is a bigger order than it has been in the past. There are liquids, powders, which are cosmetic medicines for covering up an epidermis which isn't precisely and exactly all that it should be in texture and coloring. Impossible to apply them smoothly and evenly by one's self, no matter how clever you are, you can't see your own back, much less do a first class job of exterminating on it.

Treatment for blackheads and pimples; a steaming hot bath with soap and a heavy brush each day to stimulate the functions of the skin; regard for diet and exercise; an abstinence from fats and sweets; eating lean meats, green salads and vegetables. Then a good deep scrubbing of the face, hot applications, a cold rinsing and applications of powdered boric acid or some heeling ointment.

Astringents are to be applied after cold water has been used on the face. No sense dabbing them on where the flesh is pink and glowing after a warm rubbing. The time for cold water is in the morning, to give freshness to the skin. Most of soap finds an enemy in the girl who minds her beauty rules has a well washed face when she goes to bed.

Are summer freckles still hanging on? Then get to the drug store and have the clerk mix together four ounces of rubbing alcohol, two ounces of peroxyhet and fifteen drops of tincture of benzoin. Apply with cotton at bedtime and again in the morning after the face has been laved in cold water. Shut up on creams when using a bleach.

The large tummy may not be due to fat but to lazy posture, which allows the large muscles to relax. By lifting the chest and relax. By lifting the chest and stretching the spinal column, the body takes the proper pose—hips back, abdomen flat, chin up.

TODAY'S VERSE

WANTING TO KNOW

I wish I knew if, at the rainbow's end,
Where is, or, there is not a pot of gold!
If not, then I would resolutely tend
My garden space, just large enough to hold
A few firm cabbages ,some beets and beans,
And one bright rose. I could be happy there,
A garden is a garden; and it means
A certain sustenance, a little share
Of health, and a lively gratifying thing
To keep one safely busy all the day
Gardens are fragile ' and quickvanishing!
And seeds grow quickly if one runs away.
How dull is garden, though, if it be true
There is a pot of gold—I wish I knew!

200 Cabinet Lead is Prediction in Britain Upon Election Today

Conservatives Conceded Chance of Clear Majority

PREMIER'S SEAT

Bitter Campaign Closed With Air of Quiet

London, Oct. 27—Great Britain's whirlwind general election campaign ended last night with prospects of cold, fair weather for the balloting today and a clear parliamentary majority for the National Cabinet of Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald.

The Conservative party led by Stanley Baldwin, is increasingly optimistic as the hour for Britain's 30,000,000 or more electors to go to the polls approaches. As a part of the National Government, the Conservatives expect to control the Cabinet would receive the people's mandate to continue its efforts to solve the national financial and economic crisis. Furthermore, they optimistically predicted a Conservative party majority in the new House of Commons, where the followers of Baldwin expect to win at least 300 seats.

The weather forecast added another bit to the Conservative party's flowing cup, because they have always been known as "fair weather voters" and the full party strength is expected to go to the polls. The polls will open at 7 a.m. and close 19 hours later. Results in many constituencies will be announced late tonight and the final outcome will be known by tomorrow noon.

The stock exchange was cheerful over the prospects of a government victory, predicting a cabinet majority of about 200 seats.

Baldwin will hear returns at the Conservative party headquarters in London.

The campaign has been the most bitterly fought in many years because of the efforts of Conservatives to crush Socialism, despite the fact that MacDonald, who led the Laborites to power in 1929, is head of the National Government. The Socialists have met the attack by campaigning on an issue of "principles versus bankers," contending that the financial crisis was due to the manipulation of financiers.

Acclamations.

London, Oct. 27.—The standing of the parties in Great Britain's general election, prior to general polling, which opens today, follows:

Conservatives	49
National Liberals	12
Labor	1
Liberals	1

This leaves the National Government with 61 candidates already elected and given a pre-polling majority of 24 over the combined opposition. These figures represent the results of returns accorded on nomination day and the election today will add 77 seats, as a liberal member for Wales University.

Would Make Income Assessment Secret

Toronto, Oct. 27.—Recommendation that legislation be passed to make it an offence for any person to give out information regarding the assessment of any citizen was made to the Provincial government yesterday.

The civic legislation committee recommended that counsel apply to the Ontario government for an amendment to the Assessment Act to provide that (a) income tax assessments be kept in separate rolls from property and income assessments; (b) that the public be denied access to them; (c) that penalties for the information regarding income assessment to be at the discretion of the city clerk, and (d) that a penalty be imposed for unauthorized dissemination of this information.

The recommendation follows discovery recently that a former city employee had been compiling lists of citizens in various income classifications from the assessment rolls and selling the information for advertising purposes.

Homuth Attacks Hepburn For Failure To Demand Probe

Preston, Ont., Oct. 27—Defence of the Ontario Conservative administration and a vigorous attack upon the Liberal party in Ontario for its refusal to back toward the Beauharnois investigation and towards the liquor control scandals, featured the first address by Karl K. Homuth, here last night.

"How much of the $700,000 received by Premier Hepburn from Premier R. G. Sweezey of the Beauharnois syndicate came into Ontario provincial funds in the last Federal election?" asked Mr. Homuth.

"Why did Mr. Hepburn as a member of the Federal Parliament not demand a probe of those funds, why did he not urge the purging of his party, and the expulsion of Liberal Senators who had benefitted by millions of dollars from the Quebec power scandal. Not until he has given the public of Ontario the answer to these questions will he be accepted as the champion of public ownership and the ablest Liberal attacker of the Ontario Hydro Commission," he said.

National Complexion

The reason why the National government, if it was to win at all, must win by a tremendous majority is obvious from its complexion. Existing support from National Labor comes cut-off from the party, from various discordant factions of Liberalism. The government will be in an extremely precarious predicament if it fancy a new House with a majority of less than 30 or 40 members. National Party Has Tremendous Margin in Election

HIGHLIGHTS

London, Oct. 27 (CP)—The British nation went to the polls today from Sandy's Ross to John O'Groats and its electors marked their ballots in a general election where results were awaited anxiously by the whole world. It will not be known for certainty until some time tomorrow; if result is very close, it may take days to formulate.

Eight parties had their candidates on the ballot papers today but for the vast majority of electors the only choice was between the Government supporters or national government party and the Labor party candidates. The National government would have to have a substantial majority or a majority approaching the 100 mark, if it was to win the election. The Labor party scoffed at pre-polling estimates of a government majority of between 150 and 200, but even Labor's most optimistic supporters do not expect the downfall of the government. Labor was looking for great deeps into the government's majority, which ranged around 60 in the last House.

Arthur Henderson, the Labor party leader who has been with the Opposition, Indian Empire has been a swing to Labor in the closing days. Labor is making a particularly strong fight against the 12 former Laborites who supported the National government in the last House and the possible turnover of these seats, where the machine is now against them would alone make a turnover of 24 in the majority.

Giant Airship is Future Pygmy

Cleveland, Ohio—The skipper of the world's largest airship believes it will look like a pygmy in the future. Lieut.-Commander Charles E. Rosendahl of the U.S.S. Akron, told the Cleveland Engineering Society the time will come when ships two and three times as big as the Akron will be built.

The Akron has a gas capacity of 6,000,000 cubic feet. In the future, he predicted, air monsters of 15,000,000 cubic feet will be built and will be of greater value as long range scouts than ships of somewhat smaller size, he said, because of the increased fuel capacity they will carry.

The Akron is about 670 feet long. Commander Rosendahl said that in building it, like Akron many difficulties of the past have been overcome.

"We have minimized some of the three outstanding difficulties in handling a ship. Through the improved stub fin ship can now be taken safely from flight. She can also be served from the ground without the use of a mast and the crew previously required and can ride out thunderstorms in spite of a mast on wheels the ship can dock and undock much better."

New Unemployment Law Would Provide Million, But Not a Cent For Lazy

New York, N.Y.—Model law to "provide employment for everybody but not a cent for loafers" is urged by Dr. Alvin Saunders Johnson, head of economics at New York University.

The law proposes that state unemployment at low wages must be offered to all unemployed persons desiring it, at a suggested minimum wage of $4 per week, besides food and lodging. The law further would require employers of 50 or more persons to subscribe to a state unemployment fund, a rent, which he must maintain under penalty of fine.

The penalty law also would contribute to an unemployment relief fund, which the state would match and invested in securities by the state, Johnson said.

"The pay, then, should be just sufficient to keep the worker in health and strength, but not enough to make them desirable for any job which the state indefinitely.

"Dependent carryhere for centuries shows that charity breaks down the morale of the recipient down the morale of the recipient down the morale of the recipient and finally breeds the same result. The aim of society should then be to eliminate both as fully as possible."

Wave of Hand Lights Statue of Liberty

New York, Oct. 27—Standing atop the Empire State Building, Mlle. Jose Laval, daughter of the French Premier, bade farewell to America last night with a wave of the hand which through the work of engineers turned on a new lighting system on the statue of Liberty.

Mlle. Laval's hand passed over a switch box, which sent out an electrical impulse to an airplane flying over the statue several miles away. The impulse set off a flash bomb from the plane, and the flash of light caused the new lighting system to turn on.

Sheridan's Body Brought To West Point for Burial

West Point, N.Y., Oct. 27.—Back to West Point today came Richard Brinsley Sheridan, Jr., to find a last resting place with some of the country's most distinguished soldiers.

The 31-year-old army football star and honor student died in New Haven hospital late yesterday of a broken neck suffered late in the Yale game Saturday.

Funeral services will be held in the Catholic Chapel tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. Interment will follow in the West Point Military Cemetery.

Publication of Results

Evidence of the unusual public interest in this most unusual election was amply shown by the extensive arrangements made to publish the results. The figures will be shown in hotels, clubs, restaurant, cinemas, theatres and other places of entertainment, in the underground stations and in most public buildings. Hong Kong will remain open until 2 a.m. with community singing and special musical programmes filling in the intervals between results. The international radio will carry returns until 4 p.m.

The complaint clored on the note of excitement and unrulliest which prevailed in most centres throughout. Communist disturbances be cut late last night in North Kensington and West Ham, London. Wild scenes were witnessed where the Communist Conservative candidate's committee rooms were mobbed by Communists. A crowd of hecks demonstrating and singing, "Red Flag." The police dispersed them after making two arrests. One policeman and four supporters of the candidate were injured in the scuffle.

Police were forced to use truncheons to displace a crowd of hoodlums who crossed the White Council disturbance, marching through the streets along and pushing either people off the pavement.

Navy to Defend United States Must be Minimum Protection

Washington, Oct. 27.—The maintenance of a navy as strong and efficient that no enemy could ever successfully attack the country was yesterday by President Hoover as "the first necessity" of the United States government. At the same time, the President, who has called for disarmament many times, affirmed this minimum a maximum will well be determined by the United States, he said, must be reduced to the lowest point that security will permit.

City Council Will Hold Adjourned Meeting Thursday

JOBLESS APPEAL

Debentures Hypothecated To Bank in Lieu of Sale

Belleville council received a number of communications at its meeting, passed a couple of recommendations and adjourned until Thursday night when the esplanade project will be fully discussed, a report as to the cost of work will start immediately. If the latter project is decided upon the by-law will commence to stand and if rejected other relief work will be adopted. Mr. Ernest Storrie, of the firm Gore Naismith and Storrie, will be in the city on Thursday and will go over the whole project and meet the council in committee on Thursday night. Mr. Storrie would have been in the city earlier but he is an important witness in a trial now proceeding in Toronto. The question of the esplanade was not discussed either in committee or the council meeting and the business was naturally of short duration as the city fathers will be tied up to the end of the year draws near.

Unemployed Case

After a motion of the council to hear any who wished to address the council, when Mrs. Jude, a widow of eight children asked the council for relief or else he would be forced to apply to the county authority for sustenance. He did not think the family be asked. Relief would be given him. Mayor Reid inquired if he had received any help and he admitted that he was receiving $1.25 a week, and stated that it was impossible to keep a family and something had to be done. The mayor stated that they would give the matter earnest consideration.

Rinds J. Baines, member of the unemployed organization, asked the council if the relief work for the Belleville citizens only, and being informed that it was, stated that a number not a resident of Belleville, was taken on at the city yard on Monday morning at the foreman. The council wished the man's name but Mr. Baines stated that he was Albert Cook, of Niagara Falls, who was at one time a resident of Belleville but had been away for two years or more.

Question of Residence

Alderman MacMillan, chairman of the Police Commission, stated that he was working a few days ago and wanting that he was sent to the man and asked him if he was a resident of Belleville. The man stated that he had been, that his family was living in Niagara Falls and that he was going to see a relative in Belleville. "I told the unemployed man to come back on the job," said Ald. MacMillan, "and he did not and I did not know he went back on Monday but I will see that the arrangements are made early on Tuesday."

A representative of the Cherry Press, Mr. Cherry, was present and the city, told the council that he believed he had been discriminated against in regard to printing in the city. He stated that on Saturday last week, where a number of folders were to be printed and the job firms had been asked to tender on the work, but he was not asked to tender.

Alderman Kinzear, chairman of the finance committee, explained his position to the council, in the City Council Act providing an expenditure of approximately $180,000 for the week's program. Hon. Leopold Macaulay, Provincial treasurer, and Hon. Peter Heenan, minister of lands, forests and mines, will be done on a hand labor basis.

Land Statement

The members of the council were given statements respecting the expenditure made by the land, when Mr. Cherry stated that the Belleville Light Infantry, by Charles E. Mahood, had been given the contract for printing but it had come to hand so late that the members had not had a chance to look over the statement. The matter of the grant was referred back until such time as the statement was discussed and checked over.

Mr. Ranna asked that more leeway be given in choosing Belleville citizens for relief work.

He stated there were a number of residents of Belleville being employed at Coxwell and Point Anne and hoped the council could see their way clear to broaden his limits from which they considered a man a resident. Mayor Reid explained that the arrangements as now constituted were satisfactory and that all municipalities surrounding Belleville were working in their respective areas.

Bonds Hypothecated

After the city treasurer had interviewed the council in the committee of the whole a memorandum was tabled "that debentures for bridges, schools, sewers and side walks amounting to $218,947.23 be hypothecated with the Bank of Montreal and held as collateral security by the bank until such time as a suitable market arrives on which to dispose of said debentures by the bank. The question of hypothecation be executed with the Bank of Montreal." This recommendation was adopted by the council.

Ald. Harry Hill, chairman of Fire, introduced a recommendation "that the Fire Chief be empowered with the committee appointed by the Council to expend the sum of $1,000 and this recommendation was also passed.

On a motion of Ald. Armstrong asked the mayor if Mr. Storrie would be here to discuss the figures on the both projects before the council meeting on Thursday and also the auxiliary pipe line from the filtration plant to the bridge. Mayor Reid stated that the council on Thursday night and his Worship was positive he believed he would.

Ald. MacMillan and Ald. Woodley congratulated the mayor on his efforts in securing another $10,000.00 for unemployment relief from the government during his recent visit to Toronto and October chundersterms yesterday.

Church Outrage May Cost Life

Hamilton, Oct. 27—Human life as well as the most heinous example of sacrilege in Hamilton's history may rest soon upon the head of the man who early Sunday morning desecrated the altar and holy vessels of St. Mary's Pro-cathedral.

F. D. Campbell of 218 MacNab Street, the elderly father of Rev. Father Campbell of St. Joseph's Church, was so shocked on hearing of the sacrilege that he collapsed and last night little hope was held for his recovery.

Meanwhile the "ice are using every means at their disposal to run to earth the guilty person or persons who wrecked the entire altar and sanctuary of the pro-cathedral.

Olympiad Expenses Have Been Slashed To Stimulate Interest

Tokio Placid, N.Y. — Realizing that the present extraordinary economic conditions demand an unusual burden upon foreign Olympiad participants, the Japanese to send their athletes to compete in the Olympic games to be held at Los Angeles next February, the local Olympic committee has revised to cut the cost of housing contestants and officials one dollar a day per man.

It is expected that this contribution will be the largest ever received, amounting to several thousand dollars. The new rates will be two, three and four dollars a day per person, for board and room, depending upon the type of accommodations desired by the visiting teams.

A World war veterans' action has been called to Horn Blitz, international boxer, who is now in Berlin. Further announcements regarding the culminating expenses for visiting teams at the Lake Placid Games are expected to be made soon.

Flyweight Title Changes Hands

Frankie Genaro, World's Champion, Defeated By Jose Perez

Paris, Oct. 27—Jose Perez, young boxer from Tunis, knocked out Frankie Genaro, New York veteran recognized by the United States National Boxing Association as world's flyweight champion, in the second round of a 15-round title bout last night.

Willfully denied French crowd that packed the arena saw Perez batter the New Yorker into submission almost before he had time to get warmed up. A right hook to the chin sent Genaro to the floor early in the second round. He struggled to his knees at the count of eight, but that was as far as he could get before the count was finished.

Manassa Mauler Offered Match

Can Fight Either Carnera or Campolo in Miami Next Winter

New York, N.Y., Oct. 27—If he is really serious about that comeback stuff, Jack Dempsey can have 20 rounds of the gate receipts for a match in Miami, Fla., next February against either Primo Carnera or Victor Campolo.

James J. Johnson, Madison Square Garden promoter, said he had been informed that the old Manassa Mauler was prepared to come east to discuss the proposition if Carnera or Campolo, preparing for a comeback with an extensive barnstorming tour of the far west, now is on a hunting trip in Nevada.

Observers here considered it unlikely that Dempsey would accept the terms Johnson has offered, pointing out that the one-time heavyweight champion would invariably in the past demanded and was given a guarantee. He probably would want a million for a match with Carnera or Campolo who clash here Nov. 27.

Whether or not Dempsey accepts, the Garden promoter is committed to a boxing show at Miami next winter, Johnson has been working for some time with a view toward putting Max Schmeling to defend his heavyweight title against Mickey Walker.

By The Observer

A bankrupt young bank clerk in Belleville, Ont., has stolen $44,500,000. Well, no one can say that the young city does not hold unlimited opportunities.

Tomorrow night the Oshawa Arena will be officially opened when the Toronto Maroons play an exhibition game against the Springfield Indians. This is a novel way to which to usher in the winter season, we would think. It gives the smaller town a chance to see big league hockey in action, although they are playing a pre-season game.

The Belleville Arena will be opening its doors in a very few weeks now and nothing has been done as yet to foster city league hockey. After last year's mediocre league it is hoped that some real "live wire" spirit will be shown to get behind a city or industrial league for this coming season. In past years it has been the idea of some teams to "pack their own" with hockey stars so that the other teams in the league would have little or no "snow ball's chance." This practice will have to be discontinued if the league is to be a success in the future.

Other cities operate a successful city league as did Belleville in years past. The spirit of winning a title was always predominate over the real sportsmanship of the "game for game" in this present era. The sooner this spirit of city leagues regain this spirit of sportsmanship the sooner will this will have a successful city league. It has been suggested that an industrial league be formed this year but the question arises, how to get interest industries in Belleville to warrant a league sponsored by them?

If the City League officials and the industrial moguls would get their heads together they could no doubt form a league that would be an asset to Belleville. In past years the citizens have patronized city hockey and they will again if the teams are evenly enough matched whereby keen competition is enjoyed at all games. But the public will not attend games in which the outcome is never in doubt.

Now is the time to organize for the coming season and it is hoped that a real city league will be the outcome this year.

It was with regret that we heard of the passing of Chas. A. Comiskey, the owner of the Chicago White Sox. "The Old Roman" as he was known to his many friends, had never quite got over the shock of the 1919 baseball series scandal, when his players sold the series to the Cincinnati Reds for the small sum of $10,000. Comiskey's baseball team, along with St. Louis before buying Rogers Hornsby, were the Saps. Stockings some years ago. Mr. Tom Dalmage of this city, is a personal friend of the late Mr. Comiskey and it was with much regret that he heard of his passing.

Mr. Dalmage has been a personal acquaintance of the old Roman" ever since 1906, at which time he lived in Chicago.

Which reminds us that it is about time that the Belleville National had their annual meeting and election of officers for 1932. What is it? Sure is to be an baseball in Belleville next year (?)

It seems that Dick Philp carried the ball on that famous 185-yard run last Saturday, not Jack Graves as stated yesterday. Graves was right behind Philp and tried to take the pass in case he was tackled though.

There is to be a meeting at the Y.M.C.A. tonight to form a volley ball league in Belleville. There are lots already to enter the league now and the committee would like a sixth club if at all possible. The five clubs that have signified their intention of starting are: Kiwanis, Y's Men, Y Business Men and Y.M.C.A. Seniors.

Ladies' day at the baseball park of the Chicago American league team recently attracted a crowd in which there were 30,000 women. It is believed that this was the largest group of women ever to see a major league baseball game. The women who applied at the gate were admitted free.

THE SENSATION OF THE YEAR IN CANADIAN FOOTBALL
MONTREAL STAR CALLED THE GREATEST EVER

Here is the man who is being hailed by rugby-football experts everywhere as the greatest to ever tread a Canadian gridiron under our own rules. And he is an American. There has been some considerable talk this year about Americanizing our old game with the use of the forward pass. Many would have left the game intact, pointing out that the ...new play is a failure. This may ✱ may not be so, but when this man Stephens throws a forward pass and Gordie Perry is on the other end, the pass stays "throwed". Whether Stephens is the greatest to ever tread a Canadian grid is a matter of opinion; but certainly there has never been a quarter-back to equal him. Cool as the proverbial cucumber, with a brain that works like a flash of well-greased lightning he is one of the mainstays of the ex-pensive 1931 edition of the Montreal Winged Wheelers. He has changed that team from a good one, to one that is almost unbeatable. The team that beat M.A.A.A. this year will win the Canadian championship without a struggle. Their display in Toronto against Hamilton was superlative. Led by Stephens, they ran up 32 points against a strong team. Dont get the idea that Warren Stephens is a hog, who carries the ball at every chance for his own personal glory. He is more like a machine. He has his plays timed to the split second and anyhow who has tried to bring him down this year has found it a very difficult task. For just refuses to come down until he sees that everything is as it should be and has passed the ball if at all possible. Incidentally this is his first season in Canadian football, and the Winged Wheelers are the only team in Eastern Canada who can use the forward pass to advantage. Watch for Regina 'Riders; get working now on an impregnable defence if you expect to give this team a battle. And keep your man covered!

FINE WEATHER IN SEAHAM AS ELECTORS VOTE

Extremely Heavy Poll Is Anticipated For Premier's Seat

28 MEETINGS

"It In Touch With Kings, Not Out of Touch With Labor"

SEAHAM, Durham, Oct. 27.—(Canadian Press Cable)—Perfect weather prevailed in the Seaham riding where Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald sought re-election in today's general election. Combined with unusual interest attaching to the battle by Mr. MacDonald against a nominee of the regular Labor Party, everything portends an extremely heavy poll.

Mr. MacDonald's opponents were William Conner, Labor, and George Tuckey, Communist. The first voter at Easington were Dr. and Mrs. Grant who were with Prime Minister MacDonald throughout his strenuous battle here.

William Conner, the schoolmaster candidate, was an early voter at South Hetton.

Mr. MacDonald ended the most hectic fight of his career with 28 meetings yesterday, when he answered taunts by the Opposition that by forming the National Government he had ceased to be a labor man, with the reply: "If I have not lost touch with Kings I have not got out of touch with my own people."

After the work of the National Govt. had been completed, Mr. MacDonald said, and Britain has successfully fixed up her economic and financial emergency, the leaders of the National Government will go back to their own parties.

"You will not be in any party then," shouted a heckler.

"I shall, the Prime Minister retorted," and I shall be the leader too."

Intra-Empire Economic Agreement is Forecast

LONDON, Oct. 27.—(Can-Press Cable)—One reason why the Empire overseas will have such a peculiar interest in the result of today's British general election is that if the National Government is returned the home there is every indication it will seek to put into effect an Intra-Empire economic agreement widening the British preference scheme.

There have been ample evidences of the government's desire to further strengthen the Empire economic bond. The latest came from Rt. Hon. Neville Chamberlain, Conservative Minister of Health in the National Cabinet, who said at Dudley last night that one of the first tasks of the National Government, if returned, would be to enter fresh negotiations and conversations with the Dominions.

"To do that successfully we must have the power to put duties on foreign imports in order to give the Dominions the preference and to receive from them the preference for our manufacturers," Mr. Chamberlain added.

RAYS OF SUN CAUSE CRASH

Motorcar Plunges Into Buggy, One Killed and Two Hurt

ORILLIA, Ont., Oct. 27.—John J. Rule, 71 of Stayner is dead and his 65-year old wife is in a serious condition as the result of a highway accident near Stayner last evening. Rule and his wife were driving in their buggy, when they were struck by a motorcar driven by John Priddle of Dundalk.

Provincial Constable W. Robinson, who investigated, states that Priddle's vision was apparently obscured by the setting sun and he failed to notice the buggy. Two Barrie men arrived on the scene a few minutes after the accident and found the three people unconscious. They were immediately taken to Stayner, where Mrs. Rule died just after he was carried into Dr. Murphy's office. Mrs. Rule was found to be suffering from a leg fracture and severe bruises. Priddle quickly recovered consciousness having been only slightly injured.

What Theatrical Managers Say of Coming Attractions

At The Belle

SUAVE WILLIAM POWELL IN "THE ROAD TO SINGAPORE"

Doris Kenyon featured

"The Road to Singapore", which is the feature attraction at the Belle, Tomorrow and Thursday, matinee daily with the suave debonair William Powell in the starring role is a darkly glamorous melodrama of the tropics which gives the actor ample opportunity to display his unique talents.

Powell is a past master in the noble art of making imperfect characters interesting and sympathetic. A less able actor would not dare play the role of Hugh Dawtry in a story dealing so frankly with fundamentals, but in his experienced hands the picture is lifted as one of the high spots of the current season.

Set in Khota, in Ceylon and played with an accompaniment of tom-toms and weird native ceremonials, "The Road to Singapore" is the story of the way of two men with one woman. Dr. March, played with exceptional skill by Louis Calhern, a new recruit in pictures from the New York stage, brings his bride to the tropical settlement and promptly proceeds to neglect her in the rush of his professional duties.

Smarting under this inattention and spurred on by the tropical intensity of the life about her, Phillippa the bride, played by Doris Kenyon finds solace in the person of Hugh Dawtry the colony's newspaperman, who has previously proved himself as fascinating to women as he is objectionable to men.

What eventually comes from this situation is the story twist which prevents "The Road to Singapore" from even bordering on ordinary entertainment. The picture is skilfully staged and extravagantly produced. The cast includes such favorites as Marian Marsh, Allison Skipworth, Lumsden Hare and Douglas Cerrard, as well as the principals mentioned above.

Miss Kenyon proves to be lovelier with each succeeding appearance on the screen. Her comeback to talking pictures is making history.

Miss March, a young actress of great promise in earlier roles, comes into this picture with more confidence and with flowering beauty and ability. She should go far.

Deliveryman Beats Off Bandit, Saves Cash

Toronto, Ont., Oct. 27.—Bugging in a desperate hand-to-hand fight, Arthur H. Quail, delivery man for a local store, last night saad his firm's money from a would-be-robber.

Dicky Moore, Frances Starr and "Chic" Sale appearing in "The Star Witness", now at the Capitol.

William Powell, will be seen as the suave lover in his first picture for Warner Bros. "The Road To Singapore," commencing at the Belle Tomorrow. Marian Marsh, sensational young screen find and a Wampas baby star, plays an important role opposite him, as does Doris Kenyon.

At The Capitol

CHIC SALE IN "THE STAR WITNESS"

"The Star Witness" opens at the Capitol today for a two day run.

Chic Sale is a whole show in himself. Few there are who do not know him through his work or so of vaudeville characterizations, his "Specialist" his radio program or his syndicated articles—and now he makes his screen bow in a story built about one of his most lovable creations—Cran'pa Summerill the Man Who knew Lincoln.

Cran'pa Summerill on a forty-eight-hour leave from the Soldiers' Home—visits his daughter and her family—sees a man shot another—but validds the window while he and his folks sit at dinner—making them all liable to be called as witnesses before the district attorney —who is played with consummate art by Walter Huston.

The family all but Cran'pa Summerill—are intimidated into silence. The little boy of the household is kidnapped and his father waylaid. Cran'pa meanders through the streets, near the supposed haunts of the thugs playing his fife as he goes.

He frees his grandson—rounds up the thugs—gives some clever tips to the local cops—and caps the climax by appearing at the trial of the killer as star witness. But what thrills and laughs there are along the way—before this is accomplished.

Frances Starr splendidly portrays Cran'pa's daughter and mother of the stolen boy. Other parts are deftly interpreted by Sally Blane, Grant Mitchell, Edward J. Nugent, Dicky Moore, aged five, Ralph Ince, Tom Dugan, Russell Hopton, Fletcher Norton, Robert Elliot, Guy D'Ennery, George Ernst ag nins, Mike Donlin, Noel Madison, Edna Deering and Nat Pendleton.

William A. Wellman, who directed the first great air-picture, "Wings" and recently did "The Public Enemy and "Night Nurse," directs "The Star Witness" with his usual skill. Story, dialogue and adaption are by Lucien Hubbard, who deserves credit for conceiving one of the most unusual and delightful creations of this or any season.

Chic Sale, as the foxy-old Civil War soldier, who is forever talking about the battles he has won—tippling or giving his opinions on any and every subject—is a character of moving and unforgetable charm. As we said in the beginning, he is a show within himself. So is Walter Huston—and so is Frances Starr. A great cast and a great picture—a picture for everybody.

Clive Brook and Miriam Hopkins in a scene from Leon Brownfield's Cosmopolitan magazine story, "36 Hours" with Kay Francis and Regis Toomey, now at the Belle Tonight.

Take all your friends to see it. The rest is guaranteed.

The Star Wednesday and program of comedy and interest also plays on Wednesday.

"Fluffy" the French Poodle is Clever

"Fluffy the little office lady"—you must have seen her often as you early every morning of the business week she is on Front street with her Dandimont friend. They have been "keeping steady company" for several years and they are very happy together. Dark and knowing are her eyes but one has to be in her good graces before allowed to brush aside the bangs which she affects and into them. Fluffy is French, at least she is a French poodle, the pet dog of Dr. Ackrill—now you remember seeing her now.

The Doctor says that "Fluffy" is very intelligent and a great service to him. At home when left alone in the house, Dr. Ackrill is unable to hear the telephone or door bell ring, and as many people come to the house to consult Dr. Ackrill, professionally as a veterinary Surgeon, it is important that all calls to the door and telephone be promptly answered. "Fluffy" however, hears the bell and she seems to know that it is her duty to inform the Doctor. She barks and runs to the door or telephone, depending from which the summons has come. If Dr. Ackrill is dozing in his chair, Fluffy will jump upon his lap and pluck at the sleeve of his coat, the same as she has seen members of his family do when they wish to summons him and he is doing. Also is the pet son why the Doctor calls "Fluffy, the little office lady."

Barny, the fine old hound, which was killed by a car on Alexander Street, a few weeks ago, was a great friend of "Fluffy's" and he used to accompany Dr. Ackrill and "Fluffy" on their walks. "Fluffy" missed "Barny" for a time but now seems quite reconciled to his absence perhaps, however, she does still miss him—who can say that she does not? In any event, Dr. Ackrill misses him. "Barny was a wonderfully fine and affectionate dog," says Dr. Ackrill. To some people dogs are simply 'dogs' but to Dr. Ackrill they are friends.

OLD CLIENTS HELP BROKER

Gave Character Evidence As Midland Ex-Mayor Is "Sent Down"

BARRIE, Oct. 27.—High character evidence by friends and former business associates and letters from numerous former clients from which he had stolen stock certificates, combined with the fact that he had returned and surrendered himself without evading the authorities additional expense went to the favor of William H. Duncan, ex-Mayor, broker and insurance agent of Midland, who pleaded guilty to four charges of theft and was sentenced to two years and six months in each of the charges by Judge Dudley Holmes in County Court here yesterday. Sentences will run concurrently.

His cheeks sunken and face marked with age and worry, Duncan, who gave himself up to the Midland police a week ago Saturday after 15 months of wandering in the United States in an effort to build up another fortune to pay back his creditors, sat quietly in the prisoner's box and listened as each indictment was read.

The indictments were:

"That between April, 1928, and June, 1930 he stole certificates amounting to $67,483 from former clients; that in 1929-30 he stole certificates for 50 shares of the Capital stock of Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, from Louis Boyer of Midland; that in 1929-30, he stole certificates for 400 shares of the capital stock of Vipond-Consolidated Mines, Limited, from John Joseph Mackesy of Midland; that in 1929-30 he stole certificates for 100 shares of Canadian Dredge and Dock Company, Limited, from Dr Dalton S. C. Swan of Midland."

A fifth charge that of theft of Laval-Quebec certificates from Charles Carter of Penetang, was withdrawn.

MADOC PLAY WAS SUCCESS

"College Flapper" Drew Large Crowds Last Week

Madoc, Oct. 27.—On Thursday and Friday evenings in the Masonic Hall, Madoc, was presented the play "College Flapper," with a cast of over one hundred and fifty people, under the auspices of the Madoc Hockey Club and the Social Committee. It gives a modern up-to-date college comedy with a thrilling football story.

The star football player of Bula-Bula College is supposed to be a special football practice, but instead is at the Sorority house making love to his girl, which is against the rules laid down by the coach. When sent for by the coach he tries to escape by donning the dress of the house mother, and his many frantic efforts to escape and the ludicrous scrape he gets into brought many a hearty laugh.

An Alumni Glee Club of businessmen who opened the show gave many of the old-time songs, portraying the modern college type with their knickers, sox garters and college manners.

The curtain rose while a Babe Pageant of about one hundred children between the ages of five and ten years, who gave the pageant "Take Me Back To Babyland," Miss Norma Pair being the special dramatic reader.

A girl chorus of twenty-five High School girls in costume, gave the Milkmaid' Chorus, the College Girls Chorus, and a Sailors' Breezing Along, which were all enjoyed.

The College Alumni Glee Club furnished fun and laughter in their Glee Choruses and College Songs.

At the close of the evening, just before the national anthem, a presentation was made by Mr. Frank Smith, Chairman of the Rink Committee, on behalf of the Hockey Club and the members of the cast, to Mrs. Irving Lott and Ray Lott of Universal Producing Co., in recognition of the splendid ability and courteous zeal in directing the production and staging of the concert.

Special musical numbers during the evening were "Me and the Man in the Moon," "Out in the New Mown Hay," "When I Grow Pretty Baby," "Say It Again." "Dressing Up For Mother" and "Sweet Adeline" with Mrs. Bessie Garvey as pianiste.

After the Friday evening program was over the hall was very quickly cleared and the Jazz Orchestra provided gay and lively music for dancing and the large number of crowd danced as long as the management desired. Everybody at play, in spite of the late hours which had been required to bring the play to perfection in such a short time.

BULL MOOSE TREES YOUTH

Encounter With Cow Moose and Calf at Fish Tail Lake

Ken. Watson, a Bancroft man who spends considerable time with his father in the vicinity of Fish Tail Lake, who acts as a Fire Ranger in the summer months and who traps in the winter months, had an exciting experience on Wednesday evening last when he was returning from the hunting wolf snares a few miles north of their camp says Bancroft Times. Early in the afternoon he left camp for the snare lines, having to go up the lake a couple of miles before taking the tramp. Not returning before night set in, his father became uneasy and taking his best set out in the dead of night to try and locate his missing son. Rowing up the lake to the place where son usually landed the canoe, he found the craft safely moored but hidings of his son. Firing a shot which echoed into the woods, it was answered by one tone shot, distinctly heard by the father. Making his way into the forest from whence the report came, and by loud calls as he travelled, which were answered by the son who remained in one spot from which he was endeavoring to communicate by air with the party in search a happy meeting was eventually reached.

On meeting the father he related his exciting experiences of a few hours before On his way into the lake he had encountered a cow moose with calf. In an endeavour to frighten them away he fired several rounds of ammunition This he accomplished. Making his way to the snare line, he was returning and when he came in contact with a full grown bull moose, who gave him to understand he was monarch of the forest and that his presence was unwelcome, even though he had a gun. Ken. did not make any attempt to dispute the amicable arrangement as he discovered he had only one round of ammunition left. He made for the first substantial tree in sight and there remained for a couple of hours, his monarch keeping close watch on his perching quarters. Then he decided to attempt a move away. It was too dark for Ken. to find his way to camp so decided to spend the night in the woods, making a brush camp to protect him from the chilling breeze and building a fire with which to make it more comfortable.

The homeward journey was begun through the thicket to the lake, thence by boat to camp a couple of miles distant. About midnight father and son retired feeling somewhat tired but thankful that a casualty had been narrowly averted.

Ken. is none the worse for his unusual experience with the bull moose, but he vows from now on he will carry a sufficient supply of ammunition and will not rely on his wits as to whether or not he has the right to traverse the forests in quest of wolves.

Iron Lions and Gnomes As Lawn Decorations Things of the Past

Toronto Ont., (By The Canadian Press)—On the site of the Jarvis Collegiate Alumni Glee Club old Rheinhart house stood, there is now in its stead perhaps the finest collection of gnomes and lions in any one lawn decoration. These things are not becoming rare, according to an observant scribe, who has found them. The gnome parks never went in for this kind of decoration, said J. T. Collins, General Superintendent of the Parks Department. Years ago when he was landscape gardening for Sir Edmund Walker, however he remembered that the gnomes were quite the style in the decoration of grounds surrounding estates. The fashion had continued until well after the turn of the century, he explained, but then an entirely new school of landscape gardening had come into favor, and the gnomes were turned either formality or pure naturalness in landscape gardening.

Old Landmark Placed In Hands of Wreckers

Toronto, Ont. (By The Canadian Press)—At one time a centre of social activity, when the aristocracy of what was then known as York were accustomed to gather around its spacious fireplaces to discuss the events of the progressive little community, the old dwelling house on Duke St., has at last been placed in the hands of wreckers. Condemned as unsafe for tenants in Toronto it has been standing empty for some time, but will remain until this spring has been completely demolished. Workmen engaged in tearing down the building declared it to be just as sound in construction as the day it was first opened by its proud owners.

The walls which are 18 inches in thickness, are made of stone from the island. On each floor are large open fireplaces which in early days served both for cooking and warming of rooms. Each of these is equipped with brick ovens, and the fireplaces were intact despite the fact that they had been out of use for many years.

Formerly Laughed at Collection, Now Treasurer

New York, October 27.—When the late Lizzie P. Bliss, daughter of Cornelius Bliss, secretary of the Interior in the McKinley cabinet, bought the paintings of Degas, Gauguin and other pioneers of the modern school more than fifteen years ago she was said to have laughed at.

"Not an artist herself, her judgment nevertheless was good, . . .

"Today the works of these artists are held modern classics and Miss Bliss's collection is described as one of the finest of the kind in the world.

It hangs now on the soft, beige canvas-covered walls of the museum of modern art, Miss Bliss, who died at the age of 66 last March, had willed the paintings to the museum, inaugurated two years ago. They will remain as a permanent collection providing the museum is in its own home next year. This, its planners say, will occur.

Mrs. J. D. Rockefeller, Jr. is treasurer of the museum, A. Conger Goodyear, president, and A. fred H. Barr, Jr., director.

Paintings of modern artists, vivid and frequently subjected to heated criticism, have hung on the walls of the museum. They are paintings which the Museum of Modern Art has denied a place because its policy demands that time eliminate controversy before it admits a work about the value of a work of art.

Not one of the new museum of modern art shown the works of the earlier French moderns, but it has sought to elevate the works of some of the best artists in the United States. It has been a watch fol patron over the paintings of Winslow Homer, Albert P. Ryder and Thomas Eakins. It has exhibited the paintings of John Martin and Georgia O'Keefe. Even the lesser artists have had their chance at publicity at the museum. A year ago a group of "unknowns" hung their as yet unsung works.

Other galleries bringing forth the works of the young and lesser lights of the art world are ever seeking new talent. Last March the Marie Harriman studios chose 22 paintings from 100 submitted by unknowns". Of these the paintings of George Picken and Thomas Donnelly were the most lauded.

Modern they are, but more representational than abstract. They do not reflect a hang-over from cubism, futurism, or primitivism, but simply the fresh colors of nature, the lines of conventional villages, lovely countrysides, virgin hills and rough dirt roads.

Locomotive Whistles Supply Concert Music

Chicago, Ills. Oct. 27.—Maybe officials of the Chicago, Milwaukee St. Paul and Pacific Railroad wrr. have to call in a musical genius to help them solve a local problem. They are faced with the delicate task of selecting proper whistles for their engines which will be penetrating enough to warn motorists and yet musical enough to soothe families living along the right-of-way.

Members of the Rutherford-Delevan Improvement Association and other groups said the whistles now used were so loud no one could sleep. So safety and mechanical engineers went to work. They obtained all available devices for making noises and fastened them on an old freight engine, invited everyone concerned to a concert.

Musical chimes were considered first, but were frowned on, the committee being of the opinion engineers might not have a sense of music. A tenor whistle and a three tone "sol-mi-do" was next tried. Some of the women folks liked this one, but the consensus of opinion was othei which sounded something like a fog horn.

No decision was reached, and one will be until another addition is staged.

Literary Tastes Improve As Depression Lengthens

Chicago, Ills.—Unemployment has awakened a new demand for literature of a more serious nature, Mrs. Wheeler 3 is because the average reader is in need of a mental sanitary or tonic and in their leisure time, there has nevertheless been a tremendous increase in popularity of the old authors, a survey among librarians and dealers indicates.

"Probably because of the present economic situation, modern realism has become less palatable," C. B. Roden, head librarian of the Chicago public library said. "People are craving reading matter which enables them to take sympathetic flights into the realm of fantasy. They want temporary release from life's realities which remance and pleasant fiction offer.

"In general the trend in the reading appetite of the public is upward there works must inform, remote times and places— works which enable the readers to project themselves into surroundings and character roles far different than their own prosaic lives.

"Cells for Charles Dickens and his contemporary English writers are more numerous than ever before."

Along with frequent demands for fiction of the sunnier vein, bibliotherapists reported an unprecedented interest in travel history and biography. The consensus was that this tendency indicated a desire on the part of the public to improve their cultural backgrounds.

Few no better than money-earning faculties through book acquisition is apparently a matter of less concern in reality, the librarians said. Demands for technical literature on practical subjects is rapidly ebbing. The erstwhile brokers, merchants and bankers are turning bibliophile, but the books which purport to increase their potential usefulness are collecting dust on library shelves.

TOKYO, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Official Japanese advices from Mukden today said one Japanese and five Chinese had been killed by Chinese troops in the Chenchiang district near Lao-Yang. Railway service at Taonan, the dispatch said, had been suspended because of the activities of a bandit force numbering about 1,000 which blew up a section of the track and fired the railway building. NOT BINDING IS JAP CLAIM

League Council Failed To Obtain Unanimous Note

Tokyo, Oct. 26 (AP)—The Japanese government tonight issued a statement saying that in view of the League of Nation's council's failure to obtain a unanimous vote on the resolution calling for evacuation of Japanese troops from Manchuria by November 16, the action was not binding in any way whatever.

Nanking, Oct. 26 (AP)—China today filed with the League of Nations, expressed confidence today that the League of Nation's council would take whatever further steps necessary to give effect to its resolution calling for the withdrawal of Japanese troops from the occupied areas of Manchuria by November 16.

Addressing government leaders, Chiang termed the League council's action "satisfactory" to China.

"I hope," he said, "that prior to November 16, when the council is scheduled to reconvene, all obacles to peace will be removed and world tranquility assured.

"We are grateful that there is still justice in this world.

"We are confident that the League's resolution will attain its purpose—defence of justice against might."

"The present moment is indeed a critical one. All Chinese must remain calm, sustain this patience and restraint, which was the basic reason why they have won the moral sympathy in this issue.

"Our people must and do our utmost to carry out the league's resolution, and will do the first step We trust the league will take what further steps are necessary."

GREATEST VICTORY IN OVER CENTURY

Most Powerful Gov't Takes Seat in History of Britain in Decades

Return To Conservative Sentiment is Very Clear

TODAY'S OPINION

Labor Party Misses Leaders Who Have Fallen At Polls

(By George Hambleton)
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

LONDON, Oct. 28.—(C.P. Cable)—Not in more than a hundred years has any British Government received such an overwhelming majority as the National Government will have in the new House of Commons.

The Opposition has been almost obliterated. The Government will have a majority of well over 400 members. The Conservatives alone, disregarding the other factions in the Government, already have a majority of more than 200 members over all others combined.

Labor's Loss

Laborites in the New House insignificant as to numbers are concerned, will now, of course miss most of their ablest men. Besides those members of the Labor Ministry defeated Labor candidates included such as Tigers on Robin Young, who resigned his position of Deputy Speaker of the House of Commons at the request of his Whips; Union, Arthur Haughey, President of the Trade Union Congress and Miss Ellen Wilkinson. Undoubtedly a formidable group.

National Victory Everywhere

"The National Ticket" was the way everywhere. The new party and the communists did not get a single seat as the returns neared the finish most of their candidates in fact, will lost their deposits. Ramsay MacDonald, leader of the new party left his own seat in Seaham Harbor, Durham-Tyrent, which in 1929 had elected his wife who has been forced out by ill health. Sir Oswald was at the foot of the polls in a three-cornered fight. The "Kid" Lewis, well-known pugilist, who was new Party candidate in Whitechapel, London took a knockout. He polled only 154 votes in a total of nearly 24,000.

Sir Donald MacLean and Sir Herbert Samuel who also left the National Liberals in the Government carried their constituencies in the face of three-cornered fights.

Popular Vote

Even the popular vote, which does not always correspond to parliamentary figures, showed the Government twice as many votes as the entire opposition. As compiled at 4 p.m., the popular vote was:

National Govt. 10,634,333
Opposition 5,230,328

The total vote polled by the women candidates was about 1,000,000.

Late this afternoon, with less than 10 seats out of 615 to be reported, only two members of the old Labor Government had been re-elected. Following Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, Parliamentary Labor leader, down to defeat, the last prominent in the Labor party as Rt. Hon. Arthur Greenwood, Rt. Hon. J. R. Clynes, Rt. Hon. A. V. Alexander, Rt. Hon. Philip Cunliffe-Lister, Rt. Hon. Tom Johnston.

PREMIER IS DISHEVELLED

Police Cannot Keep Back Crowds Greeting MacDonald

London, Oct. 28 (AP)—It was a dishevelled Premier Minister with baggy trousers and no necktie who stood on the front steps of No. 10 Downing Street, today and acknowledge the cheers of a crowd which had gathered to see the new head of his election in Seaham Harbor became known.

He had not stopped to change his clothes after a hurried aeroplane trip from Seaham and when he emerged from his office the police could not keep back the enthusiasts who wanted to shake his hand. He posed for photographers with his daughter, Isabel, flashed a smile at the crowd, thanked them and went back inside.

Lloyd George Family Intact

LONDON Oct. 28.—(C.P. Cable)—The Lloyd George family returns to Parliament in full strength. Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George, whose Liberal following has dwindled to a very small group in the House of Commons, was re-elected in Carnarvon. Major Gwilym, his son who represents the National Government when Parliament was dissolved, was returned with a slightly larger majority and Miss Megan Lloyd George was re-elected in Anglesey.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Oct. 28.—(C.P. Cable)—Conferences between New York State officials and the Federal Government looking to the completion of the St. Lawrence deal affecting the Lawrence Waterway Project prior to diplomatic negotiations with Canada were urged today upon Secretary of State Stimson.

"Country Has Been Frightened Out of Its Wits," Affirms Shaw

London, Oct. 28 (AP)—"Thenone does not know exactly how the country has been frightened out of its wits and has run away," George Bernard Shaw observed from behind his flowing white beard, he said with a chuckle. "The Conservatives will now begging for a moment that we do what they like. The last time they had a big success, because of the Zinoviff letter, they went quite mad in the first week or two. They will be like that.

"In the first week they might make war with Russia, propose an enormous coercion bill for India, repeal the Irish Free State and make Ireland a crown colony, legislate against the Pope and do a lot of fancy thing of that kind.

"Of course these things won't happen, but the country must be prepared for any sort of folly for the moment."

Way for Protective British Tariff Clear Says Washington View

What Will Canada Do? Is Question At U. S. Capital

PREFERENCE VIEW

Selective Program, Not To Apply To All Imports

New York, N.Y., Oct. 28—The New York Times publishes the following special dispatch from Washington: "News that Conservative elements had a predominant lead in the British elections today deeply interested officials in Washington especially as it was believed that the results opened the way to the establishment of a protective tariff by Britain.

"While it was felt that a British protective system would primarily affect France, because of the probable imposition of levies on luxury imports, authorities here was centred on what Canada would do in the event that the Mother Country was willing to enter a general empire agreement for preferential treatment.

"Canadian observers here hazarded the suggestion that any tariff system which England would adopt would comprise two features—first, a general tariff against the world and, second, a scheme whereby she and the Dominions would enter into a preferential agreement. They said also that the British tariff would probably be a selective program and would not necessarily apply to all imports.

ANOTHER BARN FIRE

Avonmore, Ont., Oct. 28—Damage of $10,000 was caused when the house and barn of James Amiland, farmer, three miles north of here, was destroyed by fire. The season's crop was also lost.

What They Say of Esplanade

Street Corner Editorials On Project Of River-bank Development

Thomas Harris, builder and contractor:
"It is the craziest scheme the city ever thought of!"

Lee Wah, laundry owner:
"What, me move from here!" You're playing joke on me. This is first class location. I'm not anything about it."

Jack Oster, handy-man:
"Undoubtedly, it will be of great value in its benefits to the city, but why all the delay? The work should be commenced immediately. Each day's delay will add that much more cost to the final construction."

Clifford Darby, barber:
"My customers generally seem to favor it. For my own part I am quite inexperienced in all classes of construction work, but it seems to me to be an excellent idea which should be carried out. It would relieve the intolerable congestion on Front St., and be of real benefit to the local merchants."

William Parrish, laborer:
"Anything is preferable to walking the streets as I have been doing for months. I think that work of some kind should be commenced without delay; the esplanade will supply that work as well as any other undertaking."

Richard Dafoe, metallurgist and assayer:
"I personally fail to see why an outside firm of engineers should have to be consulted to prepare plans. The city engineers surely are competent and valuable, but it entails necessary expense and delay. The project seems comparatively simple to plot, and quite within the ability of the city engineers to perform. Moreover, from the estimates he might have given for the work could easily have been obtained from him without any personal presence; this should save weeks of delay. If I were a permanent resident I should strongly urge its construction."

H. Ward, garage proprietor and machinist:
"Perhaps I'm a nut on the subject, but I think the more healthful recreation gained by odd visits to the water's edge, the better it is for the health, and at no great cost to the city through its relief scheme, would offset some of the loss the Front St. merchants might undergo. We have no place anywhere near the city where the wife could take the kiddies for the day, as close as that is, and I am strongly in favor of shelving the esplanade until 1940. By that time roads will be obsolete; autogyros will be the mode of travel."

Clarke Dickens, Tip-Top Tailors:
"I heartily commend the idea. Congestion on Front St. must somehow be relieved, and I believe the esplanade is the only available solution. The work should be carried out as soon as possible."

Ernest Baldree, cement finisher:
"As a relief measure the scheme fails short in the workingman's opinion because of actual benefit. Personally I am in favor of it, but I believe the other schemes, that of Zwick's Island or the water main from the filter would react more favorably towards the working man."

"ANSWER TO HOOLIGANS," CRIES THOMAS

"Refused to Sell My Conscience, and Derby Gives Answer"

CLYNES' VIEW

"Combination of New and Powerful Forces" Defeats Labor

London, Eng., Oct. 28 (AP)—"What an answer to the hooligans!" was the comment from James H. Thomas, Secretary of State for the Dominions and one of the old Labor Cabinet Ministers who stood by Ramsay MacDonald in the organization of the National Government. Commenting on his sweeping victory in Derby, Mr. Thomas said, "They thought that mob law would frighten me. Tomorrow Hell during the last three months trying to save people who have not the ability to save themselves.

"I refused to sell my conscience and Derby has given its answer."

On the other side of the picture was Rt. Hon. J. R. Clynes, one of the Labor cabinet ministers who called out to resist the blame without success. Calls were sent to Bracebridge and Gravenhurst for help and in addition those points and also from Orillia aided in bringing the fire under control.

The portion of the village burned is on the north side of the river and west side of the street. No estimate of the damage was available.

Port Carling is situated at the junction of Lake Muskoka and Lake Rosseau which are connected by a canal rebuilt and improved about ten years ago. The town is about 125 miles north of Toronto.

WELLS SEES GRAVE DANGER

"Tariffs Are Dangerous Toy" Declares Famous Novelist

Washington, D.C., Oct. 28.—(AP)—H. G. Wells, the British historian-novelist, today viewed the National Government's victory in England as a simple "appeal to recall in the doctors" instead of as a triumph for conservatism.

"This is not a Conservative victory," he said in discussing reports in a press conference. "It is the Conservative Party's victory, you see, but not distinguish between the two.

Should the Nationalists fail to restore prosperity, Wells foresaw "a simple swing to Communism or Radicalism" and he forecast that in the next three years the pendulum will come back to power as a "Socialist-Conservative Coalition group."

Wells said he would not be disturbed at an emergency tariff but that he considered it the possible ascendancy of radical groups, later, and declared, "tariffs are a danger-ous toy."

Italian Liner Launched on 9th Anniversary of March on Rome

ROME, Oct. 28 (AP)—The ninth anniversary of the Fascist march on Rome and last advent of Mussolini to power, was celebrated throughout Italy today.

Mussolini himself went from one new public works to another in and around Rome, clipping ribbons or performing ceremonies at scenes of two to declare some new public improvement open. He made no public speech, but announced except to the Fascist leaders in charge of the guests of honor.

The major event of the day was at Trieni, where the "Conte Di Savoia", 48,000 ton liner which will ply between Italy and South America was launched.

The government has already begun to prepare for the tenth anniversary of the march on Rome, which is to be a celebration unexampled in recent years in Italy.

TRIEST, Italy, Oct. 28 (AP)—The Conte Di Savoia of 48-000 ton speed liner of the Lloyd Sabaudo Line, was launched today, the ninth anniversary of the Fascist march on Rome. Crown Princess Marie Jose christened the ship, in the presence of high government officials, diplomacy and thousands of visitors.

The Conte Di Savoia will be her place on the Naple-New York line next summer, and, with a speed of 27 knots per hour or more, will reduce the average crossing from nine to six or six and a half days.

The "Conte Di Savoia" will be the first ship to be equipped with Diesel stabilizing cyrocoops. Engineers claim the ship will thereby be steadyrolling and will prevent seasickness.

The liner is the largest ship yet launched in the Adriatic sea.

FLINTLOCK GUNS FOUND

A find of not a little historical importance was made near Main Ducks Island this summer when two ancient flintlock muskets were hauled from the lake by Mr. Donald Ferguson, of Bath, in his nets. The spot where the weapons were found is the very best duck shot. The barrels of these muskets were rusted very badly and one has a small hole in the muzzle, but the stocks were also badly decayed. One of these guns still has the flint attached to the hammer and the remains of its plate underneath the barrel. A brass sight was also on the end of the muzzle. A date or proof marks could not be found on account of rust on the side plate.

These two early pieces of firearms may have been lost overboard during the war of 1812, 113 years ago. These guns were found nearly in the same location as the latter. A better preserved musket was brought to the surface many years ago at that island, and now is in the collection of firearms of Dr. Lighthall, Picton.

The Baptist Young People's Union held their annual Hallowe'en party in the Bridge street church parlors. Ave. Baptist Church on Monday evening. The rooms were prettily decorated for the occasion with lanterns, streamers, etc. The meeting was in the form of a masquerade party and the depression came in for a severe knock. There was a number of frozen assets and bank failures, but the party was held Mr. Wing.

The principles of good credits as laid down by Mr. Wing were, first, that a good account should be one hundred per cent. and secondly, that merchants should consider that only the very best assets as that percentage. The individual account must be controlled, the terms on which the goods are purchased should be considered and the merchant should study the character of the individual to whom credit is given. "The question has often been asked since this depression has struck the country are merchants morally obligated to give credit to those who have previously dealt with him? and I would say that a certain amount should be put into a bills receivable account marked "Golden Rule" account from which should not expect any return.

KIWANIS CLUB ASSISTS WEST

Lew Wing, Toronto, Gave Address On Successful Outfit

Not being able to arrange for a supply of fruit and vegetables owing to the lateness of the season and to the cordial invitation of Western Canada, the Kiwanis Club of Belleville decided to give their help to the assistance of the appeal from Assiniboia Club in Western Canada and voted a cheque for $50.00 to relieve distress in a town in the province that stricken area. The money may be spent as Bridge Club sees fit.

The weekly luncheon was one of the largest for some time and the members listened to an interesting address by Mr. Lew Wing, last president of Down-Town Kiwanis Club in Toronto on the subject "Successful Outfit." President George Cole was in the chair, Pte Chief Lyall acted as sergeant-at-arms and James Bankier as song leader.

Lew Wing accompanied by the community singings on the piano, the latter being the only one to pay two complimentaries to the Belle Theatre. His birthday falling on Tuesday and George Forhan was the giver. The Club also had as guest a little boy, a child, who has lost the sight of one eye and it is hoped that the child's other eye may be saved. Arrangements were made for the latter city visit of Picton next Tuesday night. The meeting will be a Ladies' night with Picton club supplying the entertainment. His Worship Judge in St. Michael's Academy and a dance will follow the luncheon.

Following the usual preliminaries underlining successful crews Mr. Lew Wing gave a very concise exposition of what good credits are. "Credit is the foundation of the nations not being able to pay their debts in parallel to merchants allowing their customers too much credit. Credit is the ability of people to owe sums of money to them and which at the time did not worry them." Mr. Wing was an interesting artisan and the depression came in for a severe knock. Refreshments were served and the meeting was brought to a close by prayer and the singing of "God be with us till we meet again."

MINISTERS ALL ELECTED

Sweep at Polls On Tuesday Sends All Back To Posts

London, Oct. 28 (Can. and Assoc. Press Cable)—Headed by Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald the British National Cabinet, or at least such of its members as had to seek re-election, has been returned to the House of Commons. Six Cabinet ministers were re-elected in yesterday's general election, another was elected without opposition. Five members of the House of Lords had the tenth, Rt. Hon. Prime Minister MacDonald, after the hardest fight of his life secured a majority of 5,351 in a three cornered fight in Seaham, running as a National Labor candidate against the fierce opposition of the Labor party, whose 'nominee was William Connor. The election of the Prime Minister, although his majority shrunk from 29,000 to 6,000 was a victorious climax to another day of dramatic victories for the National Government.

As the return from Seaham came in the National Government's total seats swelled to two thirds of the entire membership of the new House of Commons. The opposition native wing alone had a clear majority over all other parties.

PIONEER DAUGHTER

by H. Louis Raybold

Polly Lowell and her prim little spectacled mother sat each on a polished suitcase, gazing vacantly after the vanishing smoke of the long transcontinental train. Ready for the small red station and dingy grain elevator, they were the most conspicuous objects in a scene whose background was desert to the horizon.

"Well," said Polly, "here we are!" "I never was so thankful for anything," remarked her mother, "as I am that you are merely engaged to John Shelton and not married to him."

"I am inclined 'right now to agree with you," admitted Polly. "That is probably John now." She waved her hand toward a black speck moving toward them across the sagebrush and cactus.

"Let us hope it is at least someone who can direct us immediately to hot baths and cold drinks, but before he arrives, whoever it is, let me urge you to break your engagement and return to Boston as soon as possible. Just fancy spending the rest of your life in this forsaken hole. You—a descendant of Governor Bradford!"

Five minutes later the black speck had changed into a dilapidated automobile driven by a tall, thin, brown young man who drew Polly into his arms and held her as if he would never let her out of them again.

"So this," murmured Polly, as they sat side by side in the heavily desert road, "is Yuma City. I—I think I could ever live here, John. It's better to be honest with you right at the start."

John's face paled, but he managed a cheerful smile. "Don't decide yet. Wait until you've seen the ranch and my irrigated fields — and Rosalie," he added, almost as an after-thought.

"Rosalie?"

"Cutest little trick you ever saw, Polly. Daughter of my foreman, Jim Armstrong, a child of the pioneers. Her people were the first to farm in this part of the state. He's working for me now to pick up some cash for further improvements, while his wife and son run the farm. You'll like Rosalie. And now, dang it, you've let me go on to them thar hills? Home is just the other side."

When Polly, after another forty minutes' driving, looked down from the summit of a wierd treeless butte to the green checkerboard spread below with its low-storied ranch house and cotton-woods rustling in the wind, she had to admit that in one spot at least the desert had been made to blossom like the rose. Yet, with a little shock, she knew she was being seeing that where the green checkerboard ended, the illimitable desert stretched once more to distant, shimmering horizons.

Jim Armstrong met them at the ranch, Polly became aware of a small woman with two collies at her heels waiting to meet them. A moment later she was shaking hands with a slender girl wrapin John had mentioned as "Rosalie, dear." Rosalie, dear, indeed!

For the next three days the entire personnel of the ranch from John himself to fat old Tuna, the half-Indian, half-Spanish cook devoted themselves in one way or another to the visitors.

Polly and her mother were driven to the reservoir far back in the hills where the precious waters were compounded which alone made settlement possible in the arid Yuma basin. Another day Polly, mounted on a sleek black pony, rode with John to the Armstrong ranch and met both Rosalie's capable, comely mother and lanky, drawling brother. One evening newspaper-reading ranchers flocked in from the surrounding country and there were games and contests and one of Tuna's most elaborate spreads.

Afterwards as they rode away under a low-hung, yellow moon, Polly stood at the verandah rail and, with a strange ache at her heart listening to the fading strains of "Little Old Log Cabin in the Lane."

There was something about John which both hurt and puzzled her, and when she tried to analyze her reaction to his attitude she was baffled by what she found. For why should a girl who was planning to send a man out of her life forever care at all about his behavior?

Her first meeting with John had occurred during one of his brief visits to the East. They had fallen rather quickly for each other, Polly had become engaged on condition that, after a visit to his Arizona ranch she could bring herself to like it well enough to live there.

And now here she was on that promised visit, only to find John quite changed from the John of her fancy. He was a tired, hurt expression in his fine eyes.

Polly's self-control snapped. "You know perfectly well it hasn't been bad at all. You know it would love it here—the glorious deep blue sky, the silvery air, the eerie horrible old gray descert itself! As for being a daughter of pioneers—why, I'm a daughter of pioneers myself. But if you'd rather marry Rosalie, why don't you?"

John gave a low, happy, amused little laugh. "I'll be glad to when she will be realized. When I saw how you felt when I first met you at the station, I knew at once that you must make your decision unhampered by any sense of obligation. Wait I might always feel I had taken an unfair advantage of you. So, loving you to pieces I was perfectly unloverlike. As for Rosalie by next summer she'll be married to that singing cowboy you've heard about, Jim's foreman."

Blissfully Polly yielded to John's tender arms and a few minutes later they were explaining to Polly's mother that she must visit them long and often.

Aug. 5th and End of October Suitable Time

Ottawa, Oct., Oct. 28 (CP)—While it is too early in the history of Churchill on Hudson Bay, as a grain shipping port, to closely estimate the length of the annual season of navigation, it was pointed out at the Department of Marine today that up to the present date conditions generally at Churchill and from both Hudson Straits and Bay, ranging from seditions prevailing during the season just closing, it would appear, according to Lieut. Johnston, Deputy Minister of Marine, that the period between August 5th and the end of October would be a conservative estimate of the season of navigation and this might be extended, depending upon weather conditions.

IRA CLAUS IS SENT TO TRIAL

Details of Evidence in Case Revolting As Story Unfolded

Ira Claus, 45, Indian resident of Deseronto was committed for trial on a very serious charge against a child of three years and ten months of age, when he appeared in Deseronto police court on Tuesday afternoon before Magistrate George W. Painter. The accused is defended by W. A. Reeve of Napanee and B. C. Donnelly, Crown Attorney, conducted the prosecution. The court was held in camera, the public being excluded and the evidence at times was revolting.

Four Witnesses

It was alleged through the four witnesses who were examined that the offence took place on October 24th in the home of the accused. It was shown that Claus came to the child's home and asked the grandmother of the child if the child could be taken to his home in order to see the rabbits that he owned. Knowing that the child was fond of the pets and believing the child would be safe she allowed her to accompany the man. When the child returned home she noticed something was wrong and questioned the child concerning what happened and the child told a horrible story.

Revolting Story

Dr. H. S. Boyer, who examined the child after the alleged offence told of her condition at the conclusion of his examination and the Crown Attorney not wishing to have the child testify, Magistrate Painter had no hesitancy in committing the accused for trial in custody. Mr. Reeve, the defense counsel had no questions for the witnesses at length. There was a large crowd hanging about the court house all the afternoon and pleading guilty was fined $25.00 and the air fairly buzzed with comments on the case which has stirred in that community.

Theft Charge Dismissed

John Wright and Ivy McComber were found not guilty of theft from the dwelling owned by Mrs. Dean Mildred Lottridge and the informant, Mrs. Lottridge was ordered to pay the costs of the court. Mr. Donnan spoke stating there was no evidence to implicate either Mr. Wright or Ivy McComber.

Assault at Public House

quarrel at the council house on the night of October 16th last was the cause of a court action at the sitting of the police court at Deseronto on Tuesday afternoon. Fred Marcie was charged with "assault doing grievous bodily harm" and pleading guilty was fined $25.00 and costs or in default 30 days in jail. The man did not have the money and he was brought to the County jail to serve his sentence. The Magistrate was lenient in the respect that he offered the default sentence to start from the date of his arrest.

William Maracle was charged with "swearing and fighting" on the same night and pleading guilty was fined $10.00 and costs or in default 15 days in the county jail, the default sentence to commence with his arrest. In this tussle, which took place between Fred Marcie and William Maracle, the latter was severely pummelled and struck in the face with Fred Marcie's fists. The man requiring the attention of a doctor after the fighting had subsided.

RESULT MORE THAN EXPECTED

The avalanche which swept away the ranks of Labor in the English ridings yesterday was an indication of the trend of the public thought in the present crisis, to the solution of which the National Government of Great Britain was formed a short while ago. The further endorsation which came from the country sections where the older parties were more strongly entrenched than Labor was added proof of the uniformity of thought which was expressed at the polls in Britain yesterday.

The Right Hon. Ramsay MacDonald, lonely in a sense in that he was asked to sever himself from the very own branch of the Labor party, must feel proud of the endorsation of the policy which he strenuously instrumental in formulating and of his creation of the National Government to solve the political situation which was brought about in England some time ago.

National Government will now, with the strong endorsation of the people of Great Britain, have opportunity to carry out to their full extent the measures they deem necessary for stabilization.

Financial gains are certain to follow the steadying influence of the election results, but most important will undoubtedly be the political upon Europe. While European countries have been leaning more and more towards socialist, and communistic forms of government, Britain comes back to the conservative form. The rout of Labor in Tuesday's vote will have a powerful effect upon extreme political thought. The older recognized forms of government won a world victory yesterday at the British polls, leaving the leading people of the world to whom nations look for guidance have expressed the belief that the older forms of government are still potent to solve problems as they arise.

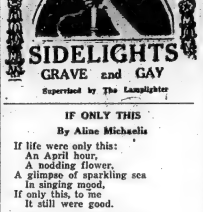
HALLOWEEN

Halloween, the observance of which takes place three days hence, is one of those abiding functions which thrive in spite of the passage of the years and the change of customs.

Coming out of the Middle Ages when belief in the supernatural was more prominent, the festival was the creation of the spirit of the time which gave credit to sprites, goblins, devils, fairies and all manner of strange things, such as signs and tokens, method of divination, and so on.

This festival has much of interest from an artiquarian standpoint and also from an educational standpoint. In those days when there was not general dissemination of knowledge there was assembled a mass of belief which has long since been ridiculed by the light of practical ages which followed. And it is rich in fancy. Some of the most delightful experiences in the children of this time are centred about this night of witches.

Of course present day observance of Halloween is but a shadow of the former abandon of the observance of a century or more ago or of two generations ago. But yet the influence lingers and not a mere deliberate attempt to keep the night alive with its traditions. Children still take delight in the stories, in going about in outlandish attire and even yet the fancy is stimulated by the delightful stories of the long past.



THE WASHINGTON PARLEY

Information given out at the conclusion of the conversations of Premier Laval and President Hoover was not so full that the public has yet a very clear impression of the accord or understanding which was reached on international problems.

At the present stage it is just as well that reserve is used. Were it not there might be a mosterious enthusiasm which would die down in a few days after the words were spoken, the situation being worse than it was before. In the present depressed state of affairs the pessimist has had sway and good news is almost always a boomerang. But reserve in statement has a tonic effect because it inculcates the same spirit of reserve and determination in the people and in the end will bring the era of prosperity back more rapidly than mere loud words shouted from the housetops.

But the meeting in Washington apparently got down to a very close view of things and a clearer understanding. The depression cannot go on indefinitely and more and more thought has been turned upon the underlying causes of the present tribulation, the more correct must be the diagnosis of the disease from which the world is suffering, and the clearer must be men's views of what is really the matter. It is not now a case of one nation holding out against the rest for the prospect of selfish gain, because every nation has felt the blight of more than two years.

All things considered men must be getting nearer at the cause and the disease must be running its course. The world is not like an individual man who may die—the world of men cannot cease to be for the races go forward despite the gloomy sayings of many men who see naught but disaster ahead.

IF ONLY THIS

By Aline Michaelis

If life were only this:
An April hour,
A nodding flower,
A glimpse of sparkling sea
In singing mood,
If only this, to me
It still were good.

If life were nothing more
Than night's release
From toil, a welcoming door,
Your arms and peace,
Your lilting voice, your laugh,
our eager feet:
If all the rest were chaff,
It still were sweet.

If life were autumn leaves,
A-drift and sere,
And memory's garnered sheaves,
It still were dear.

RADIO FANS who welcomed the shifting of CKGW from close proximity with WBBM, "The Nation's Station" at Cincinnati, begin to hue their doots now as to the wisdom of their exuberance. WJAG, New York, a station seldom powerful except late at night on most sets, now comes in more wherever CKGW is on the air, and can be heard stridently on both sides of CKGW on the dial. Who gave Uncle Sam the air? better give him the rest of the ozone in the bargain that he will choke himself, says our pessimist friend Static Meters who gets Honolulu on his crystal set and Halifax on his wife's set spending too much time tuning in on radio and tuning out on work.

MICROBES MAY BE MOBILIZED in the next war, says a newspaper heading. Believe it or not, strange as it may seem, in this age of-Christianity and disarmament, learned professors are actually experimenting with malignant bacteria, for possible use in future wars. That bacteria have not been used before by human nations may have been because the biter was afraid of being bitten by bacteria or microbes or what have you to bite the other fellow and not you is something else again. Disease breeding bacteria could be released in such numbers as to destroy a city in short time, although if bacteria became a recognized weapon of warfare preventive measures would undoubtedly be devised. The brains which devised and use poison gas and liquid fire would not have far to go to add disease bacteria to their fighting forces.

SAYS WILL ROGERS: "The working classes didn't bring this on, it was the big boys that throwed the financial trunk was going to last forever and over-bought over-merged and over-capitalized. However things are going to pick up in 1932 because that is presidential election year and the Republicans always see to it that things look good on election years. They give us bad years and then a good one, but the good year is the voting year. Elections are just a year too late for the Democrats." Will always talks like a Democrat, but acts like a Republican. Uncle Sam's elections, national and state, has fixed festivals, when the operation is sworn in it knows to a tick the day it will be sworn out. Will Rogers says that it reason the Democrats always lose is not because they haven't the best platform and the best men, and all that kind of thing, but just "because there are a million or two more Republicans in the country than Democrats. If they could arrange to remove that surplus the Democrats might have some chance. Seems like there might be something in what Will says, come to think.

TORONTO IS MADE UP OF BOTS FROM OLD ONTARIO HOME TOWNS

The Stratford Beacon-Herald is a bit peeved because a box advertisement hung in the Toronto street cars reads: "See Main street in Ontario." It gathers that Toronto is trying to high-hat the great provincial centres and proceeds to make remarks about this metropolis that are not altogether complimentary.

But let not ye editor see the sun go down upon his wrath. For this Toronto of ours is largely made up of delegations from points north east and west in old Ontario. There may be an occasional American among us, driven in by Prohibition Bennett's tariffs which necessitated the opening of branch factories in Canada. And occasionally you meet a man who was actually born in Toronto. And right away you get sorry for him. He never had the joy of being a boy in a country town or village. Chances are he never "hooked" apples from the chinamuns, or ste-e away to the old swimmin' hole when he should have been acquiring an early education. He never felt the sweet heartbreak thrills when the home team wiped the great with the rival town in lacrosse or football.

"Them was the happy days!" When a few of we gathered from one of the old stamping grounds they don't waste time discussing the gold standard or the theory of relativity theory. They get busy about the old town and the old days. Ask us for that high-hat stuff forget all about it. A man who hails from the town that gave him birth and boyhood never sounds to enough to make his words worth remembering.—Toronto Telegram.

POLITICS

In one of his campaign speeches, Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, recently asked: "Why is it that 'I am Right' always has a tail?" Perhaps at that, "by people whom I have given my soul to help?" The answer is found in the "Politics" of Montreal Gazette.

POTATOES ARE CHEAP

Three carloads of potatoes were shipped from Ontario to Montreal recently, the price of which was 75 cents per bag.—Exchange. Why should anybody be hungry? On potatoes and buttermilk some fine men and women and children have raised when times were bad in Ireland.

Fifty years ago in Toronto an old Irish lady in a boarding house by herself, used to like to tell a story to the young of an English lady being driven in a carriage by a coachman accompanied by a thin and ashy man. At any rate the English lady drove on to the next inn and ordered a meal of potatoes and shame a bate. When it was served to her there were plenty of potatoes in one dish and nothing in the other. "Where's the shame a bate?" she asked. "There is it," was the reply for it is nothing whatever. There is no shame, much nourishment in the potate if one uses the skin as well as the contents.—Toronto Star.

CHEERING US UP

Bertrand Russell is here again to aid American morale.—Saskatoon Star-Phoenix.

Of Happiness. He is a harbinger of cheerfulness in these times. He is better than Christmas. He scatters vocal sprigs of holly. Plum puddings drop from his mouth. Turkeys waddle on the deck to the reporters, he radiates the only real prosperity—good one, but such a multicolored glitter and dazzle and jingle and brightnesses that even his hair-do'd n—— at the odd questioners couldn't rise him or caught his eye. But he did his bowing and dancing presence. The eyes of the Bread Line, when the operation be gun, fastened upon a goonishlike face under a shock of white hair "a thin face and the voice of a schoolmaster." Any discrepancies were inevitable in such an event of fascination. But the voice was the voice of a schoolmaster, it was that of one making all his pupils as happy as possible. His was just to begin. If it was that of a playwright, it was going to be the duty of Tim-Tam and Shanks-Pow.

The threatened cloud has passed away

And brightly shines the dawning day.

England "is just running down." It will be lucky if it is able to maintain its present place in Europe. France is the enemy of the world. In ten years Europe is sure to be a pitiful unregarded continent. The future is to Asia and America and the Socialists. "Capitalistic society is breaking up. Europe was so heading toward disintegration." So may America, but not "just now." But more than political societies are on the road to ruin. The home is fast being shut up. Children must be taken away from the demoralizing influence of their parents. "Half the population is ruined by "the possessiveness of mother love." But Bertrandism will expel on these matters is familiar, but a new biliseonemess comes from the syllabus of his happy thoughts with which we are all blinded the reporters.—New York Times.

Letters to The Editor

PARENT INDUSTRY

PROVINCIAL CONFERENCE

To the Editor of the Ontario Intelligencer,—

The committee appointed by the recent North York Parent Industry Conference to call a Provincial Conference, to consider the present economic emergency, will be most grate full if you will let your readers know that such a conference will be held at Stormarket on Friday and Saturday, October 30th and 31st.

The committee has no powerful organization behind it, and must rely on the urgency of the need, and the public spirit of the press to make this conference a success. The preliminary conference, held in harvest time, so much exceeded the expectations of the farmers who called it and revealed so deep and widespread an awakening of the farmers of Ontario to grapple with their economic and social situation, that there could be no question of the necessity for such a second gathering. In the August conference discussion was the limit of possible activity. For the October meeting organization is imperative.

Personal contact with conditions reveals an increasingly articulate and practical public opinion, which makes us marvel that so little organization of Ontario's citizens is evoked by leaders in politics, industry and finance. They are anxious about unemployment in the cities, but seem unaware that the 3 in 5 in the rural place in which the return to prosperity must begin. Relative agriculture is the right-hand, through an alliance of farm and town, and that nation will be perfect agriculture continue its downward course, and Canada will be the abode of a helpless peasantry, buying few Canadian manufactures. The present situation will wrought havoc, but in vain, and Canadians will have ceased to be a free people in the new world.

The facts of the farmers' straits, and of the grave discontent last spreading among them, throws into vivid relief the desperate need for an alliance between farm and town, if the present crisis is to be met with more acutely to be repeated. It is idle to proceed on the assumption that organizations can be met by the farmers themselves. Organization they have. They the willfully blind would deny that the whole political and economic structure is in dire peril. The situation demands the full-hearted aid of our people, for which the Parent Industry of six weeks ago was the inspiration. One of our most highly varied interests which has sought a solution of some of the more troublous Signs multiply that, within limits, the intelligence of the farmer has got a public need; and has furnished the basis for many of the recent organizations that which called four largely-attended meetings in one Simcoe county week. The task of introducing a meeting in Barrie calls by the Simcoe Co. Federation of U. F. O. local and federal members of parliament and legislature, with Mr. Bowman himself, a proof of the possibility of a real alliance of farm and town.

The United Farmers of Ontario, Co-operative, have joined many committees, which demands such strong measures as the constitution of a Provincial Marketing Board, reduction of interest rates, and protection of farm property from foreclosure. Many other measures of development relief wages far above what the present situation is AND big investment.

Despite a natural antagonism between farm and town, the Norstarkets approach to Labor, from the point of view of the joint interest of all wealth-producers has assured the Christian Farmers of Ontario that with the coming conference. Everyone who has the welfare of Canada at heart, far-seeing, bold leadership is the only remedy. It is the way to develop the leadership and co-operation so sorely needed.

We are a new body, "have you formed an organization?" The answer is that we are. We are not only the malady too deep, for a few men to remedy. Besides what organization shall be joined. Only from the Parent Industry Conference can be produced an organization reasonably equipped to serve the country and thus end the first dominant condition is that people shall get together, discuss their problems fearlessly, and themselves decide what they will do.

This is a few days we expect to have a suggested range of practical subjects for the Provincial conference. Meantime, all who are interested in finding a basis of action for measures are invited to make their attitude known so that it may be known that the conference. This is not a "they" affair but a "we" affair. It is the time and the place. Hitherto inarticulation has lain like a blight upon the land. No people with so much to be proud of have been so dumb as the people of Ontario. The difficulty to be overcome is primarily a temperamental one, due to a strange modesty complex and a modest, unjustified fear of the opinion of others in the mirror.

If our people were really aware of themselves they would be neither timidity nor delay in asserting the dominance of their own interests, in meeting the immediate emergency of a winter the like of which has never before approached our province; and then in a permanent realizing of our social and economic life above the dread of such maladjustment as now gives us starving millions in the lap of plenty.

We shall be glad indeed to hear from those who desire to attend the conference, and to send them the program as prepared. The secretary's address is Box 230, Newmarket.

H. H. Clarke, Aurora, Chairman.
W. C. Good, Paris, Vice-Chairman.
R. C. Reid, Belgrave.
Melville Staples, Orono, Secretary.

A Cold

Colds are common because people are careless. Prompt use of Aspirin will always check a cold. Or relieve your cold at any stage. And Aspirin can't hurt you. Take two tablets at the first indication of a cold, and that's usually the end of it. If every symptom hasn't disappeared in a few hours, repeat. Aspirin does not depress the heart. Take enough to give complete relief. And if your throat is sore, dissolve three tablets in water and gargle away all soreness. In every package of Aspirin are proven directions for colds, headaches, sore throat, neuralgia, neuritis. Millions who used to suffer from these things have found winter comfort in Aspirin. At drug stores everywhere.

The actual steam hours elapsed before she was docked at the Quebec elevators.

The Empress' elapsed time between Cherbourg and Quebec is 2 hours 20 minutes better than her former record between the two points.

N. FRONT ST. IS COMPLETED

Ten Men Engaged In Clearing Streets of Leaves

North Front St. is again open for traffic and makes another completed addition to the many of Belleville's well paved streets. The city works department have a gang of men at work completing the necessary grading from the side streets to this highway and the work will be completed the close of the week. Another gang of twelve are laying new pavements at various parts of the street, necessitated by the change in road levels.

The paved streets of the city are receiving the attention of the Public Works department this morning. After the heavy fall of leaves on Sunday and the rains of last night, it was impossible for the sweepers to operate efficiently.

Every fall the leaf nuisance is a problem. However, this year the greater portion of leaves came down within a few days, and the ten men at work, clearing them up, are making rapid progress toward ridding the streets of this nuisance.

RED CROSS TO ASSIST RELIEF

Cyril Waite Elected To Presidency Of Branch

That Red Cross workers have a definite part to play in assisting the work of the local Central Relief Committee was emphasized yesterday afternoon at the annual meeting of the Committee by Dr. H. J. Vinlon field secretary of the Red Cross Association, who briefly addressed the members. The meeting was held in the Chamber of Commerce. the chief business of the afternoon being the election of officers for the ensuing year.

Keen regret was expressed at the meeting yesterday when it was announced that Mr. John Elliott, who has always been a tower of strength as president of the Committee did not feel that he could continue to serve in that capacity. In war days and since then Mr. Elliott has been one of the most active workers in the Red Cross activities and it was only on his assurance that he would act in an advisory capacity that the executive would consider his withdrawal from the presidency.

The officers elected yesterday were:

Honorary President—Col. W. N. Ponton.

Honorary Vice Presidents—John Elliott, Hon. G. A. Reid.

President—Cyril Waite.

Vice-President and chairman of the Women's committee—Mrs. J. A. McFee.

Secretary—Miss Hurley.

The treasurer and members of the executive and men's committee are is be appointed.

In his interesting remarks Mr. Vinlon pointed out that it was gratifying to find in his travels the outstanding difference in preparation for relief work during the situation in Belleville this was especially pronounced and a Committee is already organized to deal with any situations that may arise. Red Cross workers can do their part by working hand in hand and under the direction of the committee. The men may be on hand to aid with the hostel enterprise. the women can be the first, as in the days of wartime, to begin the work of repairing and of making garments for distribution under the leadership of the Central Committee.

It was vital Mr. Vinion felt that the Red Cross workers associate themselves with the activities of this Emergency Committee. The need of the winter may be great and the Red Cross should not be found wanting in enterprise.

High praise for the work of Chief of Police Kidd and his colleagues in giving meals was given by Colonel Ponton who also expressed the appreciation of the Committee for Mr. Elliott's action in loaning the Red Cross work and the regrets of all at his retirement from the leading office.

Co-operation with the Central Relief Committee was felt to be the means to be taken by the Red Cross organization in Belleville this year and the report of the Red Cross representative to that body will be awaited with interest. outlining as it will the capacity in which the Relief organization wish the Red Cross to act.

Society Dances with Joy Cheers Hoarsely in Mayfair

Poorly Clad Workmen and Women Watch Returns in Silence

"LAND OF HOPE".

London, Oct. 28 (AP)—Men in starched white shirt fronts and swallow-tailed coats, and pretty women in diamonds and satin gowns cheered themselves hoarse last night in Mayfair's hotels because of the National Government's election victory.

A two shilling taxi-ride away there were workmen and unemployed and women in cotton stockings and denim dresses to watch in silent disappointment as posted returns spelled out the Labor party defeat. A choking, gray fog cast an eerie pall over them.

Shimmering figures of gaily-colored paper and confetti showered over Mayfair's merrymakers as they danced and sang and drank toasts to the National leaders.

In middle aged Britom seized the baton from a Jazz orchestra conductor and led a gray crowd through the words of "Land of Hope and Glory."

"Wider Still and Wider," they sang. "Shall thy Bounds be Set. God who made thee Mighty make thee Mightier Yet."

They waltzed to the old tune and nobody seemed to notice that it wasn't a good waltz piece.

Back where the Labor group emerged with its flimsy eyed workingman, a dirty muffler about his neck, mounted a soap box and shouted "Are we Downhearted."

OUTLAWS OF LEDEN

by Peter B. Kyne

"There", cried Robin Kershaw triumphantly, one hot day, as he reined the water old Mother Nature had given to Leden Valley. "Isn't that worth a pennyarcent there we're gone, our children's children will build that dam I spoke about the flood waters go most to the crest o' yuhr spur, cut a canal here or drive a tunnel an' lead the water of down yonder. Good pasture valley that is, Larry."

He continued: "No, the Lord don't treated yonder valley jest right reckon it got some kinks in it to make it fair dry-farmin' land but with a dry year or a succession o' dry years an' that valley'll sure miss a crop or broken hearted you don't got one hoss feature with a sasee-hide fence; and when the log and bone crusher gets to it we'll have a spacious and comfortable house with a wide verandah around it.

The following spring Kershaw bought in fifteen thousand head cattle, They were scrubs—old Spanish-California stock; but they give the only cattle he could buy and, since his feet cost him nothing, he was content with them and their profit. He knew he would make better growing them out. He bought the best dry-land horses, mules, and cattle animals; he provided himself with the best implements for haying. Deer, elk, and antelope were plentiful so he never slaughtered a beef for meat. He prospered.

For the succeeding eight years he was not disturbed. A few neighbors to the valley and set up ranches but there was plenty of grass for everybody. After a time there were 3 Eden Valley, which, in the interests of law and order, had been set apart by the Homestead Law was enlarged by the Congress, men began to take up claims in the valley adjoining Kershaw and his wife immediately filed homestead grazing claims on the two sections immediately surrounding their water developments; thus, to a considerable extent, availing themselves of the first Spartan rights on Eden Valley creek.

With the proclamation of 'he war between the states fully half the rest men in Eden Valley volunteered for service in both armies. One of the first recruits to the Union army was California was Hensley.

Despite the fact that he was now the father of six children.

He returned with a permanent limp in his left leg and the title of major, to find that his business had prospered. With the farms of the Middle West denuded of their cattle to feed the armies, the beef prices were up, so Kershaw sold every head of stock he possessed and shipped them to Chicago and Kansas City via the newly built Central Pacific Railroad. Then, with his checkbook, he commenced the elimination of his neighbors in Eden Valley.

By 1876 he owned in fee fifty thousand acres of Eden Valley—and then Joel Hensley. late of the Union Army, arrived. Hensley had some capital and he, too, yearned for Eden Valley. He called Robin Kershaw for the lower half of the valley and Kershaw was glad to have it, for, after all, Eden Valley was large enough for two and Kershaw had no fear that Hensley was a land hog.

Almost before he realized it was established on the latter a bitter quarrel with Joel Hensley. Like Kershaw, Hensley was a cattleman, but a different man of the breed that was responsible for the most heroic and romantic epitaph in history:

"The Thermopylae Had Its Messenger of Defeat But the Army of Xerxes Had None!"

Kershaw had fenced off his portion of the valley, and in common parlance, he asked Joel Hensley to pay for his share. Hensley answered, glancing sardonically over the fence at the luxurious meadows of his fence denied his cattle. replied coldly that he couldn't agree that he, he was content with them and their profit, he knew he would make better growing them out. He bought his herd direct horses, mules, and cattle animals; he provided himself with the best implements for haying. Deer, elk, and antelope were plentiful so he never slaughtered a beef for meat. He prospered.

For the succeeding eight years he was not disturbed. A few neighbors to the valley and set up ranches but there was plenty of grass for everybody. After a time there were 3 Eden Valley, which, in the interests of law and order, had been set apart by the Homestead Law was enlarged by the Congress, men began to take up claims in the valley adjoining Kershaw and his wife immediately filed homestead grazing claims on the two sections immediately surrounding their water developments; thus, to a considerable extent, availing themselves of the first Spartan rights on Eden Valley creek.

With the proclamation of 'he war between the states fully half the rest men in Eden Valley volunteered for service in both armies. One of the first recruits to the Union army was California was Hensley.

Despite the fact that he was now

In May the Hensley and Kershaw riders drove the cattle of their respective employers up into the summer range in the mountains. But when the Hensley riders returned to the valley the Kershaw riders remained, scoured the country and not every scrub bull they found wearing "Bar H" the Hensley brand, which they maintained a patrol all summer and rather effectually prevented in keeping the Hensley cattle on a sequestered portion of the range. The result was that the Bar H had a ten per cent calf crop that year while the Circle K (the Kershaw outfit) had eighty per cent.

Joel Hensley had his suspicions. However, he was not on speaking terms with Robin Kershaw now; hence all winter he was torn between a desire to kill Kershaw or permit him to live, in order that he might borrow from his sufficient money to purchase another beef-type bulls. Finally he decided on the latter course.

Robin Kershaw saw him coming, so he buckled on a six-shooter and went out to meet him. "Well?" he demanded coolly.

"Guess I'll have to buy these pure-bred range bulls, neighbor," Joel Hensley forced a cheerful grin. "If you're still of a mind to let me have the money—"

"The situation has changed a little since I made you that fair offer, Hensley," Kershaw's voice was very cold. "Your scrub bulls don't worry me now, so I'm not interested in helping you out. I wanted to help a good neighbor, but you would not have it so now we're enemies and if you expect to drag yourself of the Circle K under your own power I reckon you'd better be starting now."

Without a word Hensley wheeled his horse and rode away. He had earned this humiliation and he realized it; yet the realization did not allay the fury that possessed him else why had the latter agreed to sell a pistol at his hip! Evidently Kershaw would still eagerly buy the cattle to fill it. That he would back up for no man Hensley felt assured.

And there was Robin Kershaw! He, too, was engaged with, also. The boy was a somewhat dour, thoughtful young hillbilly, who rode like a centaur and worked with any man in the county. So he realized the danger of clashing with a pistol fan clan that was still fond of tracing it. Yet, that's back a few centuries 15 a cout-of-arms!

So he nursed his hatred, borrowed money at the bank, restrained his hand and bought pure-bred beef-type bulls. Super-Sam's dirty of you to run it back into the creek again."

"Well, I suppose I could run it into your ditches," Kershaw mused. "See that you do." Hensley replied. And so the matter rested, realizing that he had made an error of judgment. He thought he had bluffed Robin Kershaw.

When Kershaw was finished with his irrigation that summer Hensley constructed his lower irrigation ditch so as to tap the water after the water started running merrily down over Robin Kershaw's and the latter started running merrily down over his property. Hensley promptly and immediately the flow ceased. Kershaw had expended the water already on his diversion dam and turned the water back into the main channel of the creek at the upper end of his ranch instead of the lower!

Hensley was now in a most unpleasant predicament. In the presence of witnesses (Robin II and two of the Kershaw cowboys) he had threatened, if denied the water to argue the lause with Robin I in the smoke. "He'll make good." Robin Kershaw decided, and immediately put his house in order. From that night forward he never walked past a window in his house after the lamps were lighted he never came to the front door to answer a bell from without until he had taken first circumstances from the flanks or rear. And he and his sons and his cowboys all rode armed with pistols and rifles.

But again Joel Hensley visited the Circle K. "Kershaw," he called from the front gate. "I'll pay for the water you've taken from my ditch," he added.

"I don't need the money," Kershaw taunted him. "And I doubt if you'd maintain your share of the upkeep of that fence. How would you like to sell out to me? That's a fine ranch and enough to stock your water troubles. I'll meet you in a liberal spirit for the sake of peace. Eden Valley," he added, "is large enough for both of us."

"That's what I think," Hensley replied, and rode away.

Two weeks later as he rode in alone from the nearest settlement; Joel Hensley met a man riding down from a clump of pines. Neither man hesitated; it did not occur to either they drew and fired.

Mark, now, the perversity of fate. Had each killed the other the feud which, for the next forty years, was to make of Eden Valley a dark and bloody ground, would have ended there. But Joel Hensley's first cartridge had struck a serpentine—and Robin Kershaw's did not. Whereupon, a coroner's jury at Gold Run, the county seat, returned a verdict of justifiable homicide and restored Robin Kershaw to the bosom of his family. But Joel Hensley left a son—several sons in fact—and these inherited the cause' hell.

No relatives, outside the immediate descendants of the Kershaw and Hensley clans, ever participated in the feud started by that defective plumber; for it was a point of honor with both clans to "kill their own snakes". During three generations eleven Kershaws and seven Hensleys gunmen died with their boots on and two went to state's prison for varying terms. Of the Hensleys thirteen were killed, with five in prison.

Neither side ever complained to the authorities; as they often said they preferred the good old-fashioned law. Only when California sheriffs invaded Eden Valley seeking redress for the outraged law; and of the half-dozen who did, two who knew too much, never returned.

At that, the feud surely must have died of inanition at times when the cousin and uncle was even but for the perennial cause still of water rights. Sometimes a fall in the mountains were years of less profit to the Hensleys. Despite this disinclination, the Hensleys prospered in the cattle business to the extent that by the year 1900, they were enabled to put in a diversion dam of their own in Eden Valley Creek.

In 1917 there remained of the clan Robin Kershaw, chief, Ranneford Kershaw, a widower of fifty, personable, well-liked by women, and self-nosed bulls through his hip; Ranneford's son, Robin II, and his daughter. Lorraine, aged sixteen. Of the clan Hensley there remained three women Angie Tichenor, a widow and Hattie and Beulah Hensley, both maids.

It was assumed, locally, that in the absence of Nathan Tichenor, or and Owen Kershaw would shoot it out together; hence with one or both of the young men out of the way there should be peace, at last, in Eden Valley.

But the Great War intervened. Neither Owen Kershaw nor Nathan Tichenor waited to be drafted.

War with Germany. It will be remembered, was declared on April 6, 1917. In March a furious freshet had undermined a side of Hensley's diversion dam in Eden Valley Creek. On the afternoon of April 7 Nathan Tichenor rode up to the gate in the while poling fence between the old log ranch house and the big stockshaw and like his fireating grandfather, Robin II had no palm leaf upward, in the old frontier sign of peace. Then he somewhat crippled Rance Kershaw glared down at him.

"Our diversion dam went out last month," he began.

"Pleased to hear it, young man, sir!"

"I'm going down to San Francisco tomorrow to enlist—"

"That's to your credit if I do say so. Old Rance appeared to thaw perceptibly. "I'm sorry you're not a sloe doin' your duty. My boy, Owen left this morning."

"I wish him luck. Mr. Kershaw. What I came over to ask you if you'd consider favorably the suggestion that one war at a time is enough for people to be engaged in. Our clan's out, and I ask you do have a bit to have the water after it's done its work for you."

"Why should you ask me a favor? And why should I grant it, young man?"

"Because my mother and my sisters have got to run our cattle while I'm in the army. I didn't figure you'd made war on women."

"How about the old fence bill,

Young Nate laid a check on the gate post. "My grandfather should have paid that, Mr. Kershaw. It is right for me and money of him not to. There's a check for it with interest for forty years at six per cent. added."

Rance Kershaw's not too stable heart leaped in triumph. "Keep your check," he ordered harshly, "I'll have no favors of—"

Lorraine Kershaw came out of the ranch house, down the little gravelled walk she came to the gate. Nate Tichenor noticed how straight she walked; noticed too, that she had been weeping recently. Then he glanced at Lorraine's father hair was jet-black and shiny her eyes were dark and lustrous; her skin a pale ivory with a faint rose radiance seeping up through it.

"The Hensley apology is accepted," she said, in a clear, thrilling voice. "And you may keep your check, Nate. That fence was allowed off to depreciation before you and I were born. Please give our compliments to your mother and your aunts and say that the Kershaws have not forgotten the long, dark hereafter the Bar H ranch gets all the cattle the Circle K can water."

"They won't either," old Rance shouted.

"Pay no attention to father," the girl admonished in a tone meant for Nate Tichenor's ears alone. "He can't help holding his prejudices and you'll find he shall have the water. I give you my word of honor is shall. This morning at eleven o'clock I became the foreman of the Circle K and I'll keep the floodgates closed at our diversion dam and turn the water into your irrigation ditches when we're done with it instead of diverting it back into Eden Valley Creek. Run along now. Nate Tichenor and God bless you! Go and protect you and bring you safe back to your mother in Eden Valley."

He stared at her. And then he blinked because the tears of emotion were in his boy's eyes. He held out his hand across the gate. "Good-by, Lorry Kershaw", he said with difficulty. "I thank you with all my heart. You're mighty swell."

She accepted his hand to the limit of her father; and she stood at the gate and watched him ride down the valley, sitting very straight in his carved and silver-mounted stock-saddle.

"Mighty swell," she echoed, she said. "It's time to cease hurting himself—and them. Bless you, Lorry! And I promised him the water."

Rance gave a sad. Then! "Well I suppose it's wan's best we to let 'em have it." He must have thought Mrs. of Lorry, for he began stripling son. "Just as well to take things easy now, Lorry. Even if they both come back they'll never shoot each other. If that Tichenor pup's a fair sample, the Hensley clan ain't run to seed in this generation."

Nate Tichenor's farewell sentence came back to him: She quoted her father's cheek. "You're mighty sweet also and.

Nathan Tichenor had come back to Eden Valley. He arrived in a glittering limousine driven by a liveried chauffeur, beside whom sat a dignified middle-aged individual any Forbin Valleyite would have accepted as a banker or railroad president but who was in longer brave. "Oh. Nate Tichenor," she sobbed, "I'm alone—all alone—alone!"

"No, you're not." he reminded her. "But have your little crying spell. I'll wait on the same."

He stepped upon the running board and placed his head her shoulder and drew her head over his shoulder. "Weep on the head of a friend," he urged. "Probably it's a privilege you've never enjoyed before."

While she sobbed against him he unbuckled and unbuckled the pistol holster with the pistol in it, slipped his arm under the belt of the coat and tossed it across the road into the grass.

Then Pete was busy staging a long-drawn tragedy in Eden Valley, Forlorn Valley had not been overlooked by the land-hungry. By 1880 practically every acre of agricultural sind in the valley had been homesteaded; the dissect developed into a dry farming section and later into "mired" farming.

Gold Run was the county seat; and in the heart of Forlorn Valley a settlement known as Valley Centre had gradually developed into a village of about five hundred inhabitants. The entire valley was stagnant and drab until a large Scandinavian company erected its steel pyramids across the valley. Immediately every acre of agriculture had a deb well drilled on his ranch and driven by a ten horsepower electric motor he was enabled to irrigate his quarter-section farm, seemingly without appreciable effect on the water level.

Almost at once Forlorn Valley had the victim of a boom. Land values skyrocketed; Valley Centre became the leading industry of the section. Gradually the brown lands became checkerboarded with vivid green patches as the planting of alfalfa developed. Orchards were planted; the raising of hogs and cattle for beef and dairying increased; an adventurer from nowhere appeared and built out a subdivision of the "thriving city" of Valley Centre.

Old London Sees Revival Of Spirit After Election

London, Oct. 28.—(AP)—The results of the General Election were signalized today by a burst of enthusiasm on the Stock Exchange and a general marking up of prices of gilt-edged offerings and industrials.

War loans were quoted at 99 in early dealings, which started half an hour before the official opening. Dealers and brokers arrived long before 10:30, the official opening time, and showed hardly as the results already announced. They then proceeded to mark up prices in the National Government's favor.

"They will now be able to put our plans in order and get on with our job," said Sir Eric Mansfield, British banking authority. "The report that the National Government swept the country will once again give confidence to the country and should probably return here. Whether we shall return to the Gold Standard I cannot say. The whole world will be very much better off with a non-Socialist Party has been wiped out. For it will end the politics of many other nations."

While a victory for the National Government had been pretty well discounted during the past few days by those in the British city especially industrials, the members were not prepared for the sweeping result. Buying orders appeared this morning from all considerable, and, with practically no sellers, prices hardened, especially shares.

Internationals participated in the upward movement. Commercials were quoted at 15 3-4; Nickels at 13; Rydens at 9-9/16 and 16. Foreign Exchanges responded to better sentiment on other markets and the pound rose.

The chief hope of market men and financial interests generally is that Dr. Snowden will be retained with a big majority, will restore the confidence which he has lost in part. This is considered the main factor tending toward better conditions ahead.

Another hope will be the reduction of the bank rate from the 6 per cent. fixed when the country was forced from the gold standard. The reduction is was expected in Exchange circles, will follow the restoration of foreign confidence and pound sterling values will not be disturbed.

In addition to these major events which financial interests hope for soon a number of smaller restrictions are expected to be removed, permitting free dealings in Foreign Exchange and a resumption of dealings for fortnightly accounts on the Exchange. These depend largely on the trend of events during the next few days, or weeks.

No predictions were made regarding the stabilization of the pound as that question is to be a matter for international negotiations.

Britain Sees Market Rise

Gilt Edge Securities and Rails Slep Upward

London, Oct. 28.—(CAP)—The Stock Exchange with a burst of strength born on the election results sent prices rising today, particularly those of the gilt-edge securities, home rails and industrials.

In the morning everybody wanted to buy but in the afternoon there was profit taking under which some of the industrials suffered.

Gilt-edge Securities maintained their improvement, however, and the close was firm. Canadian issues fluctuated sharply but finished easy on the close.

Foreign Exchanges moved against London. The pound was quoted at $3.90; 99.06 francs and 9.65 florins on Amsterdam.

N. Y. Market Prices Sag

Drifting Tendency As Public Unable To Make Up Mind

(By Claude A. Jagger, Associated Press Financial Editor)

New York, N.Y., Oct. 28.—Securities markets again drifted down today as Wall Street was still unable to make up its mind whether the news should be interpreted as bullish or bearish.

While some banking quarters interpreted the overwhelming Conservative victory in Great Britain as a bullish development, the prospect of a high British tariff was less pleasing. Maintenance of the common dividend by U.S. Steel was counter balanced by its extremely poor earnings statement.

Foreign bonds showed some strength in response to the British election, but markets generally remained in a heavy undertone. Stocks lost about 1 to 6 points during the morning and had a slight and uneven rally during the early afternoon.

The ready absorption of profit taking on the election market, on doubts that France had made a substantial purchase of United States gold, and the somewhat encouraging development in the financial markets, May wheat has turned rather bullish on wheat of late, and some prominent trade wheat operators in both New York and Chicago have turned over on the long side of that market. Pierre Dupuy, French Ambassador to the United States as economic adviser to Premier Laval, conferred with President Hoover on the debt question, but denied that he was "a wheat man."

Announcement of a 50-cent quarterly dividend by Pennsylvania railroad, in contrast to 75 cents previously paid, was also not as expected and prompted short covering.

Extensive Man-Hunt Causes Arrest of G. Kincade and W. Poole

Hamilton, Ont., Oct. 28— After an extensive man hunt, Garfield Kincade, 24, and William Poole, 25, of Preston, Ont., were placed under arrest on charges of carrying concealed weapons and attempted robbery with violence.

Late last night two men went to Prank Hiltz' refreshment booth on the Niagara highway about six miles east of Hamilton. One of the men is alleged to have produced a revolver and ordered Hiltz's father in law who was in charge of the booth to throw up his hands. The order was said to be dashed out of the booth calling for help and the men fled on foot.

The men lost heart and fled. Residents around immediately formed a search party of over 50 men in three cars. About three hours later, Arnold Hill and Alfred Roberts accosted two men on Barton Street East, Hamilton, and detained them. They were turned over to highway traffic officer Jeo and on being searched one of them was found to have a revolver and was found with a revolver in his possession.

In police court today, Magistrate Vance granted a remand of one week at the request of the Crown.

MARSH HILL CHURCH HOLDS FOWL SUPPER

Many Attended This Annual Event and Were Treated Royally

RECEIPTS LARGE

Programme Which Followed Was Delightful and Appreciated

Probably there are a few residents in Belleville today who were just a little late for supper but a good and just reason could be given. They attended the chicken supper at the Marsh Hill Church on Tuesday night and like food they consumed probably laid heavy in the stomach and they were also so full of pep as if they had eaten a modern sized meal. This anniversary is one of the most popular of the district and a large crowd attended despite the miserable weather conditions. The heavy rain had no deterrent effect and a good sum will be realized by the Ladies' Aid to carry on their program of work for the ensuing year.

The first table of guests were seated shortly after six o'clock and until well after eight o'clock a steady stream passed to the dining room to partake of the good things offered. There must be many good cooks in the congregation at Marsh Hill for the food the hostess ladies served was done to a turn and there was more than plenty. No hopeful had to be the victim of an unjoyed pie on his clothing but what did that matter, when he was enjoying himself to the full eating chicken in different styles and dressings and all trimmings. It would be impossible to justly describe the many good things that were offered and no one went hungry even though there was fried chicken, stewed chicken, roast chicken, chicken with biscuits and many other forms were served. Scalloped potatoes, steaming hot, salads of all kinds, pickles, preserves, jams and various forms were all offered, and this course was followed by pies of every description. Some were helped from the table time after time but even this was not to be.

If the supper served was a delight, the programme which followed was also enjoyed to the fullest. Rev. H. E. Mutton, pastor of the church, was chairman of the evening and a delightful program was given. The program was opened by singing of "All Hail the Power of Jesus Name" and this was followed by a short prayer. Rev. F. A. McCutcheon, of Belleville and Rev. R. Patterson, home on furlough from the west, were the principal speakers and their addresses were short. Mrs. Patterson sang a solo and Lloyd Chapman of Belleville gave a number of delightful solo each of which were encored. The male quartette of the Salvation Army gave a number of selections and the perfect blending of the voices was a treat not often heard. Miss Smith gave several readings, running the gamut from the tragic to the comic and each number was especially pleasing. Mrs. (Dr.) Vanderwater acted as accompanist for the several soloists. The evening was most enjoyably spent and the ladies of Marsh Hill deserve considerable credit and congratulations for their splendid repast and genuine program.

DRAPERIES MADE NEW.
"When we resumed housekeeping a month ago I found my draperies had become creased from packing. I hung them out on the line, hoping to remove the creases. Then I forgot them. The result was they became badly faded and sun-spotted.
"I was heartsick until the happy though struck me to dye them. I just dyed them a deeper green, and as I used Diamond Dyes they look gorgeous and new. I have never seen easier dyes to use than Diamond Dyes. They give the most beautiful colors—when used either for tinting or dyeing—and never take the least out of cloth as other dyes do."

MUSIC

Brilliant Young Pianist Is Heard By Belleville Audience

From the opening number of the recital of piano music given last evening in the Conservatory of Music, listeners in the Collegiate Auditorium were carried away by the rare art of Belleville's gifted young pianistician. Here, indeed, is an artist in the making. Reginald Stanley Fleming is only a boy of fifteen years of age, but he has already achieved artistic fame and is now well on his way to an outstanding career on the concert stage.

In the unavoidable absence of Miss Rhoda Bosworth, accompanist, Mr. McCormick was assisted last evening by Mrs. Ed. Bird, and during the evening's entertainment will no remembered with pleasure by those who had the opportunity of hearing the gifted singer.

Mr. McCormick's programme occupied a little less than an hour and a half, during which the musical treats that captured and delighted his audience. Each number in his programme with care. Mr. McCormick opened his recital with compositions of the romantic school. In this group were Rhapsodi in G. Minor (Brahms); Romance (Schumann) and one of Schubert's beautiful Musical Moments. All these numbers were displayed the exquisite beauty of tone and perception with which the player interpreted. Unusual indeed is his ability to, interpret the mood of the composer and it is this instinctive ability that is the mark of a musician that is one of the amazing characteristics of the boy pianist. The suggestion of orchestral treatment, of the first movement, the pronounced rhythm of the Schumann composition and the siren notes sharply accentuated rhythm of the final number received their true value at the hands of the player.

The second group was devoted to Chopin, the numbers always played with charm, color and feeling. The nine intricate etudes and the nocturne Delleate passages, the lightness of touch and the use of the pianic made these numbers outstanding. The first was the irresistible Etude in G. Flat and the last was the familiar composition, a favourite with pianists, the Etude in C. Minor. In this case Mr. McCormick accents have caused a certain restless urge that underlies the latter composition.

The third group was a happy choice and was a real delight to his hearers. The Impromptu (Dew of the Water) by Ravel, the charming number expressed the mood of the water, dashing over pebbles, sparkling in the sunlight in the sun and its excitement as it reaches the river. The Tides of Manaunan by Dale Carey required a different treatment. The roar of the tides, depending under a crescendo of sound to the gentle lull as it ebbed away. This was carried out in a realistic manner by the musician. All these numbers in the entire programme, his skill and technique was marvelous. An innovation to concert audiences was the effect of the steady roar of the tide produced by the pianist by the use of the mouthpiece with his forearm on the bass octave.

Modern European composers were represented in the final group given by Mr. McCormick. They were the Chant d'Amour (Stojowski), the Juggleress (Moskowski), the Donkeys (Grovlez) and the Ritual Fire Dance (Manuel de Falla). The artistic interpretation was a source of enjoyment to the audience, the last, a favourite of the young musician bringing the recital to a triumphant close. Resounding applause brought two encores and the audience very reluctantly parted with the musician.

Adding to the keen enjoyment of the audience, the four numbers by Mrs. Stobie brought again before Belleville audiences the beauty of her singing. Golden in colour, rich and pure, her voice appeals irresistibly. Into her numbers, too, there is so much of the charm of Mrs. Stobie's personality that audiences are always captivated. Her songs last evening included "Come Live With Me," "Greatest Flower Thou Ever Saw," "Lo Hear the Gentle Lark" and the "Cuckoo." The tender passages of the pastoral meditation received understanding treatment by Mrs. Stobie and in the latter number the range and power of her wonderful voice were heard to best advantage. Mr. Leo Higgs was a sympathetic accompanist for Mrs. Stobie's numbers.

Need of Women Leaders Stressed by Judge Murphy

Montreal, Que., Oct. 27—(CP)—Judge Emily Murphy, Alberta police magistrate and juvenile court judge, received a warm welcome from the Montreal Women's Club when she addressed a meeting here yesterday.

Judge Murphy declared roundly that for 65 years women in the Dominion were illegally kept out of the Senate. She added, "I am right away there should be an equal number of men and women. Women leaders in all spheres were needed more today than ever before, she stated. In a caustic humored though trenchment phrase she gave her opinion on the question of women's place in public affairs and depicted in serious accents the voteless condition of her sisters in Quebec.

"We owe a great deal to the fair sex and generosity of men," one of Judge Murphy's comments. Although she belonged to a conservative party, she was appointed police magistrate by a Liberal government and has held the high office under a Farmer administration.

Speaking of the decision of the Privy Council regarding the eligibility of Canadian women for senatorships, Judge Murphy urged: "Don't let up on your right to appointment."

When women got the franchise in Canada, she said, they were appointed from any government except that in Quebec. "I can say I put my hand on my heart and say it will come to you," she asserted.

The question of whether this civilisation is to disappear as others have done before it next occupied Judge Murphy's attention. She felt that its preservation depended largely on the efforts of women who in this country only nearly fifty per cent of the capital and fifty per cent of the voting power in the Orient," was one of the comments made.

"We as women leaders today are never before; leaders who are going to be the real mangers and who are willing to go out and help the less fortunate sisters in civilization. Peace cannot be left to the world's diplomats or politicians." Judge Murphy said.

Children at Mock Bridal

"Here comes the bride—Here comes the bride" sang the voices in a small childish voice, quite in tune, suddenly caught the ear of the Newspaper man as he strolled up Front street a little south of Bridge street, on Saturday afternoon. A minute or so before he had observed children ahead of him playing with a small wagon and he knew when passing the children this is what was intended to hear the quiet almost lisping singing of Here comes the bride—. There were three of them and their ages were given as about five to seven years. A Chinese girl was being drawn in the wagon which was seated a little white girl and a small Chinese boy. Their heads were dressed in the usual way covered with long, streaming strips of yellow tissue paper—they were on the pavement for some distance behind them and the little white girl was singing in her small voice "Here comes the bride"—Here comes the bride—. Then suddenly they arrived a little further up the street, another small white child appeared from a door way and threw handfuls of confetti over the "Young couple" It was surely a very amusing-interesting and astonishing spectacle.

Children and Big Words

By Constance Cameron

Bobby was reading a book. "What is "cooperation?" he asked of his father. The father eyed his ten year old son and grunted: "It's what you get from too little of around this house!"

Mrs. Bobby, perhaps in what I consider one of the cheapest tricks of marriage and parentage, that of talking through the child to the other adult in the family. His father passed up a big chance to help the child. He not only missed this chance, but in his facetious reply he snipped off further desire to ask questions, for no child likes to be made sport of or to have his earnest questions flippantly received by the people he holds highest and constant mentor-wise.

Later when he was in bed, the mother went to him and said: "Son, you asked Dad what co-operation meant. A few minutes later the other day when I talked to you about how hard it seemed to keep the bathroom neat and attractive, and you promised to wash your hands thoroughly before using the towel, and to hang your towel with the cleaning cloth when you'd finished washing?" Yes, Bobby remembered. "Well," she went on to said. "I know you have," said the boy gruffly. "And in doing that you have been co-operating with me." "That's co-operating is the helping of one another."

A few minutes, thinking earnestly.

The kid added a new and interesting word to his vocabulary, and he had the satisfaction of knowing that at least one adult had taken his question seriously enough to give him an intelligent answer.

Children adore new words, usually the bigger the better, and it doesn't take long before they become off-hand with their vocabulary. will explain patiently and to the best of their ability the meaning of these words. Every parent of children like the sound of longer words than are usually used in talking with them. And it is amazing how quickly they will make them their own. Don't talk down to children, but on the other hand try to cram a large vocabulary into their heads. Use your ordinary words in talking and then explain the new and longer ones. Don't be condescendingly serious in answering their questions about the world. Show extra enough interest to inquire.

The Beauty Box

By Helen Follett

Always a woman hears how she must rest for the papa to see, how keep the papa's love. If papa is an old beau, she answers and then there isn't much interest in putting on the complexing balm and slipping into the "little model." Yet it must be done for the sake of self respect. When a man loves a lady, doesn't care how she looks, thinks she is beautiful in her working glass loses out, slowly but surely. Romance is important to a great with the white whiskers, though help he has to be fought tooth and nail.

Only hair, washed every week, put up a good appearance. Weekly shampoos are good for the hair, but the friction of drying the scalp seems a treatment to make glands function normally. It is important to remove every particle of soap suds.

Following after the shampoo clears the shafts of deposits. Add a tablespoonful of vinegar to a quart of water and pour over the head. Rinse away with clear tepid water. Use a spray and have a strong current of water.

No need of cluttering up the bath room closet these days with huge jars and clumsy bottles. Concentrated lotions in boxes, a small jar each of tissue builder and cleanser, a box of powder, bottle of astringent and perhaps a foundation of cream. Every fourth day rub the astringent in its own nook and the whole kit easy to tuck into the bath mat.

A lotion that freckles don't like because it wipes them off the facial map is composed of one part four ounces of rubbing alcohol, two ounces of glycerine, two ounces of fifteen drops of simple tincture of benzoin. Apply at night with a bit of cotton after bathing the face with soap and warm water. In the morning rinse off after using the lotion with cold water.

Cleave away superfluous fat from the legs by following the bath rub and coming down slowly. Squat-down exercises are excellent. Rub pull down hips and reduce thighs.

[illegible] SEATS IN 2ND ALBERT [illegible] ELECTED [illegible] TOO MACHINIST

London, Oct. 28 (CP)—The British electors sat back this morning and read the latest newspaper accounts of the results of the hand writings in the polling booths in yesterday's general election which astounded the most astute of political prognosticators. Over-running their most optimistic expectations, the National government forces were returned on the crest of a tidal wave that swept all the Labor party views into the most insignificant position occupied in the House for a decade.

The tale of course has not been completely told as returns from the outlying areas are to come in today. But even if the overwhelming majority which is due to today's returns, the National government was assured a majority of more than 200 seats. And the early returns from today's balloting promised to continue the Labor route started last night. Even at the start, the Conservatives gained three seats more than did labor, a National-Labor candidate triumphed over a straight Labor party man in Seaham, and Seaham Reseats

Among the eagerly awaited results today were those in Seaham, Durham division in Northern Wales. The Seaham result this afternoon set the political world out Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald's fate, as well as that of the others members of the National government cabinet of ten or six who have been returned to office to parliament, except Rt. Hon. Philip Snowden, Labor Chancellor of the Exchequer who is retiring.

In Carnarvon, Wales, Premier David Lloyd George is seeking re-election, against a Conservative candidate.

Mr. Lloyd George, like the Labor heads, suffered drastically. Only two of his followers were among the 37 Liberals returned in the overnight declarations; the remaining 35 have their strength either to Sir John Simon, one of Mr. Lloyd George's colleagues in promising enemies, who heads a band of Liberals pledged to support protection; or to Sir Herbert Samuel, the free-trader Liberal Home Secretary in the National Government.

Tory Vote

The results showed the Conservatives polled 4,909,238 votes in the 227 seats reported last night; National-Labor candidates, the Sir John Liberal Liberals 943,832. This, with an independent-Labor total of 78,945 gave the total popular vote for the Conservatives and allies of 5,945,979.

Labor on the other hand polled 2,989,305 and including other anti-government sections the total opposition vote was 3,047,459.

Over 100 Seats Lost

At daybreak Labor had lost more than 100 seats, even if the National government forces looked forward to a majority of 400 over all — The most drastic defeat in the history of Commons has been in many years. The Conservatives, who themself needed only 26 more seats to day to have a majority over all other parties—even including the other government forces combined.

Most of the towering heads of the Labor party went down. One of the first to fall was the parliamentary Labor leader, Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, Foreign Secretary in the Labor cabinet, one of the founders of the party. Mr. Henderson fell in a triangular battle in which Rear Admiral Gordon Campbell, V.C., hero of the "Q" ships ships" was elected to parliament.

Tariff Changes Now?

Strenuous efforts to effect a protective tariff were made a protection following the sweeping victory of the National government. The Conservatives secured sure of a majority over all, even if they had not gained this the government forces were assured some measure of protection with the aid of the Simon, Samuel and Lloyd George Stanley Baldwin has not been adefinite on this point as some of his lieutenants, but it is expected that a "gentlemen's agreement" with the National Liberals, that the Conservatives would not override them.

NEW CABINET IS RETURNED

Of the ten members of the National Cabinet, Cabinet Chairman Baldwin, Conservative leader and Lord President of the Council, had already been elected without opposition for nomination. All the Reading, Liberal Foreign Secretary, and Lord Hailsham, the Labor Lord Chancellor, are in the House of Lords. Rt. Hon. Philip Snowden, Labor Chancellor of the Exchequer, did not seek re-election.

First Train Passed Through Belleville 75 Years Ago Oct. 27

It was 75 years ago, 27th October, that the first train from Montreal arrived in Toronto after passing through Belleville

Belleville has long been a railroad town, its railroad continuously now forming its main support.

In 1856 when this linking up of Montreal and Toronto occurred, the local press consisted of a weekly newspaper, The Intelligencer, and how is a quotation from its issue of 24th October of that year. It says: noted, relative to this occasion, that Montreal was not letting the grass grow under her feet, as may be seen by the following notice and this was to take the form of a two-day celebration, on Monday, 27th inst., when 12, a general proclamation, half-holiday will be given to the mechanic works; the following day, a military review, a ball and supper and ball:

Opening of Grand Trunk Railway

"Belleville has at last been placed upon the great highway of the Provinces, by the opening of the Grand Trunk Railroad. The first regular train from the Province in general to Portland in Maine, through Montreal, Toronto and Kingston, left, being 653 miles, made their first appearance in good form on Monday last, to the no small pleasure and gratification of a large number of our citizens. The event is one of the utmost importance to us as a Town in particular, and the whole Province in general. Merchants and Tradesmen will no longer have to lay in a heavy six months' stock of goods, to keep sufficient until the season returns for the opening of navigation. Now they can visit Montreal, Toronto, Kingstons or Potashes, have to refuse the price of these articles below their value, or else run short, or having to hold them over for five or six months. A £1,000 spent in wheat in one day, can be replaced in two or three days after, thus rendering speculations comparatively safe, and who will be the most benefited by this? While we admit that whole community will be benefited, yet the agriculturist and those who will reap the principal benefit, and as a consequence become more enriched and independent.

"Though we have from the inauguration of the Grand Trunk scheme seen much to condemn the matter in which our public men have laid the scheme before the people of the province, yet we are free to admit that the road is a necessity and so, than Canada deprived of a road of such

HENDERSON IS AMONG FALLEN

Parliamentary Leader of Labor in Short 18,000 Votes

London, Eng., Oct. 28 (CP cable) Caught in the anti-Labor landslide that swept over the country, Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, Parliamentary leader of the party, went down to defeat before the Conservatives in the Lancashire riding of Burnley. In a three-cornered contest, "Labor Arthur" as he was known from one end of the country to another, was defeated by Rear Admiral Gordon Campbell, Conservative, originator of the "Q" boats during the war, James Rushton, a Communist, was the third man in the field.

Succeeding Rt. Hon. Ramsay MacDonald when the latter became head of the National Government, Mr. Henderson stumped the country as leader of the Labor party. Born in Glasgow, 67 years ago, he began life as an iron-monger and for many years has been associated with the Labor movement, both political and social.

Career Began in 1903

In 1903, Mr. Henderson first was elected to Parliament as a Liberal-Labor member. After 11 years as treasurer of the Labor party, in 1911, he became its secretary, a position he still holds. When the MacDonald Labor Ministry was formed after the 1929 election, Mr. Henderson became Secretary for Foreign Affairs and in this capacity gave valuable aid to the cause of world disarmament.

National Government was formed in August, 1931, Henderson, after seeing eye-to-eye with Premier MacDonald, resigned from the Labor camp and led that party in the British Parliament. He was subsequently slapped in the closing days of the campaign, having suffered a chill after Sunday's broadcast address.

Mr. Henderson's first cabinet experience was gained when he entered the coalition government and became a member of Lloyd George's war cabinet. Labor first came into power, Mr. Henderson became Home Secretary, retiring to opposition ranks when Baldwin government regime.

Car Hoist

Rear Admiral Campbell, who defeated the Labor leader Henderson was well known as the originator of the mystery ship methods of waging war on the U-boats and was awarded the Victoria Cross in 1917. He was born in Southampton and was also on a lecture trip.

James Rushton, Communist, entered this contest on the eve of nominations with a program calling for abolition of the national debt, confiscation of all property when its owner died and the abolition of armament. He will lose his deposit.

The voting stood: Campbell 35,-
1902, Henderson 26,818, majority
8,512. In the 1929 election Mr.
Henderson had a majority of 7,954.

Mercy to bring truant children back to school was not enough, he said.

THOMAS GAINS FINE VICTORY

MacDonald's Companion Is Carried In On Crest Of Wave

London, Eng. Oct. 28 (CP Cable) Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, the only member of the old Labor government to seek election on the same platform as Premier Ramsay MacDonald, was elected in Derby. He ran as a National-Labor.

Through the political turn-over last August and the subsequent economic crisis, Thomas, colorful former engine driver, was Ramsay MacDonald's right-hand man and confidant. Ramsay MacDonald once described him as "our most loyal and vivacious of colleagues." Starting work at the age of nine, Thomas became a railway engineer at 20. Later he became secretary of the Railway Men's Union but when he deserted the Labor government the Union Council threw him from the office.

Elevating to expletive "humbug" to a place in political history, Mr. Thomas crossed swords with the Canadian Prime Minister Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, during the last Imperial Conference when the conference raised quite a tempest and Thomas was described by Mr. Bennett. Mr. Thomas later withdrew his statement had been misconstrued.

Since 1910, Mr. Thomas has held the following posts: Secretary of State for the Colonies in 1924; Lord Privy Seal, Dominions in 1929 and Secretary of State for the Dominions in 1930.

Derby elects two members and the other Derby seat Thomas (National-Labor) 42,247; W. A. Reid (Conservative, 47,279; W. R. Haynes (Labor) 21,264 and Walter Hall (Labor), 20,241.

YOUNG LEADER IS DEFEATED

Sir Oswald Mosley Ran Last in Triangular Contest

LONDON, Oct. 28.—Running last in a three-cornered contest, Sir Oswald Mosley, 35-year-old handsome young Socialist and leader of the New Party, was defeated in Stoke-on-Trent. Mrs. Ronald Copeland, Conservative, defeated Sir Oswald Smith, Labor, 13,264, and Mosley, 10,324.

Sir Oswald Mosley first was elected as a Laborite in 1926 at a by-election. Before the general election he entered the Labor Government as Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster but resigned last year when his unemployment plans failed to accept his drastic plans for remedying unemployment. Becoming more independent in action, he announced last summer led a small group of followers known as the New Party.

Mosley's wife is the former Lady Cynthia Curzon, daughter of Lord Curzon, famous statesman. Lady Cynthia is not a candidate at this election. At nomination, the New party had six members besides Sir Oswald and his wife. A score or more candidates ran under his banner, including for a number of noted athletes.

How London Received News of Elections

London, Oct. 28.—(AP)—London's streets were thronged with election returns on outdoor screens couldn't see anything last night, except flashlight photos.

So they stayed at their own firesides where they spent them the latest news, or went to the theatres in which returns were flashed on the screen.

Election returns were received by many gay parties in fashionable hotels and restaurants. At several of these the news was announced guest, seeping through cracks of doors and windows. Some restaurants looked as though they held a smoke cloud.

LLOYD GEORGE CARRIES SEAT

Miss Megan Lloyd George Also Elected By Liberals

London, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George, whose Liberal Party was virtually smashed in yesterday's voting, was elected to the Carnarvon district of Wales, the constituency he has represented for years in the House of Commons.

Miss Megan Lloyd George, daughter of the veteran Liberal leader and a supporter of his followers against those of the National Liberals, was re-elected as member of the House of Commons for Anglesey, Wales.

Lord David Burghley, noted athlete who was a winner at the last Olympic games and at the British Empire games at Hamilton last year, was elected in the Peterboro riding of Northamptonshire. Running as a Conservative, he had a majority of 12,000 over his Labor opponent, J. F. Horabin.

Mr. Winston Churchill, who swung over to the National Government from the Labor Party, held his riding of Nottingham South as a National Labor.

REVIVAL IN TRADE CAUSE

Huge Government Majorities Rolled Up in North and Midlands

Manchester, Eng., Oct. 28.—With the wheels beginning to turn more briskly, industry in the industrial north following the temporary suspension of the gold standard and the resultant revival of domestic and export trade the spoons of government candidates in many political observers was not entirely unexpected.

But the overwhelming majorities rolled up for the National Government supporters was a surprising feature of the early returns. Commenting with satisfaction, Labor representatives were snowed under in the constituencies. Conservative votes. Labor strongholds in Lancashire, like Barrow-in-Furness, a cotton mill workers went down in defeat and afforded ample evidence of the desire for the formation of the National Government. The tide of victory swept over the north and throughout the teeming manufacturing districts of the Midlands.

Some Skeptical of Cancer Cure Find

Toronto, Oct., Oct. 28.—Prominent medical men of Toronto were skeptical of the cancer cure, based on the report from Kitchener that Dr. Harry Hamilton claims to have discovered a positive cancer cure. Told that Dr. Hett had announced that Dr. Hamilton, head of the Toronto Academy of Medicine, had a cure for cancer, Dr. Hett said: "Very well. Let him put all his cases on file and take the medical profession to investigate."

WARMTH HELPS FARMERS

Kitchener, Ont., Oct. 28.—(By The Canadian Press)—Warm autumn weather has been a blessing for the farmers. Winter wheat in this district is all sown, much remaining under the Fall sunshine and some fields of alfalfa yellow. Fears are expressed that the wheat due to its advanced condition, will be winter killed by frost when the winter sets in.

TEN MONTHS FOR STILL

WELLAND, Ont., Oct. 28.—By the Canadian Press)—Convicted of operating a still illegally, Salvatore Pillitteri Bumbacco was today penalty sentenced to ten months in prison and was also fined $1,500 for the offense.

"Nemises of Political Folly and Weakness Swift, Deadly"

LONDON, Oct. 28 (CP)—National Government organs were today jubilant over the election result and generally interpreted the overwhelming victory as a crushing repudiation of socialism.

The Daily Telegraph says the "nemesis of political folly and weakness has been swift and deadly. Leaders who betrayed their trust and party that upheld them have been taught a lesson that will long be remembered."

The newspaper adds that the National Government has a majority far beyond its expectations and that "the people have given them power setting the country on its feet and leading it into a new path of prosperity and prosperity.

"The result is an absolutely shattering blow to Labor," comments the Daily Chronicle. "There has been nothing like this landslide since 1918."

The Daily Mail attributes the government victory to a growing antipathy to Labor and the determination of the work-ing class to deal a death blow to "predatory socialism".

The Daily Express says the Socialist party is wiped out by the election.

"The country has delivered its judgment in no uncertain terms and on the men who ran away," commends the Times.

Press Discusses Poll Results in G. Britain Sees Tariff Changes

Five Recounts All Different

EXULTANT TORIES

Manchester Guardian Fears For Fate of Premier MacDonald

London, Oct. 28 (AP)—The Daily Express, owned by Lord Beaverbrook, appeared this morning under a screaming banner headline declaring:

"The Socialist party is wiped out!" and the paper followed by calling yesterday's election a "triumph for Imperial protection."

The Daily Mail's headline was similar. It was: "Socialist Party swamped by huge wave of patriotism." The former, in the result, the Mail said was "the growing enthusiasm of the electorate for a tariff."

There were a few notes of a different kind, however, amid the chorus of exultation from Conservative papers. They came from the small section of the press which criticized the tactics of the Conservative campaign or, like Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George, was out of sympathy with the election altogether.

While papers like the Times and Daily Telegraph foresaw great good for the country in the return of a National Government's victory, which they foresaw, the Labor Daily Herald predicted a wave of suffering from "full-blooded reactionary rule."

Trucks and Cars Figure in Crash and Tie up Traffic

Damage To Two Trucks and Car Not Heavy

NO ONE INJURED

Traffic was congested and for time suspended on the King's Highway, five miles east of Belleville on Tuesday afternoon, when a motor car travelling east and two trucks travelling west collided. One of the trucks hit the truck in front of it and then swerved to the centre of the road, collided with a car, both heading in the direction of the latter. There was considerable damage done to all the vehicles involved but no one was injured. This principally to the fact that none of the drivers were travelling at a fast rate of speed at the time. Traffic was held up for a time on another case and was some time before he arrived on the scene to look after the accident. It was not wish to move the cars from their positions on the road. The traffic was held up. Many cars were lined up on the concrete section road nearby and went into Belleville by the 2nd concession road.

The primary cause of the accident, according to witnesses, is said to blame was the making of a left hand turn by a motorist driven by a woman driving a car wished to turn off the concrete section of the road. Seeing a car approaching from the east as she was making the turn, she put on her hand, signalling the turn she was about to make, and brought the car nearly to a dead stop. There were two cars following her and a truck owned by G. W. Davies of Colborne loaded with potatoes. While the Davis truck driver saw the two cars in front apparently naturally applied his brakes and stopped. The Boyce Transport came up from behind striking the Davis truck in the rear and throwing it somewhat to the centre of the road and the front of the west bound traffic. Lorne Alexander, of Belleville, was driving this car headed for the ditch in order to avoid a collision with the Davis truck but could not and after colliding, they both nosed down into the ditch.

The Alexander car sustained a bent front axle, broken steering wheel and damaged lights, while the Davis truck only had minor injuries and was able to leave under its own power after the investigation. The Boyce Transport truck was stove in on the left front fender and could not be had in the matter has not been determined.

JURY FINDS EIGHT GUILTY

Seven Hours' Deliberation Upon Verdict of Conspiracy

Toronto, Oct. 28.—The eight men charged with conspiracy to defraud the Township of York were convicted by the jury which made up the jury which had deliberated over seven hours, after a morning and a quarter. The verdict was qualified by a recommendation for mercy.

Mr. Justice Kelly deferred passing sentence until Monday, November 10, at the request of defence counsel. The question of bail will be settled this morning when counsel will be given an opportunity of discussing it at 11.30 a.m. Meanwhile, the eight prisoners must remain last April Spring after the writ of arrest last Spring, after the issuance of Judge Denton's report on his inquiry into York Township affairs.

At the conclusion of last night's proceedings, counsel representing the eight men announced to His Lordship that notice of appeal would be appealed, notice of appeal probably being filed on Saturday next today.

The eight men facing sentence are Basil Holden, vice-president of the Nelson Silver Construction Company, J. C. Westbury, Ex-Deputy Reeve; Isaac Woolner, W. Giles Armstrong, John J. Little, Albert E. Baker, and Councillor Frederick MacQueen. Prosecutor was Ralph Russell, who refused to accept the gift of a $500 Government bond offered by Baker, the sole member of that township council who was not convicted. He was also commended for his action in Judge Denton's report.

Toronto Teams at Heavy Drills

Grid Squads Prepare For All Important Games On Saturday

Toronto, Oct., Oct. 28.—(By The Canadian Press)—The warriors of the gridiron turned out in full force last night, when coaches of Senior football clubs sent the players through gruelling workouts prior to Saturday's all important fixtures, which in most cases, will decide the teams, which will advance into the play-offs for the Eastern Canadian rugby title.

In Hamilton last night, the mentor of the Tigers, Billy Hughes, had his Big Four championship on the field for nearly two hours in order to perfect his plays and have the team in excellent condition for the most important game of the season when the Bengals engage Montreal Winged Wheelers in Hamilton Saturday.

With only an outside chance of capturing the Big Four leadership, Coach Buck McKenna of Argonauts had his team on the field last night for conditioning egercies in preparation for the week-end game with Ottawa Rough Riders. The Toronto Scullers have a couple of injured regulars but McKenna will field his strongest line-up against the cellar occupants.

Preparing for a leadership tilt with Balmy Beach on Saturday, Lou Carrol sent his Varsity "Orphans" through a stiff signal practice last night, and hopes to have his regular team in action for the game with the Dominion champions. With slight hope of finishing on top of the Inter-Collegiate Race Varsity Intercollegiates failed to take the field this evening, but Coach Harry Hobbs will have his team out tonight for a heavy training drill.

Boxing Lesson Given to Huat

"Panama" Al Brown Retains His Bantamweight Title

Montreal, Que., Oct. 28 (CP)—"Panama" Al Brown gave Eugene Huat, blonde Frenchman, a boxing lesson here last night and held his world's bantamweight championship when he was the decision in a fifteen round encounter before a crowd of approximately 12000. On the same card, Bobby Leitham, of Montreal, was crowned king of the featherweights when Arthur Ghotz, also of Montreal, defender, lasted him the full ten round of their scheduled ten round battle.

This is the second time within two months that the champion defended his world's title in Montreal and once again he gave a superb exhibition of boxing. The first time he defended his title here was against Pete Sansol.

The tall negro had a slight at distance throughout the fifteen rounds with jabs from his long left. The the challenger got under his guard several times his punches were rendered ineffective by the counterfighting of the champion.

Al was fresh throughout the fight in contrast to Huat, who tired quickly as he was forced to do the telling blows. In the twelfth round Huat, shook the ruggid Brown, who sidestepped neatly and the Frenchman came up short half way through the round.

Huat made a courageous stand against the superior boxing ability of the champion and though he changed his style of attack, sometimes brown easily solved them. Brown weighed 117 lbs. and Huat 116½.

Leitham weighed 117 and Grout the same.

Fights Last Night

Boston Benny Leonard, New York, knocked out Vittorio Lirau, Italy (3); Al Friedman, Boston, outpointed Big Boy Brown, Boston (1).

The accounts of a missing Ohio hunk caddie are found in perfect order. It is not always wise to judge by dis-appearances.

Late dispatches from Arapoe yesterday stated that Aldrich, "Ollie" Mudrhill had turned to the professional ranks, having signed with the Kansas City Flay-Mates, in the American Hockey Association. Local fans will remember Mudrhill when he played left wing for the Belleville seniors last season. Although "Ollie" did not have as good a season as he would have liked to have had himself, this was due to the fact that he had a dislocated shoulder that bothered him most of the winter. He played most of the season with his shoulder bandaged up a bit and no player could do himself justice under such a handicap. At any rate the hockey fraternity of Belleville wish "Ollie" all the success possible in his new venture.

Manager Ed. Gartley is rushing work at the Belleville Arena and it is expected that we will have it ready for operation by the 6th or 7th of November. It will be a pleasure to be able to go skating these fine evening. We can remember, not so long ago, when the skating bug used to wail eagerly for the old quarry to freeze over so they could have the first skate of the season. (Those days am gone forever.)

We see that the Trent Valley Hockey League has passed out of existence after a few years of success. The answers to their decision to disband lies in the old age cry of "corrbs." Imported players have been the downfall of many a good league that was no remember. It was to be expected that the Trent Valley League would fall under the drain of so many "imports" as the case may be. Perhaps this will be a lesson to the league executive in the future and no doubt in future years they will be able to carry on a league made up of "home-brews." There is no question in the fact that home town boys playing the game themselves, in front of their friends, will create more interest than hereto-fore. It is to be hoped that the Trent Valley League may be revived in the near future.

Yesterday we spoke of a city or industrial league for the coming winter and the matter has been brought forth to the extent that it would be an excellent idea. The O.H.A. and O.H.A. players from the league this coming season. The idea of a city or industrial league is to give players an opportunity to have a little fun, who are not quite fast enough for O.H.A. teams. We have always been of the opinion that O.H.A. players should be protected from a league such as this and until they are not in any way a financial league can or will function successfully.

There are enough good hockey players in Belleville to form a fine city or industrial hockey league and games using players of O.H.A. calibre.

The final game of the local senior intermediate football schedule will be played in Belleville on Friday afternoon. Coach Jack Ketchum has picked out last evening and is not quite satisfied with what he has. The latest reports on the players to be in shape to date they have been altogether too much of the festal order. The B. C. I.'s opponents on Friday will be the Napanee griders. The boys from North-end gave the locals a tough battle in Napanee on Friday and the locals could do is squeeze out a 9 to 7 victory at the last game.

Coach Shiels intends using a few of his junior stars in the battle on Friday. Jimmy Falwell and "Shorty" Ostrom will be given little service in the back field in order to try and keep them fresh. If the locals lose on Friday they will drop back into a tie with Napanee for first place in the league. The winner of this league will meet the winner of Peterboro-Oshawa in the East-ern Ontario semi-finals.

The officers of the 15th Battalion have donated a trophy to be competed for in the local Collegiate Football league each year. Unless all signs fail the cup will rest in the Belleville Collegiate for 1931 as the local juniors have won all their games to date and have yet to be scored upon. A very creditable record we would say.

"Kid" Chocolate found himself in rather a queer position early this week when he was disqualified by the Boxing Commission of the State of Connecticut for engaging in more than one bout in eight days. We have heard of fighters being disqualified for not fighting enough and also for "running out" on bouts but this is the first time we have heard of a fighter being disqualified for fighting too much.

OUT AT LAST

After a rather hectic season as pilot of the Brooklyn Robins, Wilbert Robinson was ousted as manager last week. "Uncle Wilbert" he was known, was considered one of the wittiest players who ever graced the National League. Robinson played with the old Baltimore Orioles back in the days when John McGraw and "Little Willie" Keeler were starring for the Maryland Club. Rumor rumour had it that Robinson may catch on as manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates next season. Considerable dessension has been noticed in the ranks of the Robins in the past few years thus the change. Mr. Rudolph Max Carey, who follows Robinson as manager into "Flatbush", is no stranger in Brooklyn as he performed there as a player some years ago.

Before leaving Brooklyn, Mr. Robinson was presented with a purse of $10,000. by the owners of the club which does speak so for his endeavours while at the helm of the Robins.

2238 Consecutive Performances

This record for theatrical performances is held by the marvellous Oriental extravaganza, Chu Chin Chow, 2238 consecutive performances having been played at His Majesty's Theatre in London. It will live long in the memories of Canadian soldiers and officers who were in London during the War.

The RECORD SPEAKS for ITSELF

This outstanding record for popularity in the theatrical world, held by Chu Chin Chow, is a tribute to its satisfying beauty of costume, lighting effect and music, while Turret's record for public favour is the result of quality, mildness and fragrance constantly maintained.

After all, nothing can replace good honest tobacco; grown and ripened right out in the field under nature's own sunlight—nothing artificial about that—and the high quality is "inbred".

TOO PRONE TO BE PESSIMISTIC

Hon. H. H. Stevens Says Canadians Have Over-borrowed

TORONTO, Oct. 28 (CP)—Canadians were too prone to regard business conditions in the Dominion with an attitude of pessimistic defeat, said Hon. H. H. Stevens, Federal Minister of Trade and Commerce, in an address here last night. At the same time, he issued a warning that there was "over-borrowed," "loose" and reasonable perspective" should inspire satisfaction in the "capacity of our country to sustain its population in comfort and security." He delivered the first annual banquet of the advertising and sales round table of Toronto.

At the same time, he assailed "improvement capitalization" in industry, margin speculation in stocks, excessive overhead in business and "impossible" interest on farm loans.

"Ask yourself whether we have learned the lesson of the past five or three years," he said. "And of these lessons the bonds have a bad habit of coming due, that federal, provincial and corporate borrowings will at some time have to be repaid and interest paid over at frequent intervals."

Christ Church and St. Georges Honor Rector on Departure

Tributes Paid Rev. C. E. Clarke, On Eve of Leaving

PRESENTATIONS

Parishioners, friends and admirers filled the parish hall of Christ Church Tuesday evening at the farewell supper tendered to the Rev. C. E. and Mrs. Clarke, who go to Toronto where Mr. Clarke will assume the rectorship of St. Michael and All Angels Church next Sunday. It was a remarkable gathering—a representative gathering of Belleville citizens and demonstrated the innumerable friendships which Mr. Clarke had made during the eight years he has been in Belleville and the very high regard in which he is held by the citizens in general. Although regrets, very sincere regrets, were expressed in speeches and in correspondence, yet it was the spirit of the gathering to make it a happy occasion. Those being glad that "all that they as a congregation had had the privilege of Mr. Clarke's ministry for the time they have had him and rejoiced that his worth and ability were demanded by the Church for service in a larger field.

Main Floor and Galleries

The main floor of the Parish Hall and the galleries were filled with long tables, made artistically and tastefully arranged and decorated with beautiful flowers, at which about three hundred and twenty-five people sat down to a most sumptuous supper which had been prepared by the Women's Guilds of Christ Church and St. Georges Church. The head table was placed upon the platform and overlooked remarkably pretty with flowers and lighted candles in silver candle sticks. At this table were seated Mr. and Mrs. Clarke, Mr. O. H. Scott, the chairman of the evening, Rev. A. Beauchamp Payne, the Vicar of St. Thomas Church, and Mrs. Payne, Mr. W. Everett, Mrs. Everett, Rev. Robert Hall, minister of John St. Church, Mrs. Hall, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Smith, Rev. Dr. J. A. Seymour, Mrs. Seymour, Mrs. Osborne, Rev. Hillard Jones, minister of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church, Mr. E. V. Illsley, Mrs. Illsley, Mr. A. L. Geen, Mr. George Stokes and Mr. J. G. Hagyard.

Mr. O. H. Scott filled the position of chairman and conducted the proceedings which followed the supper in a very admirable manner.

Words were given by Mr. E. V. Illsley and Mr. James Bankier in their always pleasing manner and excellence of voice. Mrs. Illsley played the accompaniments with much taste and excellence of interpretation. Mr. Everett Smith, in character costume, sang "A Farmer's Boy," which greatly pleased and amused the audience.

An address from the retiring Rector, Rev. Mr. Clarke, was truly most brilliant, eloquent and of great interest—the subject being "The World, the Church and the Man."

World Change

Never before in history has there been such great rapidity of change all over the world as has taken place in the past twenty-five years, said Mr. Clarke. Kings have fallen from their thrones, governments and forms of governments have changed. Economically, financially and industrially the world has undergone a most amazing, and, in some quarters, bewildering change. Importantly the changes wrought by machines have been marvelous. Changes affect man in his mode of living—in every phase of living these changes have touched us. They come, too, with such rapidity that it has been difficult to keep abreast. These rapid changes have been chaotic to a certain extent in manufacturing. The market is never sure that his product will be required when ready for the market. No matter what it is, full production from overstimulating brings low prices and low prices mean heart-burn, disappointment and hosts of difficulties. All this is hard to bear and constant, strenuous efforts are made to bring about a change to better conditions.

The masses were never so greatly united as they are today. They become, in some instances, unsettled in their minds as to the form of government under which they live and this results in confusion. Some of us who become uncertain regarding the great fundamentals of religion, of God. Whom God and immortality pass out of men's lives. Uncertainty unsettles their duty and this is a very deplorable state to be in. From intellectual confusion comes pessimism.

Church Guidance

"I think today," said Mr. Clarke, "the world is in need of guidance—the civilization is sick and what is there to guide it? I think the church is the institution to guide it and I speak broadly to include all Christians. There must not be and there is no office for pessimism regarding the Church. Look back and see what the Church has gone through," said Mr. Clarke. The early church had great hardships to endure—powerful hostility to contend, but it did not become pessimistic. In the first three centuries, when they had to meet in secret, fear, they might have become discouraged and have said, "Why carry on?" But they did not give way—they fought on and conquered. Any difficulties that the Church has done in the past have passed away. The Church has come through successfully in great missionary endeavours and it is still advancing—a great band of Christian workers. The Church has great daring in the spirit," said Mr. Clarke," great courage.

The ministries now laboring and those of the many others who are preparing to go as missionaries among all sides people—so the Church does not lack in courage. Communicants in the Church are increasing. Thinking people are not saying the Church is dying—there is great benefits to be derived from it. Do not be parochial—look abroad and see the marvellous progress made by the church—it will give no place to unbook—it will remove pessimism."

Carole Needed

Speaking of local parish work, Mr. Clarke said: "If the church is to function as God intended it to do it needs to be a living organism. In the clergy must not run it all. If the church is to have appeal it has to be thought of as a field which you have some say in." He referred to the great work to be done in the parish and said that the service of a curate were really required. "There are many persons," said Mr. Clarke, "upon whom I strongly desired to call on and to say goodbye, but it has been absolutely impossible for me to do so."

In closing Mr. Clarke urged the members of the congregation to go ahead believing that the Church of God, which has overcome and conquered in the past will still continue to do so through faith and courage.

Presentation

Mr. G. S. Smith, in a very nice manner, expressed the appreciation of the audience to Mr. Clarke for the most excellent address he had given and on behalf of the congregation he presented Mrs Clarke with a beautiful bouquet of flowers and to Mr. Clarke a purse containing a very substantial amount of currency. Mr. Clarke, in pleasing words, thanked the congregation for the flowers and for the many kindnesses shown to her since coming to Belleville. Mr. Clarke acknowledged the generous gift from the parishioners in a few remarks of sincere appreciation. He thanked them for their great loyalty and support and urged them to "carry on."

Rev. A. Beauchamp Payne, Vicar of St. Thomas Church, was called away before the presentation but before leaving, he expressed in a few pleasing remarks his great pleasure at being present and he joined his sincere regrets with those of Christ Church congregation in losing so estimable a man and leader as their rector, Mr. Clarke, had proved to be.

AMUSEMENTS

What Theatrical Managers Say of Coming Attractions

At The Belle

WILLIAM POWELL HERE TODAY IN ENCHANTING ROAD TO SINGAPORE"

Doris Kenyon in Leading Role

The countless admirers of the star of William Powell, will be glad to know that he may be seen today at the Belle Theatre, in his first starring vehicle for Warner Bros., "The Road to Singapore."

In Mr. Powell's support are Doris Kenyon as lead; Marian Marsh—screen discovery of the year, as ingenue; Louis Calhern as male lead, Allen Shipworth in an unforgettable character role—Lumsden Hare (Cyrell Darte and A. E. Anson. The story is by the celebrated British novelist and playwright, Roland Pertwee, Alfred E. Green, responsible for the Arliss successes, directed.

The scenes of "The Road to Singapore" are laid in the dainty glamorous rainwaves, lonliom haunted jungles of Ceylon, Philippa Marsh comes from England to marry Dr. Marsh and on the steamer meets the suave and magnetic Hugh Crawley who in time makes her forget convention, in an attempt to get away from the husband, who neglects her for his patients.

"The Road to Singapore" is a masterpiece of dramatic expression. Sets, players, settings and direction go to make it one of the most strongly powerful romances seen on the screen.

"Tonight Or Never" clever and original comedy which is said to provide many laughs, the popular Metrotone News, "Pathe" and amusing Vaudefilm skit, "Fair and Warmer," and "Cuckoo Souvenirs," a distinctive and novel screen offering, will also be exhibited.

At The Capitol

AT THE CAPITOL "THE STAR WITNESS" WITH "CHIC" SALE

One of the seasons most talked of pictures opened to a large crowd at the Capitol last night. The cast and the story equalize in prominence, and should most certainly be the means of an evening's enjoyment when it plays for the last time tonight.

When you see Chic Sale in "The Star Witness" you will be meeting an old friend, for he plays the Grandpa Summerill—the man who knew Lincoln—a part which he has played all over the country. That lovable old Civil War veteran is shown on a forty-eight hour leave from the Soldier's Hospital — during which time he has kidnapped grandson, foils the thugs who did it, gives the cops a tip and appears as the star witness in the trial of the gang—all with the aid of his shrill fife.

"The Star Witness" though melodramatic, is suffused with heartwarming comedy and may be said to be unique among pictures. It will be enjoyed by all the family.

"THE RUNAROUND" BIG STARS, ALL TECHNICOLOR

Silverware Gift Thursday

Given a clever sophisticated actor like Geoffrey Kerr, a beautiful girl like Mary Brian, and it is a fast-moving story of modern Broadway created by the ace overseer of humor, William J. Craft and boy, that's a picture that can't be beat. That's what you will find when "The Runaround" (all technicolor) comes to the Capitol on Thursday (Silverware Gift Night) and Friday.

The story has to do with a millionaire playboy who gets bored with the dullness he has been leading. He wants to shake off his stuffy and effeminate crew, to become interested in a showgirl who, too, would like to change her mode of living, but only with a sensible proposition. He plots to marry her, but the plots many times. They "frame" each other. And then each confesses to the other, falls in love, honestly and sincerely. What happens there at that beautifully glamorous Fifth Avenue church wedding—a knock finale.

Kerr's work is great. He romps through the role of the dreamy-about-town with gaiety, intelligence and spunk. You'll hear plenty more from this young man. London and New York legitimate stages and this Kentucky lad is great straight for a carload of fan mail after his appearance in "The Runaround." That pure English of his is a "corker spirit." Take a peep at this Kerr, girls!

Then there's Mary Brian, too. Sprindid in her role as the ingenue, knows-what-she's-about showgirl. You can't put any blame for her on Mary. She's sweet and yet when she has to be bad she's bubbled acting Mary's there.

Cawthron a Howl

That Joseph Cawthron amuses with his impersonation of the Dutchman Hoffmeyer, Pa., especially at the banquet where he gets a trifle tipsy, to the consternation of Kerr, who brought him there.

And here's a remarkable double performance of Johnny Hines and Marie Prevost "Dizzy," also in "The Runaround." Hines is funnier in talkies than he ever was in silent pictures. Marie Prevost is splendid as the wise-cracking showgirl.

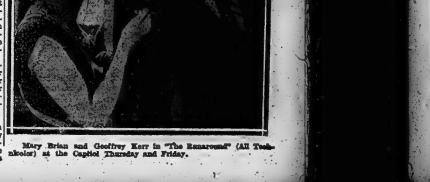
mons. Today with 508 returns available, the Conservatives had 400 of the 615 seats in the House.

MacDonald's Victory

SEAHAM HARBOR, Oct. 28.—(C.P. Cable)—Night Hour Ramsay MacDonald was elected in a three-cornered fight running against William Coxon, a school teacher and the Rev. Labor candidate, backed by all lines of war thought. He lost his Commons seat in 1918.

The turn of the political wheel brought MacDonald back to parliament after the years of the War as head of the growing Labor party.



His pacifism was forgotten, if not forgiven. The wheel again turned—to turn and Ramsay MacDonald became Premier in January, 1924. After ten months of office and fierce opposition, until June 1929 when he formed another government. This lasted until last August when MacDonald, Philip Snowden, James Thomas and ten other Laborites left the Conservatives and a large portion of the Liberal party in forming the National government. Yesterday the people of Seaham placed their stamp of approval on that latest, if not the most sensational step ever taken by Ramsay MacDonald.

Drama at Seaham

There was drama in the Seaham election yesterday as workers for Coxon in the Labor movement, MacDonald and Coxon opposed each other. MacDonald recalled the days when Laborites, Coxon was among them, held meetings in his home. Postage for their work was supplied by him and his wife. He was a Labor man then and he is a Labor man now, he told Seaham. Coxon disputed this statement, MacDonald, he claimed has deserted Labor. He looked forward to the days when he would implement the principles of Socialism, he quoted from his mentor, Ramsay MacDonald.

London, Oct. 28.—Prime Minister MacDonald, on learning of his victory in Seaham Harbor, said today that he was very grateful to the country for giving us such a backing generally and to Seaham for the splendid result. He intends to get back to work at Downing Street."

He explained that he was summoned to London two days ago to attend state business but delayed his return until today, hoping to conform to the tradition of being present at his constituency when the results were announced.

Mary Brian and Geoffrey Kerr in "The Runaround" (All Technicolor) at the Capitol Thursday and Friday.

Chequered Career

Born in a Scottish cottage in Scotland 64 years ago, Ramsay MacDonald has had a career reading like fiction. Friendless, he went to London and for ten years drank the bitterest waters of poverty, following a literary career. The death of his wife in 1911 was the saddest blow of his life.

Entering politics in 1906, Ramsay MacDonald became chairman of the Independent Labor party. This was in the days when such a step was tantamount to social, if not political, exclusion. When the war opened he assailed the government for having blundered into the conflict. Urging peace by negotiations and despite his support for recruiting, MacDonald became an anti-socialist pariah and was slandered by all lines of war thought. He lost his Commons seat in 1918.

The turn of the political wheel brought MacDonald back to parliament after the close of the War as head of the growing Labor party.

SKIRMISHING MAY FAN FLAME IN ORIENT

Looting by Discharged Soldiers Fans Trouble in North Manchuria

Fifty Chinese Bandits Killed in Attack On Japanese

BRIDGE BLOWN UP

Japanese Repair Gang Is Accompanied By Troops

Tokyo, Oct. 29—(AP)— Shadows of trouble generated by the controversy over the Japanese occupation of Southern Manchuria crept into the Northern portion of that Province today, threatening to develop into a serious situation here. Disorganized soldiery in Heilungkiang province have become bandits were reported increasingly active. Vernacular newspapers here said they were endangering railroads by which the Japanese are interested.

The Russian government, which with China holds control of the Chinese eastern railway across Northern Manchuria, is said to have the vernaculars to have sent three armored trains with 900 troops to the vicinity of Tsitsihar to protect the line by that means, it was confirmed at the war office here.

Bandits have been making malicious small towns along the Chinese operated Peiping-Mukden Railway in which the Japanese are financially interested. Rengo News Agency dispatches from Mukden last night attacked a Japanese railway guard at Shuangcheng.

Fifty Chinese Dead

Other official dispatches also were reported, in all of which the Chinese bandits were driven off after suffering heavy losses.

Moscow was alerted by the Soviet government that the Japanese were ordered south. Manchurian railway, by sending a gang of repair bridge of the Tsonan-Angchi railway across the Nonni River at Tsitsihar which allegedly was destroyed by Chinese bandits.

The Tokyo government desired the Russian government to assist Japan's only aim in this move was to keep open the railway, which is, of course, an important factor in the south Manchurian railway.

A total detachment of Japanese troops will accompany the repair gang to keep order, it was said. The Russians apparently offered some slight objections to the Japanese making the repairs, on the ground that the bridge might be used for Japanese troop movements north of the Nonni River.

Tokyo cleared away the misunderstanding, however, by advising Russia that the Japanese soldiers sent northward from Tsonan had no other mission than to serve as guards.

Washington Opinion, Split Upon Results of British Election

(By Ken Clark, C.P. Staff Writer)

Washington, Oct. 29.—Though no official naturally would permit himself any comment on the result of the British election, there is a learned sentiment here is divided.

Political authorities in the State Department are delighted to think that Rt. Hon. Ramsay MacDonald, Rt. Hon. and President Hoover and Secretary of State Henry L. LONDON, Oct. 29 (Canadian and Associated Press Cable) — Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, along with the leading British statesmen, were that the result of the British general election was a triumph of the national government — not of any one party.

In the new House the national government will have the record-breaking majority of at least one hundred members. Conservatives alone will have 472 members. Science Attempts to Make Gold Out of Base Metals

Professors Hope to Break Down Atoms and Make Gold

BERKELEY, Cal. Oct. 29.—Installation of a huge electro-magnet at the University of California by which two professors expect to perfect a method of breaking down the component parts of atoms and thus possibly achieve a way to make gold out of less precious metals, was announced today by Dr. California's monthly. Alumni publication.

If successful the experiments of Ernest O. Lawrence and Dr. Lyle Stanley Livingston, would realize a dream which scientists have chery tained since the days of the alchemists hundreds of years ago and also would open possibilities for creating new sources of energy.

Physicist Seeks Success

Lawrence and Livingston said they had been successful on a small scale in the basic principle of their experiment. Installation of the mag net, one of the four largest ever made, is expected to be complete before Christmas.

Th experimenters said they had succeeded in isolating and collecting the protons, or nuclei of hydrogen atoms and would apply these portions under electrical force as projectiles with which to break up the atoms of other elements.

By using the hydrogen protons as "bullets" propelled by electricity to force the scientists expect to "shoot" the protons or nuclei out of atoms of other substances, much as an ordinary rifle bullet would knock the bullseye out of a target. Thus tohost of its nucleus the atom of the baser substance would be changed up, causing it to change its nature.

Gold Producers Yellow Metal

New York, N.Y. Oct. 29 — Although various obstacles are in the way, efforts are to be made during the coming year to increase the production of gold in the United States, mining experts are now perfecting their plans to get more of the yellow metal out of the ground.

The present incentive is due to the low cost of commodities generally, more reasonable prices for labor than in a number of years, and the fact that there is a fixed price for gold of $20.67 an ounce. In other words, the going mines can make more money in present conditions and the producers intend to "strike while the iron is hot."

For the first time in many years, the United States Bureau of Mines is third among world gold producers. Canada dropped from second place when Canada increased her production.

30 MEN PICKED HERE FOR JOB UPON HIGHWAY

Sup't Green Receives Instructions As To Equipment

EXAMINED TODAY

Standard Rate of Wages $14.40 Week With Deductions

The first draft of men to leave Belleville to work on the Trans-Canada Highway passed a medical examined today at the Government Employment Office on Campbell street.

Superintendent L. F. Green has a busy job in trying to place all applicants willing to go, as it is impossible to crowd 200 or more men in an allotment which only calls for 30 (for first group) but it is earnestly expected that more drafts will follow at regular intervals, probably weekly. Later, it is expected that all men being physically fit will eventually reach the north.

The allotments of men, and the districts they are to be drawn from are issued by the Department of Northern Development and are then handed to the Provincial Police for execution through the many offices of the Employment Service of Canada.

Each man should be in possession of warm suitable clothing, good serviceable boots, and carry with him bedding, such as blankets. Green says the boys are of the better type and will make good on the job, as they are sincere in the desire for regular employment. The standard rate of wages for laborers will be 50c hour for an 8-hour day or $14.40 per week a day. Board for the men will be made for food, and a further deduction of $6.00 per month for medical services. A store or canteen will be operated at reasonable rates at each camp at which the men may purchase extras for personal use at fixed prices. Kitchen supplies is understood to be 50 men, while Trenton is allotted 15.

SEVENTY-FIVE LOSE DEPOSIT

Fail to Make One-Eighth Of Votes Polled in Election

(By Thomas T. Champion)
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Spent Bull Fight Days "Locked Up" in Hotels

Barcelona, Spain, Oct. 29 (AP) —Anguera de Solo, iron-fisted governor of Barcelona, has ordered all but fight fans who insist on leaping into the ring for a round with the bull themselves, to be "imprisoned" in their homes on bull fight days.

These volunteer fans, called "expontaneos," often were badly gored. Their hope was that if they came out safe the ring managers would offer them a contract.

Ordinary fines and jail sentences did not stop the practice, so the governor imposed thirty-day sentences in the homes, and the only days that count in serving the terms are bull fight days.

WOMEN BOX AND THEN WEEP

Are Taken Off To Cells While Others Are Held

WASHINGTON, Pa. Oct. 29.—A boxing bout in an Avella Dance hall two nights ago ended in tears as the principals ended in tears early today when State police, County Detectives and constables hiked to the place and hustled the boxers and staff others before a justice of the peace and thence to the county jail.

A crowd of more than 300 men, who were clamoring for tickets to the affair arrived fled through windows and doors.

Fred A. Hospal, 34, Avella and nine women were charged with staging the fight. Hospal's wife and women were remanded to cells in default of bond.

F. H. ARMITAGE ON TRIAL FOR THEFT $6,212

Former Broker is Defended By Col. T. H. Lennox, K.C., Toronto

EVIDENCE TAKEN

Transactions of Accused Were Thoroughly Sifted

Fred H. Armitage, broker of this city for many years, one placed on trial before Judge Deroche in Wednesday in County Court for theft of $6,212.00 from Andrew Reid of Rawdon township. The prosecution was conducted by S. C. Donman, Crown Attorney and Armitage was defended by Col. T. H. Lennox, K. C., of Toronto.

The first witness was Mr. R. J. S. Dewar, registrar for the county, who produced all documents in connection with the case. Mary Sophia Barlow gave evidence of purchasing from Mr. Armitage a mortgage for $1400 and that she paid for the mortgage by cheque. Jesse Barlow, husband of former witness, stated he witnessed the cheque was paid for by cash, the cheques being on three banks and endorsed by Mr. Armitage.

George Tilley, accountant at the Bank of Montreal, produced a record showing the ledgers of the account of Mr. Armitage from the first of the year till the present time. The investigation was proceeding when this paper went to press.

Why Esplanade Should be Undertaken at Present

Public opinion now appears to be swinging steadily in favor of the esplanade proposal and because of the unexpectedly moderate costs involved there is a strong feeling that the city council should search the records of committee forthwith so that as much of the work as possible may be completed before severe weather arrives. There was for a time vociferous opposition here and there but this was occasioned, we believe, by statements which were made without sufficient or any real knowledge as to the costs, because at the time no estimate had been made by the city engineer's department and there have always been in the past some who were opposed to really constructive improvements, who after the improvements were made could be found to express approval of the action of the council in going forward with these undertakings. Even this sort of uninformed antagonism has now almost completely subsided and this fine forward-looking improvement is now regarded as a most popular of all the progressive measures ever undertaken in the history of Belleville.

The engineer's recommendations of the project is the fact that it promises years of constructive work for laborers, builders, dealers in supplies and skilled mechanics. The opening of the new street is merely the beginning. A number have already announced the intention of erecting places of business along this beautiful thoroughfare as soon as it is opened for traffic. There is no doubt but that the demand for the construction of new buildings will carry the cost in a surprisingly short time. The immediate and pressing phase of the question is the matter of time for the completion of the job but that is merely a passing phase looking towards the greater development to come.

The most important phase of construction suggested is to put in a second water-main from the pumping station to Front street. In the opinion of The Ontario Intelligencer, this can well wait. The present necessity for it, based upon the plea that some time the other pipe-line might burst and be out of commission when needed, is about like that of a man being asked to build a second dwelling-house so that he might have a place to move into in case of fire. How many cities of Ontario have duplicate water-mains? There will probably come a time, and we hope it will not be many years away, when increasing population will make such an expenditure necessary, but it is emphatically not needed at the present time.

An important matter to be taken into consideration when the esplanade project is being decided upon is the relationship of Belleville to the district served by the new highway from Belleville to Actinolite which was announced a few days ago to connect with the highway through the middle of the north counties from Toronto to Ottawa. This roadway and that from Kaladar to Pembroke, Bon Echo and Denbigh, which is also to be built, mean that Belleville will be the point of connection with the trunk highways centering at this city as the hub. The route of the highway to connect with the Ottawa highway would of course be up Front street and there will never necessary some relief from the congestion for it is impracticable to send through traffic up Front street in its present narrow width and with its parking system. The esplanade would relieve the blocking of Front street with cars, a condition which at present is so marked.

LARGE DAHLIAS.

Many persons calling at the business office of The Ontario Intelligencer this Thursday morning were attracted by a large and beautiful cluster of dahlias which graced the main counter. The blooms which are indeed lovely, were cut this morning in the — garden of Mrs. Blackburn, 45 Highland Ave. In color they are orange, white, mauve, pale pink and crimson. Mrs. Blackburn is very successful in the cultivation and growing of dahlias and has three hundred and fifty plants producing this lovely variety of flower. Even at this late date there are many blooms and buds on the stalks, some of which are eleven feet high, making it necessary to use a step ladder to reach and cut the flowers. During the past season many dahlia blooms in Mrs. Blackburn's garden measured eleven and a half inches in diameter. The present season, of course, is not so large, but they are of a good size and very beautiful.

FIND THE PEASHOOTER.

Many changes have taken place in the past decade, but the surprise of surprises was handed to a local scribe yesterday afternoon when he tried to purchase a "pea shooter" in Belleville. He called at all of the stores which would be likely to handle such articles and to his amazement was informed that such things had practically ceased to exist. The day is not so far in the past when at this time of the year every young boy had himself a "pea shooter" and was peppering most everything in sight with his supply of hardened peas, much to the disgust of most adult citizens. Perhaps the present day boy can see the folly if such articles as "pea shooters" are, there is no doubt but that they were a menace to a certain extent as children's eyes were always in danger from the flying peas, etc. Although the scribe was a bit disappointed in not making his purchase he was glad to know that such articles as "pea shooters" had passed out of existence.

Hole In One

Achieving that highest aspiration and ambition of all golfists, Mr. Walter N. Belair, Wednesday afternoon qualified for membership in the "Hole in One" club. Mr. Belair's performance occurs in the golfing life, occurred in the 4th hole of the Bay of Quinte Country Club course, and is officially vouched for by the necessary two witnesses, Mr. A. F. Haworth of Stirling and Mr. Jack Ryan of the New Queens Hotel being the fortunate club members present when with the little white pellet dropped into the cup.

This is the second time a "hole in one" has been made on the country club course, Mr. Walter Reeves accomplishing the feat, three years ago. However, to Mr. Belair belongs the honor of first turning the trick, since the course has been reconstructed.

Certain ancient forms and conventions have become a traditional custom, since a wily braun Scot, on the heatherced slopes of old Scotia, first slapped his meteor ball into the awaiting depression in one fell whang, and Mr. Belair's friends and club members are awaiting with no small degree of anticipation and pleasure, Walter's official introduction into the full bloom membership of the "hole in one" club. The ceremony, we understand, from one who has attended such a momentous occasion, is still savours of the vales and dales of old Scotland.

Author's Gift to Library

Corby Public Library received a valuable gift this morning in the form of "William Shakespeare" by its author, D. Crane Taylor, of Toronto. This treatise on the life of the noted dramatist has received favourable comment by the critics and will be a valuable addition to the drama section of the library. The author is the husband of Mrs. Mary Taylor, formerly of this city and interviews with him in the last of the book are the words:

"I send this book to the Corby Memorial Library in Belleville, Ontario, because Belleville was the birthplace of my wife, Mary Hazel Annetta Taylor.

With cordial good wishes

D. Crane Taylor.

Chicago, 26 Oct., 1931.

The volume is dedicated to the author's parents, Daniel and Lillian Crane.

As a critical biography of William Congreve this book has been warmly praised by critics. The New York Evening Post terms it the most careful and exhaustive work on Congreve" and the New York Times says Mr. Crane's appreciation of Congreve has fine critical discernment. He has written brilliantly of all the plays"

Mr. Taylor was in the city last summer with his wife and during his visit here was a frequent visitor in Corby Public Library.

Hallowe'en Party of Bell Staff

Over fifty employees of the local branch of the Bell Telephone Co. gathered in their recreation rooms Wednesday evening for their annual Hallowe'en party. The party this year was in the form of a Kiddies' Hallowe'en party. All present were dressed in children's attire and the return to childhood long to be remembered by those present. Some came in shorts, some in rompers and hair ribbons were again in vogue for the night's entertainment.

Kiddies' Games Played

The evening was spent in kiddies' games, such as those present had engaged in many years ago. Ducking for apples, tail the donkey and many other children's pastimes were introduced by the committee in charge. The prizes of the evening were also of the youthful design, when dolls, rattles, etc. were given to the various prize winners.

After the games had finished the employees present sat down to a most appetizing luncheon, which had been prepared by the committee. Mr. W. Bennett acted as chairman of the evening and thanked Miss Harris and Miss Coleman for the wonderful evening's entertainment. Miss Harris responded and stated that it had been a pleasure to be at the head of a committee such as she had been and that they all worked in harmony.

Miss Coleman, on behalf of the group present, presented to Miss Harris a gift which is not known as yet. Those present at the party were the last to visit us they wish to see themselves as children and them on that auspicious occasion.

After the picture taking episode dancing was enjoyed to the music of a Stewart Warner radio. The party broke up in the wee small hours after all had congratulated the committee on the pleasant evening provided. The committee in charge of the evening's entertainment was Miss L. Harris, Miss A. Jordan, Miss R. Ether, Mr. V. M. Smith and Mr. Jack Norris.

Wholesale Defeat Of Labor Party Deplored

Canberra, Australia Oct. 26 (CP)—Cable advices received here from Sir James Scullin, who heads a Labor government, expressed regret today that the British general elections had resulted in defeat for so many of the Labor party's outstanding members.

"Undoubtedly the National Government received a mandate to deal with the British difficulties, but there is nothing it can do which the previous government could not have done had the Labor party given it united support," Prime Minister Scullin remarked.

Letters to the Editor

Editor Ontario Intelligencer.

Dear Sir,—I notice a slogan in your paper in regard to the Exhibition parade, "Eventually, Why Not Now?" It seems to me that sums up the situation—progress can not be stopped and eventually the banks of the future will be cleaned up and transformed from dirty backyards to parklike boulevards.

But now this improvement could be carried out with government assistance much cheaper than at any time in the future, and the work is needed more now than it will be later on. The city council should not be stampeded or sidetracked by public fads or cranks but that can be constructed anytime.

The councils that had the courage of their convictions and had foresight enough, in the face of opposition and criticism, to build the two beautiful bridges, will go down in history as benefactors of Belleville who accomplished much for the city.

The City Councillors who are large enough to put this esplanade project through with all the gratitude of the citizens of Belleville for years to come and go down in history as clear-seeing administrators who could grasp first things first and put them through in the face of any opposition.

Paving of Front Street Station streets was bitterly opposed, filtration plants and many other improvements have been opposed in the past, but they have proved a success and will be opposed in the future. No one has ever been sorry in good in its way for it brings every man a clear-cut basis.

Honest opposition or criticism is always welcome but just now there should be no party or personal politics played, individuals do not count against the greater good for the greater number, the whole city benefits or Belleville, all for one and one for all.

Yours for a Better Belleville,
CITIZEN.

All Christians Called to Unity, Meet in Cleveland O.

Denominations in United States and Canada To Meet Nov. 17-19

Cleveland, O., Oct. 29.—The Christian Unity League, a fellowship of Protestant Christians from nearly every denomination in the United States and Canada will hold a conference on all Christians standing together, at the Church of the Covenant, Euclid Ave., and Cornell Road, Nov. 17-19, 1931. In 1926 they held a conference at St. George's Protestant Episcopal Church New York, and in 1927 they held a conference at the First Presbyterian Church, Baltimore. Both of these conferences attracted nation-wide attention, bringing together leading christians from all parts of the country. It will be so at the Cleveland Conference.

The League is composed of individual Christians there being no delegates, groups, but each member of the League reports to the Part of Reconciliation, which calls for the recognition of the equality of all Christian Churches God. One denomination posing as superior to another denomination because of this, that or the other, and, therefore, refusing membership the Lord's Supper and its pulpit to another because he is not of the same denomination is regarded as a worldly and scandalous condition. The motto of the League is—"One is your teacher and you are all brothers."

The program begins at 4 o'clock on the afternoon of the 17th with a prayer service conducted by Rev. Peter Ainslie, Baltimore, and in the evening the celebration of the Lord's Supper with Rev. Philip S. Bird, minister Christian of the Covenant, and Rev. Harold C. Phillips, minister First Baptist Church assisted by other ministers and laymen from Cleveland. There will be assisted by all denominations in the city. To this service all Christians are invited. It will be perhaps the largest communion service ever held in the city.

The day following will be the reports from the commission on the "Outlook Christ Demands" by Rev. S. D. Chown, Toronto, chairman, and the proposed "United Church of the United States" by Dr. Herbert L. Willett, Chicago, chairman.

JAPAN BUYS RAW WOOL

Australia Has Had Good Buyer in Japan in Past Two Years

Sydney, N.S.W., Oct. 29.—(By The Canadian Press)—Japan has been buying raw wool in Australia on a scale such as to recall the assumed in the Canadian lumber export trade a few years ago. Last season Japan was one of the chief purchasers of raw wool, and there are indications that her performances will be repeated this season too. A new development this season will be the entry of South Africa as a serious competitor for Japanese orders previously placed in Australia.

In view of Japan's heavy buying last season, a reduction in her imports of fabrics might reasonably have been expected but during the first half of the year Japan's shipments of woollen and worsted fabrics from the United Kingdom were greater than in the previous year.

Japan's wool requirements are not expected to shrink appreciably this year, but wool interests fear that Australia's high tariff against imports may drive Japan into Australia. South Africa is anxious to obtain Japan as an active operator as the wool exchanges in that country, and is reciprocating by purchasing the Japanese goods.

The present protective duties of Australia are therefore not without their possible reactions. The primary producers in Australia is called upon to bear the burden of the tariff and at the same time to rule the marketing welfare of his product. The wool industry is seriously disturbed over the clamor of Japan diverting its wool business to South Africa.

HEAR APPEAL OF DISTILLERS

Case With Belleville Angle Is Heard at Ottawa

OTTAWA, Oct. 29.—(Canadian Press)—Appeals of the Consolidated Distilleries, Limited from three awards of Exchequer Court of Canada condemning the appellants to forfeit to the Crown bonds of indemnity totalling more than half a million dollars, occupied the Supreme Court of Canada today. The actions arose from shipments of whiskey sold by the Distillery Company to the Consolidated Exporters Corporation Limited of Vancouver and shipped from that port. Bonds of indemnity totalling $287,300, were placed with the Customs Department guaranteeing that the liquor would be landed in Central American ports. Landing certificates were filed with the customs collector at Belleville, Ont., and the bonds were cancelled.

Action was taken, alleging that the landing certificates were fraudulent, that the liquor had been transferred to small boats off the California Coast and had found its way to the United States. never reaching its original destination. Justice A. K. McLean, President of the Exchequer Court of Canada, in a judgment on May 6th, 1931, awarded the Crown the value of the bonds and costs.

FRUIT SPIRITS USED FOR WIN

Surplus Fruit of Okanagan Valley To Be Used in Wineries

Penticton, B.C., (C.P.)—grade fruit that for years lay rotted in the ground or been an actual loss to the growers of the Okanagan Valley will be converted into profitable channels as result of the Federal Government's approval of a plan to use surplus fruit fruit for the fortification of Canadian wines.

For years the Okanagan fruit growers have been trying to find a profitable outlet for the thousands of tons of apples that annually go to waste simply because they were not good enough to be wrapped in fancy paper and offered for sale as choice fruit. Various chemical interests have made cider and vinegar, canning and evaporators and fruit juice plants in an effort to make both money. But the growers themselves, through their association, undertook the problem.

Experiments were carried out, showing that alcohols and liqueurs of high quality could be extracted in the full fruit of the Okanagan. Two companies at the coast are within the vicinity of 6,000 gallons of alcohol yearly for the fortification of blackberry wines. Heretofore these companies have imported Cuban sugar from which the alcohol has been produced. The government has allowed the coast wineries a rebate of 89 per cent on sugar imported for fortification purposes.

Experiments have shown that alcohol produced from apples is quite as satisfactory for the purpose as alcohol made from Cuban sugar. Between 3,000 and 10,000 tons of apples could be used for this purpose annually.

The only obstacle was the existing excise tax on alcohols which added considerably to the cost of production. Now the government has removed this charge, and plans are going forward for the creation of valuable side-lines for the fruit growers.

Japan Moves To Protect Interest in Manchuria

TOKYO, Oct. 29—Japan moved yesterday to protect her interests in Northern Manchuria, requesting Russia to stop troop concentrations on the Manchurian border, and sending engineers north along the Supingkai-Taonan-Angangchi railway to cross the Chinese Eastern line and open the direct route from Tsowun to Tsitsihar.

Troops accompanied the engineers. This is further north in Manchuria than any Japanese troops have gone since the Russo-Japanese relations were resumed in 1925.

The output for weight was 225,630 ounces, as against 170,953 ounces in August 1930. Canada rose to the position of the world's second great gold producing country in 1930.

THEY ARE PUZZLED

With five hundred and fifty seats in the hands of the National Ministry in Great Britain, the world has witnessed the greatest political turnover of generations. Labor elected but fifty out of six hundred and fifteen members.

This is puzzling to foreigners such as Stalin who declares that the British mentality is inscrutable. Such political thinkers as the Soviet chief cannot understand the frame of mind which fights its way through from precedent to precedent without resort to the forms of revolution to which other states of mind give birth.

Napoleon was puzzled by what he called the shopkeepers of Albion, yet those shopkeepers were part and parcel of the race which at last put him down.

The election is a blow which Communism and even milder forms of government cannot easily explain to their peoples. It is a safe prediction that the effect of this decision of the British electorate will be to fortify the hands of stable governments everywhere and to bring slowly back that prosperity which the world needs and which the more radical methods of, say, the Russians, tend to drive farther and farther off.

CONTRAST

The press carried a story of contrast yesterday on the manner in which the news of the elections in Britain was received. Here were wealth and beauty stepping to the dance in Mayfair, and there were poorly clad men and women in cotton stockings and denim dresses, a few blocks away looking at the returns, and turning sadly away as their faith in the labor party dwindled almost to nothingness.

The two contrasting pictures are cleverly drawn and doubtless true. But all Labor did not look upon the Labor party as the cure-all of Britain's evils for millions of labor folk voted for the National Government, else no such majority would have been piled up. So doubtless men and women in poor clothes were also to be found cheering the election of Ramsay's MacDonald's party.

And in the ranks of the Opposition regretting the defeat were many of wealth and high position. It is true that many of Labor did pin their hopes on the Henderson platform and to them the collapse of Labor must have seemed a tragedy of gigantic proportions.

Now, the two contrasts unfortunately have existed at all times though perhaps accentuated today by unemployment —they are opposite sides of the same life. Hopes run high that such conditions as make possible the contrast may in the end be eliminated. No one is complaining that people should enjoy themselves, and no one says others were wrong because some are downcast at the defeat (as they believe) of their principles.

United States' love for France has never failed since Lafayette first came to the continent and did what resulted in the formation of the republic. Premier Laval and Hoover see still difficulties between the Gallic mind and the U. S. tempers. Both republics were born of the throes of revolutions and the Gallic impulse seems yet strong in the States.

Probably in the future there will be so fine an adjustment of labor and machines (which are not to be wiped out because they if given their chance, will work for mankind), that the only problem will be how to give men enough exercise. Doubtless a machine that will entertain him as well as exercise him will be invented and then the round is complete.

Rafael Sabatini, the modern romance-writer, is in the United States and startled the people there that he did not know of Texas Guinan. He even thought Rudy Valee was a resort. He sees no heroism in Al Capone as a figure of romance and to him romance is personified in Mussolini.

Yet Sabitini is one of the great writers of the present age. One does not have to dip into every current to be a great man.

WOMAN AND MAN

The woman's cause is man's: they rise or sink
Together, dwarf'd or godlike, bond or free:
If she be small, slight-natured, miserable,
How shall men grow? But work no more alone!
The man be more of woman, she of man;
He gain in sweetness and in moral height
Nor lose the wrestling thews that throw the world;
She mental breadth, nor fall in childward care,
Nor lose the childlike in the larger mind;
Till at the last she set herself to man,
Like perfect music unto noble words;
And so these twain, upon the skirts of Time,
Sit side by side, full-summ'd in all their powers,
Dispensing harvests, sowing the To-be,
Self-reverent each and reverencing each,
Distinct in individualities.
But like each other, ev'n as those who love.
Then comes the statelier Eden back to men;
Then reign the world's great bridals, chaste and calm:
Then springs the crowning race of humankind.
May these things be!
—Tennyson, "The Princess."

CAN'T AFFORD A TELEPHONE, say some folks, and delay in getting a doctor cost the life of a member of the family during, perhaps. Some folks think a telephone is a luxury, others a necessity. An odd job man I know, hasn't been regularly employed for years, has a telephone and is in close and constant touch with his clients for snow shovelling, lawn tending, wood cutting, furnace fixing and so forth, and he makes a comfortable living from his many jobs. He says without a telephone it would take up so much time looking for work that he would not have time to do any work. Another citizen who goes out by the day states that Belleville people have forgotten how to talk, and when they want anything they just must ring up somebody, hence she has a telephone and says it brings her many a job she would not otherwise have secured. So there you are in the debate. "Is the telephone a luxury?" Jim Sokers says "NO." Andrew H. Brown says it is a d'n nuisance—sometimes.

FOOTBALL SEASON has opened, opened with a bang, in fact, a bang that put one young and vigorous athlete who started in the game at the Tie Bowl last Saturday, in his grave, a young Army cadet whose neck was broken. Casualties are heavy in this game of football, a good game which would not be injured any by the elimination of much of the roughness, particularly in the game as played in those great United States.

GRAND TRUNK VETERANS were interested in the anniversary of the opening of the G.T.R. main line between Montreal and Toronto which occurred on November 27, an event which awakened many pleasant memories of the not so long ago when woodburners were kings and the monster magul oil burners had never even been dreamed of. Brockville Recorder reminiscenced that the main line was opened between Montreal and Brockville November 19, 1855; Brockville to Belleville, October 27, 1856; Toronto to Belleville, August 11, 1856. F. E. D. McDowell writing in the Canadian National Railways Magazine, reproduces the first Grand Trunk advertisement of train service over the main line, which states that the trains will "run on Montreal time, which is 8½ minutes faster than Toronto time; 12 minutes faster than Kingston; 14½ minutes faster than Belleville; and 23 faster than Toronto time." Mr. McDowell speculates upon how many people missed their trains as a result of this peculiar operation time-table mix-up. Probably one of the most significant things about the anniversary is in the comparison of speeds. When the main line between Montreal and Toronto was opened it required 14 hours for trains to make the trip. Today the International Limited makes the run in exactly six hours.

THE ELECTIONS

The skies will by no means be cleared of the dark clouds by Tues day's vote but world confidence in Great Britain will be strengthened by it immediately if late returns bear out initial results, and that will be an appreciable help to the Government in shaping its policy towards financial solvency and toward making Britain's credit unassailable. Manifestly, the task which confronts a National Government is not an easy one. The situation however is very far from being hopeless, Britain's monetary resources are still enormous and the financial interests of the country retains unquestioned.

SCRAPPING OF SHIPS

In accordance with the terms of the London Treaty, the scrapping of "out-of-date" ships is proceeding. The Navy points out, but not only are the new vessels to replace some of those destroyed fewer in number but, but great delay is taking place in their construction. It is even possible that some of the ships now being built may be abandoned as financial conditions do not improve. Here it is argued that many of the vessels regarded as obsolete having served their allotted span of years,are still capable of good service, and in consequence the scrapping of them might advantageously be discontinued. As a concrete case in point, the eleven new destroyers of the T class are booked for the shipbuilders' yards in the course of a few weeks. These destroyers were completed in 1917 and 1918, and although not quite up to the strain of full-steam speeding, are sound enough in hull and armament and could stand fast enough for all purposes save fleet fighting. The Navy article continues to the effect that in the event of war or any sudden emergency every class of vessel would be required and the destroyers booked for destruction would undoubtedly prove most useful. In the Great War, 20-year-old ships were brought out for patrol and escort work, and rendered invaluable service in assisting larger and more modern warships in protecting merchant ships from submarine attack. Why, then, scrap these T destroyers?-Montreal Gazette.

CONGRATULATIONS

Upon the occasion yesterday of his fifty-first birthday, the Earl of Bessborough, Governor-General of Canada, received official congratulations from all quarters, and had also the unexpressed good wishes of all the people of the Dominion. The Governor-General is still is a young man. He has led an active life, and filled many important posts,gaining in different lines of activity experience that now stands him in good stead in the discharge of his duties as the King's representative in the Dominion.

Lord Bessborough and his family have found a place in the hearts of the Canadian people. They have displayed a keen interest in all that concerns the welfare of the Dominion, and are eager to make the acquaintance of representatives of all the many worthy elements that go to make up the population of this country.

There was general congratulation extended a short time ago to his Excellency and Lady Bessborough on the birth of a son; and now on his own birthday in Government House the same as played in those great United States.

WHITE INDIAN IS LAY READER

Father Established Peace Between Warlike People And Whites

Vancouver, B.C., Oct. 29.—(By The Canadian Press)—Less than a hundred years ago the Haida Indians in their long black war canoes came down from their villages on the Queen Charlotte Islands and spread terror in the region now occupied by Vancouver.

But when Henry Edenshaw, 60-year-old son of the late chief of the Haidas, came to Vancouver recently the situation was reversed. The noise and activity of the city terrified the Indian. He was eager to return to the peace of the Queen Charlottes.

Civilization, however, is not a new thing to Edenshaw. For twenty six years he has been a lay reader of the Church of England and he attended the general synod meeting in Toronto.

Like many of his tribe, Mr. Edenshaw is a "white Indian." While his face and hands are dark, he smiled back his sleeve to show an arm as light as that of any white man.

He explained that the origin of the Haidas has never been settled, but that they are very different from any other North American Indians.

His father, the late Chief Edenshaw, is the hero of many incidents which have come down in the history of the Pacific coast. He is credited with being largely responsible for establishing peace between his warlike people and the whites.

Mr. Edenshaw is a quietly dressed, quietly spoken man. Black coat, dark grey trousers, a gold nugget as a tie-pin and another as a watch fob, became in time his natural things best." It is hard to realize he is but one generation removed from Indian warfare and bloodshed.

His mission work has included assisting in the translation of three of the books of the Bible into the Haida language.

Conditions among his people aren't so good as they have been, but they'll improve, he thinks.

"They can get all the fish and game and wood they need free and pay no taxes."

All Christians Called to Unity, Meet in Cleveland O.

Denominations in United States and Canada To Meet Nov. 17-19

Cleveland, O., Oct. 29.—The Christian Unity League, a fellowship of thousands of Christians from nearly every denomination in the United States and Canada will hold a conference on all Christians uniting together, at the Church of the Covenant, Euclid Ave., and Cornell Road, Nov. 17-19, 1931. In 1929 they held a conference at St. George's Protestant Episcopal Church New York, and in 1927 they held a conference at the First Presbyterian Church, Baltimore. Both of these conferences attracted nation-wide attention, bringing together leading churchmen from all parts of the country. It will be so at the Cleveland Conference.

The League is composed of Individual Christians there being no delegated groups, but each member of the League signs the Pact of Reconciliation which calls for the recognition of the equality of all Christians before God, their condemnation posting as superior to another denomination because of this, that or the other, and, therefore, refusing membership in the Communion Supper and the pulpit to another because he is not of the same denomination is regarded as a world lly and scandalous condition. The motto of the League is—"One is your teacher and you are all brothers."

The program begins at 4 o'clock on the afternoon of the 17th with a prayer service conducted by Rev. Peter Ainslie, Baltimore, and in the evening the celebration of the Lord's Supper with Rev. Philip S. Bird, minister Church of the Covenant, and Rev. Harold C. Phillips, minister First Baptist Church as by other ministers and laymen who celebrate. These will be assisted by all denominations in the city. To this service all Christians are invited. It will be perhaps the largest communion service ever held in the city.

The day following will be the reports from the commission on the "United Church of Canada" by Rev. S. D. Chown, Toronto, chairman, and the proposed "United Church of the United States" by Dr. Merbert L. Willett, Chicago, chairman. The last day will be the presentation of the reports from commissions on "Unity Movements in Politics, Science, and Industry and their Influence on Unity among Christians" by Dr. John H. MacCracken New York, chairman, and "Christianity and World-Relations" by Rev. W. Cosby Bell, Alexandria, Va., chairman. All these reports will be printed and fully discussed.

The Message of the Conference will be presented by Dean Luther A. Weigle New Haven, Conn., and the closing address will be delivered by Dr. John R. Mott, New York, on "The Price to be Paid."

JAPAN BUYS RAW WOOL

Australia Has Had Good Buyer in Japan in Past Two Years

Sydney, N.S.W., Oct. 29.—(By The Canadian Press)—Japan has been buying raw wool in Australia on a scale such as to recall the days when the Canadian lumber assumed in the few years ago. Last season Japan was one of the chief purchasers of raw wool, and there are indications that her performance will be repeated this season too. A new development this season will be the entry of South Africa as a serious competitor for Japanese orders previously placed in Australia.

In view of Japan's heavy buying last season, a question in her imports of fabrics might reasonably have been expected but during the first half of the year Japan's shipments of woollen and worsted fabrics from the United Kingdom were greater than in the previous year.

Japan's wool requirements are not expected to shrink appreciably this year, but wool interests fear that Australia's high tariff against imports may cause Japan to turn to South Africa is anxious to obtain Japan as an active competitor at the wool auctions in that country, and is reciprocating by purchasing Japanese goods.

The present protective duties of Australia are therefore not without their possible reactions. The primary producer in Australia is called upon to bear the burden of the tariff and at the same time to risk the marketing welfare of his product. The wool industry is seriously disturbed over the advent of Japan diverting its wool business to South Africa.

Health Meeting Was a Success

Apple thieves were very busy in this neighborhood lately.

HEAR APPEAL OF DISTILLERS

Case With Belleville Angle Is Heard at Ottawa

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 28—(Canadian Press)—Appeals of the Consolidated Distilleries, Limited from decisions awards of the Exchequer Court of Canada, condemning the appellants to forfeit to the Crown bonds of indemnity totalling more than half a million dollars, occupied the Supreme Court of Canada today. The actions arose from shipments of whiskey sold by the Distillery Company to the Consolidated Exporters Corporation Limited of Vancouver and shipped from that port. Bonds of indemnity totalling $587,300, were placed with the Customs Department guaranteeing that the liquor would be landed in Central American ports. Landing certificates were filed with the customs collector at Belleville, Ont., and the bonds were cancelled.

Action was taken later, alleging that the landing certificates were fraudulent, that the liquor had been transferred to small boats off the California Coast and had found its way to the United States, never reaching its original destination. Justice A. K. McLean, President of the Exchequer Court of Canada, in a judgment given in March, 1931, awarded the Crown the value of the bonds and costs.

FRUIT SPIRITS USED FOR WINE

Surplus Fruit of Okanagan Valley To Be Used in Wineries

Penticton, B.C., (C.P.) — Low grade fruit that for years has rotted in the ground or been sold at an actual loss to the growers of the Okanagan Valley will be turned into profitable channels as the result of the Federal Government's approval of a plan to use excess fruit spirits for the fortification of Canadian wines.

For years the Okanagan fruit growers have been trying to find a profitable use for the thousands of tons of apples that annually go to waste simply because they are not good enough to be wrapped in fancy paper and offered to the trade as choice fruit. Various commercial interests have established cider mills, evaporators and dehydrating plants in an effort to turn the waste into money. Finally, the growers themselves, through their association, undertook the problem.

Experiments were carried out, showing that alcohols and liqueurs of high quality could be extracted from the cull fruit of the Okanagan. Wine committees at the coast use in the vicinity of 60,000 gallons of alcohol yearly for the fortification of loganberry wines. Heretofore Canadian companies have imported Cuban sugar from which the alcohol has been produced. The government has allowed the coast wineries a rebate of 99 per cent on sugar imported for fortification purposes.

Experiments have shown that alcohol produced from apples is quite as satisfactory for the purpose as alcohol made from Cuban sugar. Between 5,000 and 10,000 tons of apples could be used for this purpose annually.

The only obstacle was the existing excise tax on alcohols which added considerably to the cost of production. Now the government has removed this charge, and plans are going forward for the creation of valuable side-lines for the fruit growers.

Japan Moves To Protect Interest in Manchuria

TOKYO, Oct. 29.—Japan moved yesterday to protect her interests in Northern Manchuria, requesting Russia to stop troop concentrations on the Manchurian border, and sending engineers north along the Sungtsiat-Tkanan-Angangki railway across the Chinese eastern line and upon the direct route from Tsitsihar to Tsptsihar.

Troops accompanied the engineers. This is further north in Manchuria than any Japanese troops have gone since the Russo-Japanese relations were resumed in 1925.

Gold Production 30.6% Higher Than Year Ago

OTTAWA, Oct. 29.—Canada's gold production for the first eight months of the current calendar year amounted to 1,732,687 ounces or 30.6 per cent higher than in the corresponding period a year ago. The output by weight was 225,630 ounces, as against 170,052 ounces in August 1930. Canada rose to the position of the world's second great gold producting country in 1930.

Closing Exercises, Presentation Prizes at Belleville Golf Club

Members of Club Honored By Golf Club

PRIZES PRESENTED

Surplus of $2000 in Year Used For New Greens and Fairways

There will be more putting on the greens, there will be more long drives and beautiful approaches but the golf season at the Belleville Golf Club has officially closed and to say that it has been a successful season would be putting it mildly. In this period of depression it is something unusual for an organization to half pierce the books with a credit but the Belleville Golf Club this year has a surplus of $2,000.00 in operation and the money will be used to improve the course. A new green will be made at number two hole and a new fairway will be laid for number nine hole. It is the intention of the directors to make this course one of the sportiest nine hole layouts in the province and they are not far from accomplishing their aim.

On Wednesday afternoon over seventy-five members gathered to play a mixed two ball foursome and also participate in the closing exercises held in the evening in the spacious club house. The club house was artistically decorated and the repast set before the members was more than ample for their needs. To Mrs. J. E. Calther goes credit for the splendid repast, she with her energetic committee made all the arrangements. At the conclusion of the banquet, W. H. Reeves, president of the club, called the meeting to order and presided over the presentation of prizes for the year. Later members enjoyed a game of bridge and one of the most successful functions in the history of the club was brought to a close.

Made Presentation.

The thanks of the entire membership is due to the officials of the club for the successful season and their gratitude was expressed by the presentation of gifts to these officials. Mrs. A. H. Ketcheson, ladies' captain of the club was remembered for her excellent work in a respective position. She has endeavored at all times to work in the best interests of the club and was always on hand to assist in any undertaking. She was supported by Miss Jay Dickens, vice-captain, Mrs. Raymond Harris, Miss Stewart Masson and Miss Jessie McLean, who were untiring in their efforts to promote the unity and good fellowship of the women members. The club presented to Mrs. Ketcheson a beautiful golf bag and whether it will make her game better will not be known until next season. Mrs. Ketcheson was agreeably surprised and thanked the members for their kind remembrance.

The men's captain, J. E. Calther, was presented with a leather golf jacket and this member has also worked hard for the success of the club. No job was too big to undertake and every arrangement was made in good time. A. H. Ketcheson, the efficient secretary of the club was not forgotten, when the members made a presentation of a beautiful table lamp. "Axle" is the life of the club and he will be able to contest his station on several different shots for the shade of the lamp bears the figures of different stances for different shots. The president, W. H. Reeves, another hard working official, received a box of cigars. Each in turn thanked the members briefly for the gifts and stated the work was only a pleasure. At the field day Mrs. C. C. Walker turned in low gross and Mrs. Lionel Train low net. "Mike" Rowe tied safety spoon and silver division. Mrs. Ed Bernstein, Mrs. R. E. Orr the best score on the second flight. Archie Kincaid won the low gross for the men and donning a T2 on a course that was none too fast. Mr. J. E. Calther and Joe Legault tied for the low net. LOOT SHRINES IN PROVINCES

Mere Boys Burn Idols To Keep Themselves Warm

Peiping, China, (CP)—Looting of many ancient shrines in Shensi province by marauding soldiers is being reported this Fall, and it is said that most of the offenders are mere boys, some of them no more than 14 years old, whose motive in burning the idols and other paraphernalia in the pillaged temples has been to keep themselves warm.

The reports add that the more important wooden idols in the city temple of Sianfu, which was once the capital of all China, have been looted and burned by the boy soldiers. Other temples, some of them centuries old, have also been robbed of ancient idols.

Robbery of the temples followed one of the most serious cold spells in the history of Shensi. Sianfu has been the scene of famine for years and is more than a million inhabitants are believed to have perished. During this period of privation the area was compelled to support several hundred thousand soldiers, who have known starvation rations for weeks.

In an effort to survive the soldiers have committed many robberies and other excesses. The burning of temple idols is regarded as merely an incident of the famine rather than as wanton destruction.

ROYALTY AT PLAYHOUSE

Rejoiced With Rest of Nation and Took An Evening Out

LONDON, Oct. 29 — The Royal Family rejoiced with the rest of Great Britain last night in relief from the tension of an election campaign. They went to a show.

The King, the Queen, the Prince of Wales, the Duke and Duchess of York and Prince George made up the family party and took in Noel Coward's "Cavalcade."

The whole family sat in the same box—the theatre's biggest, adorned with the royal crest—and it was the first time so many of the family attended the same performance.

Liberals Will Decide On South Wellington

GUELPH, Ont., Oct. 29.—Decision of the Liberal party in the riding of South Wellington as to whether or not they will contest the provincial by-election to be held there will be made Saturday at a district convention.

Mitchell F. Hepburn, M. P., for West Elgin, and leader of the provincial Liberal party, attended a meeting of the Liberal executive here yesterday, but no announcement was made regarding by-election plans. Mr. Hepburn denied he would be a candidate in the riding by-election, made necessary by the death of Hon. Lincoln Goldie from provincial cabinet. In the provincial administration, will be held November 18. A Conservative candidate, chosen last Saturday is William F. Gamble of Guelph.

Ukrainian Meeting Ends in Broken Heads

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 29. — Two men received serious head injuries, many others received minor hurts, and a riot was the finish of a meeting when a free-for-all fight broke up a meeting in a hall last night. Police were rushed to the scene and restored order.

The outbreak occurred at a meeting called to denounce the Russian famine. A crown of fifty alleged Communists interrupted the gathering of Ukrainians, who were listening to John Kowbtaiuk, school teacher, talk on "Ukrainians under enemy regime". He was criticising the Russian five-year plan and accusing Russia of dumping wheat when the disturbance started.

One alleged Red drew a gun and fired four times in the air. Several other hostilities followed. The police appeared and broke up the battle.

Alex Fedorkw and Mike Petrofsay were removed to the hospital.

Millard Received Half Says His Solicitor

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 29 (CP)— Half of the sum of $50,000 paid to John Aird, Jr., by the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission in connection with advice in purchase of the Nipissing and the Mackenzie River was received by R. W. Millard, partner of Aird. J. P. Kent of Toronto, solicitor for Millard.

Aird is seeking reduction in his assessable income for 1929. Commissioner W. A. Smith reserved judgment on the request.

More than 4,000 turtles were removed from Lake Tanganyika, M., in two months.

Did Black Sedan Contain Accomplice?

Phoenix, Ariz., Oct. 29—New evidence intended to contradict the story of Mrs. Judd and indicating that possibly she had an accomplice in the slaying of Miss Hedvig Samuelson and Mrs. Agnes LeRoi here two weeks ago was being rounded up by Phoenix authorities today.

Mrs. Judd stated she shot both women the morning of October 17 as the climax of a quarrel over social affairs. She admitted placing the bodies in trunks and sending them to Los Angeles.

Neighbors of the two slain women said that late the night of October 18th "a large black sedan" entered the driveway of the Le Roi-Samuelson home

Phoenix authorities were endeavouring to trace the ownership of this car and to learn whether it contained Mrs. Judd or some friend of the slain women, or perhaps an accomplice in the killings

OUTLAWS OF EDEN

by Peter B. Kyne

A former Middle West bank clerk, Silas Babson, who had inherited an Iowa farm from his parents and sold it for seventy-five thousand dollars, came to Valley Centre and started a state bank. The Bank of Valley Centre was successful from the start.

Babson was a son of the schlarrifty, shrewd, rapacious, competent. Also he had the acquisitive instinct and his busy mind was never free from thoughts of money-making. From banking he reached out and interested himself in such local enterprises as creameries, a lumber yard, the largest local garage with the agency for a popular cheap automobile and pumps; he sold insurance of all kinds.

Only once had Babson lost his perspective and that was when, during the Great War, and for this it would seem he was not to be blamed, since all his fellow countrymen lost theirs simultaneously. The rapid advance in the price of farm commodities had brought the usual boom of prosperity to Portion Valley. The bank, sharing in the general prosperity, found it currently had a glut of money on deposit and, since banks exist by loaning the funds deposited with them Babson, with so much money on hand, and faced with the problem of making that money pay dividends, let down his guard, so to speak, and loaned money on farm mortgages.

The post-war deflation period arrived and the values of farms and farm products dropped almost overnight below the pre-war marks. As he contemplated the bank's unsecured notes and frozen assets in the shape of mortgages on farms for eighty per cent. of their present value and that value an exceedingly doubtful one Babson had a very clear vision of hard times in the immediate offing. If he could call his mortgages he would have the farms on his hands—likewise their taxes and the loss of interest.

For the succeeding four years Mr. Babson's commercial progress was fraught with caution. Then the pendulum commenced to swing the other way very slowly, and one day a brilliant thought leaped into his harried brain.

He decided to transfer his financial burdens to the capable hands of the rightful owner of all gold-bricks to wit the government. From the Joint Land-Stock Bank established by the government to aid the stricken farmers back was the principal of his foolish loans, for with that in his vaults he knew his bank would be quite safe.

Promptly he bulldozed a farmer into making application for such a loan, and with commendable celerity a government fee appraiser came up from San Francisco to inspect the proffered collateral. It required something less than thirty days for this individual to make his appraisal and decision.

"The government," he said, "will not consider loaning money on California farms which are listed as dry-farming lands."

"But these lands are irrigated," Mr. Babson reminded him.

"Yes, so I observe, but from deep wells. But as more and more wells are bored and the farming in that valley tends more and more toward intensive cropping this requires more and more water for irrigation. The water levels will recede and the cost of pumping the water to the surface will increase proportionately with the lift until a point will be reached where the water will be pumped with red ink. Hence, such lands as these are listed as dry-farming lands and constitute a risk the government is unwilling to assume. It will loan only on lands that are surface irrigated with an assured and continuous source of water supply."

"So I've loaned money on dry farms because I was jackass enough to consider them irrigated farms," Babson almost moaned.

He made a survey of the water situation and discovered to his horror that the water levels were indeed receding.

"Creeping paralysis! That's what it is," he soliloquized. "And the Bank of Valley Centre is the richest patient and will have to pay the heaviest bill for medical attention."

Ill as he was depressed as he was, the old ability to scheme his way out of a tight hole did not desert Silas Babson. He reduced his situation to its lowest common divisor. If surface irrigation from a never failing and ample source of water supply could be brought to the lands of Portion Valley, then Portion Valley lands would be classed by a hideous government as irrigated lands, whose value would immediately relate to the old war-time figure. And the Federal Farm Loan Board would then have no hesitancy in loaning up to sixty per cent. of the appraised value.

Therefore, the thing to do was to secure surface irrigation for Portion Valley.

"Eden Valley Creek," Babson decided aloud. "A dam in that gorge in the lower end of Eden Valley keps perennially at a high level by the overflow of Eden Valley Cree kand let through a tunnel or canal, will provide the low hills on the northern rim and down into Portion Valley, with the trick."

The next problem was that of acquiring the water, but this Babson did not regard as a difficult one. He had but to acquire the dam site from young Nathan Tichenor son of the owner of the Bar H Land and Cattle Company. The land which would be inundated by the lake which would be formed when the dam was built was of small value or worthless; Babson decided the Bar H Land and Cattle Company would be delighted to get rid of it at a price not exceeding ten dollars an acre although as grazing land it was not worth that. There were hydro electric possibilities inherent in the enterprise that would be worth millions of dollars. He must approach this delicate matter cautiously.

Nathan Tichenor was absentee landlord ever since leaving the U. H ranch to Rance Kershaw That argued he would scarcely be interested in returning to Eden Valley and engaging in the cattle business.

Rance Kershaw was a financial wreck and would not possibly continue his lease of the Bar H, and he would be several years passing before a new tenant could be found for it. Yes Nathan Tichenor would sell the Bar H at a fair price—reluctantly, considering the present status of the cattle business—rather than hang on to a frozen asset and realize nothing.

Mr. Babson decided instantly to buy the Bar H. It is said to pawn his wife's piano to add in raising the money for the enterprise. With the title to the ranch vested in him —no, a dummy, for Babson must not appear in the deal—would be a simple matter to sel the dam and lakesite to the Portion Valley Irrigation District for a cash consideration that would leave him the remainder of the ranch without cost!

He considered the Kershaw ranch and decided he would not bother to acquire that even if he had the money to buy it cheap. It was worth not a penny less than a million dollars. The Bide-a-Wee Savings Bank of San Francisco held a two-hundred-and-fifty-thousand-dollar first mortgage on it, the mortgage was due, Rance Kershaw (Babson knew) could not meet it, Babson doubted if he could refund it in these trying times and hence, it would be foreclosed. Well, he might pick it up for the amount of the mortgage at the sheriff's sale. He did not require the Kershaw ranch for the sake of its water rights, but in order to control the water it was an absolute necessity for him to acquire the Bar H. Once the water had flowed down through the Kershaw ranch the Kershaws had no further interest in it; but it had to be impounded on the Bar H before it escaped off into the bed lands to the east and was lost.

Long years of power had instilled arrogance in Silas Babson and optimism is ever the handmaiden of arrogance. Having decided upon his course of action, he fell into a refreshing slumber; the next morning he rose at six o'clock, as usual, did his setting-up exercises ate a hearty breakfast, watered his lawn and was down at the bank at eight o'clock, looking quite his old self and wearing a white rose in his lapel. Emblematic of hope, doubtless.

Shortly after the bank opened crippled Rance Kershaw limped in to borrow a thousand dollars to meet his monthly payroll. Babson demurred to loaning it, but finally compromised with a warning that such indiscriminate borrowing would have to cease very soon.

"By the way," he said, as he initialed his approval on the note, "are you going to retain your lease of the Bar H ranch?"

"I think not" Kershaw replied. "It expires next month, but I'll be hanged if I know where I can get the money to pay for a year in advance."

"Better retrench," Babson advised. "Let the Bar H ranch go and off half your cattle even at the present low prices get out of debt, quit paying interest and be happy. Where does Nate Tichenor reside now?"

"I don't know. I only know his lawyer's address. Do you ask?"

"There was a man from San Francisco in here some time back. He'd been looking at the Bar H ranch and had a notion he'd like to buy it, I thought perhaps he might get in touch with Tichenor, negotiate a sale of his interest in him and clean up a few dollars in commission. And yet, if you renew the lease it may mean a chance for a sale."

"Come ahead," Rance Kershaw replied sadly. "I'm not going to renew the lease. It's a dirty proposition to me, Silas, and I won't stand in the way of your turnin' a profit."

"Thanks," Silas murmured. "And this lawyer's address?"

Kershaw gave it to him and a week later an attorney in San Francisco wrote Nate Tichenor in care of the latter's attorney, requesting a price on the Bar H ranch in behalf of a client of his.

Ten days later Babson knew, that the Bar H ranch was not for sale; whereat the banker had an immediate access of his former nervousness and depression and went home at noon. The situation was thoroughly disheartening.

Painful Piles

Go Quick—No Cutting—No Salves

It takes only one bottle of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt's prescription HEM-ROID—to end itching, bleeding, protruding piles. This internal remedy acts quickly even in old, stubborn cases. HEM-ROID succeeds because it heals and restores the affected parts. It removes the blood congestion in the lower bowel—the cause of piles. Only an internal medicine can do this, that's why salves and ointments fail. J. S. McKeown's Drug Store says HEM-ROID Tablets must end your Pile misery or money back.

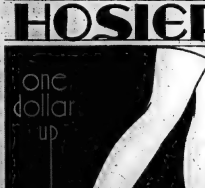
Slight Error On Part Of Flier Causes Crash

Peterboro, Oct. 29—That the airplane crash in which Flight Lieut. Gordon Mason-Apps, D.F.C., and Sergeant John Hand of the Royal Canadian Air Force, were fatally injured at the Peterboro air field on Saturday last, was due to "a slight error of judgment" on the part of Lieut. Mason-Apps, was the verdict of coroner T. W. H. Young's jury which investigated the death of the two airmen here last night.

The evidence of Flight Lieut. F. J. Mawdsley, who was the chief navigational officer with the Camp Borden attachment arriving here on Saturday was that Lieut. Mason-Apps had approached the field too fast, had overshot the centre of the airport and had made a mistake in judgment in trying to lift the plane over the trees.

Colloidal Treatment Of Cancer Favorable

Toronto, Oct., Oct. 29—In some cases, favorable results have followed use of the colloidal treatment for cancer developed by Professor F. F. Burton of the Department of physics at the University of Toronto and Dr. T. C. Hendrick, local physician said Rev. Canon H. J. Cody, at a dinner last night.



Canon Cody, who is head of the cancer commission appointed by the Ontario government this year, was speaking at a dinner in honor of Sir Charles Gordon-Watson, a senior surgeon of St. Bartholomew's Hospital, London, Eng., and widely known authority on use of radium in cancer cases.

"No, one knows," he said, "from what quarter or medium science might come the germinating idea that leads to the final solution of the problem of cancer."

Experiments conducted in Saint Alchemon have proven certain local clays to be well suited for modelling purposes.

With the arrival of Rev. Edith Martin in Glasgow recently, for the first time in history Scotland had two women finisters.

TARZAN, OF THE APES, No. 8. (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Tarzan showed no signs of anger as he stood up. A half smile played about his lips, but of a sudden a greasy fist shot into the face of the scowling Arab and back of it were the mighty muscles of the ape-man. At the instant the fellow fell, a dozen fierce plainsmen sprang into the room.

With cries of "Kill the unbeliever" and "Down with the Christian dog," they made straight for Tarzan. Other Arabs in the cafe sprang forward to join in the assault upon the unarmed white man. Tarzan was rushed backward before the numbers opposing him. With drawn knife, Abdul fought by his side.

With tremendous blows the ape-man felled all who came in reach of his powerful hands. So closely packed was the howling, cursing mob, that no weapon could be used. Finally Tarzan succeeded in seizing one of the nearest attackers, and, with a quick wrench, disarmed him.

Holding this Arab before them as a shield, he backed slowly toward the little door leading into the courtyard. At the entrance he paused an instant, and lifting the struggling fellow above his head hurled him, as from a catapult, full in the faces of the onrushing mob.

DEBATE LOCAL RELIEF WORK

Unemployed Men Canvass Various Angles of Situation

Before a crowd of some two hundred men the local Unemployed Association held another well-attended meeting, in the old Bricklayers' Hall, last Bridge Street, last night.

Several matters which needed immediate attention of the executive committee were brought forward, chief among these being an investigation of a local at the government docks, allegedly being loaded by some men who reside in Picton.

A deputation composed of Alderman Looker, assisted by members Worsell, Hamer, Sheppard and Lusk left for the scene, and on their arrival back, matter being satisfactorily adjusted, some six men were sent to the north.

Other matters taken up were: the question to be placed on the petition wall on the City Council next week, the signing of the city sweeper and replacing its services with men who are in need of immediate relief, these questions also were brought up about the two men on the Department of Public Works' truck. It was argued that these men should be subject to relief as well as the rest.

While the meeting was in progress, a Mr. Van Dusen, from outside the city limits, aired his views on the subject of residents working inside the city. Declaring that every one is earned by agents in Belleville, he wound up by stating that he could see a city wide vantages in such discrimination.

After some discussion regarding the relative merits of the proposed pipe line from the filter and the Consumers' Gas, the general sense of opinion seemed to favor the pipe line.

Before the meeting was adjourned a resolution was passed to the member present that an attempt be made to co-operate with the civic relief organization with that of the unemployed executive committee. this, after some discussion was referred back to the committee, and on the advice of Chairman Hanna was held over to await action.

Provision For Widow Had Already Been Made

Ott, laboratory Assistant of the electrical wizard for more than a half century who died as a result of shock occasioned by the news of Edison's death and $4,000 to Fred G. Jea a brother of the inventor's laboratory assistant.

Those were the only bequests made to persons outside of the Edison family. The entire value of the Edison estate was not given in the will.

LEADERS WARN

ister, before any programme can be laid down, is to build up his cabinet, it is generally agreed. It will probably be enlarged to a score of ministers instead of the ten who compose it at present. And in this connection the most interesting speculation 'was as to who will succeed Hon. Peter Philip Baxter, Hon. Neville Chamberlain, organizing head of the Conservative party, who is now Minister of Health in the cabinet, and Rt. Hon. Walter Runciman, well known shipping magnate, a National-Liberal, who was elected to the House without opposition. Mr. Runciman was president of the Board of Trade from 1914 to 1916 and he held various government posts before that.

Labor Needs Leader

The assistant lieutenant of the Labor party, crushed to a place in the Cabinet by Ramsay MacDonald than they have held for 30 years, is faced with the task of making a parliamentary leader for a party while at least. Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson is succeeded. Prime Minister MacDonald in this House of Commons when the new government is formed is out of the House along with the rest of the Labor "shadow cabinet." Mr. Henderson may or may not be. Many of Labor's best heads can pick on a safe seat and have a present member who is willing to resign in a by-election, but until Mr. Henderson does return to leadership, the House members in parliament is expected to devolve on Sir Richard Stafford Cripps, Solicitor General in the old Labor government, or else Rt. Hon. George Lansbury, who was First Commissioner of Works in the Labor cabinet. These two alone survive the tidal wave which swept Labor ministers under.

Face of the World is Towards Arbitration

Toronto, Ont., Oct. 29—"The face of the world is toward arbitration and judgment, and not toward force," said Mrs. Adelaide M. MONTH BRIDE LIES IN JAIL

U. S. Authorities Separate Pair Under Immigration Law

DETROIT, Oct. 29.—A prisoner because she visited her husband, Mrs. Leona Clapperton 26-year-old bride of a month, was in county jail here yesterday awaiting word from she will be separated from him.

Rose after his wedding in Ottawa, on Sept. 21 the husband, Wilfred, had to return to work at Detroit. The bride went to her home at Windsor. They planned to rejoin as soon as technical immigration difficulties could be ironed out. But the young wife tired of waiting and boarded her husband last Monday.

Just 24 hours of bliss and then immigration officials who said they were acting on a "hunch", visited the rooms of the happy couple and arrested the wife for illegal entry. She faces a possible sentence of two years if the authorities decided to prosecute; deportation to Canada awaits her at any rate. She was refused entry October 24 on the ground that she previously had entered the United States as a visitor for several months and violated immigration laws by working during the "vacation".

HALLOWE'EN WITH Y'S MEN

Will Stage Party For Boys and Girls of City

For a number of years the Y's Men's Club of this city have staged a Hallowe'en party for the girls and boys and each succeeding year finds the attendance mounting higher and higher. Last year the Y Gym was taxed to its utmost in order to contain the assembled crowd and the committee was considering shifting the scene of activities to the armouries for this years party but thought better of it. Accordingly the Y's Men will be at home to all boys and girls who care to attend at 20 Campbell Street, better known as the Y.M.C.A.

Chairman Morden and his committee are hard at work in the endeavor to make this year's celebration of Hallowe'en one of the most successful ever held. In addition to the prizes awarded for the best costumes there will be a lively programme of special stunts typical of the occasion. Just the sort of thing we all have the urge to do on Hallowe'en. Besides these there will be many other interesting novelties, opportunities for both the girls and boys to exercise their skill and agility.

Naturally the voluntary stunt contributions are not being overlooked by the committee. The budding entertainers are reminded of this feature of the programme so that they may have a real opportunity of perfecting their particular stunt for Saturday night.

The prizes for the costumes will be awarded as follows. For the best dressed clown, dressed in tramp and best dressed darky. Also for the girl with the most impersonation of a man and the boy for the best impersonation of a girl. In addition prizes will be given for the best volunteer stunts and contributed, the appliance to act as judges. Likewise tokens will be awarded to the winners of many of the contests and everybody who is in the building at the conclusion of the programme will be the recipient of a bag of candy and an apple.

Judging of the costumes will begin at 7.45 p.m. and no one will be at 8 p.m. and no one will 7.30 p.m. Those who wish to compete in the costume competition will gather in the rotunda of the Y from whence they will proceed to the Bellevue Theatre and three parade around under the critical eye of the judges.

The committee take this opportunity of asking the many visitors to lend their co-operation and refrain from anything in the nature of rowdyism. Heretofore the assembly has always been a well ordered affair and the crowd responding readily to the call to attention, each special feature of the programme is being introduced and the fervor of the evening's party anticipate the usual hearty response from all their guests of the evening.

Poet's Corner

THE RAINY DAY

The day is cold, and dark, and dreary,
It rains, and the wind is never weary;
The vine still clings to the moldering wall,
But at every gust the dead leaves fall,
And the day is dark and dreary.

My life is cold, and dark, and dreary,
It rains, and the wind is never weary;
My thoughts still cling to the moldering past,
But hopes of youth fall thick in the blast,
And the days are dark and dreary.

Be still sad heart- and cease repining;
Behind the clouds is the sun still shining;
Thy fate is the common fate of all,
Into each life some rain must fall,
Some days must be dark and dreary.
—Henry Wadsworth Longfellow

A Purely Canadian Organization—Managed and Operated Exclusively by Canadians

Six Clubs May Operate in Loop

NEW YORK, N.Y. Oct. 28.—The Canadian American Hockey League may be increased to a six club circuit this season with the addition of a New York team, which will make its home in the Bronx Coliseum. A petition for a franchise has been presented to League officials by George Funk and Associates, operators of New York's two National League teams.

Rangers and Americans. still must be received before the loop can invade their territory, but the promoters are so confident that they already have named Frank Fenton, former big league star, as manager and have begun arrangements for assembling a team.

The other five cities in the league are Philadelphia, Boston, Springfield, Mass., Providence, R.I., and New Haven, Conn. At a recent meeting here these five agreed that they will open their season Nov. 14 each team playing 30 home games and 26 away.

Recreation Alleys

Current Sport

By The Observer

We are in receipt of a letter offering an explanation of why so many midsummer golf courses have been abandoned. The writer says the attendance figures were too small for the new golf ball.

Late decisions last night were to the effect that Stan Baryzowe had left for Fredericton, N.B., where he will coach the hockey team of that town this coming season. George Fillett, Trenton's star defence player, also has taken up his residence in Fredericton. We are of the opinion that Fillet can coach on with about any senior team in the east and he carries the good wishes of the hockey fans of this district.

A four-team valley ball league was formed at the Y. M.C.A. on Tuesday night. The teams entered are Kiwanis, Y. Business Men, Y. Juniors, and the Y. Seniors. The league would have liked to get two more teams but they were not forthcoming it seems, but they have a nice little compact four-team group and will spend many happy evenings in the indoor sport.

It has been brought to our attention the fact that a skating club could be formed along the lines of the Toronto Skating Club if enough members could be enrolled. The idea is to form a skating club for the advancement of fancy and figure skating in Belleville and it is thought enough interested amateurs could be enrolled whereby an instructor would be engaged for the season.

There is no pastime more interesting and healthful than the art of figure skating and it is to be hoped that a substantial club can be formed locally. If any interested would but inform the writer, in care of this office, perhaps a meeting could be called whereby the idea could be presented to those interested.

Jack Dempsey, the Manassa Mauler, is back in the prize fight once again. Dempsey has signed a contract to meet the winner of the Carnera-Campolo bout in Miami this coming winter. Well, it is a foregone conclusion that neither of these fighters can "knock-down" Gene Tunney did at Soldier's Field last September.

All American college football teams are playing post-season games for the benefit of the unemployed except Harvard. The Harvard squad are receiving considerable "pressure" for their stand in the matter. Even Army and Navy have buried the hatchet and have agreed to play a post-season game for the cause. No reason has been brought forth for Harvard's stand in the matter. It might be a novel idea if the Canadian football teams followed the example of their American cousins.

The final senior football game of the schedule, to be played tomorrow afternoon, promises to be the battle of the year. Coach Shiels is promising the goods, Philip, Graves, Ostrom and Folwell for back field duty tomorrow. The last two names are juniors and Coach Shiels feels assured that they will add considerable strength to his senior squad. By the addition of Folwell it gives the B.C.I. "riders" two kicking ha'backs in the persons of Folwell and Reynolds. Both of these boys can boot the old pigskin and it looks like a tough afternoon for the Napanee team. The locals were lucky to win when they walloped Napanee and Coach Shiels is playing the best team possible on the field in order to stop the steamship Napanee riders.

The B.C.I. juniors play their last game on Saturday morning when they entertain Albert College. The local B.C.I. Juniors have not been scored on this season, as yet, and it is the hope of Coach Shiels that they can finish the season without being scored upon.

If there is a city or industrial hockey league in Belleville this coming winter they would be well advised to keep the league down to not more than four or five teams.

Baseball fans who wish to see flashes of the final game of the world's series should go to the Belle Theatre tonight. The scenes will also can see Watkins hit his famous home run in the seventh game. They also show scenes of that historic ninth inning when the Athletics threatened to tie the score.

More than 50,000 houses and flats were built in the London district last year.

HIS HEART'S STILL IN THE GAME

Years ago Rev. Father Stanton of Ottawa University was hailed as the greatest football coach in Canada. This was back in 1907 when he produced a team that won for his college the Intercollegiate title. For years after, too, he produced teams which were a credit to any city. But not only to football did he confine his coaching abilities. He coached almost every line of sport, hockey, track, basketball, and swimming. Father Stanton's creed in all his coaching was: "You're never licked until you give up," and "Be a cork or be a man." It was this spirit that he infused into all his teams. For the past few years Father Stanton has been in the United States doing mission work, but last week he returned to Canada to see a Canadian football game in which the forward pass was being used. His heart is still in the old game that he helped to make famous.

No Pilot Has Been Chosen

Owner of Pirates Will Not Make Choice Until Dec.

New York, N.Y. Oct. 29— Barney Dreyfuss, owner of the Pittsburgh Pirates, is thoroughly non-committal about who may manage his team next season although his present trip to New York supposed yix concerned with shipping a new pilot. Several men are available for the job, he says, and he intends to look over the eligibles before reaching a decision, which will not be made before the first of December.

Dreyfuss has held no dealings with Wilbert Robinson, former Brooklyn manager, who has been mentioned for the job.

"I have not had any application from Mr. Robinson," he said, "and I certainly have not made any overtures to him."

Tony Canzoneri In Title Bout

Will Defend Junior Light weight Title Against Philly Griffin

Newark, N.J. Oct. 29—Tony Canzoneri of New York, holder of two world's boxing championships, defends the lesser of his two titles, the junior lightweight championship, against Philly Griffin of Newark in a ten round bout in the Newark armory tonight. In addition to the 140 pound crown, he won from Jackie Kid Berg, Cincinnati holds the lightweight championship.

Griffin, whose reputation depends principally on local triumphs is not expecting to provide much serious opposition for the champion. To make sure that it would be a title bout, the New Jersey State Athletic commission submitted Griffin to a special weighing limit yesterday and found him well under the limit at 138 3-4 pounds.

R. M. C. Inter. Winners Group

Defeat Queen's 14-7 In Dying Moments On a Fumble

Kingston, Ont., Oct. 29—Defeating Queen's in a bitter struggle here yesterday, 14-7, the Royal Military College Intermediates clinched group honors in the Intermediate Intercollegiate league. R.M.C. last year's Dominion champions, have yet to lose a game this season.

The outcome was decided, when Queen's fumbled in the dying moments to permit the Cadets to score a touchdown on the play. The try-for-point was unsuccessful, but the spinning kicking of Jack Bell in the scrimmage that handicap. Davoud played a sensational game.

Announcement to this effect was made last night by Mr. Orpen.

The tracks affected are Dufferin and Long Branch, Toronto and Kenilworth, Windsor.

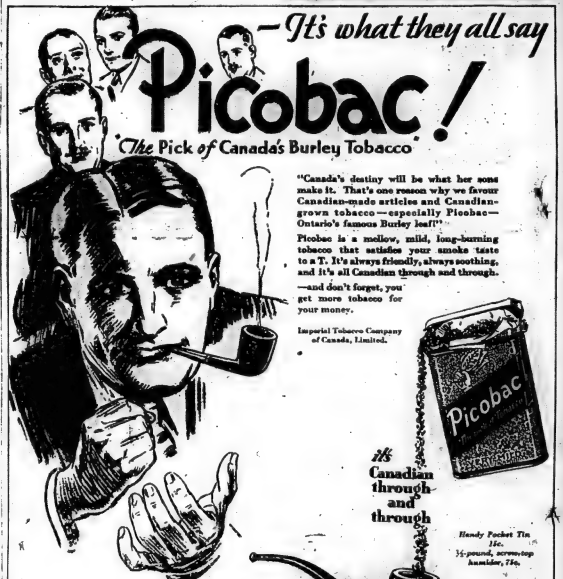
OLD DRUMMER PASSES AWAY

Veteran Struck King Edward, Then Prince, By Mistake



KINGSTON, Oct. 28. — James F. Dolph, a veteran of the Fenian Raids and a drummer boy in the British army, is dead here. An encounter he accidentally rapped King Edward (at that time the Prince of Wales) on the knuckles with his drumsticks. Mr. Dolph took great delight in telling the story.

At the time of the tour of the Prince through Canada in 1860, Mr. Dolph was a boy of thirteen and serving as a drummer with the Canadian Rifles. The band was chosen as a guard of honor, meeting the royal party at Quebec.

His encounter told by Mr. Dolph, was that the Prince took a great fancy to the drums, and often stopped to listen to them. One day while the drummer boy was fixing his drums, the Prince and his party stood by. Some of the sailors on board the steamer, in fun, placed the plumes of the drummer's hat. The drummer boy struck out, with his drumsticks and accidentally struck the Prince on the knuckles. The matter good naturedly, however, and afterwards presented the drummer boy with a souvenir.

Ross Report Adoption Would Cost 20 Millions

Toronto, Oct. 29.—Capital expenditure of $20,000,000 would be necessary to carry out all the recommendations of the Ross report on prisons and other institutions of Ontario made to the Provincial Government some time ago, Hon. W. G. Martin, Ontario Minister of Public Welfare said yesterday.

Speaking at the annual meeting of the Toronto Hospital for Incurables he said, such an expenditure would bring direct relief to more than 350,000 people and half a million would be indirectly affected.

Donation of between 80 and 85 cents by every person in Ontario would make it possible to carry out the recommendations, he said.

F. H. ARMITAGE

bond was sold for the accused the early part of the year but credit was not given until May 1st; a bond of $500 was also sold.

"Can you tell the proceeds?"

"$1,500."

"Prior to crediting amount what was the condition of account?"

"Overdrawn $170.00."

"After proceeds were credited what was condition?"

"Overdrawn $707.00."

Mr. Tilley produced a memorandum for sale of $5,000 of Dominion bonds shortly after and also confirmation of sale for $2500.

Cross-examined by Col. Lennox, witness admitted the account was an active one and he was allowed a credit of $5,000, some of which was taken up by running notes and overdraft as at the 31st of April.

"Up to this time his account was satisfactory?"

"Quite as far as the bank was concerned."

W. S. Hanks Called

Walter S. Banks, of the Ontario Frauds and Prevention Board, was the last witness called in by the prosecution. The witness, armed with a search warrant, searched the premises of the accused on George St. on September 9th and a number of documents, including a ledger and letters addressed to accused, were seized. Col. Lennox asked if business had not been transferred from his office to his home and the witness stated that the office had been closed for some time. The letters produced were read by defense counsel, they being notices of cheques sent to General Tire Corporation for stock purchased by Mr. Armitage or stock upon which he had option and was lifting.

"Did you get anything else?"

"Nothing that would be of any use. The law requires a full set of books open to inspection of government officials at any time."

"Is the General Tar Corporation the only account in the ledger?"

"Yes."

Frank Law, Toronto, manufacturer and president of General Tire Corporation, was the next witness, stated that he knew the accused since 1930.

"What was your relation with Armitage?"

"Gave him option to buy bonds of the corporation should through the Sterling Trust Company." The agreement was produced and was placed into the exhibits of the court.

"Is there record of this option in minutes of corporation?"

"None."

"When was agreement made?"

"In January, 1931."

"What other arrangements?"

"He purchased $2000 but did not live up to his agreement and I called upon him."

"How were the bonds for $2,000 issued?"

"Bearer bonds."

"How much more was purchased?"

"$2,000.00"

"From time you met Armitage how much did he pay your company?"

"About $7,000. As Armitage was not able to meet his obligations as to the option and as the General Tire Corporation had certain obligations a new agreement was made in which Armitage was to make loans to the company and in turn the company was to give Armitage shares in the company at $1740.50.

"What do you owe Armitage at the present time?"

"Nothing."

"Are the bonds of General Tire Corporation on the market?"

"No, the company was not able to sell the $50,000 issue under the agreement with Sterling Trust Co."

The cross-examination of Mr. Law was quite lengthy, the witness admitting that Armitage was the only agent of the company.

"Were you in Belleville helping Armitage?"

"Yes."

"Did you meet Mr. and Mrs. Reid?"

"Yes."

"Were bonds or mortgages discussed at that meeting?"

"Yes, but nothing arrived at."

"What was the result of the conference?"

"Nothing."

"What part did you take?"

"I advised as to the rubber industry."

"Has your advice turned out as stated?"

"Nearly."

"How much proceeds were you getting from sale of Mr. Reid?"

"90 per cent."

"How much did you hold in company."

"10,000 shares class A and all of class B."

"The money you borrowed from Armitage was used in carrying on your business?"

"Yes."

"Is it fair to presume that the money borrowed kept the business running the early part of this year?"

"Yes."

"Did you place life insurance on your son and self payable to General Tire Corporation?"

What Theatrical Managers Say of Coming Attractions

At The Capitol

NEW COLOR FILM AT THE CAPITOL

Silverware Gift Tonight

"The Runaround," a delightful comedy drama photographed by the new technicolor process opens today at the Capitol.

Evelyn a chorus girl admits to her pal of the chorus, Margy that she is husband-hunting, and that the very wealthy young Fred Whist is to be her victim.

Meanwhile, at Fred's club, he is showing his roomder pal, Howard, a diamond bracelet he has bought for Evelyn together with an appartment key, which is hooked into the bracelet.

That evening, at a party with Evelyn, Fred makes a skilful, practiced, and earnest proposal, but it fails. She refuses the necklace and key; when he takes her home she refuses to have him come in. But, to his amazement, says that she will invite him over another time, and will cook a real country supper for him.

Lou, an old character actor is brought in unexpectantly on the night Evelyn entertains Fred at her house. Lou poses as her father just in from Greenboro, suitcases and all. He puts on a fine act that startles Fred. Presently he lets it be known that he suspects the young people of being married. They both deny it, but he says he can't be fooled. So Fred, seeing a chance to win his end on account of Evelyn's embarrassment, tacitly acknowledges their wedded state.

He is mistaken, however, about Evelyn. After "dad" retires, she does not allow Fred to stay as he wishes.

Fred realizes that he is in love with Evelyn, and at last proposes to a real marriage. Evelyn realizes that she loves Fred, and dreads a confession of the hoax.

Meanwhile, sophisticated Howard becomes suspicious of old Lou, and gets him drunk at a "stag" dinner in order to disillusion Fred. Lou forgets that he is a father and becomes the vaudeville trouper. Fred learns of the hoax played on him.

With cheers all the club they plan "to teach gold-diggers a lesson" that will last for all time. Plans for the wedding are set. They arrange a plan that when the ceremony reach the "reverent letter hold his peace" part all the members are to speak up—what happens then must be seen to be enjoyed. Mary Brian, Crofley Kerr, Johnny Hines, Marie Prevost and Joseph Cawthorn are included in the distinguished cast of "The Runaround" which also plays on Friday.

SILVERWARE GIFT

Tonight each lady patron will be presented with a beautiful gift of E.P.N.S. Silverware with the compliments of the management.

Joseph Cawthorne puts on an act for Mary Brian who is trying to win Crofley Kerr, the million stre playboy, in "The Runaround" now at the Capitol theatre.

WILLIAM POWELL AND DORIS HEYTON AT THE BELLE

The large audience last night at the Belle Theatre gave enthusiastic approval to William Powell's first starring vehicle for Warner Bros.—"The Road to Singapore."

The scenes are laid in the town of Khota in Ceylon—a settlement encroached upon by the trackless jungle, and forever haunted by the sound of native tom-toms and wild ceremonials about forest fires.

Mr. Powell plays the part of Hugh Dawlry, a suave and worldly profligate who prefers to spend his days in the island far from so-called civilization'-drinking-reminiscing on former triumphs and planning new ones. To the weird outpost comes Philippa, an English girl, who is to marry Mr. March, whom she had known in his student days at home. Dawlry meets her on the Ceylon bound steamer, tries to win her notice, and failing, schemes to have the Jhorkhasnap carry her to his bungalow through a driving tropical rain.

Philippa marries March and is neglected by him on account of his many patients. Her only companion is his vivacious and naive sister —who tries on her own to gain the attention of Dawlry—whose determination to win Philippa never wavers. The latter at last decides to take the watery road to Singapore with Dawlry—who warns her of his own inconstancy—then the strange and thrilling climax nears —some of the many scenes which make "The Road to Singapore" so unique—so darkly glamorous and so haunting.

The wife of the doctor is played with passionate sincerity by Doris Kenyon; and the ingenuous sister is vividly portrayed by Marian Marsh—the seventeen-year old screen discovery of the year. The latter is signed by Louis Calhorn of "Cobra" fame. Others in the cast are Alison Skipworth, Lumsden Hare, Tyrrell Davis and A. E. Anson.

"The Road to Singapore" is the most brilliant work of the celebrated British playright, Roland Pertwee. Alfred E. Green again achieves distinction in his masterly direction.

But after all is said about cast, story, settings and direction one must return to the superb acting of Mr. Powell. He is probably the only man of the screen who could have given the part with such subtle and magnetic power. Mr. Powell and Warner Bros. picture is without doubt the greatest of his many superb characterizations. Be sure to see him in "The Road To Singapore" which will be exhibited for the last time tonight; with an entertaining group of varied short offerings.

"SIDE SHOW" COMES TO BELLE TOMORROW

It is news worth heeding that Winnie Lightner, tomboy of the talkies and Charles Butterworth, meekest and most solemn funnyman living, are co-featured in "Side Show", the Warner Bros. special attraction, that comes to the Belle Theatre for two days, matinee daily.

Not that Miss Lightner's work in "Side Show" is all clowning for this film gives her her first chance to be serious. She plays the part of assistant to the owner of the world's greatest circus", hires help and fires help, and on occasions doubles for hula dancers, cannibal or bearded lady. But the serious part of the business appears when her pretty sister comes to spend a vacation with the show, and while on the lot alienates the affections of Joe the barker, whom Winnie wants herself.

Others in the cast are Evelyn Knapp, Donald Cook, Guy Kibbee, Louise Carver, Matthew Betz, Ann Magruer, Lulu Aiberni, Edward Morgan, Tom Ricketts and Otto Hoffman. Roy Del Ruth directed. "Side Show" is a picture for all whose hearts are young. Take the whole family.

Another splendid array of Junior features have been arranged for exhibition on the same program, including "Manhatten Serenade", a gorgeous Colortone Musical Revue, the popular Belle Sound News, "Fishing Around"—a clever Mickey Mouse Cartoon, and a funny Our Gang comedy titled "Big Ears".

MACDONALD THANKS ALL

World Convinced Britain Now Has Strength Within Herself

London, Oct. 28 (AP)—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald tonight issued a message to the nation thanking "millions of persons of all parties who for the moment subordinated party feelings and fears to the pressing national needs."

"A majority unique as it is gratifying which was given yesterday, must convince the whole world that when this country calls for assistance willing hands and devoted minds will always respond heartily," the message said.

"We appealed for a demonstration of national unity. The response has been far beyond the dreams of the most enthusiastic of us.

"To my political friends,' who have suffered such unusual reverses, and especially to those of them who with splendid faith and courage backed our appeal and helped to swell our victory, I give assurance that our triumph will in no way mean that either the interests of the point of view of the working classes will be overlooked in the performance of the task before us."

Peas Discovered That Will Not Roll Off Knife

Armstrong, B.C., Oct. 28.—(By The Canadian Press)—At last a pea has been discovered which will not roll off the knife.

Experts judging exhibits at the Interior Provincial Exhibition were astounded when Mr. S. Hoverman, Armstrong grower, produced a thirty-pound sack of peas which were almost cubical in shape.

Mr. Hoverman described the new peas as being a Mexican variety. On each pea is a minute beak which gives the seed the appearance of a tiny chicken s head. For want of a better name, Mr. Hoverman ca'ls them "Chick peas."

Seed experts at the fair said that the new peas were as odd as the Mexican jumping bean.

Canada Sound, Will Recover Declares Sir Henry Thornton

Need To Support Those in Authority, He Says

COMBAT STRESS

Victoria, B.C., Oct. 28—"Canada is sound and in the throes of stress. It is the duty of everyone to support those who, in the words of the catechism, are 'put in authority over us'," declared Sir Henry Thornton, Chairman and President of the Canadian National Railways, in the course of an important address delivered during his annual visit to the Pacific Coast. Sir Henry spoke in part, as follows:

"It seems necessary that in view of the various disasters which have afflicted nations the patient must be threatened with the grave before he awakens to his danger and is brought to that state of mind which accepts the application of special even if drastic remedies. Canada, as a nation, is less responsible for and has certainly contributed less to provoke the present state of depression than any other nation, but while that is true, we cannot escape a situation which has been largely forced upon us. We do not for the least pretend to diagnose the causes of the present depression, or to prescribe either its duration or its remedy. I must leave such analyses and prescriptions to the economist and the student; but there are two or three simple and somewhat practical points to which I think I may with much humility and I hope propriety call attention, remembering that, as some one once remarked, 'Nothing is encrusted by a condition and not a theory.'

Duty to Canadians

"In such times as these, when a serious situation confronts our people and when those who are charged with the responsibility of administration are racked with anxiety, I hold it to be the duty of every citizen to abandon or at least relax political and sectional strife, and in whatever difference of opinion there may be, to support those who in the words of the catechism are 'put in authority.' Quite irrespective of what political party might happen to hold power, I would equally venture this advice. We all have an abiding and unbounded faith in our country. Fundamentally we are perfectly sound and solvent. We are better off than many other countries. We will return to normality quicker than other nations. The great natural resources of Canada are the same as they were three years ago. We have the same courageous, conscientious and law-abiding people. This is not the time for the display of strife, nor to seek the sacrificial goat. No section of this country can really prosper unless the whole country prospers. Let us therefore resolve unselfishly and co-operatively to dedicate ourselves to the support of our constitutional authority and stand shoulder to shoulder in a time of common but temporary danger.

"One of the products of depression is idle and malicious gossip, usually thoughtlessly concerned but in such times as these it is highly dangerous. No one extinguishes fire by pouring upon it inflammable material. Idle and malicious gossip without knowledge of the facts is the inflammable material which keeps alight the fires of depression. If we cannot speak well of the province, the State, the enterprise of the individual, let us hold our peace until a return to prosperity permits investment in such activities with a minimum of damage.

Banks

"The great banks of Canada have had the main enviable records. They are the trustees of funds confided to them and that trusteeship has been faithfully executed. Since the present depression descended upon us, let me say since July 1929, there has not been a single bank closure in the whole of Canada, and while I am far from drawing comparisons from the misfortunes of others, it is a matter of fact that in the United States, admittedly the most opulent nation in the world, there have been approximately 3620 bank closures during the period mentioned, involving deposits amounting to one billion, four hundred and seventy-nine million dollars. Of course, all of this sum is by no means lost, as there will at least a degree of salvage, but the comparison points vividly to whether such a storm as we are at present encountering. True, our banking systems are somewhat different, but that does not alter the deductions to be drawn from what I have said. It is also interesting to note that within the period named of commercial failures in the United States have involved fifty-four thousand, one hundred and eighty-two concerns, with liabilities aggregating one billion, three hundred and fifty million dollars, as compared with Canada of four thousand, six hundred and fifty-four concerns with liabilities of nine hundred and eighty-three million, seven hundred thousand dollars. Certainly these facts speak with emphasis with respect to our financial and commercial solvency. Being amongst other things a bank director, I know something about the banks of Canada, and, like and malicious gossip to the contrary notwithstanding, I state emphatically that all of the banks of Canada are sound, solvent and in a position to meet fully their obligations. Their fundamental soundness is one of the bright spots of our Canadian situation.

Transportation

"You will doubtless expect me to say something with respect to the transportation situation," said Sir Henry, as he outlined the development of Canada's railroads in Confederation until the amalgamation of the present Canadian National System, which brought our two great competitive railway systems in Canada.

"The Dominion of Canada," he said, found itself equipped with two thoroughly efficient and progressive railway systems, actively competing with each other and vieing in an effort to give to the nation a maximum of service. All was going not too badly until the Autumn of 1929, when, with appalling rapidity, the present depression descended upon us. With increasing effort, as the months rolled by, both our two railway systems, the victims of common adversity, have been driven ing closer and closer together in their co-operative effort which, while preserving a reasonable service to the public, had for its objective the elimination of waste and the promotion of real economy. Substantial progress has been made along these lines, but in order that the effort may reach its maximum and that a transportation policy be determined which will as effectively as possible govern our actions in the future, it has been suggested that a commission be appointed composed of men of experience, and high character, and in whom, because of these qualities the public can repose confidence, to shall examine our transportation situation and propose a solution which will once and for all find a remedy to preserve solvency, conserve resources, afford ample transportation facilities to the public and adequately protect the interests of that large body of workmen who have so freely in the past given to both the Canadian Pacific and the Canadian National Railway a devoted and loyal service. Some such commission passed upon our transportation policies seventy years ago, much duplication of construction and other problems would have been avoided, with no denial of essential facilities; consequently it seems high time in view of the circumstances which surround us today that we should chart our course with such intelligence as we can muster and direct what our ultimate port is to be. There is a certain feeling that a distress felt by our Canadian railways is more or less peculiar to this country. Briefly, it is interesting to observe that an important and undoubted American authority makes the definite statement that of the sixty-seven Class I railways of the United States, twenty-five will fail to earn their fixed charges this year.

Victims of Circumstance

So that insofar as the financial position of the Canadian National Railways is concerned, and its effect upon the finances of the Dominion, we are the victims of circumstance wholly beyond our control, circumstances, let me add, which we all know to be world wide. Certain it is, however, that the importance of the problem to both the investor and the people of Canada demands an examination by the best brains that can be brought to bear, if serious results are to be avoided. In the meantime, the public of Canada can be assured that whatever the difficulties of our transportation situation may be, the Canadian Pacific and the Canadian National Railways are working together with amiability and intelligence to maintain a fully adequate standard of transportation having due regard to the circumstances of the times."

OTTAWA, Oct. 29 (CP) — The Canadian government will propose to the various governments of the Empire that the Imperial Economic Conference, the assembling of which had August was postponed, meet at Ottawa "at the earliest possible date". This was the statement announced to the press last night by Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, the Prime Minister.

In his statement the Prime Minister expressed the hope that former difficulties surrounding the plan for holding the conference in the Canadian capital "had now been removed".

Mr. Bennett was asked whether in his opinion the return of the National Government in Great Britain would mean an early meeting of the Imperial Conference, which, on motion by Canada at the London Conference a year ago, was unanimously agreed to proceed to Ottawa. With the succeeding twelve months in reply the Prime Minister authorized the following statement:

"As the suggested date of meeting was later found to be inconvenient to several of the governments concerned, a postponement became necessary. The Canadian government earnestly hopes that the difficulties heretofore prevailing have now been removed, and it will immediately propose to the governments of the Empire that the conference meet at Ottawa at the earliest possible date."

"This government is confident," continued the Prime Minister, "that the conference will achieve an enduring plan of closer Empire economic association. The need for such an association was never more urgent; its benefits never more apparent. Canada will do its full share to bring this about."

LABOR BLAMED BY SNOWDEN

Attempted to Exploit Unemployment For Party Advantage

London, Oct. 29—Commenting on the election results, Rt. Hon. Philip Snowden, last night said:

"I do not rejoice in the disaster which comes to the Labor party. I regret it because the Labor leaders have brought this catastrophe upon themselves by lack of courage and leadership and a misunderstanding of the proper spirit. They hoped to exploit the unemployed for a party advantage.

"A great task now awaits the National Government. The result of the election gives it the unanswerable right to speak and act for the nation but not to pursue any party objects. The leaders of the National government told the nation the truth of the issue and democracy trusted its leaders.

"This is not the end of the Labor party. It will rise again, but only with new leaders who have the vision and courage. It must be based on the outlook of the citizens and not of a class. The defeat of the Labor party will be for its ultimate good if it has learned a lesson."

POLICE BREAK IN ON SHAVER

Chase For Man Wanted In Belleville, Over Toronto

Interrupted while shaving and with his face covered with lather, John Matthews, a resident of north Belleville on the alleged charge of having obtained a new car from J. T. Warren on false pretenses, dashed from the house where he was staying in Toronto and after a lively chase was captured by the Toronto police. Sergeant Detective Trudach has gone to Toronto to bring back the prisoner.

During the early part of the last week a man giving the name of John Matthews arrived in Belleville and engaged rooming accommodation for himself, a woman and child, at the home of Mr. Elmer Lafferty, 73 Dundas street, stating that he represented a paint company in Toronto. The car which Matthews was driving carried license plates for Oshawa. On investigation, Mr. Warren had made a sale but lost one of the markers Matthews called, presented new plates at Belleville then went to Mr. J. T. Warren and made a sale and took the car in and take a new one. In settlement he gave a cheque for $102.50 on the Belleville branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce. the balance to be paid when he came to be financed in the usual manner. The deal is said to have been completed last Saturday and Matthews is said to have immediately left town, neglecting it is claimed to settle with Mr. La Barre for the rental of the house. Matthews' absence was noticed and it became known that Matthews had no account at the Bank of Commerce branch in Belleville and when the Constable heard of the city police investigated. He found that the serial number of the car turned in was not in order and that the date on the license had been altered as figured. It was immediately apparent that there was something seriously wrong with the actions of Matthews and the police in private circles were justified. Nothing further was heard of the matter, until the news of his arrest in Toronto Thursday night was received today by the Belleville police, his arrest is said to come from London, Ontario.

Who Is My Neighbor?

Winter is approaching, and although the weather man has been exceptionally kind proving mild weather thus far, old Jack Frost is just biding his time to spread his mantle of chill over the land.

The poor ye have with ye always.

This winter, without doubt, there will be more privation than usual.

The pinch is already being felt.

Two cases were reported to the Civic Relief Committee on a line of work which can be expected as the season advances.

Two families were faced with eviction, on account of their efforts to pay the bailiff this week for arrears in rent the landlord being a Tuentio Trust Company.

In each family are several children.

The husbands work when they can get it on civic unemployment, and report at the City Hall every day in search for work. Their wives also work out on the day when they can get it.

"Give a Man a Job" About Your House or Garden

Everybody Can Be Happy and No One Need Be Hungry if All Will Aid in Community Service Now Under Way—"Give a Man a Job" Appeal Goes Out to All Householders Today and is Expected to Provide Many Hours' Work for The Unemployed of Belleville—Let the Employed Help the Unemployed.

"Give a man a job" is the slogan of the Employment Committee of the General Relief Committee, organized last Saturday and getting under way now with various [sub-committees] functioning. The Employment Committee in a page announcement in this issue calls upon the citizens for co-operation in seeing that as much work as possible is provided for the workless this fall and winter. At this season of the year always a number of men are out of work, seasonal workers and others, this year the number of workers is larger than usual, although Belleville is in far better condition than most other industrial centres, with all local industries working some on full time, some on part time.

That there be no distress this winter the General Relief Committee has been organized to assist the Women's Christian Association which has looked after the poor of the city for years. It is the desire to have all civic welfare agencies co-operate through one central organization in order that the most good can be done and that there be no over-lapping or waste of effort.

"Give a Man a Job" means that there is an hour's work or five dollars' pay or more's work above every home which could be done by some one of the unemployed. Twenty citizens having one hour's work would furnish twenty hours and so on. The combined amount of odd jobs mobilized would keep quite a few men working, and save their self-respect—they want work, not charity.

Fill in the coupon in the adv. on another page, and return as directed, only by the earnest co-operation of every citizen can this worthy movement be put over in a big way.

Other sub-committees such as finance and supplies are working and will soon be in a position to announce their plans and ask for the co-operation of citizens.

"Give a Man a Job" give it to him now!

JAPAN PUBLIC BACKS STAND

Japanese Soldiers Prepare For Cold Weather During China

Tokyo, Oct. 30 (AP) — Japanese public opinion stiffened today in favor of the Government's action in Manchuria and its defiance of the League of Nations' resolution calling for the withdrawal of Japanese troops from the occupied Chinese area by November 16th.

Official circles here said evacuation of the occupied zones by November 16, as desired by the League, would be most improbable in view of the fact that so far they have been the fighters. Indication the Chinese would be able to organize responsible local governments to assume police powers now exercised by the Japanese.

DAVIS' APPEAL COURT DECISION

Will Carry Case To Judicial Committee of Privy Council

London, Oct. 29 (CP)—The appeal of Lady Mortimer Davis and Mortimer Davis, Jr., from rulings in the Quebec courts against their action to remove Lord Shaughnessy and Alexander Reaper as trustees and executors under the will of the late Sir Mortimer Davis will be heard by the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council.

Their Lordships today dismissed a petition by Lord Shaughnessy and Reaper, which sought to quash the appeal taken by Lady Davis and Mortimer Davis, Jr. Counsel for objecting the petition were that "right in the future" might be affected, and further than the appeal involved a sum in excess of $12,000. Their Lordships intimated they would later give their reasons for rejecting the petition in writing.

Lady Davis and Mortimer Davis first took their case for removal of Lord Shaughnessy and Alexander Reaper as administrators of the large estate left by Sir Mortimer Davis, to Justice Surveyor. Incidentally they also sought an order for sequestration, and an interlocutory injunction to prevent the merger of Canadian Industrial Alcohol Company (one of Canada's big distillery enterprises). Justice Surveyor dismissed their motions and the decision was confirmed by the Appeal Division of the Supreme King's Bench of Quebec last June. It is from the latter decision Lady Davis and Mortimer Davis are appealing.

Anniversary at Thomasburg Ch.

It was a day of special rejoicing and thanksgiving at the Thomasburg United Church on Sunday, October 25th, because it was the occasion of the fiftieth anniversary of the present church and seventy-five years since the first church was erected. The church was packed for both services with friends from Bethel, Roslin, Tweed, Lodomore, Stirling, Green Bay and even at Thomasburg, also former members from Toronto, Belleville, Madoc, Trenton, Foxboro, Shannonville, and the vicinity of Prince Edward, in addition to the resident members. Some of the former ministers and members sent messages of greeting. The former pastor, Rev. R. T. Richards, was invited to preach the Jubilee sermons. His subject was "Faith" and he based as he spoke of "The Church at the Beginning and Today," "Work" on the Ministry with Jesus." While appreciating the valued work of the fathers he called upon the present day church members to face today's problems with greater faith and loyalty and in the spirit of Jesus.

The choir had carefully prepared for the day in the singing of the choice of the selections and the rendering of them. The congregation delighted with the music. Mrs. Wallace Green, Rev. J. W. Platt read messages received from Rev. T. A. Connell of Toronto, Rev. W. R. Merrick of Carlton and Rev. J. D. Knox of Belleville, also letters of regret, also from Mr. Robt. Coulson of Plainfield, Sask., the only surviving trustee of the church at the time of the dedication, and from Mrs. J. H. Finlay (nee Minnie Lamont) Western Springs, Ill. A brief summary of the 100 years of church history for this district was also read by the pastor.

Another special feature of the occasion was the Jubilee thank offering and despite the conditions prevailing, the offering was more than realized. One hundred and fifty dollars was asked for and the people generously responded by giving over $212, with probably additional sums to be received from the members who could not attend. Former members who were present at some of the earlier ordinances were among the contributors.

Altogether it was a day long to be remembered by those present, memories of other days came back revitalize the faith of many, and all realized the influence of the church in their lives counted for much. The church has served for 100 years of religious services and looks hopefully forward, courageously believing that greater things are yet in store.

Geese Battle Stalking Dog

A crate of turkeys, a few geese, two men and a dog figured in an interesting and amusing incident on College Street car line, Wednesday.

A small delivery truck, piled high with a varied assortment of crated poultry came careening down the road, slewed, skidded and came to a full stop with two of the topmost crates which were perched precariously on top of the others came crashing to the pavement dislodging several highly-strung and nervous turkeys whose wings had in life seemed to be to put as much mileage as possible. Among them and the scene of the accident in the shortest possible space of time, and a few geese who also broke and flapped their wings and gave vent, loud cackles of delight at the outing.

Dog Joins in Chase

At this point a large police dog which had been unnoticed by the two men in attendance, decided to come into action. The leaps of joy entered into the melee and scattering turkeys to the four points of the compass.

The geese, disdaining to run from a mere dog, stood their ground and prepared to do battle. The dog was not interested however in such slow old things; as soon as he saw them as many flying turkeys to pull tail feathers from, and a happy five minutes was spent in this new and fascinating sport.

It was quite some time before order was restored, and, with the help of the reporter present, the several bereggled and hysterical turkeys and the few, less disgusted but flighty geese were returned to their respective crates. After the count was over, however, it was found that somewhere near the county limits, on College Street, an unhappy and homeless turkey wandered, and was, by himself, perhaps, what other misfortunes befell him.

Anyone finding an ill-behaved turkey answering to the description of a large white bird with a few tail feathers missing, will confer a favor by communicating with the police.

Armitage Found Guilty of Theft, Sentenced Friday

Will Likely Plead Guilty to Four Other Charges Pending

SCATHED BY COUNCIL

Found guilty of theft of $4,212.00 from Andrew Reid, of Rawdon Township, Fred H. Armitage will be sentenced by Magistrate Deroche at the opening of the court on Friday morning, all the same time Armitage will plead guilty to five other charges involving a sum of approximately $2500.00 and these charges will be taken into consideration when he appears for sentence. Col. T. R. Lennox, K.C., of Toronto, who defended the accused, practically threw his client on the mercy of the court, while B. O. Donnan, Crown Attorney asked for the full penalty of the law, 14 years in Kingston Penitentiary. Both counsel addressed the court but Judge Deroche asserted he reserved his right as to time of sentence. There were many tense situations in the trial, which lasted all day, though the most tense being when T. G. Donnan said addressing His Honour Judge Deroche,

Mr. Donnan is not given to vindictiveness in regards to those he is prosecuting but in this case he was quite stern and spoke directly against the accused. "This man," said Mr. Donnan, "deliberately robbed Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Reid day after day, and then after both are passed the youthful age and the more serious pilfery had been solved had been wiped out by a suave salesman cloaked in the guise of a friend." Another point different from broker's who were recently sentenced in that the Crown contended it take the people's money but this man knowingly and deliberately preyed upon this man's friendship and stole his money. It is what had the best security in the world, mortgages and Dominion of Canada bonds. Armitage admitted went to him with General Tire Corporation stock and told them it was a good if not superior to the security then held and that it was just the word. "I think he is the most despicable man I ever knew and would ask for the full penalty of the criminal code for the offence charged."

Col. Lennox stated that he felt the accused in the box for His Honour to hear that there is no way, his duty was to deliver the stocks to Reid but to my mind the man did not realize exactly what effect his action would have on Mr. and Mrs. Reid. There is no doubt that Law was amuous to have the bonds sold and Armitage believed that the bonds would be delivered. A man like Law can control or dominate men like Armitage but there is this to be said, that Reid lost his money and the stocks which had been tendered to Reid. Mr. Lennox mentioned the fact that the broker's recently sentenced did not receive any such leniency and for their crimes and pleaded with his honor to be lenient to his client. These broker's millions, while this Armitage is charged with only a few thousands. He is a man of family of life, and has a wife and two children that should be considered. and it is a short sentence is given probably he can rehabilitate himself and be able to make good to those whom he took.

In cross examination by Mr. Donnan, Armitage was quite at ease and readily admitted that Reid had received nothing for his money that was given to him. Reid's evidence was given by Miss Muriel McKnight, Mr. Merrick and Frank Law as reported in the evidence given by the accused, while in the box and Judge Deroche appeared quite convinced that the man was tampering with the mails under oath. At one point Armitage stated that he had offered common stock to Mr. Reid for the bonds and when no re calling Mr. Reid to the stand, he stated to Judge Deroche at the time was he offered either common stocks or the bonds, which he had forgotten.

James R. Lovett, secretary of the Sterling Trust Company was the first witness called after court was opened in the afternoon. He was examined by the accused, while in the box and Judge Deroche appeared quite convinced that the man was tampering with the mails under oath. At one point Armitage stated that he had offered common stock to Mr. Reid for the bonds

A COMPLETE SERVICE

Canadian Press, which serves the newspapers of Canada as a cooperative news collecting agency, carried a very complete coverage on the British elections. The Ontario Intelligencer with its teletype Creed machines, had the complete story of the elections from the time the first of the returns began to come in until midnight, the service being resumed the next morning at seven o'clock, and continued all day Wednesday.

Nothing more complete in the way of service could be desired and it is a credit to this organization which year in and year out assembles the news of the Dominion and the world at large for the readers of the press of anada, that the British elections were covered so thoroughly.

Some of the finest pieces of news were those contained in the running comment as the returns streamed in across the wires.

FIRST SQUAD GOES

The choice of thirty men to leave Belleville to join the highway construction workers on the trans-Canada highway is the first general relief work which has been opened up here. It is anticipated and hoped that this squad of men are but the first to be taken on this undertaking. The weather so far has been propitious for those who have been out of work and for those who are homeless. It cannot however, be hoped that it will continue indefinitely, and this beginning of relief will tend to lighten the local task.

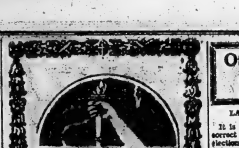
ADVERTISING PRINCIPLES

Better Business Bureau, New York, has published a code of advertising, embodying the essential principles of business. These are given as follows:

"We hold it to be self-evident that advertising which is fair to the public, fair to the media which convey the advertising message, and fair to the property interest which all business has in the good-will of the buying public, should be based on these fundamentals:

"That all statements and accompanying illustrations be accurate and truthful in fact and in the impression they create.

"That all statements, in fact and in effect, be fair to all competitors.



"That all statements be designed to conserve and to increase, and in no way to lessen the public confidence in all legitimate advertising and in all legitimate business."

These appear to be the principles which direct all successful business. The general soundness of these principles is admitted by everybody.

MILITARY SERVICE

France has been conducting a campaign against those who have become naturalised in other countries of the world, before they have fulfilled the obligation of military service. Hamilton Spectator commenting upon this situation, says:

"So long as these men remained out of France, the authorities have no means of placing the official finger on them, but many, it seems, are making the mistake of going back home on vacation trips. A score of such cases await action, the men involved awaiting trial in army prisons at Rouen and Lille. The majority are naturalized American subjects, but there is no discrimination, all Frenchmen who have become citizens of other countries receiving identical treatment. France demands a term of military service of all native-born citizens. Technically, the status of those who leave the country before giving such service is that of deserter, liable to heavy penalties. Foreign embassies in France are keeping close watch on these cases, but admit inability to help the naturalized victims of the regulation. French authorities declare it is necessary for them to be stern, because evasion is the very foundation of the country's military strength and not many of her young men relish the thought of compulsory military service. At present the term of compulsory service is down to one year. After the Napoleonic wars it was set at seven years, but before the World War it had been reduced to three. Owing to agitation by socialists in parliament after the war, the term was cut to eighteen months, before finally being reduced to the present system. But the strict regulations still remain and French men naturalized in other countries, who have not completed their military service in a sorry plight indeed if they get the home-sickness blues. The story is told of a French-born resident of the United States who joined the American army in 1917 and fought in France. He had an excellent war record, but this didn't help him very much when, after his discharge from the A.E.F., he returned to France for a holiday. The clink awaited him and he languished there for nearly a year."

MEMORY
By Aline Michaelis

It gives me all these
From the days that are done:
The white smile of stars,
The beach bright with sun,
The lift of her hills,
The willow-tree's grace,
The meadow-lark's note....
And your face!
A debtor am I
To memory's dower
For the friend's charm,
And the jasmine flower,
For the stir in the air
At hint of dawn,
And the anxious port
With the fishing-fleet gone.
I had given me much —
Of Earth's wonder and grace;
It may take them all,
But your face!

Leopold Zimmermann was a well-known figure in Wall Street for half a century. A competent expert in the buying and selling of foreign money, it was the irony of events that his firm should have met disaster in 1914 because of the German mark's collapse. But even that event threw an interesting light on his personality. Not many business men, having passed through such an experience at the age of 71 and been released from bankruptcy after 40 per cent payment of claims, would have the courage and resolution to earn and pay back the rest. Here's Zimmermann's story as told by the New York Times:

"Perhaps the most colorful activities of Mr. Zimmermann in the field of moneychanging occurred when he led the way during our money-hoarding panic of 1893, in what was called buying and selling of United States currency "at a premium." The New York banks had virtually suspended cash payments to depositors, leaving in the lurch many employers of labor. Mr. Zimmerman inserted advertisements in the newspapers, offering for any kind of American legal money a premium over its face value, ranging from 2 per cent to 4, payment of principal and premium being made in certified checks on solvent banks which were not paying out cash.

"The inducement thus offered solved temporarily the payroll problem; it was a bid for the hoard money. One of the sights of that day was the crowd of money-hoarders, great and small, which invaded Zimmermann's little office, bringing wads of banknotes and United States currency which had been hidden away in the panic days. This singular process continued for a month, until the deadlock in money supplies was broken by large gold imports, also procured by payment of a premium. Nowadays, the facility for ready issue of currency at all times, under the Federal Reserve law, has made recurrence of the 1893 incident impossible.

ESPLANADE ADVOCATES base their case on the following broad platform, briefly put: Belleville the beautiful made more beautiful; utility in relief of traffic congestion on Front street which restricts business and keeps business away for lack of central parking space; making possible traffic rules which will take the deadly danger out of crossing Front and Bridge street intersections for pedestrians and motorists alike; with government contribution and abundance of labor the project can be constructed for half what it would cost five or ten years from now—above all employment would be furnished when most needed. Let's have the esplanade as a thing of beauty and a joy forever, and the cost isn't so material as it sounds. No matter what the cost, in reason, it will be worth it as a civic asset.

Other Papers' Opinions

LABOR AND THE VOTE

It is quite unfair and legally incorrect to describe the British election result as a catastrophe for Labor. Newspapers, of course, are free to apply to parties their official tags. But logic and always inadequate and often misleading. The opposition wing of the Parliamentary Labor Party was, in fact, almost annihilated. But millions of staunch Labor voted for Lowell MacDonald, Thomas and Snowden into the National Government. Labor shared the National triumph. It was reckless, self-setting socialism which met with overwhelming defeat as the polls. That ended the menace of a movement which The Globe has always believed to be deplorable and disastrous.

It is possible that the Conservatives would have emerged with a clear-cut majority had the election been fought on the old party lines. But it is not probable that the victory would have reached its epochal proportions.

The ordinary British people knew that his Majesty himself was primarily responsible for the formation of the National Government. They knew that, subsequent to its formation, the need for its maintenance became apparent to all co-operating groups within the coalition itself. They were asked by the Prime Minister to "trust Baldwin." They gave it, with an almost thunderous yes.—Toronto Globe.

NEXT YEAR DOMINATES WESTERN CANADIAN THOUGHTS

The proprietor of a western newspaper recently visited many parts of the Dominion and on his return home dictated a private letter in which he said: "There isn't nearly the gloom out here that I found in the East. The next-year confidence that is so characteristic of the West is a great possession for people to have in these times. Down East I found that most people were just looking into the future at all, but wholly concerned about the present. Our people do not like present conditions, it is true, but they believe that the future is going to bring about an improvement." There never has been any question about the courage and resourcefulness of western Canadians. They have a wonderful agricultural equipment at their disposal, and their industrial activities have become important. Their natural wealth in oil, coal and basic metals is tremendous. Even the price of wheat shows signs of mending and mixed farming grows apace. The Canadian West cannot be restrained from coming into its own. Very probably 1932 will not roll around until it is again the scene of tremendous prosperity.—Toronto Mail and Empire.

REMARKABLE BRITISH REVOLUTION TO THE RIGHT

The result of the British general election is a revolution to the right—not to Fascism or to a dictatorship—but as has occurred in many European nations less fundamentally democratic than Great Britain—but a move from Socialism back to sane constitutionalism. As Mr. Stanley Baldwin said in one of his broadcast appeals issued just before polling day, the pages of history are littered with wrecks of democracies which have plunged into tyranny or into chaos. That is not the British way. The British way is for sober, patient, steady way; the way of sacrifice and co-operation, dictated by a deep-lying sense of responsibility and patriotism. The electors at large realized what was at stake in Tuesday's contest was so tremendous that it was not a time to test for the world's foremost democracy. They voted overwhelmingly to enter in at the straight gate of economy and reconstruction, instead of taking the low road path of Socialism which would have led to destruction.—Toronto Mail and Empire.

HOW HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF

"It is a gloomy moment in history. Not for many years—not in the lifetime of most men who read this paper—has there been so much grave and deep apprehension. In our own country there is universal commercial prostration and panic and thousands of our poor-est fellow-citizens are turned out against the approaching winter without employment.

"This sounds very much like an accurate description of conditions throughout the world today. It might have been written with equal appli cation to the present moment. As an actual matter of fact, it was written by a statesman in Harper's Weekly in October 10, 1857, just seventy-four years ago.—Montreal Star.

FUN

"It is a truism that to the poet all things are poetical, to the sage way to the joker all things must be funny. Therefore, new inventions as they come along must have their own cargo of jokes. Even such a thing as Mr. Einstein's relativity theory finds itself made quite at home in many a columnist, says Ottawa Citizen. But, on the other hand, new inventions and improvements close up mine after mine of the ore from which the humorsmith extracts the sparkling metal which he fashions, or tortures, into jest.

Think, for instance, of the fun that the great Shakspeare made of the burlesque duel, and how Sheridan followed and almost if not quite improved even upon the Bard himself. Do away with duelling, as we have done in these days, and what have you? In more modern times there was the boot-jack an implement necessary in the days of top boots and of work on the farm or sport in the field. The spats that, as some critics, glorify the low shoes of the last world war are a poor replacement of the boot-jack as the joker's bag of tricks.

"Spit later, and yesterday as the spit is sought by the entrance, maybe was the fountain pen that could not be made to irrigate the thin-lipped literary flapper and bespattered the white vest of official dignity. But was even the bottle cap which, under pressure of the ever-busy thumb, squirted a perfect rising flood of milk. What humor-value has got a downright valedictorian lost, would attempt such material today?

"But the jokes, new and old come in greater flood than ever. What if we have had a world whose politicians are decried, whose profiteers are lauded as astute-resident, whose leaders are hooted—but the humor that is whose very editors are sometimes called in question, those who heavy task it is to keep it all smiling as still with us. And perhaps if we can find humor in it we may find that, after all, we shall get along somehow. What if we do suffer fellow a chance by not taking ourselves and our affairs so seriously."

PRODIGAL

I shall come back when dogwood
Flowers are going
And sweet-fern cakes are hooking toward the south
With eager necks; I shall come back knowing
The old unanswered question on your mouth —

When frost is on the mansion shoots
And dogwoods at the spring are turning brown,
Then between the interlacing roots
With folded arms I shall at last go down.

Highway Link at Napanee Is Urged

Napanee, Oct. 29—At a meeting of the town council, merchants and ratepayers held in the town hall last evening to discuss a connecting link between the highway here and the recently sanctioned highway between Belleville and Perth, presumably near Kaladar, it was decided to send a deputation to interview Charles W. Hambly, M.P.P., and Mayor Daly to interview the Ontario Government in Toronto. The many advantages of this link, particularly to the people in the northern part of the county, were explained. It is a distance of 22 miles with over eight miles already completed, and it was proposed that if wanted the work be carried on under the government unemployment scheme.

The lad was a bright student and the fatality is keenly felt in school circles.

Buying Wisely

An old and conservatively managed banking institution has issued to its 240,000 depositors a circular message that merits consideration, also by customers of savings banks generally on the North American continent.

This bank points out that hoarding and thrift are not synonymous terms; that, in fact, they are quite as different as courage and fear. The circular therefore gives the following advice: "Keep on deposit a reasonable reserve against emergency, not a hoard."

"If you have a surplus above all likely need, make careful purchases of things you want for permanent use while prices remain low."

"See that your home is put in good repair. Do not let your automobile or any other property get run down. If you have long needed an added piece of furniture, shop carefully and buy it now."

"Buy clothing and other needs in reasonable quantities. Buy real estate if you are planning for a home of your own."

"Wise spending at the right time is just as essential as preventative measures to ensure good health. Wise spending of available money encourages prosperity and corrective measures, good health and enjoyment."

"Every citizen who spends such money in some useful and wise way is contributing to the relief of unemployment and to the return of confidence and prosperity in this city and county."

Babson's Statistical Organization in their Canadian Babson's Chart, points out: "We feel that pessimism has been allowed too free a rein. In our anxiety to get over the world's depression epidemic we sometimes fail to give proper evaluation to existing conditions. The depression is acute, not chronic."

OUTLAWS OF EDEN

by Peter B. Kyne

Of course. In a larger sense, Nate Tichenor's decision 1926 to sell could not effect the interests of the Forlorn Valley Irrigation District (Mr. Baboon had decided to call it that), since the district could acquire the property via the condemnation route.

Immediately after church the following Sunday he motored up to Eden Valley, ostensibly to fish but with the intention of spending several hours inspecting the dam-site and lake-site, by his signal perturbation he discovered in the gorge a camp of three tents, a motor chuck wagon, and five shirt-sleeved young men he had never seen before playing a modest game of poker under the shade of a cottonwood tree. Under an adjacent tree : : : A field drafting table stood; it had a sheet of tracing paper tacked to it and bared by this hung a surveying instrument was set up.

"Hello," Baboon hailed them cheerfully, confident that his rod and creel would excuse him of undue inquisitiveness in penetrating to the camp. "What are you boys doing here?"

"Playing poker," sir. How about taking a hand? : Twenty-five cent ante and a dollar limit."

Mr. Baboon being accustomed to such gentle rebukes. flushed and passed on down the road, leaving the surveying crew to their non-sabbatical pleasure.

Evidently Tichenor had sold or was about to sell, his dam-site and lake-site to a power company for which had sent an engineering crew to make a preliminary survey and report before attempting to close the deal. His curiosity aroused Baboon drove the creek, climbed to the crest of the hill, and was rewarded by finding the plans of the engineering party. He followed them read fly; they led him over the property in question to another camp and a similar survey

Securities in More Demand on N. Y. Mart

Shares Unable to Sustain Rally Which Sets in Early

CONFIDENCE SEEN

(By Clayton A. Jagger, Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, N.Y., Oct. 30— The securities market displayed a firm undertone today, but shares were unable to sustain a morning rally.

Wall Street regarded the drop of 60,000,000 shares in stock ownership in circulation as the most encouraging item in weeks, proving the tangible evidence of a return of confidence.

The stock market pushed up about 2 to 4 points during the morning, but in the afternoon was virtually cancelled after midday. Trivial gains generally shrivelled around last night's final levels, however, electric power shares turned weak, losing 3 points. Heaviness of the utilities reflected the discourse buying, some other utilities became sluggish, North American and National Power and Light losing about a point. Union Pacific rose up 4 points, then had its rise. Gains of 1 to 2 points in such issues as Allied Chemical, Bell Telephone, and American Can were lost. Radio, after showing some power, managed to hold most of an early upthrust of 1 1-4. Paramount worked somewhat higher.

Listlessness on Standard Bd.

Major Portion of Mining List in Discard Today

Toronto, Oct. 30—Listless trading and dull price action marked today's formation session on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange Curb Market. With the major portion of the list in discard, general tone was somewhat firmer, but noon changes did not show appreciable improvement.

Noranda strengthened on the opening, but after a brief rally reaction was up 30 to $18.30 when taken at mid-day. Bank of Nova Scotia changed hands at 345 off 25, and Sherritt Gordon dropped 2 to 51.

Toronto Board Firm but Dull

Public Interest Shows No Signs of Participation

Toronto, Oct. 30—Toronto Stock Exchange market was firm but dull, but exceedingly dull. There is nothing to awaken an outside interest in junior shares at the present time and until definite improvement in business gets under way. This public is not likely to increase its interest. Business leaders in the United States profess to see signs that better times are coming and the market has been supported by declaration of the week's dividend by Bethlehem Steel and the unchanged reducount rate. SAVED IMPORTED DRESS

"After a little wearing, a lovely green voile—as I improved my dress color so completely that it was not wearable. A friend who had admired it asked me why I wasn't wearing it and more. On hearing the reason, she suggested dyeing it and recommended Diamond Dyes. To make a long story short, it turned out beautifully. I have a lovely new dress that really cost just 10c—the price of one package of Diamond Dyes."

"I have since used Diamond Dyes for both tinting and dyeing. They do either equally well. I am not an expert dyer but I never have a failure with Diamond Dyes. They seem to be made so they always go on smoothly and evenly. They never spot, streak or run; and friends never know the things I've done with Diamond Dyes are redyed at all!"

The bride looked very charming in pale pink georgette, and her bridesmaid, Mrs. Dora Wallbridge, sister of groom was prettily gowned in rose georgette. Housework is Wholesome Activity for Children

By Hannah Wing

Like their elders, children enjoy turning towards occupations which show striking results. These being held dear, they proved delightful to the children and helpful to their mothers.

1. Removing crumbs from dining-room rug with small carpet-sweeper after each meal.

2. Polishing tarnished candlesticks or any other of the larger pieces of silver or brass that are used frequently.

3. Cleaning smudgy finger prints from woodwork.

4. Using vacuum cleaner attachments on upholstered furniture.

5. Ironing flat pieces in the electric ironer. As the heated iron shoe is on the opposite side of the roller from the child, there is very little danger of his burning himself.

6. Scrubbing vegetables in preparation for cooking.

7. Helping make seasonal delicacies, such as pudding peas, hulling strawberries, husking corn or freezing ice cream.

8. Dusting furniture, stairs and window sills; and dust mopping the floor.

9. Scrubbing bathroom floor or any area not exceeding six feet.

This is the most cherished of John for four and five year olds when they are allowed to take off their shoes and stockings.

10. Scouring washbowl, tub or sink. The cake form cleaner is easier for the child as he is likely to spill the powder if we use too much.

11. Setting and clearing the dining table.

12. Putting out empty milk bottles and transferring full ones to refrigerator.

Benefits the children derive from a feeling that they are an integral part of the family economic organization are immeasurable. The steadying reassurance that their efforts fit into the cogs of the household routine gives them a sense of security and wholesome feeling of self-respect. Manual dexterity and natural ability are given a superior change to blossom into greater usefulness and a joy to the child. And finally, the interesting psychological phenomenon that one's interest and affection increase proportionately with the effort expended, is also turned to account. Surely the greatest of all the benefits—the children, as a result or their earnest efforts in housekeeping, are more comprehensive love of home.

Books in Your Home

By Constance Cameron

Just as a school teacher can at once tell the degree of culture reflected in your home by the simple process of listening to your child talk, so can she tell almost as quickly the kind of reading which line your shelves. Your child's choice of subject, his vocabulary his familiarity with books not usually associated with childhood betray your taste and habit of his choice. Fortunate is the youngster whose home contains a library wherein he may browse without responsibility of any description which may be a waste of time to read, or enjoy.

"But," you object, "I pick books I feel suitable for my child's shelf, but they are not to his taste in him?"

The answer is, "A great deal more than you can realize unless you inquire and observe as I've made it a point to do every morning of what children select of their own free will.

We can all choose good books from the long list of those written for children, but the child who doesn't have an opportunity to choose good books for himself is like an infant who is kept exclusively on the bottle when he needs solid food.

It has been most amazing to me, to watch children whose home contains books, gravitate toward a new work of fiction for children and wade diligently and with interest through it, while those absolutely consider "above" them, and refuse to look at other books than largely in the field of non-fiction. Only a boy who still enjoys tossing a ball and goes into ecstacies over some good story can appreciate some of prints of Rodin's work home from the public library and devoured it. I loaned Hallburton's "New Worlds to Conquer" to her husband and he never got to a peek at it until the child had read every word. A ten year old boy threw aside an adventure tale for boys and I found him oblivious to sounds and sighs, curled up in a chair poring over "The Microbe Hunters."

The answer then, in directing children's reading, is to not direct it too dictatorially, but to yourself pick good books and have them within the child's reach as she needs them. It's a fine order—it comes straight back once more to the reflection on what parents like and do which exerts such a mighty influence over the children. So with the fiction which each child needs, and which is written for him, make it possible for him to select some of his own reading, and don't be too surprised if he devours volumes which even to you and me seem dull and heavy. For youth has patience when it comes to finding things new to him on the printed page, and I think we've all read things in childhood which we've never had the time nor patience to struggle through since.

Beatrice Fairfax Letters

Clever School Girl

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My girl has broken with me because she thought I was getting too serious. We are still friends and sometimes she breaks a date with me and goes out with other boys. We are all 1 nhigh school together.

D.

The foregoing is the summary of a very long letter which the young man does not wish me to print. I must say, the girl has shown a great deal of sense in the matter. They are too young in high school for engagements. Her idea is much more sensible—for young people to go around in groups and not to have a date all together, instead of these close corporations of two, which the young man wants.

Good Name Involved

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a widow, thirty years of age, and old-fashioned in many ways. I enjoy driving and going to various places with one of my married friends, but he is married but does not live with his wife. It is his business to go with him since he is my brother in law?

Madeline.

This question really depends upon yourself for, if your going out with this young man makes you the subject of scandal, you certainly should not do it. Independent as people are in these days, it is always best to take very great care of your good name. You do not say whether or not you consider him in law is divorced, which would make a difference, of course.

He Lacks Courage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Three years ago, at my friend's house, I met a young man for whom I took a great fancy very much. According to my friend, he always has been very fond of me, invite them up to my house again. He has been there once with his crowd. I am 23 years of age, he is 25. Do you think he is for this young man. How shall I find out whether or not he cares for me?

M. M.

That seems quite a simple problem, my dear M. H. Now that the days are getting cooler and little evening gathering indoors, why not set up a table of bridge, call this young man on the phone and invite him. He may be slow and shy about getting better acquainted with you and a little party like this will encourage him. Serve some nice hot coffee. After that, however, if he doesn't have the courage to ask you for a date, I should let the matter drop.

How to Say Goodbye

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Not long ago, my Dad died. I will be leaving the city soon, and would like to say goodbye to all my friends, some of them are going away at school but would come in town for one week end. As you know, I am not going out now as I have just lost my father. I am leaving town. Won't you please tell me how to say about it. I'm including both girls and boys.

Awell.

I'm sorry you didn't send me a real addressed envelope for a personal reply but this column is made up to long in advance. The best thing for you to do, considering all the friends in town and to write little notes to those who are away at school. Then if you wish to ask your very intimate friends to your home for afternoon tea have to with you, that would be all right.

Dance Is Formal

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have been going with a boy for a year. We are both 20. He has no money. Do you think I am wasting my time going around with him. I like him better than any other boy I know and feel he loves him, yet he loves me. He doesn't seem to be going with other boys which I do fairly frequent. Do you think I should stop going with him?

R.P.

No, I can see no reason why you should stop going around with this young man as long as he is agreeable about your other friends. I should not consider that you are unnecessary sacrifice for you to make, while your friendship with him would no doubt help and interest him in his studies. And my dear R. P. who knows but that he may like him better than you think?

A Swedish chemist has discovered that a fireproof material can be made from peat. He has succeeded it with diluted phosphoric acid.

Hallowe'en—What it Means to the Boys and Girls of Today

Hallowe'en is just around the corner and Saturday evening so will be a lot of the boys and girls—disguised in all sorts of outfits which they have contrived from the attic or store room—mothers cast aside garments and "PA'S" old trousers will be brought into service again to make ridiculous costumes, while faces of most terrifying aspect—faces which will cause older people to "shake in their shoes" will complete a disguise which defy detection. Then—lots of fun and most of it is innocent of any harm, although some of the pranks played are a little hitherius at times. The training received by many boys and girls, who are or have been boy scouts, girl guides or brownies has taught quite a number of the present generation "the rules of the game" so they know better to have a "good time"—a real good time without being destructive or repressing in any degree their youthful exuberance. Their energy undoubtedly, influences their chums, who have not this training, to do as they do and "play the game."

The older boys and girls go out in gangs or groups—something eggs and apples not only from friends of their fancies but from strangers as well—it makes no difference where they call on Hallowe'en.

After they have had enough of this amusement, some of them go to a party and duck for apples which are floating in a tub or are clever to catch with their teeth an apple, swinging from a string and when the tatty is "just right" the tatty pull commences.

Then there are the little sisters and brothers who are under the big sister or brother "dressing up" to go out and they are not going to be dressed up to and allowed to go out, until Daddy or Mother or Father fix them up in some kind of an outfit and wearing a false face the little one is taken to a friend's house, and the parents stand out of sight when the door is opened. The neighbor knows at once the hidden voice but makes an awful fuss trying to "guess who it is," much to the child's delight. At last the correct name is guessed —the little one is taken in—given something and then home to bed having had a wonderful time.

TILLIE THE TOILER

Your Child and Literature

By Constance Cameron

At this time of year when we celebrate Book Week our thoughts are turned more than at other times toward the child and his reading of books.

The child who reads avidly is no problem when it comes to building up a love of literature, but there is the opposite type of child, the extravert, who can't stop doing things long enough to sit down with a book.

There are lovely new things for children to read," a mother complains to me, "but how am I going to get Marian to read them?"

The most logical way it seems to me, is to link up what Marian likes to do with books and articles written about those activities. From there on she will walk on her own two feet into the realm of stories which don't necessarily apply to what she already does, but will open up new fields for further doing.

There is hardly a subject which has not been covered and covered well in books for children. Marian is a Girl Scout. There are fascinating books concerning their activities. Marian collects stamps, and much has been written on the subject. She rides in model airplanes (no, it isn't confined to boys) and there are some fascinating books available on the construction of airplanes. Books filled with the romance of real flying and of aviation. Then there are but a few subjects which link up with a child's activities.

Then, from the description of things the child has done and things he would like to do next is easy into literature which will be of help and real interest.

Reading a story to this type of child and re-telling it before the climax is reached with the remark that you'll read the story for self, to create an interest in the printed word. Suggesting that the child do the reading of the story for next to school compositions will help, too.

Start with the day the child is to have him read of things he knows about, and soon he will climb the Magic Carpet which will take him into lands he has not experience which makes travel and biographical works so thrilling to us.

MACDONALD MEETS KING EARLY TODAY

Premier Favors Intra-Empire Trade Development

SEES IMPORTANCE

Reconstruction of Cabinet First Duty of Government

London, England, Oct. 28—(CP)—Six hundred and eleven out of 615 members have been returned to the House of Commons. The remaining four results, London Universities, Inverness and the Isles to be elected by the English Universities, may not be known for some days.

Rt. Hon. George Hamilton, Canadian Minister, Has Brief Visit

LONDON, Oct. 28—Fresh from his triumphant victory Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald was up early yesterday for the first time in Buckingham Palace. The usual crowd that had gathered outside the palace shouted "good old Ramsay" as the Prime Minister passed through the gates, and Mr. Macdonald waved his hand with a smiling reply. In the afternoon he conferred with his Cabinet colleagues.

The first duty of the national government, it is expected, will be reconstruction of the cabinet. The present cabinet contains all ten members. It was formed to meet the emergencies of the political and financial crisis. It has been found too small a machine for this cabinet, as the last twenty years at least, have combined a score of ministers. Ten cabinet ministers are not enough for running the necessary sub-committees to deal with matters of policy.

Dominion Interested

Until the business of cabinet reconstruction is completed, the question of international government's policy cannot be taken in hand. But the expectation in well-informed circles is that the chief consideration of the national government's policy of trade expansion will be the development of closer economic agreement with the Dominions.

Interesting views latest in London today in the renewed invitation of the Dominion Premiers to the governments of the Empire, to the holding of the Imperial Conference at Ottawa. This conference originally was scheduled for August but the hangout state of affairs in various Dominions and in British finance, as indefinite postponement necessary.

Canada Cheered

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald has deeply stated it clear that close agreements with the Dominions are wished by the national government, for his formal election manifesto in which he pressed for a free hand in the negotiations, he said:

"The government must be free to consider every proposal likely to help, and not hinder, the development of export and contractions of imports, consistent with the principle of mutual economy agreements with the Dominions."

When Prime Minister Bennett first issued his invitation to an Imperial Conference, he said: "Stanley Baldwin, Conservative leader, like head of the opposition but now of course a power in the national government, has gone so far for the largest party in the House of Commons, immediately expressed his willingness to attend the meeting the election campaign Mr. Baldwin was frank to say that he hoped the invitation to Ottawa would be renewed."

Economic Strength

"The policy of the Empire," Mr. Baldwin said in his own election manifesto "is to develop the economic unity for which we have so long striven. I hope that the reasons which led to the postponement of the Ottawa conference have been overcome, that it will be possible for the Canadian government to renew their invitation. We shall then have an unique opportunity before us in the fact that it will fall to a national government to accept that invitation.

"The ideal of Imperial economic unity is wide-spread today," the Conservative leader had said. "And I am confident that the foundations of that unity can be well and truly laid, with such a general assent of our people as will have made impossible but a few short years ago."

FUTURE SEEN VERY BRIGHT

Imperial Oil President Is Optimistic For Canada

TORONTO, Oct. 29.—Grounds for optimism in the future of Canada are seen by O. G. Stoner, president of the Imperial Oil Ltd., who has just returned from a trip to Western Canada and the Pacific Coast.

"Never previously in the course of my 29 years have we had more reason to be optimistic than at the present time," he said in an interview yesterday.

"Vancouver is handling one cent of every three bushels of our export wheat. In spite of repressed conditions in the base metal industry, production in British Columbia has been held to a level only 10 per cent below that of 1929 and 1930," he said.

$1,125,000 CARGO IS CARRIED

Freighter Carried Regular Cargo to Capture New Markets

MELBOURNE, Australia Oct. 29 —(By the Canadian Press)—Cargo to the value of $1,125,000 was carried by the freighter Canadian Constructor when she left Brisbane on her "goodwill" voyage to Japan.

In addition to large consignments of regular lines of cargo, many sample shipments were also taken in order to test the possibility of capturing overseas markets for Canadian lines. A return voyage will be made by the same vessel with a similar cargo of Canadian goods.

The Canadian Constructor left Melbourne with the Victorian and South Australian consignments aboard. Cargo from Victoria included 67,240 cases of dried fruit, 43,000 cases, of canned fruit 6,000 superficial feet of sawn timber, and sample shipments of orange marmalade, jelly powder, egg pulp, eggs, concentration bovis furniture eucalyptus oil wood clippings and woollen goods.

In addition 10,000 cases of dried fruit, 2276 cases of wine and sample shipments of wine and brandy from South Australia were loading here. At Sydney the vessel will take aboard 42,000 cases of canned fruit and small quantities of wood pipes and other cargo.

SARDINE BY ANOTHER NAME

B. C. Pilchard, Which Leaped Into Favor, California Sardine

VANCOUVER, B. C. Oct. 28 (CP) and now the famous British Columbia pilchard, known as the Canadian flesh of the North Pacific because of its sardine like popularity and commercial value, turns out to be nothing more than a sardine by another name.

"We used to wonder where the pilchards came from and where they went," said John P. Babcock, deputy commissioner of fisheries and internationally known authority on salmon. "For months on end there would be seen off the west coast and then in summer, when the fishermen set warning, they would come in from the open Pacific by billion millions. The pilchards have been responsible during the past five years for the establishment of a whole industry in which millions of dollars are invested, employing a number of extensively reduction works and fertilizer plants. And no one knew anything about the private life of the pilchard whatever.

"Now, however, we are beginning to find out and the fishermen have discovered that this highly prized British Columbia fish is none other than the sardine which for many years has been caught in California waters and canned. The California the pilchard is highly regarded as a food fish. In British Columbia the pilchard appears to have no use at all. It is not to be supposed that way, but it is highly desirable for meal, oil and fertilizer. Most of the British Columbia pilchards that are caught by fishermen are in their sixth or seventh years.

ANTLER VELVET A DELICACY

Grizzly Bears Eat The Velvet and Left The Carcass

QUESNEL, B.C., Oct. 29.—(By the Canadian Press)—The velvet on the antlers of moose is considered by grizzly bears to be a great delicacy according to Dean Cochrane, big game hunter and guide of Barkerville, who returned yesterday from a month's hunt in the mountains beyond Keerern River.

"We killed a bull moose and we hung up the antlers in a tree near the remains of the carcass," reported Cochrane. "We returned on Saturday to find the antlers torn down and the velvet gone. The bear had preferred the velvet to the fresh meat. It was a giant of a bear and we left the meat and the rest of the carcass for the rest of the country in recent years. The skull measured nineteen inches and the pelt nine feet four inches. The spread between the tips of canine teeth was two and seven-eighths inches. A bear like that would have done a lot of damage if we hadn't been ready."

RUTH EXPECTS SAME SALARY

Babe Ruth, baseball's most colorful artist, stated this week that he expected another two year salary at the same figure which he has enjoyed during the past two seasons. Ruth also says that he has managerial aspirations after his usefulness has deserted him on the diamond. Ruth always had the idea that he would some day become a "big league" manager and perhaps this is the reason for his careful studying of the game during the past few years. All baseball magnates have stated that salaries will be cut in 1932 and it is with interest that the proceedings will be watched between Ruth and the owners of the Yankees this winter.

In the good old days the village blacksmith could always have time for netball games after he'd finished shoeing the horses and he was generally in early in the proceedings.

The scene is all set for the annual meeting of the Bay of Quinte Girls' Softball League to be held at the Y.M.C.A. at 7.30 next Monday evening. If street corner gossip is any indication of what may happen, then there promises to be plenty of action at Monday night's meeting. ESPLANADE less than one hundred and fifty thousand dollars, this to include the purchase of properties.

Mayor Perkins Yet

After four hours' deliberation in the committee room Tuesday night, where Mr. William Storrie of the engineering firm of Gore, Nasmith and Storrie gave a report on the proposed esplanade and other ways under advisement of the city council for relief of the unemployed during the winter months, the members arrived at no definite conclusion and in regular council after transacting certain business, adjourned to meet again on Saturday. What decision was made in the committee room or what the report in detail given by Mr. Storrie contained is not available as the press was not asked to sit in to hear the discussion. It is understood that certain legal matters are holding up that would demand attention if the council decides to accept the project.

The council, however, with a view of giving immediate relief to those in need, passed a recommendation, that if acted upon will start some relief work by the first of the week.

Work on Sewer

It was recommended "that the council proceed at once with a sanitary sewer and water main on Johnson Street from Bridge Street northerly" when a petition is properly signed by the ratepayers on the street and the sewer and main will be laid under Section 8 of the Local Improvement Act. City Engineer Mott and Ald. J. D. MacMillan, Chairman of Public Works, will interview the residents of the street and if they sign the petition, the work will be proceeded with immediately.

The final certificate will be issued to the Godson Construction Company for West Moira Street and North Front Street pavements according to a recommendation passed last night. The work was done on both pavements under the contract price and the city made a considerable saving. The Moira St. certificate will be issued for $10,-320.23 and the North Front Street for $23,025.26.

The council recommended the sale of a lot on Ridley Avenue to Mr. John S. MacKenzie for $78.00 with the city assuming this year's taxes after a report was received from a committee to investigate the same.

When the council came into the chamber, an extension of time for sitting had to be passed as it was 10.45 p.m., when they came in and the council cannot sit after eleven o'clock. An hour's extension was granted but the time was not needed as the council had but little business to transact in open council.

Mr. Wm. Storrie of Gore Nasmith and Storrie, Engineers, Toronto, spent last night going over the proposal of a second watermain from the pumping station to Front street. This is the other big project the city council has under advisement on the relief program.

FIVE YEARS

on the four charges and to each one pleaded guilty. The first charge was the theft of $2,041.25 from the field of Malcolm Township, the second theft of $641.00 from Percy Hamilton, of Thurlow Township, the third, theft of $372.00 from Edward and Elizabeth Howard of Limerick township and the fourth the theft of $500.00 from Edward and Elizabeth Diamond of Limerick township. In each case, it is understood, the accused was given first class securities and converted them to his own use, giving no stock or bonds in return.

In sentencing the accused Judge Deroche said: "I feel sorry for you in many ways and it hurts me to sentence the age of you. You are a young man with many opportunities in life and you have lived as a respectable man in the community and it seems a shame that you must be sentenced to the penitentiary for a number of years, but there is no other course open to it. You deliberately defrauded these people of their good securities. You had excellent counsel and every defence was given you but when it got to the bare bone, you had no defence. It is unfortunate that you have proved yourself guilty, that instead of coming forward and making restitution, you failed to make some restitution you fought the case to the bitter end, and now you have to be sentenced for the full amount of your crime. You have been easier for you if you had pleaded guilty but you chose the latter course.

"In the case of Reid," continued his Honor, "you have been in it for seven years and it is necessary for me to give you something substantial. You took from a man 74 years of age practically his life's savings which meant a great deal to him, and you took it deliberately and foiled thinking. You have got to go to the penitentiary, play the game, be a good boy, and when you come out and again rehabilitate yourself in the sphere you once had a standing. I sentence you to five years in Kingston Penitentiary on the Reid charge and one year each on the four other charges, these sentences to run concurrently," his Honor announced.

Crown Attorney Monk, K.C. who defended the accused, was not in court when the sentence was pronounced. There are a number of charges preferred against him now in Kingston for which he has been committed for trial but it is more than likely they will not be proceeded with that a stiff term has been imposed through the sentence in this district.

DAY'S PAY

ances. It was suggested that employees of the various industries be asked to contribute one day's pay a month or less, for a period of three or more months, or long as the need existed. It was felt that subscriptions of this kind for a period of three months would cover all requirements.

$18,000 Aim

An objective of ten thousand dollars was set and as the Dominion and Provincial governments will pay dollar for dollar on contributions of money, reaching the objective would mean a fund of thirty thousand dollars. Last winter over two hundred families were looked after by the Women's Christian Association and this winter it is expected there will be considerably more.

Over three hundred men are on the civic employment list and three days work a week is being divided among these men. As only an average of twenty-five can be used at one time now it means that these men get three days work about very three weeks.

Cooperation

There are wives and little children to be looked after and sorrow and suffering can be averted by the hearty co-operation of all citizens.

Arrangements were made at the meeting last evening to bring the matter before the employees of all manufacturing establishments, stores and other business houses, and all organizations of workers including the High and Public Schools.

Relief headquarters will be in the City Hall in the offices formerly occupied by the civic gas department, telephone 68W and the basement is the factory where the storage of foodstuffs and clothing, for which an appeal will be made later.

First Squad of Thirty is Picked

The knowledge that they are going to have work—that they will have comfortable quarters for the winter and that they will be earning much more than enough to worry the minds of the men selected at the Ontario Government Employment Bureau, Campbell Street, Thursday, to go north with the first draft from Belleville, to work on the construction of the government highway.

The allotment from Belleville calls for thirty young, healthy unmarried men and the selection was made from Belleville men who have been without employment for many months. These men were examined Thursday by two Belleville doctors and all were found to be in satisfactory physical condition. Friday morning they were assembled near the employment office anxiously waiting to be advised when and where they are to be sent. This information it is expected, will be received some time today and the men will be furnished with transportation and sent on their way. The men are fairly well outfitted, but how to procure replacements for the clothing the twenty four hours of the journey, is a problem to many of them, as they have nothing extra when, where and as they could for some time. In fact some of them have been living on soup supplied to transients at the relief station. This matter, however, will, no doubt, be arranged and none of them will be allowed to go hungry. The men left during this time are all disgruntled, they realize that all can not go at once and they are looking forward with hope to their time to go, which they know will come eventually but the sooner the better.

ECONOMISTS URGE GOLD BE RELEASED

Fisher, Kemmerer, Say Banks Could Help End Depression

CREDIT STRESSED

Speakers Assert Use of $200,000,000 Would Stiffen Prices.

New York, Oct. 30.—A remedy for the hard-to-depression and deflation in commodities lies in the power of the Federal Reserve System and the central banks of other countries, through their control of gold reserves, Professor Irving Fisher of Yale, Professor E. W. Kemmerer of Princeton and other speakers said at a dinner meeting of the American Statistical Association in the Aldine Club, 200 Fifth Avenue.

What is needed is a pumping of the gold supply from the vaults where it is held as backing for currency into channels where it may be used for the creation of credit, the speakers united in asserting. As far as this country is concerned, they agreed, this effect may be accomplished by the simple method of purchase of securities by the Federal Reserve Bank. Economists who joined Professors Fisher and Kemmerer in this opinion were Lionel D. Edie, former professor of Finance at Chicago University, and Dr. Warren Persons, former Professor Economics at Harvard.

Of approximately $4,600,000,000 in gold now held in the United States only $400,000,000 or less than 10 per cent. is used to back the country's credit base in the form of Federal bank deposits, Mr. Edie said. The remaining nine-tenths is used as the monetary base although actual cash transactions underlie only one-tenth of the nation's purchases.

Should as little as $30,000,000 in gold be transferred to credit backing, it would stiff the entire scale of commodity prices, he said. This would make for an upturn in business.

Causes of Slump Reviewed

Professor Fisher reviewed the causes which had, in his opinion, led to the present depression. The fundamental cause, he believed, was that the nations of the world were contracted debts far beyond their normal capacity to pay. There had been, first of all, he explained the reparations bill of the World War; then the Inter-allied debts, the American loans to Europe during the reconstruction period, the debts contracted by speculators during the wave of prosperity, and the debts due to an unprecedented increase in instalment buying of automobiles, refrigerators and other articles.

"If we had real statistics on debt, I believe they would show there was more per capita debt in this world than ever before in history," he declared. "And particularly in this country. And that is what distinguishes this period from any other."

The immediate cause of the crisis, Professor Fisher declared, was the collapse of the stock market built under the weight of these debts. The specific event which started the ball rolling, he held, was the Hatry failure in London, which led to large selling of securities here in this country and resulted, ultimately, in drastic declines in securities by security holders affected by the Hatry failure in prison.

From this point, he argued that since the depression had been started by a collapse in credit, it could be counteracted by a proper use of debt and credit expansion.

Gold Misused, Says Kemmerer

Professor Kemmerer, in his discussion of the same topic, definitely stated that a distinguishing feature of the present depression was that falling prices could not be attributed to a scarcity of gold, but must be attributed to the misuse of the supply at home.

"Much of our gold is practically idle," he explained, "but it will be put to work when people abroad and people at home believe that it can be put to use safely and profitably. Then, it will be found that the supply is ample if the world organizes its gold standard currency system on modern scientific lines and place its administration in the hands of men of character and ability."

"We Will Not Be Undersold"

"Over 70 Years of Jewellery Satisfaction"

Dr. Riddle, in his analysis of the relationship between credit and commodity prices, pointed out that in tabical chart to show that during the depression prices and demand deposits in reporting banks outside of New York City had declined together, with astonishing regularity. "Hand-to-hand currency does only a small part of the money work of the country, but it is allowed to hold up, as a factor, to combat the shrinkage of demand deposits of the banks," he said. It requires only inactive reserves of gold to the account of interior banks until they can expand credit to a normal active by reversing the hoarding and liquidating policy. "They now hold only $400,000,000 in gold in active reserves, while the gold published in these accounts by $300,000,000 larger and the difference is the gold supply of the United States but it would have far-reaching consequences in re-establishing the headquarters of agriculture.

UPWARD TREND SEEN IN TRADE

Record of Larger Firms Shows Steady Expansion

Windsor, Ont., Oct. 30—Employment figures for a number of large firms showed an upward trend during the month of September, said E. B. Morley, general manager of the Industrial Accident Prevention Association, Toronto, speaking here last night.

"The record we have of 174 large firms, employing 50 or more on the average, shows that August is the time at the low figure for employment since the end of 1929, and for these same 174 the low figure for employment was in September, and the figures for September from those latest reports show a significant trend that we all hope will be continued."

Shrinkage in employment was the evident reported this year to the Industrial Commission of Ontario as compared with 1929 and 1930 he said.

New Theory JoinsElectricity and Gravitation in Structural Whole

Berlin, Oct. 30—The new Einstein unified field theory was explained by Dr. Walter Mayer, who collaborated with Professor Albert Einstein in formulating it, as a development of the Einstein general relativity theory, and it combines gravitation and electricity in a single structural whole.

"The general relativity theory," said Dr. Mayer to your correspondent, "suffered from a dualism, adequate for gravitation, it harbored the electromagnetic field as a foreign body, and its formulas Professor Einstein had to introduce artificially, as it were.

"The dualism is abolished in the new theory, which unbosoms both gravitation and electricity under one comprehensive law and the same architecture throughout.

Ever since he formulated his relativity theory in 1916 Professor Einstein has been working ideas how to remedy that dualism, Dr. Mayer said. Years ago he joined Professor Einstein to work on the subject, but for a long time they followed what proved to be a blind lead.

"As a mater of fact, it was only last June that we hit on the right method," he continued, "but thereafter forward the work moved very quickly.

The new theory was developed by means of a new mathematical concept, known as that of a relative field with five components, or determining quantities, in four space-time dimensions; i.e., the Einsteinian spacetime—continuum.

"Therefore had I been taken for granted by everybody that a vector's components must be the same number as the dimensions of its space-continuum, but this does not be more. Of course, the new vectors gave us new tensor equations.

"The unified field theory gives not only gravitational formulas agreeing with those in the general relativity theory, but also electromagnetic formulas agreeing with Maxwell's. There had long been a question whether the Maxwell formulas were really exact or only approximative; the unified field theory shows them to be quite exact."

Dr. Mayer added that Professor Einstein hoped the quantum theory would ultimately also be incorporated into one comprehensive theory.

RETURNS FROM FOSSIL HUNT

Party Covered 5,000 Sq. Miles in Patagonia Expedition

New York Oct. 30—Dr. George Gaylord Simpson, head of the Scarritt Patagonian expedition, returned on the Munson liner Argentina Legion, after an absence of more than a year spent studying fossil mammals in the lower regions of Patagonia. Although some of the specimens had been sent up previously for mounting at the American Museum of Natural History, Dr. Simpson said that others would be forwarded later by the Government of Argentina.

Dr. Simpson left New York in August, 1930, but only two months were devoted to collecting spec imens, as he had spent several months lecturing at the museum in Buenos Aires. Dr. Simpson was accompanied on the expedition by Lieutenant Williams of the museum staff who returned to New York a few weeks ago.

The Patagonian specimens, which Dr. Simpson obtained in the studies of the evolution of the "warm-blooded animals," are described by him as of "older than the mastadon, but not older than the dinosaur." Dr. Simpson said 40,000 000 and 50,000,000 years old.

"Some fine specimens he said were found in this rich pocket along the cliffs of Patagonia, about 300 miles from the coast, on a bare at Commodore Pivadavia," he said. "We spent about five months of this area and collected about six tons of gear and some of the finest collections of that age."

Mentioning the condition of this transition from the cold-blooded reptile to the early stages of mammal, as the mesozoic era, Dr. Simpson explained it was one of the most common type about the size of a wolf and having short thick hind legs and a long tail. All of the animals of that age were small or tiny, Dr. Simpson said.

Dr. Simpson said that the territory must have been much warmer than it is now, as it was almost covered with thick vegetation. The fossils were found in volcanic ash or lava,indicating volcanic eruptions of many kinds had greatly changed the face of the country leaving it a stark and dreary desert. The area traversed by the expedition included 5,000 square miles inland from the base camp at Commodoro Rivadavia, which was reached by rail from Buenos Aires.

Although there were various races of peoples represented in that area,Dr. Simpson said, not a trace of Indian tribes remained. The great change was in working the cliffs, several hundred feet high in the fossil winds, common to the region. The winds buried chiefly on mutton, but some ostrich and armadillos were encountered.

The ship brought shipment of $3,700,000 in gold to Argentina in consignments, one from the Banco de la Nacion Argentina, and one amounting to $1,500,000, and the other from the Banco de la Republica of Uruguay.

Friendly Scuffling Brings Two Deaths

New Westminster, B.C., Oct. 30—A little friendly scuffling as they fooled and during a period of constant hunt Wednesday resulted in the accidental shooting of Fred Parker and Clifford Jones, 18 year old boys, when companions mistook their guns discharged and shot them through the heart for they were found mortally wounded by a passing motor on Marine Drive, near here.

"I guess we were fooling, Dad," Jones said during a period of consciousness yesterday as his father leaned over him, but he died in the cause of the mysterious double shooting. Walker was the first to die, while Jones succumbed a few hours later.

HURLED 30 FT. BY EXPLOSION

Ex-Mayor of Preston Injured in Blast, Three Towns Shaken

Preston, Oct. 30—A terrific explosion which shook Preston, Hespeler and Galt and the entire countryside late Thursday night resulted in a fire which destroyed the James Gillies Coal and Lumber plant here with a loss not yet estimated but caused serious burns to ex-Mayor James Gillies, the owner of the factory.

The boiler building, kiln house and lumber house of the Gillies plant were razed; near-by coal sheds and lumber plant of N. O. Hipel, M.P.P., across the railway tracks was set on fire and saved only after a difficult struggle.

Blown fully 30 feet through the air by the explosion which followed the discovery of the fire, Mr. Gillies suffered serious burns to his body, legs, face and hands. Practically all his clothing was torn from his body.

Mr. Gillies, on a late evening visit to the plant was about to leave for home when, under the door of the cabinet room, he thought he saw an unsteady flicker of light.

He wrenched open the heavy door. Instantly, with the in burst of air into the room, a tremendous detonation followed.

Tossed Like Chaff

Picked up like a piece of chaff in the wind, Mr. Gillies was tossed bodily into the far section of the factory, his body scarred and his few remaining rags of clothing smouldering.

The whole back wall of the cabinet room toppled outward. On the outer side of the wall, an annex built in the form of a big teapot, was shoved by the blast some distance across the lumber yard.

The explosion lighted up the sky. Its echoes mingled with the sound of breaking glass as windows were shattered in many parts of Preston, Hespeler and Southwood.

In Galt and Hespeler the blast was heard alarmingly loud, and the momentary flash in the sky was followed by several minutes by a steadier and brighter glow as the flames engulfed the shattered building.

The Preston fire department turned out with their pumping engine, and all available hose lines were turned on the blazing coal buildings. They had no apparent effect, however, on the flames grip.

Next the lumber and coal sheds began to smoke, and firemen were detailed to soak the sheds. They managed to save the upper floors of the Gillies plant.

Across the tracks the N. O. Hipel factory suddenly took fire, and when water was played on the roof the burst of steam from the superheated walls and roof was almost an explosion.

Several times the Hipel premises were ablaze, but each time the fire was soon quelled the outbreaks.

At 12.30 a.m. the fire brigade was still at work on the scene, but the danger of spread was over.

The Gillies Company's loss includes buildings and machinery, much valuable wood turning machinery and other machinery. The amount of insurance carried is not known nor is the loss.

Scene of Murder House Takes Fire

Preston, Oct. 30—The crackle of flames again re-echoed through the small one-storey dwelling here where Mike Wasalewicz was found dead in a burning bed on Sunday July 26.

Mike Mase was believed to have been of an incendiary origin, a handful of burned excelsior being found between the partition of one of the rooms.

This caused another mystery within the four walls of this small frame house, first—the murder—still is unsolved, with a $500 reward for information being offered by the province.

Fire Chief Spalding is dubious whether or not to blame it for the attention of the fire marshal, but is inclined at last to think the insurance company carrying the risk is responsible.

The house had been vacated since the murder, and is insured for $1,200. The daughter, Mrs. Storey, who has taken possession of a home was in Toronto with her husband.

FROZEN MONEY COMING OUT

Hoover's Relief Program to Strengthen Banking Structure

Washington, Oct. 30.—President Hoover's —financial relief program is showing definite results in its two principal objectives of releasing the hoarding of money and strengthening the country's banking structure today.

Gold imports came in a Federal Reserve report revealing that "frozen gold in circulation," after representing hoardings, decreased $24,000,000 during the last week. This was the first substantial drop since the new deposit banking which started over a year ago caused people to hoard.

It indicates that confidence is being restored and that people are beginning to take unto money from hiding places to put it back into banks.

At the same time, it was disclosed that bank failures are diminishing. While no complete figures are available, the number of failures in October will be less than in September.

These two factors led to a distinctly optimistic feeling among Government officials, coupled with they are with such other encouraging developments as to steadying of the stock market, a pick-up in retail trade, and the retarding of gold shipments abroad.

Newspapers are adding as fall of cheers there is already any room for facts.—James J. Walker.

What Theatrical Managers Say of Coming Attractions

At The Capitol

"THE RUNAROUND" IS A FEAST OF COLOR

It's perfectly true that the men doesn't live who knows all about women.

It is just as true that, though women probably know men better than men know them, the woman doesn't live who knows all about men.

Nor how to catch them.

And in that fact lies the value, for women, of Shelley Pictures' new only-drama, screen version of Samuel Merwin's fascinating Goodbye Kiss" and Mary Brian at the Capitol theatre today.

For Mary, with the story is given the position of all the little tricks that women have discovered, but which the weaker sex simply cannot afford to employ.

In this wholesome but ultra-sophisticated story, the opportunity to learn how a Broadway beauty not only lands millionaires who want everything except marriage, but also makes them like it.

Kerr, as Sophie Sax, star of wealth, aspires to a rosy love nest without benefit of clergy, but has stood he backs on the bark of plain old matrimony. He doesn't want to turn out to be the cupcake. He nearly becomes the main.

It all takes place in the colorful slants of New York night life, Gotham cabarets and the foyers of high pleasure scenes, the scintillating and surprising performance of Kerr, fresh from the New York stage in the entirely new style of Mary Brian; the handsome work of Stephen Gwinham, and of Johnny Hines, whose work in support of Marie Previs, make "The Runaround" more than worth while.

"The Runaround" plays at the Capitol for the last time tonight and is supported by Hines' picture in "Old Lace" a travelogue and also Film Folks Cartoon.

"MEN OF THE SKY" AT THE CAPITOL SATURDAY

"Men of the Sky", the First National picture of Wednesday's vaudeville comes to the Capitol Theatre Saturday, for a run of two days.

The intensely dramatic story has to do with the adventures of a boy and girl whose hopes for the future are blasted by the fact that they are barred from the maelstrom of war as flyers and compelled to sublimate their love for each other in the vastly love of country.

The opening scenes are in Dresden-Baden in the days preceding the opening of the World War. Jack Agnes, an American flyer, is in the midst of a tennis tournament, his opponent being the young Princess Ethel, Erie von Coburg. Watching the game is Madeleine, daughter of a member of the French Intelligence service, whom they both love.

Before nightfall the ominous news comes that the conflict is here and the friends of the morning are enemies. Madeleine's father insists on her accepting the invitation to come for a month to Switzerland in Germany, to gain information for the Allies, and she leaves without further explanation to Jack.

The kaleidoscopic events of the story carries the ill-fated lovers to Berlin, Paris, Switzerland, Montgomery and through plane-darkened skies. Many thrilling adventures lead them to their ultimate reunion and decision and acceptance of the inevitable.

GIANT TURTLE IS DISCOVERED

Its Appearance in Such Northern Waters is Mystery

Port Alberni, B.C. (C.P.)—Commercial fishermen and fisheries experts on the west coast are bewildered by the appearance recently in Vancouver Island water of a giant turtle.

All sorts of theories have been advanced to explain the turtle's presence in such a northern latitude, and most fishermen seem convinced that an unusual shift in the current from the tropical waters was responsible, not only for the turtle's arrival, but for the frequency of other southern sea denizens, such as Portuguese man-of-war, curious minute creatures which float on the surface and give the appearance of an enormous fleet of tiny sailing vessels.

The turtle was of the leather-back variety and weighed 1450 pounds. It was sighted about eight miles off Nootka by a pure seining vessel. The skipper killed the creature with his gun and the carcass was towed back to Nootka, where the shell was removed and shipped to the provincial museum at Victoria. The shell was nine feet and a half in length and ten and a half feet wide.

Fishermen are wondering whether the presence of the turtle has had any relation to the great run of pilchard off the west coast this fall.

Sharks and Portuguese man-of-war have been plentiful during the summer, thus suggesting that the same condition which influenced the big turtle to wander northward also affected the sharks and man-of-war.

RUSSIA BITTER OVER RESULTS

Will Hasten Mass Revolution, Says Newspaper

MOSCOW, Oct. 30. — (AP.) — Great Britain's Conservatives may have slandered the greatest majority a single party ever had in the House of Commons, the Moscow Pravda said today, but the British election really was a victory for Communism and Socialism.

The newspaper Pravda said the great majority of Conservatives means new attacks on Soviet Russia and is also meagre although by the Bourgeoisie on England's working classes which would "hasten mass revolt and accelerate the growth of communist influence in the British Empire the Newspaper Izvestia declaring its comment "the victory of reaction" and the most significant feature was not the Conservative gain but the fact that victory was won under the slogan of protection ism.

"England as a free trade country is passing from the world stage," the editorial said. "This gives new impetus to protectionism in all capitalist countries and increases the danger of war. This can only hasten the movement toward socialism."

Bank To Release Frozen Credits

PARIS, Oct. 30.—The creation of an international credit bank to which will be transferred the funds now frozen in Germany during the present financial crisis was understood last night to depend chiefly upon the attitude of the French Government.

In the Franco-Belgian financier laid the proposal before President Hoover in Washington this week and will return to France shortly to confer with Premier Pierre Laval and Finance Minister Pierre Etienne Flandin on the scheme.

President Hoover, Eugene Meyer governor of the Federal Reserve Board, and George L. Harrison, governor of the New York Federal Bank of New York, were reported to have approved the proposals, which would be designed to release more than 2,000,000,000 francs (some $1,300,000,000) in frozen short term credits in Germany (American bankers estimate the total frozen in Germany total around 4,400,000,000 francs).

The proposed International Credit Bank would be analogous with the bank for international settlements at Basle and would be a process of discount, transform the credits invested in Germany into three or five-year credits, rather than the present short-term loans which are due in January and probably will not be met.

It would be proposed to centralize control of large international credit operations with the bank releasing the short-term credits.

Mrs. WM. SULLIVAN

Moncton, N. B.—"After my little boy was born I suffered from backache and I got tired all the time, used to take dizzy spells and thought I was going to die. I was losing weight and had pain in my side most of the time and was so nervous that the least noise would make me feel as if I were going to faint," writes Mrs. William Sullivan of 400 Main St. "One happy day I read about Dr. Pierce's medicines and decided to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I got a bottle at the drug store and before it was gone I began to gain in health. I took three bottles of it and four of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and am now in the best of health."

TO PROCEED WITH AUXILIARY WATER MAIN

Esplanade Project is Laid Over for Present Decision of Council

Council Generally Favors Plan at Some Later Date

PETITION IN

Vote 7 to 5 Against Present Work on Boulevard Plan

One of the most contentious questions before any city council in years, that of whether to build or not to build a driveway along the east bank of the River Moira, was decided on Saturday at an adjourned meeting of the City Council, when by a vote of 7 to 5, the majority here decided not to proceed with the project for this year at least, and as an alternative to give work to the unemployed during the winter months the council passed a recommendation to construct an auxiliary pipe line from the filtration plant to the downtown section of the city, the work to proceed within ten days.

The yeas and nays were taken on the esplanade recommendation and were recorded by the city clerk as follows:

Yeas—Mayor Reid, Aldermen Griffin, Hill, Walker and McMillan.

Nays—Woodley, Sprackett, Armstrong, Tice, Marshall, Wotten and Loaker.

Ald. Kinnear was absent when the vote was taken but expressed himself in favor of the project. The members were unanimous in the recommendation to construct the auxiliary pipe line.

Enquiry Engineers

The recommendation passed by the council was "that the duplicate main be proceeded with at the earliest possible moment and the firm of Gore, Nasmith and Storrie be retained to proceed at once to route the said main, call for tenders, for material and to apply to the board in ten days and that the approval of the Department of Health be obtained forthwith."

The lengthy recommendation which was voted against by the council after considerable discussion had been heard was:

"Whereas this committee deem it advisable and in the best interests of the city of Belleville that a street be opened on the east bank of the River Moira from Bridge street on the south to the point of intersection with Front Street in the vicinity of the present Hoxie's bakery be opened up, following the plans brought in by the engineers.

"2. That necessary steps be taken to acquire the necessary right-of-way.

"3. That if considered advisable the work be undertaken as a relief measure under the plan of relief as constituted to by the Dominion and Ontario government.

"4. That engineers employed to lay out the work and to supervise the construction.

"5. That as far as practically possible all materials to be used be purchased in the city of Belleville and that citizens of the city of Belleville be employed in carrying out the undertaking."

The report of the committee was moved by J. D. MacMillan and seconded by George H. Griffin.

Petition Presented

The council went into the committee of the whole with Ald. Looker in the chair and William B. Deacon, chairman of the civic committee presented a petition of those who were in favor of the project:

"To His Worship the Mayor and Members of the Council of the City of Belleville:

"We, the undersigned ratepayers and citizens of Belleville, do hereby most respectfully petition your honorable body to enter upon and take immediate action to inquire into and carry out the recommendations embodied in the report recently presented to the City Council by the Civic Committee that had been for some time investigating the feasibility of constructing an esplanade along the east bank of the Moira river.

"We support the Committee's recommendations in the belief that the opening up of the new thorough fare will

(a) Afford an immediate and adequate means of relieving unemployment for ratepayers needing to come.

(b) Lay out abundant parking

Economic Parley Not Long Delayed

LONDON, Oct. 31.—By all present appearances the convening of an Imperial Economic Conference, probably at Ottawa, will not be long delayed.

The British cabinet is appointing a committee to study the whole trade and tariff question, a body that might be called a "scientific tariff commission".

BAKERS' WAR CUTS PRICES FOR CONSUMER

Further Cutting May Result if Trend Continues

COST QUESTION

Difficulty Found in Getting at Cause of Cutting

Bread prices have settled slightly in the city. Some bakers are selling at six cents a small loaf and others at seven cents for the same sized loaf. For several months the difference of one cent has been maintained. This week, it is understood, the city bakers agreed to agree and the price of bread was set at seven cents for a small loaf. Friday they all started out selling at this price but early in the after noon the price broke, the cut rate was again in force, and today the price is six cents for some bakers bread and seven cents for others. The same applies to the grocery stores. Down town the price is generally six cents for a small loaf and in the residential sections the price is seven cents. A few bakers Saturday expressed the opinion that if this state of affairs continued there may possibly be a "real bread war", such as has been waged in some parts of the province, where bread, for a short time, sold at two and a half cents for a small loaf. Bakers say they are selling at seven cents say that they cannot make a profit at a lesser price and for less. Wheat they state is up in price and flour has been and is advancing, having gone up thirty five cents a barrel during the last few days. It is the feeling among bakers canvass Belleville dealers said at cut prices and in some quarters this is said to be the cause of the friction which exists amongst the city bakers. Others do not consider this to be the real cause, but just what is the cause it is difficult to ascertain. It is hoped, however, friendly developments are expected by some of the bakers.

Philip Snowden Has Audience With King

Philip Snowden, who was Chancellor of the Exchequer, has been at Prime Minister MacDonald's right hand since 1929 and all through the troubled months of this year, was granted an audience by the King today. Tow Sub Out to Sea — Cannot Sink It — Tow It Back Into Port Again

OSLO, Norway, Oct. 31 (AP)—It's not going to be so easy to scuttle Sir Hubert Wilkins's submarine, Nautilus as the authorities thought. They tried it today but had to give it up.

The battered old hulk was towed out to sea. Then a crew was sent to have been put on board to open the valves and send the battered ship to the bottom for keeps. Heavy seas were running and the Nautilus pitched and rolled so dangerously that the crew refused to go aboard.

Then the hawser broke and it was hours before the crew got it back again. Finally the line. They gave up scuttling as a bad job and towed the veteran back to Sorpen. When the weather clears they will try again.

In the early part of the evening the Warden was presented with the customary gold-headed cane as a gift from the members of the County Council and the county officials, while Mrs. Charles Thompson received a beautiful basket of American beauty roses. In each case the recipients thanked all most heartily for their kind remembrance, the Warden especially. Page Twelve

HOOVER SEES RECOVERY NOT FAR OFF NOW

Money Hoarding Near End Leads To New Spirit

MONEY IN BANKS

Small Bank Failures Have Almost Ceased, Says President

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 31 (AP)—A sharp upward swing in pub lic confidence which has led already to a cessation of money hoarding and the end of small bank failures is seen by President Hoover.

Almost exactly two years after definition of the stock market began in 1929, the chief executive cites a "very great change" in the reality in credit conditions with its practical effect evidenced by a recovery in wheat and cotton prices.

"Evidence over the last week indicates that not only has hoarding ceased, but actually $4,000,000 of hoarded money has returned to the banks," Mr. Hoover said. The small bank failures has almost ceased. Foreign exchanges are returned to a basis in which it is no longer advantageous to ship gold abroad.

Britain Sees Revival.

HEROIC BOYS RESCUE GIRL

Jump Between Rails and All Three Are Saved

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP)—An impatient subway crowd surged forward yesterday in response to a train's distant roar.

Miss Frieda Wasserstein, 28, stumbled, fell onto the tracks.

Spectators stood horrified.

Two youths, about 15, squirmed to the platform's edge, jumped down, pushed Miss Wasserstein into a small clear space beneath, climbed in beside her.

Others shrieked. The motorman backed, fearful that one, perhaps all three, had been killed.

The boys calmly lifted Miss Wasserstein to the platform, mindful not to hurt her fractured leg.

"We're late for school as it is," they mumbled, then edged away.

VETERAN CARES FOR TREE

Following recent storms, "the talking tree," an ancient maple tree near West Lake, said to be the largest in the world of the maple species, is now supporting many broken limbs. The girth of the tree is over 18 feet, and by man age it was 180 feet high, but at present it is not over 60 feet in height. Stephen Lake, aged 90, is engaged in cutting the falling limbs into firewood. The talking tree has long been a landmark in the County of Prince Edward, and thousands of tourists have stopped under its many branches for shade or a wish. Historians claim that the tree is about 700 years old, and several novels have been written about it.

A.I.I. Regiment Has Successful Turnout

A fine turnout, last evening marked the final drill for the week of the Argyll Light Infantry, under the command of Lt. Col. E. Ashley, D.S.O. when at 8 o'clock the pipe band the battalion left the armouries, shortly after eight o'clock, for a short march about the city streets. This concluded with their second week of training this season, the same being devoted to the rifle exercises and to the fine marching music of pipe band, made a most creditable showing. Returning to the armouries, there was a short period of company drill followed by an hour of sports.

Already, this season, about 100 have joined the battalion and although five or six are leaving for the new highway development, and have turned in their uniforms and equipment, the parade drill last evening, showed a turn out of 140. The battalion is striving to enroll to a strength of 726, and with the showing made in the first two weeks, another seven days should see the goal reached. The boys are enjoying thoroughly, the boxing, basketball, soccer and bowling, which is indulged in after the regular drills on Monday and Friday nights.

An interesting incident (though properly, it should be classed as more than an incident) occurred at the drill last night, when a senior officer, in regard to service with the battalion, Pte. Duffin, made a gruff sworn in, were father and son, Major J. V. Boyle (O.C.) and private Boyle (Ted) Boyle respectively. Major Doyle donned the uniform as a private, in the old armouries in Church St., 29 years ago and since then has been connected continuously with the battalion ever since. Major Doyle claims he has one up on his son, which, by the way can never remedy, as he joined the regiment a year younger than the present Major Doyle.

Organization of the battalion has now been completed for the 1931 season, as follows.

Two Thirds of "Y" Objective Is Raised

After a week of wide canvas the workers in the Y.M.C.A. financial campaign met at the Y.M.C.A. last evening to report. Supper was served by the ladies of the Women's Auxiliary to the group at 6.30. Reports were given by Chairman of the Finance Committee Y.M.C.A. presided; Russell Wolfenden, Secretary-Treasurer and Leo Rigby, Pianist. During the evening Mr. Wolfenden Banister presented two very fine solos. The work has now moved that with about two thirds of the cards covered and calls completed, about two-thirds of the amount had been secured. It was unanimously decided that the workers should take another week in which to complete the work re-opening on Monday, November 9th, $5,000 at least will be required to carry the Association programme through another year. The work of the Association is well known. The work being done among the boys needed is far greater this year both within and without the building. The Board of Directors and staff will do their utmost to meet the demands being made upon them. The citizens are asked to co-operate with the workers in making possible the necessary budget. If you have not been called on, send or bring your subscription to the Y.M.C.A.

Swift Co. Instals New Machinery

Struck by the fact that as yet no machine has been invented to successfully do the work, a reporter investigated the current rumor that the local Swift Plant were installing a new machine to pick feathers. Thus dispensing with the services of some dozen men and women who now are now busily engaged at that task. Instead of a feather picker, the reporter found them installing two different types of feather dryers. The smaller, an electric high-speed machine which handles the entire feathers just as they come from the fowl. The larger, steam type dryer—for long agitation them, while absorbing the surplus moisture, which leaves the feathers soft and fluffy (also dry) as they are packed directly (from the machine into eighty pound bags which are sent to Toronto.

Obituary

MRS. MELBAN—BROCKVILLE

Brockville, Oct. 31—At the General hospital the death occurred Friday of Mrs. May MacLean, wife of Donald MacLean, who predeceased her four years ago. She is survived by one son, Donald, Brockville for more than 40 years.

The late Mrs. MacLean was born in Inverness, Scotland, on December 13, 1857, and within a few weeks, had she lived, would have attained her 74th birthday. She was married to Mr. MacLean, spent in Prescott and Smith's Falls. The late Mrs. MacLean made her home in Brockville and was held in high regard by a large number of citizens who had the pleasure of her acquaintance. She was a member of St. John's United church.

Surviving are two stepsons and one stepdaughter, namely, Porter MacLean, Belleville; Donald MacLean, Toronto, and Mrs. George Wright, Smith's Falls. Four grandchildren reside in Prescott.

The funeral was held on Friday afternoon at two o'clock, from the residence of Mrs. M. Stevenson, 53 Bartholomew street, Brockville, and was made in Oakland cemetery.

LATE JONATHAN JUDGE SISSON

The funeral of the late Jonathan Judge Sisson was held from his late residence 57 Queen street, Friday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock. Services were conducted by the Rev. A. Beauchamp Hoyle of St. Thomas' Anglican Church. The funeral was private and only the immediate friends of the family were present. The bearers were J. W. Holmes, H. Thompson, C. Smith and Mr. Carr. C. Pullen and L. Patrick.

Interment was made in the family plot in the Belleville Cemetery.

Cats and Dogs

When a dog chases a cat that's not news. Every dog in the world around and chases the cat, that's another matter. Dogs chase cats largely if the cat be large and the dog not only be small but possessed with what is known in dogdom as a born aversion to all cats in general and to the individual cat in the particular cat mentioned in this story.

At about six o'clock last evening the few passers by near the upper end of Bridge street bridge saw a tri-ply ring which re-echoed through the entire district, which have meant nothing else than the demise of some lucky cat, who had managed somehow to become entangled with a passing car and was now drawing his last agonizing breath. Suddenly from around the bend of Bridge street, and the cause of the commotion a small smooth haired fox terrier, large and hanging out, ears flying back and eyes protruding, like Jacks' saucers, from the strain of terrific speed, an accustomed speed under which he has labored many times on the city street bow-legged in haste and close to the pavement in his haste and over looking cat with a malignant gleam in its eye. Unfortunately for the cat the dog enabled the dog to gain another foot or two of precious space, he would have escaped with his pals with the cat again gaining ground.

Whatever happened latter still remains a mystery, for the passing sailor to go about their business; new reporters still write of the strange things they see and hear in the city streets, but the cat's fate is left to somewhere there must be a little pup who has, for the present made the resolution to himself that never again will he try to see how far he can go with the tail of another of any black cat just before Hallowe'en.

Canadian Legion Hold Euchre Party

Legionnaires met in a fairly successful euchre and dance in the G.W.V.A. hall last evening. Unfortunately, on account of the many other attractions in the city, the attendance, while fairly large was not as great as the joint committee in charge had anticipated upon. As this however, was but the commencement of the season's weekly entertainment in this hall too much importance should not be placed upon this night. An attempt is also being made to hold a euchre party for ladies only, on Wednesday afternoon next week, commencing at noon. It is interesting to note that there will be a number of these entertainments go for the purpose of the distribution of comforts to old veterans, and their families, in this vicinity. While the remainder is going to contribution to Belleville and district hospital in Toronto. The early part of the evening was devoted to the ever popular game of progressive euchre in which many ladies participated taken, and after a dainty lunch served by the ladies, dancing to the excellent playing of Miss Darrah on the piano was indulged in until the early hours.

Those who won prizes were:—ladies' first—Mrs. Monsour; 91; Mrs. Lavin 86; Mrs. Robinson 84; gentlemen's first Mr. Tom Boyle 92; E. J. Baldrey 91; W. Halls 81

Jewelry valued at $10,000 was in a handbag which a thief snatched from Mrs. Ella G. Stinson as a subway, Halifax, N. Scotia.

16 Men Taken on Job Loading Canned Goods

Out of a gang of fifty men who milled around the warehouse on the corner of Front and Bridge at eight o'clock some sixteen were singled out and put to work loading cases of canned gods from a local cannery for transportation by truck.

When asked by a reporter present if he had any difficulty in assigning these men to work, Mr. Wind, the man in charge, and who was at one time one of the G.W.V.A. most intelligencer of this city stated that it was the same at all the other reports he had visited—that there was always a large surplus of local men who depended on seasonal occupations and could find no work in the winter.

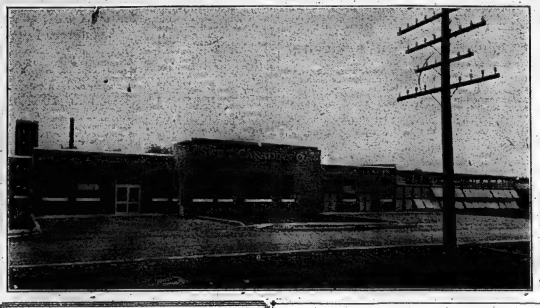
Confirmation services were held in the Church of St. John the Baptist, Madoc, on Wednesday evening, October 28th, the Rector, Rev. T. Cetley Raynold, presenting six candidates for Confirmation.

Bishop Seager of Ontario spoke earnestly to the candidates and the congregation of the great privileges and also great responsibilities of Communicants. Taking from St. Matthew's Gospel, seventeenth chapter, the story of the blessing and training of the Apostles in the mysteries of the Kingdom of Heaven until the revelation of the Mount of Transfiguration, he followed the thought of the foundation of the Church by selection and preparation. Speaking of the two-fold purpose of the choice of an inner circle, the privileges and the close associations, he urged the candidates to begin at once to form habits of daily prayer, regular church worship, and regular frequent attendance at Holy Communion, that to grow in grace, and in the knowledge and the fulness of spiritual life.



Just before the "laying on of hands," the text "Breathe on me Breath of God," was softly sung, all kneeling. On this solemn part of the service. The processional Hymn was "Stand up, and Bless the Lord," and the Recessional "Now thank we all our God." During the Service "Jesus Shall reign" was also sung.

A good congregation was present for the beautiful and impressive service.

LITTLE JOURNEYS

To the Busy Hives of Industry Which Contribute to Belleville's Constant and Growing Prosperity

(No. 1)

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the first of a series of articles on Belleville industrial plants which will be published on Saturday of each week to make the citizens of Belleville and the world generally familiar with the many and varied industries which contribute to the general prosperity of this city and district. The next article in this series will appear on Saturday, November 7th.

THE SWIFT PLANT

From seven to ten thousand dollars weekly. Between a quarter and a half million dollars yearly. That is what the Swift Packing Company distributes among the farmers of this and adjacent counties.

How many people of this fair city realize what this means to the prosperity of this community and also to the farmers to have such a satisfactory outlet for their produce.

The chief problem the farmer faces today is to get a market for the products of his land. The canning factories to a limited extent solve the problem for a few. Local markets also help but not nearly enough. So along comes the Swift Company and absorbs the large surplus of poultry and eggs.

Farmers drive here from considerable distances to deal with this firm and a large percentage of them must spend at least part of their earnings among the merchants here.

The Belleville Chamber of Commerce and the City Council are both to be congratulated on having secured for Belleville an industry that pulls business to the city by reason of its activities.

Mr. W. D. Sinclair, the general manager, invited a representative of the staff of the Ontario Intelligencer to visit the plant one day this week, of which privilege was taken. Mr. Sinclair has been with the Swift Company for several years. He came here from Stratford where he was in charge of a plant similar to the one here. He personally showed the visitor through the plant explaining the activities of the various departments.

MOUNTAINS OF BUTTER

The creamery was first visited and here everything was snowy whiteness. The equipment comprises two six hundred gallon pasteurizers, a tubular cooler and a churn with capacity of one thousand pounds of butter per churning. From four to five thousand pounds of butter is the daily capacity.

Off this room is the test room where cream is tested for butter fat.

From the creamery there is a passageway to a large cooling room for storing the butter. The temperature was noted at 26 degrees Fahrenheit. The refrigerating plant is one that is designed and made in Canada and Mr. Sinclair commented on its efficiency.

CHICKEN A LA KING

The "conditioning" room for poultry was next visited. Here in specially designed cages the birds are kept for periods varying from six days to two weeks. They are fed a mixture of buttermilk, rolled oats and cracked oats. The inactivity, plenty of rich food and water break down the muscles and greatly improve the flavour of the meat.

At the proper time the conditioned birds are taken to the killing room. Along one side are the cages of live birds. Each bird is taken from its cage and suspended by its feet from a clamp. A man clasps it by the head, slides a sharp knife through the mouth into the throat severing the large artery and then a quick stab into the brain. It is all done so expertly that one man easily kills a thousand to fifteen hundred birds daily.

The clamp is fastened to an endless chain which conveys the body through a scalding machine and from there it passes slowly through the hands of a large number of girls who clean off all the feathers. After hanging on racks to dry the birds are carried into a large cooler and chilled, then taken off the racks and packed into bins according to grade. Packers then wrap the head and feet in paper and pack the finished product into boxes, a dozen to a box.

As Christmas comes along, geese, ducks and turkeys will be added. That will mean a double shift at the plant.

It might be added that large quantities of eggs are also handled at this plant.

At present the Swift Company employs sixty people in the Belleville branch. This firm is a decided asset to Belleville and at the same time the Company made no mistake in locating in the centre of a district so rich in the produce so necessary to its operation and of which there will be a never failing source.

Edison's Belief Revealed in Note to Troubled Correspondent

New York, Oct. 31.—The existence of at least one proof in writing of the late Thomas A. Edison's belief in "a supreme intelligence pervading the universe" was disclosed yesterday by a 71-year-old man who for fifteen years had saved a short letter written to him by the inventor.

The letter belongs to Joseph Metzger, a retired real estate operator, who describes himself as a "humble student of religion and science."

Mr. Metzger told with great earnestness yesterday the circumstances that brought the letter to him.

In June, 1916, Ab Kahan, editor-in-chief of the Jewish Daily Forward interviewed Mr. Edison on his religious beliefs and soon afterward published the story in Yiddish in his paper. Mr. Kahan quoted the inventor as saying that he did not believe in God, adding "no learned man believes."

Mr. Metzger read the letter and worried over the effect that those statements might have on the religious beliefs of his children, two boys and a girl. On June 21, 1916, he asked his daughter, Esther, then 16 years old and now married and the mother of three children, to write to Mr. Edison for him.

His letter asked that Mr. Edison explain his views and said in part:

"Is it possible that such a wise-minded man as Mr. Thomas A. Edison, who had discovered so many wonderful and needful things, should speak these words publicly, and to have millions of persons read these words and stir up the people' souls and high idea of God? And why should the people believe what Mr. Thomas A. Edison says? Because these words come from Mr. Thomas A. Edison's mouth and whose words are adored by the whole wide world."

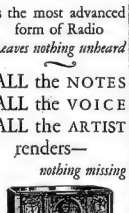
A few days later Mr. Metzger received the following letter from Mr. Edison.

Orange, N. J., June 24, 1916.

Mr. Joseph A. Metzger,
208 South Elliott Street,
Brooklyn, N. Y.

Dear Sir:

Your favor of the 21st instant has been received and I beg to say in reply that Mr. Kahan misunderstood me. I stated to him that I believe in the existence of a supreme intelligence controlling the universe.



Yours very truly,
THOMAS A. EDISON

The letter was signed in Mr. Edison's handwriting, and according to Mr. Metzger, satisfied him that the inventor believed in a personal God despite his rejection of conventional authority and traditions.

Edison did not send me that letter," Mr. Metzger said, "how could I have brought my boys and my daughter to believe in God? They would have pointed to Mr. Edison, the great and wonderful man, as an example and refused to go to the synagogue."

On Tuesday, Mr. Kahan reprinted his interview of May 14, 1916 and its publication brought Mr. Metzger to Orange. He said, that it "the world should know the truth."

Bombs Wreck Two Bakeshops

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 31—Bombs hurled from an automobile bearing New York license plates, early today wrecked two bakery shops in widely separated sections of the city. Police viewed the explosions as a renewal of a baker's price war.

Neither blast resulted in bodily harm, but both caused considerable property damage. Windows over a wide area were shattered.

Dear Mrs. Fred Mitchell:

Having learned of your recent marriage we feel we would like you to spend a social evening in our midst; so we have to be making new acquaintances and friends in a community, and we know we will find you a most genial and cheerful as we have.

Following this, dainty refreshments were served and a pleasant half hour spent.

A very successful concert was staged by the Women's Institute in the Stirling Theatre on Tuesday night. There were but one dull moment throughout the program, witches, goblins etc. predominating by spells: "The Painted Doll" was the opening number those taking part were—Jean Salisbury, Shirley Moise, Shirley Ormiston, Isabelle Dodds, Muriel Heid, Shirley Francis, Helen McTaggert, Dorothy Jones, Ina Kunnish, Jean McKee, Helen Jeffery. Mr. Tom Furnival was a most welcome addition with his Trombone Solos as did Miss Colow on her violin, Banjo duets were played by Marshall Hubble and K. Stapley, A trio by the Misses Lois and Helen Bonisteel and their assistants was a pleasing number. Mr. Ross Pierce pleased the audience with his Irish readings and Father H. J. Mr. Arthur Duncan was good in a monologue and also a solo.

The proceeds amounted to over $75.00 despite the bad night and the program was considered a most great credit for their labors.

TRUE TO TRUST

In the triumph of Tuesday's election Right Honorable Stanley Baldwin, who heads the largest group in the new house, did not forget that this was "no party victory". He lost no time in making this statement to the British public and so set at rest any fears if any such had arisen. The spirit is just what is expected of men of the stamp of Baldwin and other public men who are at the helm of British affairs.

In the midst of the triumph the burden facing the new government is not forgotten. The Right Honorable Ramsay MacDonald is doubtless more seriously concerned than ever to take the proper step which will bring to the present situation in Britain and the world the best political and economic thought so that rehabilitation of the country may proceed as rapidly as possibly.

With MacDonald who still remains as he says true to his Labor principles and who yet undertakes the task of the formation of a national government made up of all parties and with a straight-forward man of the type of Baldwin, Britain's political strength and spirituality strengthened. Baldwin and MacDonald think only of their country—"for", says the former, "democracy has justified itself in the most striking fashion and the patriotic instincts of our people have been revealed in all their strength." No wonder with the knowledge of this the leaders can only be true to the high trust imposed in them by their compatriots at the polls.

The people will not regret the trust they have placed in these men. If they make mistakes, that is only what others have done, but at least sincerity marks their actions. Policies may change with regard to the world at large and the dominions comprised within the world-girdling empire, but whatever they are, the people of Britain know that these will be made with the nation's and the empire's interest at heart.

NO "EASY MONEY"

The man who thinks he can live on other's earnings is the most deluded of men. The law gives an individual right within certain bounds to earn and save money and protects his savings with the full vigor and rigor of the law and when a man, by craft, separates people from their gilt-edged securities, he is running foul of the law of the nation and is doing himself irreparable harm. The law sends him to jail or to the penitentiary and his own living conscience to the company of the undesirable unless he has so seared his soul that the condemnation of judge, representing the law, and of the people does not ruffle his spirit. If the self-condemnation is not there, at least the physical punishment of detention within stone walls has the mental reaction.

The "easy money man" who thinks he can glide along the fast and slippery way with an oily tongue and escape deludes himself as well as the few he coaxes into his net. He spends the ill-gotten money, lives lavishly and without thought of what suffering he may cause those whom he has wronged, and when the end comes, most of his illegal gains are all spent in luxuries which cannot help him when he is called to account. That in the nature of things should be only a fair retribution to the man—that he should find the stolen sweets turn to ashes in his mouth.

There was for about ten years a lax sense of obligation and duty and men ran fast and loose with financial schemes of all kinds. Men who were not thoughtful and spiritually moored began to drift from their principles and unless they caught themselves they were soon in the full sweep of the current which nothing could stop except the iron hand of the law. Days of prosperity give rise to all sorts of schemes because men lose their sense of duty and prepare to make an easy living. They have forgotten one of the principle laws of life that all wealth is labor in the first—and last—analysis, that where there is wealth, some one has labored whether it be the holder of wealth or not. He who reaps where he has not sown must have entered upon his neighbors' fields. No law on the criminal code is as binding upon man as this first principle of existence.

He who loses his money earned by the sweat of his brow—losing it in the last years of his life, is in a sad plight. The man who deceives him surely might be expected to have pity on these grey hairs but he does not—his is the view of another creation, which takes, regardless of the fundamental law of right. What reward the innocent victim receives is hard to discover for he learns too late in life that promises and honeyed words are not always to be trusted, but the reward of the deceiver is written in letters which stand out for all men to read.

People on both sides of the forty-ninth parallel will watch to see how soon

THE CHILDREN'S HOME

By Aline Michaelis

There at the Children's Home they stay,
Little children, grave or gay,
Babies whose laughter seems all used up,
Babies blithe as a buttercup,
Flotsam tossed on the city's foam,
Little ones out at the Children's Home.

Toddlers stumbling into the sun,
Marching demurely, one by one,
Blue-clad rangers at their morning play,
Tobody's little ones, grave or gay;
Lonely as naught else under heaven's dome,
These are the waifs at the Children's Home!

Lonely for lack they do not understand,
Lack of a mother's tender hand;
Lonely for love and a chance to live,
Things that it seems life ought to give.
May this thought, someway, to the right heart roam
And find home for some child from the Children's Home!

BRITAIN ALWAYS RISES to the occasion and gives the right answer despite the Shaws and the Wells who have grown rich and fat on eccentricity and can sit back and say, "the world's all wrong and we're all right, keep on buying our books and paying us big money for our opinions and everything will be jake- for us."

GRAND TRUNK VETERANS are interested in the articles being published regarding early days in Grand Trunk history, started by Mr. McDowell's excellent feature article in the Canadian National Magazine. Wonder how many old G.T. R. engineers will remember the peat experiment, when they tried peat as a fuel to make steam. Most of the peat went into the Coteau river a short distance out of Montreal, and as a steam maker was not much better than hay.

LOOKING AT THE MOIRA today and letting the mind wander back a few years to the days of the raging, roaring spring freshets when the Moira rose to heights of glory and majesty during the night and tore everything loose along the banks, making a general house cleaning and back yards along the route. One spring within recent years the footbridge was moved some distance off its foundations and the lower bridge got a hammering which did it no good although it withstood the huge wall of ice which bore down upon it with seemingly irresistible force, the shallow water below the bridge helping to stop the ice shove. Looking at the mood and mild Moira of today one is inclined to murmur, "Where, oh where, are the spring floods of yesteryear?" Packed with bushes, pieces of furniture, and barns of Floradora days, no doubt.

SIR PHILIP CUNLIFFE-LISTER, Conservative President of the British Board of Trade, whose majority is 51,000, is inclined to think that he got more votes really than he needed and could have spared some to his opponent. However, it was a nice party, and all that, even if the voters did slop over mostly on one side.

WHERE THERE IS so much prosperity and luxury as is evidenced on every side by fine motor cars and shop windows filled with expensive garments, fine jewelry, etc. there must necessarily be some poverty. Didn't the Lord say, "The poor ye have with ye always." Perhaps the poor were placed on earth that the well-to-do could learn humility, charity and Christian unselfishness in helping them. Love your neighbor is the divine command—even your poor neighbor, in fact you should love him better than the rich neighbor who can get along without your love.

Other Papers' Opinions

TOO MANY BARN FIRES

There have been many incendiary fires in rural communities in Ontario recently and it is quite possible that a number of these were wrongly ascribed to lightning and had their origin apart from malicious intent on anybody's part. Once it becomes known that a criminal is at large setting fires to barns all such disasters are ascribed to this one cause.

At this time each year barn fires occur thick and there and, as a rule, no suspicion of incendiarism arises, but a fire-bug is another matter and suspicion anywhere within fifty miles all fires will be attributed to him. It might be easier to discover the guilty person if investigations were done shortly of incendiary origin were made a subject to special investigation. If these fires are included with the rest it is almost certain to be found that a possible suspect in the other cases could have had no hand in them and that a fire-bug perhaps guilty may be thought to have been cleared of suspicion.

Even without criminals operating against them, farmers have to fight them all a prey to flames. A cigarette stub carelessly thrown, a spark of tobacco out of a pipe may some time later develop a great blaze. When the cause of a barn fire is not known it is customary, if no incendiary is at large, to attribute it to spontaneous combustion due to putting crops away while damp, or some such of that kind. It might be well if more could be learned and published known about spontaneous combustion as a cause of fires. Where electricity begins to be used on farms it becomes necessary to know something of the dangers that reside in defective wiring, and now that motor cars are so common engines are being utilized in connection with work on the farm the possibility of fire danger from this source, through gasoline vapor or otherwise, needs looking into. There are too many barn fires and a comprehensive study of them and the causes might prove highly useful.—Toronto Star.

THE MAGICAL CRYSTALS

Normally we have five senses and are content with three dimensions. Yet talk in those days often turned upon the mystery of a fourth dimension. Sir Oliver Lodge is responsible for the statement that all our ideas of time and space, of matter and of position, are undergoing a radical change. Crystals, of which there are many categories of these, things which seemed axioms a generation ago may be being shattered. We have perhaps better to say that they are being resolved into new and higher modes agreeable to the notion that all things are One. Bragg, a British Today the mighty atoms is our index of matter. Bragg, a Britisher, at once more called to the structure of crystals by a recent despatch we have from the information that, under the direction of Sir William Bragg, a British research committee is making extensive studies of the movement of atoms with the X-ray. The results so far have shown that accurate photographs enabled by photograph crystals to reveal the internal structure of crystals to enable this hitherto they have been unable to see. This is a beneficial microscope. We are told that the X-ray has been found to be a help upon objects under observation to have a wave-length that is ten thousand times smaller than that of ordinary sunlight. Already evidences in this scientific experiment have gained a new glimpse of a mysterious world and "valuable information" as to the working of these substances, and more knowledge may now be applied to plants, precious stones, paints, and oils, also leather, soap bubbles and numerous manufactured articles which play very important parts in the world markets. We are told that cotton, silk, hair, rubber, wood and mineral are composed ultimately of crystals, and it is explained that it is hoped that a working knowledge of this discovery opens a very wide field of industrial activity destined to have an enormous effect upon the future of commercial products and manufactures.

LIVING UP TO THE AGREEMENTS

The statement made by Gordon D. Conant in the Ontario night recording the amount of money which has been expended in Oshawa, Whitby and Ajax-Pickering by the Ontario Share Gas Company shows that the expenditures are more than justified the predictions of those who supported the agreement with the Oshawa gas system to its principals. In the agreement, it was laid down that a minimum should spend, within twelve months from the date of signing the agreement, the company has spent, on the transmission lines between Oshawa and west, and on the distribution systems in Whitby and Bowmanville a sum of $250,500. This includes only the work done up to September 30, 1931, and a much another month's work has been done since then. In addition to that, a further $19,000 have been expended for the maintenance and operation of the gas plant, $3,300 of this transmission line have been laid and connected up with the Oshawa plant. — Oshawa Times.

SONG OF THE JESTER DWARF

When I was pale and garbed and poor
You had no name nor fame, sir.
Everybody turned me from the door
And the animals did the same, sir—
The hog, the dog and the little hen, too!

Now I am swoln in pure and pelf
Oh, what a change begins, sir,
Everybody loves me for myself
And hurried to ask me in, sir—
Even the hog, the dog and the little hen, too!

Little Benny's Note Book

I went in the house and forgot to take my cap off, so ma noticed it in a baseball cap instead of my green and white one, saying, What have you got on your head?

Nothing, I said quick taking it off, and ma said, Benny, did you get that and where's your green and white cap?

This is Ed Hunts, I mean it use to be, I mean I swapped him for it, I said, and then I changed him what for it? and I said, Mamy My green and white cap, I said.

What, for that silly dinky looking thing, ma said, and I said, Well it looks like something that use to be on a mosquito and I realize that Sidney Hunt has taken advantage of your age to swindle you and limpy or one of them fellows is always on the subjeck.

Well she did even sooner than she expected on account of just then the bell rang and it was Sidney Hunt and I am sorry to say so half to come here with a certain object in view. He managed to talk my Sidney into exchanging his baseball cap for one of his shapeless article.

And she held out my green and white cap, ma saying, Well at least it's a full fledged cap, Mrs. Hunt, and she said, Well unless it is I had been half started and entirely forgotten, and am sawing wood Sidney into it, as you express it, limpy is considerably older than Benny.

But he is 10 times more innocent than Benny, ma said, in spite of him, as they have in the present instance, Mrs. Hunt said, and ma said, That angle of it seems to be a matter of opinion, although how you arrive at yours is a matter of mystery.

Then they exchanged the caps back again, both still thinking their own son was innocent.

Buying Wisely

An old and conservatively managed banking institution has issued to its 240,000 depositors a circular message that merits consideration, also by customers of savings banks generally on the North American continent.

This bank points out that hoarding and thrift are not synonymous terms; that, in fact, they are quite as different as courage and fear. The circular therefore gives the following advice: "Keep on deposit a reasonable reserve against emergency, not a hoard."

"If you have a surplus above all likely need, make careful purchases of things you want for permanent use while prices remain low."

"See that your home is put in good repair. Do not let your automobile or any other property get run down. If you have long needed an added piece of furniture, shop carefully and buy it now."

"Buy clothing and other needs in reasonable quantities. Buy real estate if you are planning for a home of your own."

"Wise spending at the right time is just as essential as preventative measures to ensure good health. Wise spending of available money encourages prosperity and corrective measures, good health and enjoyment."

"Every citizen who spends such money in some useful and wise way is contributing to the relief of unemployment and to the return of confidence and prosperity in this city and country."

Babson's Statistical Organization in their Canadian Babson's Chart, points out: "We feel that pessimism has been allowed too free a rein. In our anxiety to get over the world's depression epidemic we sometimes fail to give proper evaluation to existing conditions. The depression is acute, not chronic."

OUTLAWS OF EDEN

by Peter B. Kyne

"Tim, I'm afraid we were to have it and that he'd write home about it as soon as he got the opportunity." So I told him you'd already promised to let my people have it and that pleased him. And I promised him it'd be good neighbor and flight as hard for the Kershaws here after as our clan had ever fought against them. That afforded him very deeply and he dragged me off the road and we swore blood brotherhood each to the other—and then we embraced like two sentimental Frenchmen and were ashamed of it because we were both hillbillies—and I went on with my section and he went back and flopped with his weary squad—and here I am, and I've been a long time getting here."

"Why did you delay, Nate?"

"I kept remembering him"—he pointed to the bedroom door—"and how he came to me that morning I came to ask for the water. He was afraid he'd never understand—so I thought I'd wait and not bother him and gradually intimate in him the belief that I am not a bad sort of citizen. I see now that was a mistake."

"Life" the girl said dearly, "is a game that is played by all of us."

His hand strayed over and imprisoned hers. "Poor little sister!" he murmured. "You've had a hard time—and the sun just rising over Eden after a long night. You ought to be a game that is played to be lost, but well play it like sportsmen and we go smiling to our fate."

INSTALMENT VIII

Nate Wheeler returned to the Bar H that night, but returned to the Circle K next morning, where the two men he had picked up in Valley Centre. He set them a task—the task of digging Dance Kershaw's grave in the family cemetery. Lorry Kershaw was there, for that was the desired spot. About noon the coffin arrived from Valley Centre and he helped the man who delivered it place Kershaw within it. Then he clambered with Lorry and Mac Buchanan with Lorry and Bob Buchanan. At one-thirty he and Lorry climbed a lean-to to a wagon and drove it around and tied the team in front of the house. He told Lorry the girl met his inquiring glance bravely and said:

"We might as well proceed, Nate. Nobody's coming to my father's funeral."

With the aid of the two hired men he carried Dance Kershaw out to the wagon and mounting the seat, drove his late enemy on the latter's last pilgrimage, while Lorry, Miss Buchanan and the two Buchanans followed in the hearse and car. At the grave Tichenor read the funeral service for one, covered the body with the girl met his inquiring glance bravely and said:

"Forthwith he motored into Gold Run and telephoned to his attorney in San Francisco. "Tichenor speaking. Paddon.

"Paddon, Dance Kershaw is dead and has left a bankrupt estate to his wife and a daughter and two sons. . . . But two years ago he gave a deed of trust to his daughter and also four thousand acres I spoke to you about—you have the deed in escription. Well, Lorraine Kershaw filed that deed of gift for record very recently in October, and was running down the title at the court house in Bear Flat. The land was held, thirty thousand dollars' worth of Dance Kershaw's notes, secured, overdue and with interest in default and the president and controlling owner of the bank with an overdue first mortgage in the sum of two thousand and fifty thousand dollars with a year's interest in default. In addition the Kershaw estate owns the Bar H Land and Cattle Company more than three hundred thousand dollars. The bank and the banker are going to foreclose, but the Bar H isn't.

"Good news," the lawyer interjected, as Tichenor paused for breath. "It would seem that the girl is not in a position to help you and you ought to get that four thousand acres cheap."

"Perfectly," Tichenor said, not going to give her the opportunity to begin to argue with him. "I see that there will be no argument as to the price. Handling the matter as I shall, I'm also today a check in its favor for four hundred thousand dollars, with instructions to the cashier to certify check in favor of Lorraine Kershaw and send it over to your office. Meanwhile, prepare a deed from Lorraine Kershaw to the Tichenor Valley Power Company for that four thousand acres."

"Why not do a little trading? Offer the girl twenty an acre and work up . . ."

"Listen, Paddon. You transact my legal business for me, but I do not need you for my general management. The land is worth four hundred dollars to me if I can get it without a fight and with out leaving a bad taste in Lorry Kershaw's mouth. I can afford to pay for my fancies. I have a fancy for this four thousand acres and I fancy it now! But I do not wish to be known in the premises, so do not come up yourself to close this deal. The girl would suspect collusion. Understood?"

"Aye, aye, sir."

The following afternoon a livery car from Gold Run arrived at the ranch, bearing Mr. Rube Tenney, Mrs. Rube Tenney, and two little Tenneys a boy and a girl. . . . Mrs. Tenney in his younger days, had been a Hensley bodyguard, willing (albeit never called upon to do so) to kill a Kershaw out of loyalty to the bread he ate. He was riding

A GIANT IN CANADA'S LAST STAND OF BIG TIMBER

This giant nine-hundred-year-old Douglas Fir, measuring eleven and one-half feet in diameter and three hundred feet in height, has been spared from commercial exploitation with many other trees of similar dimensions, through the purchase of land holdings on Vancouver Island, British Columbia, by Frank D. Buchman, of Montclair and Nova Scotia. Mr. Barnjum, pictured standing beside his latest find, intends to conserve these giants for posterity, taken you ten minutes to fetch Carlo?"

boss under Nate Tichenor's father and when the latter died was advised by the position of ranch superintendent which position he had held with credit and efficiency. Nate Tichenor had gone out of the cattle business. Rube Tenney was nearly fifty years old now, but active and still trustworthy.

Nate Tichenor greeted him informally as if they had not seen each other since 1917.

"Well, I got your wire ordering me to report. Dance Kershaw is announced. 'So I come a-runnin'."

Tichenor smiled. When the Bar H retirement had left Tenney without a job Nate had financed his old superintendent in his first ranch and a band of two thousand sheep. Sheep were and always had been repugnant to Rube Tenney, but he had worried along with the sheep and even during those lean years had managed to make more than a living off them.

"You left a good man in charge of your sheep, I hope, Rube?"

"I sold 'em to a good man. My lease was expiring in October, and after three bad feed years I reckoned I'd better quit before my sheep died o' starvation." He paused and Nate a check. "There's the money you asked me to. It was a few thousand over an' above that. 'Thank God thereon o' my life will be spent with decent, respectable cows."

"Now's a fine time to git back into the cattle business, Mr. Tenney," said Nate. "Prices is advancin' but you can still stock up cheap."

"I'm not going into the cattle business, Rube. But you are. You're to be riding boss of the Circle K—on the square and as an independent."

"Circle Closin' in on them Kershaws, eh?" Tenney grinned.

Patiently Nate proceeded to disillusion him, and while he was doing it the Tenney head wagged unbelievingly. "Why, they did figure you'd be able to keep up steam like that Hensley's, Nate," he said. "Four father's blood. Very well, son. I'm glad to have the job.

"Miss Kershaw knows all about you—knows I've been sent for you. There's a Mac Buchanan squaw with her at present. Tell her I suggested the girl come to the ranch and go to Valley Centre in this rented car of yours."

He gazed long and affectionately after the departing Rube Tenney and his brood. "Old Faithful," he soliloquized. "He doesn't suspect I've bought him out of this sheep business a'n't took a loss to do it. But it's worth it to have him here on the job—to be free of worry about the Kershaw girl and her finances in presuming to appropriate our riparian rights or any portion of them for the benefit of a distant and non-riparian owner. the state of California is assuming a right it does not legally possess.

"Now, I'm not going to start a long law-suit with the Fordon Valley Irrigation District. I shall merely enter a formal protest—and when I use the first person singular I mean Miss Kershaw and she for Z. D. and Mac and the Company. Then I shall sit quietly by and watch the district sound their lands, market the bonds and spend the money to erect a diversion dam and dig mites and mi'es of main canals and laterals. Then just as they are about to open their flood-gates I shall, upon affidavit that the district's action is about to work great hardship and damage upon me, be granted a temporary injunction by the superior court restraining the district from using the water, and refusing to buy Kershaw property on condemnation-suite route. If it wants our water it must buy our lands—and a jury will award us full value.

"He hath taken down the mighty from their seats and hath exalted them of low degree," Cagan quoted, impressed. "You appear to be something of a financier, Nate."

"Just contemplate Fordon Valley, the money derived from the sale of the bonds all spent on a diversion dam, main canal, feeder gates, laterals engineering fees, salaries and so forth suddenly discovering that after all we cannot get the water—that it's all dressed up with no place to go. While they dwell in blissful ignorance of the calamitous they curse and bite and deride Miss Kershaw and me for protecting our vested rights; when the balloon fails—

CANADIANS WIN HONORS

Hon. F. C. Biggs Wins at St. Louis Fair This Week

Montreal—In competition with the pick of the dairy cattle of the United States, Canadian exhibitors at the National Dairy Show at St. Louis again won high honors, according to Mr. F. W. Walsh, superintendent of the show with a party of Canadian National Railways, who attended the show with a party of Canadian cattlemen farmers. Hon. F. C. Biggs, formerly minister of highways in Ontario, and owner of the Glen Campbell farm at Dundas, won no less than seven first prizes in the Ayrshire breed, the female Junior Championship and the "get-of-sire" class, the latter one of the most highly prized awards among cattle breeders.

"For the first time, a special party of Canadian Indian farmers was organized this year by the Canadian National Railways to see this outstanding dairy show and we hope to make this an annual affair in future years," stated Mr. Walsh. "This year's tour was sponsored by the Railway Purina Company, whose extensive experimental farm and testing laboratories near St. Louis were inspected by the Canadian visitors.

"The excellent showing made by Mr. Biggs is perhaps one of the best advertisements possible for Canadian bred cattle and much interest in Canada by Canadian exhibits naturally resulted. It was also learned at the fair that at present there are 1,000 Canadian dairying establishments in the United States, from the Dairy Oaks Dairy Farm of Michigan and the Sycamore farms at Pennsylvania, to the exhibit at this year's Royal Show at Toronto.

Hydro Policies Warmly Defended

Brockville, Oct. 31 (CP)—Defence of the policies of the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission was undertaken last night by C. G. Alfred Maguire, vice-chairman of the Commission, addressing the Chamber of Commerce here.

Speaking on behalf of the Hydro system, he said there were only three sources of supply available—the Niagara, St. Lawrence and Ottawa Rivers. He did not think that the Commission would be developed before 1939 at the earliest, and then only as the need of power as a possibility before 1937.

Trying to Set Record to Distant Africa

Lympne, Kent, England, Oct. 31 —Miss Peggy Salmon, 19 year old society girl, took off tonight from Lympne aerodrome in an attempt to set a distance record on a flight to South Africa. With her she took a map, but no instruction against dangers in case of a forced descent in the wilds of the dark continent. Gordon Store accompanied her to take his turn at the controls.

Fight over Division of Edison's Millions

Wilmington, Del., Oct. 31—A fight over the division of the Thomas A. Edison millions has loomed yesterday, when William L. Gilfillan Edison, a son of the famous inventor, announced his intention to contest his father's will, which leaves the major portion of the estate to the children of his second wife, Charles and Theodore.

In a statement given out to the press, the son, one of the inventor's three children by his first marriage, said he would charge undue influence on the part of his stepmother and his half-brother, Charles Edison.

William characterized the will as "unfair" and said he would not be alone in his attempt to break the instrument.

RECOMMENDS ALTERATIONS

William Green, President of Labor Federation, Gives Views

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 31 (AP)—An increase in the unemployment for once is regarded with some optimism by William Green, President of the American Federation of Labor.

The total of workers without employment increased two-tenths of one per cent the first half of October, Green said, however, a similar increase was expected to obtain for the normal year of 1928.

If the numbers of workers increase proportionately, he estimated, "we shall have 9,000,000 persons out of work by January next." Green gains hope from figures showing more workers employed in short enterprises.

It "seems likely that an effort is being made to keep men at work at least part time," he declared, "and up to October figures had shown that there was no increase in unemployment, which had not been offset by an increase in part time work."

To forestall winter's unemployment increase and attendant hardships, Green recommended that the week be maintained, working schedules shortened and employment divided, work forces be assured jobs from November to April, each employer into additional projects, public undertakings be expedited, employment agencies be strengthened, youth remain in school, and that preference be shown for workers with dependants.

Where work cannot be provided he urged relief be functionalized.

INDUSTRIAL PULSE IS QUICKENING

Ottawa, Oct. 31 (CP)—A general quickening of the industrial pulse of Canada is shown in government statistics issued this week, says a report from the Department of Trade and Commerce. Yesterday. Financial transfers in the form of bank drafts show a marked increase as compared with the corresponding period last year, although the aggregate total is not so large. Increased employment in many of the leading industries of the Dominion and in retail trade is shown, the report continues.

Recovery Seen in Share Price Wheat Markets

(Written For the Canadian Press by Thomas G. Thompson)

TORONTO, Oct. 31.—Evidence of recovery in Canadian share prices, in the wheat market, and in the general price level of commodities was strikingly present in Canada's financial and business circles of the Dominion this week.

Not was the upward movement confined to any one section of the country. In Western Canada, wheat rose to the season's highest level, while in Ontario employment figures gave reasonable ground for optimism. Throughout the Dominion there was a revival of quiet investment demand for securities, and following the sweeping victory of the national government in Great Britain, the majority of observers expressed the view that wheat and other Canadian products are likely yto benefit from closer trade relations with the other parts of the British Empire.

Canadian interrelated issues, including rails, mental stocks, industrials and oils, reflect highly irregular price fluctuations in New York. There was more ground for genuine encouragement in the action of wheat which rose to a level that is approximately fifteen cents above last season's top point largely as a result of improved export purchasing both at Winnipeg and Chicago.

Massey Harris occupied a leading role in the industrial group with 3,500 $14 under persistent investment accumulation. Activity in the implement issue was undoubtedly due to the belief that the company will benefit from increased purchasing power in the west and the closing price of $ 1-8 represented a net gain of 5-8 for the week.

DEMAND SENDS EGG PRICE UP

Local Market One of Largest Gathered This Season

Despite the cold and damp weather which prevailed on Saturday morning the Belleville market was one of the most largely attended that has been seen this fall.

Eggs were slightly higher in price when the growers'sazzed as high as 42c a dozen, although some were sold at 40c per dozen. Butter remained about the same prevailing prices ranging from 27c per pound to 30c per pound. Chickens were in evidence and brought from 10c to 15c according to their size. Other smaller ones sold for $1.00 a pair.

As the outside market prices remained about the same as last week when the large crops, parsnips, turnips and beets could be purchased for as little as 25c a bag, while cabbage sold for 60 cents a bag, while squash brought 1½ to 1½ depending upon their size. Cauliflowers sold for 10c each while celery brought 10c a pair.

As tonight will be Hallowe'en many pumpkins in evidence and sold for from 10 to 15 cents each according to their size.

Plenty of apples were seen and were soon picked up by the "natives" at the prevailing low price that prevailed. MacIntosh Reds sold for 60c per bushel while Snows brought $1.00 a bushel. Pine Apple Pippins and Spanish Reds were picked up at $1.25 a bushel. Other vegetable prices remained the same as last week..

Capt. Balcom Recommends Shipping After Survey

Quebec, Que., Oct. 31.—The shipping of grain and other products through Hudson's Straits from Canada's new northern harbor, Port Churchill, on Hudson's Bay, is very feasible, according to Captain W. J. Balcom, navigation expert Canadian government ice breaker S. S. Minto, which returned to Quebec this morning after spending three and a half months patrolling Hudson's Straits.

Captain Balcom said today that the two ocean vessels that the Farmworth with 7,410 tons of wheat, and the Warkworth with 7,172 tons, were both escorted through the straits from Port Churchill to Coates Island at the eastern extremity of the straits on their trip to the old country. No trouble was experienced and the steamers of the two vessels had already signified their willingness to carry further cargoes from Churchill.

Conditions in the Hudson's Straits this season have been the best in many years, the McLean's commander stated, very little field ice being encountered, though quite a few bergs were sighted. The first snow fall came on September 16th and it had been quite

At The Belle

LIGHTNER, BUTTERWORTH SHARE HONORS IN 'SIDE SHOW'

There have been circus pictures galore in the history of motion pictures, some of them devoted to a dramatic theme, others to comedy, but the film that embraces all these elements against that ever colorful circus background, is "Side Show", which opened before a large audience at the Belle, last night.

Winnie Lightner is here seen in the finest role of her career. You can always depend on her comedy being fresh and spontaneous, and the goodness is in ample quantity in "Side Show". Opportunity is given her in this respect when she doubles for cannibal, the fire dance and various other side show attractions.

Besides all this she is the central figure in a romantic love story which forms the basis of the film.

She is in love with the barker played by Harold Cook, and their affair sails smoothly until her young sister Evelyn, fresh, intent on joining the circus, ignorant of her sister's affair, falls in love with Cook. The story develops into a conflict between Winnie and her sister, and how happiness she seeks.

It is all done as only Winnie can, to Roy Del Ruth's direction, that there is never a jarring note in between the elements of drama, comedy, and the general-color of circus life.

Charles Butterworth comes very prominently into the film as Captain Sidney, trainer of seals. His brand of humour will be welcomed by all to the delight of the audience.

There were also flocks of every kind, animals and stunts to please the heart of any child. It is a picture which is bound to please every member of the family, regardless of age or taste.

The enjoyment of the program is enhanced by the presentation of the splendid Junior Features, including a beautiful Movietone in Color, a clever Cartoon, a funny Our Gang Comedy, and the popular Belle Sound News.

The entire program will be repeated again tonight for the last time.

BENNETT AND ALBRIGHT "TEAM IN 'HUSH SIDNEY'

Blue Peal Presentation Monday.

Hitherto confined to screen roles where her beauty, aristocratic air and her ability to wear gorgeous clothes charmingly were her chief assets, a new Joan Bennett is promised on the screen when the Fox film, "Hush Money" directed by Sidney Lanfield, comes to the Belle Monday, for two days, matinee daily."

As a young and beautiful girl on her own and literally starving, Miss Bennett is taken up by a man of presumed wealth and influence, played by Owen Moore, who is in reality a blackmailer.

Circumstances force her to pose as his wife as a means to an end of his illicit graft.

A little mixup with the police causes her to be sent up to jail for a term of one year and the prison experience forces her to go straight on her release. She is aided in this determination by the same detective who was instrumental in rounding up the gang and convicting them.

How the detective keeps her dead to the world, and how she, as a man of wealth; Hardie Albright, becomes involved in love, go to make a strikingly sensational and surprising climax.

Duglas Dumbrille plays the detective, G. Henry Gordon, Myron Loy and Gertrude Hall have prominent roles.

The second of the popular "Seven Souvenirs" that created so much comment at the Belle last Wednesday and Thursday, a funny Boy Friend comedy entitled "Papa Loves Mama" and Pathe Sound-Newsreel are announced for exhibition on the same program.

Each lady attending the Belle Monday Evening will be presented with a Beautiful Blue Pearl Dresser-set gift, with the compliments of the management.

"MEN OF THE SKY" NOW AT THE CAPITOL

"Men of the Sky" the intensely dramatic romance of the days preceding and during the World War, features Irene Delroy and Jack Whiting, as the young lovers whose fate 'hurls them as spies into the dark maelstrom of war. These two personable players are eminently in their portrayal of the innocent victims of organized hate.

Madeleine is first seen in gay Baden-Baden, watching Jack as he plays a tennis tournament. His opponent being Eric von Coburg, a Prussian Officer. Before sundown the ominous word comes of the declaration of war, and friends suddenly become foes. Madeleine's father has for years been in the French Intelligence Bureau and he at once dispatches his daughter to Germany as a spy. She goes with Eric—who also loves her—to his home, concealing her real purpose.

Jack, who is an American flyer, also becomes a spy and in due time meets Madeleine at Eric's estate, and discovers her reason for leaving him in ignorance. Later consequences of the exciting story carry them to Paris, Berlin, Military Headquarters and under plane darkened skies—and finally to the ancient of destiny where two persons el lore and the greater love of country.

"Men of the Sky" presents a phase of the World War of which little has heretofore been told. The scenes are of a microscopic sweep, and the story unforgettable.

"Men of the Sky" on your list of pictures that must be seen.

African Series

The program at the Capitol today and Monday will include "Maneater" a further episode of the popular Adventure in Africa.

Pathe News and "Let 'Er Buck" a funny cartoon are additional attractions.

Irene Delroy and Jack Whiting in "Men of the Sky," the Jerome Kern - Otto Harbach romantic drama of two spies in the Great War. Now at the Capitol.

Fur Trade Routes Reopened for Benefit of Touring Folk

Story of Quetico, Ontario, Country Is Told Again

BEST CANOE WAYS

"June 28, 1803: In Lac la Croix we struck away from the Grand Portage route, steering an E. course to the left just when we had overtaken an N.W. brigade steering on the old track to Grand Portage, where they continue to hold their general rendezvous. The water was remarkably high in these rivers at the new route. Met at Prairie Portage, J. M. Bouche who has built a hut and an oven to bake bread to sell to wintrers en passant for dress leather and buffalo robes, etc. He dunned us with news from Canada, all of which we knew better than himself, having met our despatch from Montreal, etc, at Lac la Pluie." (Rainy Lake).

In the above diary not Alexander Henry, Younger, discovered a route was describing his canoe voyage across the Quetico country, 60 miles northeast of Port Arthur, a new map of which has been issued by the Topographical Survey Department of the Interior, on a scale of four miles to the inch, for the use of trading water routes of centuries ago are now being re-opened one after another, for the benefit of tourists.

Portions of both the trade routes mentioned by Henry are shown marked with red lines on the new publication. Pigeon river route, the one taken by the N. W. brigade, goes east by south from the westerly edge of the map at lac la Croix through Basswood, Saganaga, and other lakes on the International boundary to South Lonely Lake on the southeastern corner of the sheet, thence on by Pigeon river to the old headquarters at Grand Portage west of Port William.

Henry's route from lac la Croix turned northeasterly right across what is now Quetico Provincial Park, through Sturgeon, Pickerel, and Windigoostigwan lakes and the des Mille Lacs. To this point his track was practically identical with the famous Dawson route from lake Superior explored in 1858. Henry then ascended Savanne river, some tributaries of which are gathered from the Height of Land, which separates waters flowing to the St. Lawrence by the Ottawa river, from those flowing to Hudson bay. Crossing Height of Land, immediately outside the northwest corner of the map, he descended Dog and Kawnipi-Kabania lakes to the newly established post of the Northfest Fur Company on Lake Nipigon.

Where he found as mentioned above, Mr. Armstrong baker 128 years ago, the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway parallels, for a space, the Canadian National Railways' Port Arthur-Sioux Lookout branch. The railway parallels, for a space, the Canadian National Railways' Port Arthur-Sioux Lookout branch. The railway parallels outlines overlays the Savanne valley between the Rainy River and the pass used yearly in review.

The course followed by Henry was along an old waterway, used by the French voyageurs, which was last sighted by the English until Roderick McKenzie re-paced it in 1797, whence afterwards it gradually became the "fur highway."

Henry Youle Hind, exploring in 1857 for an emigrant trail between Superior and the Red River settlements, found remains of old portages constructed by the Northwest Company of the split trunks of trees.

Old Trading Posts

Out of an area of, roughly, 6350 square miles of the new map, Quetico Provincial Park embraces over one-fourth. Set aside as Provincial Park in 1913, it was considerably enlarged in 1931. Like Algonquin Provincial Park it is readily accessible by rail. Detraining at Quetico on the Rainy River branch of the Canadian National Railways, 103 miles west of Port Arthur, the traveller paddles the 13 miles of Windigoostigwan lake and passes into two miles the historic Dawson trail to the Park' Superintendent's headquarters on French lake. Lake Windigoostigwan, which is the natural gateway to the Park, displays many beautiful islands and sand beaches, and camping places of early voyageurs.

A direct short cut to Park headquarters is from the mine west of Quetico at Kawene station. A good wagon road leads to the shore of Era lake where, in season, motor boats are available to various camps, or to Park headquarters. Throughout most of the area in the vicinity of the railway are a number of camps, many of them equipped with electric light and running water.

Nor is the more southerly Pigeon river route less interesting. Henry, the Elder, speaks of Saganaga lake

OCEAN FLIERS' DUEL

A quarrel of long standing between a pair of Hungarian trans-Atlantic fliers came to a head when George Endres (lower) issued a challenge to fight to Johnnyen Magyar (upper) his companion on a successful flight from Budafoundland to Blacke, Germany, this last summer. The challenge was the ultimate outcome of a mutual campaign of slander and abuse.

French post in the North west, built on the site of a Chippewa village destroyed by the Sioux. When populous this village had been resorted to traders, but Henry the Elder found only three lodges remaining when he passed along on July 20, 1775. At the Great Portage, near Basswood lake David Thompson notes a trading house that had been burned when he passed by, August 16, 1797. Later the Hudson's Bay Company established a post there, which became a rendezvous for decades of the Ojibways in the fur "selected birch bark canoes."

Some further interest attaches to the map by reason of a portion of the State of Minnesota included therein. Information in connection with this region has been obtained from Federal and State departments. The site of Grand Portage, which is now within the boundary. While boundary lines were still uncertain in N. W. and Northwest companies had posts there, until the latter, in 1803, removed their quarters to Port William which became the western capital for the fur trade after the X. Y. company was absorbed into the larger concern.

"Lake of Thousand Lakes"

Within the park game is preserved from encroachment from anything except a camera. Outside the preserve all is preeminently hunting country under provincial regulations for big game, fish and wild fowl.

Perhaps one of the most attractive bodies of water is lac des Mille Lacs (Lake of the Thousand Lakes) Hind stated and later reports confirmed. that there are tracts of arable soil between the low hill ranges back from this lake. This water drains westward into Rainy lake by the Seine river which pursues a winding, rapidless course through a narrow valley thickly wooded with Banksian pine and poplar at large size.

When Nicolas Garry made his inspection trip after the amalgamation of the Northwest and Hudson's Bay Companies in 1821 course took him across lac des Mille Lacs. The expedition dined noon on a small island on the 26th of July of that year. An hour afterwards the party passed a post of the Northwest Company, the location of which Garry does not describe other than by saying that it is 1-2 leagues further entered another lake, evidently Baril.

Garry has an amusing account of the scene which met the eyes of some men of the Northern Brigades of the "Porkeaters" so called because they mixed pork with their diet of Indian corn—the men who navigated only as far west as Fort William.

Man Instantly Killed By Truck

OSHAWA, Ont., Oct. 30—Ernest Haig, an elderly man whose home is in Newcastle while riding on the Provincial Highway early today was struck by a truck owned by Johnson Transport Company and instantly killed. The truck was under the direction of Jack Hall, driver. Haig's bicycle was dragged through to Bowmanville where Coroner V. J. Avery has ordered an inquest. Provincial Police are investigating.

Immediate Tariff Action Unexpected

LONDON, Oct. 30 (Canadian and Associated Press Cable) — Not until after the Ottawa Tariff Parley expected on a protective tariff policy for Great Britain, a tariff generally expected as the main method of safeguarding the country's adverse trade balance. A special committee of the cabinet will make a thorough study of the economic, commercial and political situation.

There is a possibility, however, that earlier action may be taken to prevent possible "dumping" of foreign goods.

TRUCK BESIDE CAR SEIZED

Beer Cargo Held, Driver Surrenders To Police

Smith's Falls, Ont., Oct. 30 (CP)—A truck loaded with 150 vats of beer and an expensive automobile carrying 25 bags of beer were seized early today by Provincial police on the Perth-Smith's Falls highway. The truck driver F. Generoux, whose address is unknown, surrendered to police but the occupants of the automobile escaped.

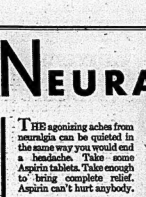
Disregarding police warnings to stop, the car sped down the highway at 75 miles an hour and crashed through a checker board road sign at a sharp curve, turning over twice. The two occupants apparently escaped unhurt, one fleeing into the nearby field, and the other hiding into the woods. The truck driver was parked near the spot, driving away at a terrific speed.

It is thought the truck and liquor laden car were headed for the United States by way of Brockville.

CONDITIONS ARE BETTER

Canadians Have Every Reason To Be Thankful

Ottawa—Canadians are better off today in many respects than they were in the years from which followed the turn of the century; they have $10,000,000 more in savings banks today than at the peak year in 1929; the Canadian people have six and a half months of life insurance as against $431,000,000 in 1910 and in addition they hold $3,600,000,000 worth of Dominion, Provincial and Municipal bonds. These factors give them reason for celebrating Thanksgiving this year, despite the unemployment problem of stress, said M. Grattan O'Leary, editor of the Ottawa Journal, in the course of a radio address broadcast on the Canadian National Railways and allied stations.



Twenty years ago Mr. O'Leary continued, five percent of Canada's population lived in Toronto room. Today, with a population of about 10,000,000 less than twenty per cent are one-room dwellers and upwards of 60 per cent of Canadian homes are owned by the families that occupy them.

As to unemployment, more people are gainfully employed in Canada than ever before in the past employment season of 1926, according to figures issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. As compared with 1901 there are 10,000 more industries in Canada, employing 300,00 more people and paying out annually $642,000,000 in wages while producing $3,000,000,000 more in goods. In every merchantable asset of the national life there has been extraordinary development, Mr. O'Leary declared. There are more good roads, more electrical developments, more better transportation, more livestock, more produce from farms, more forests and fisheries, more conveniences and more comforts for Canadians today than ever before in their history. Canadians have one motor car for every family, and the radio broadcasting sets among ten million people is another reason to observe the national Thanksgiving in its proper spirit.

HIGH FIRE LOSS IS REPORTED

Epidemic of Supposedly Incendiary Fires is Cause

Toronto, Ont., Oct. 31—(By The Canadian Press)—Heavy aggregate losses from the epidemic of supposedly incendiary fires in Ontario during the past week is responsible to some extent for the unusually high mark of fire losses in Canada for the week ending Oct. 28, as reported by the Monetary Times, which estimates the total for Canada at $602,900, as compared with $352,622 for the previous week and $311,065 for the corresponding week of last year. For the ten months ending Oct. 28, the losses in Canada were totalled at $34,290,615 as compared with $32,265,324 for the corresponding period of 1930.

Losses in the province of Ontario during the past week is $270,400. For the corresponding week of last year the figures were $262,500 but the latter included a $200,000 fire at Watreloo, Ont.

FRENCH OPPOSED TO CREDIT PLAN

PARIS, Oct. 30 (AP) — Government circles and Paris bankers continued their opposition today to the International Credit Bank plan advocated by Emile Francqui, Belgian Minister of State, and Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, ex-Reichsbank president in Germany.

No authority French plan exists, it was said at the Bank of France, but swift moving events in Paris and Berlin within the next ten days are expected to bring the two countries face to face with the credits and reparations problems.

North Bay, Ont., Oct. 31.—"Frenchy" Belanger, well known Toronto pugilist, is now stationed at one of the trans-Canada highway camps between North Bay and Pembroke.

"Frenchy" arrived in North Bay, unheralded, on Wednesday from Toronto, having been despatched north from a Toronto employment bureau. He reported to the North Bay office of the Ontario Development branch and was forthwith ticketed for Mackey where he was enrolled on the pay list of one of the camps as a laborer and entitled to the prescribed $2.40 per eight hours.

After a very successful season last year, the B. C. I. girls' basketball team started the present season off on the right foot when both the juniors and the seniors won their first scheduled game at Picton last week.

Napanee also won their first two games when they won from the juniors and seniors of Trenton last Friday. By virtue of their wins the Napanee "basketeers" are now a tie with the local B. C. I. girls in the Bay of Quinte League.

After an absence of one year the directors of the Belleville Arena have decided to again sell season tickets for skating. This news will be received with favor by the skaters of this district. The prices placed on the season tickets are within reach of most every person who skates. The directors are to be complimented on this recent move as it gives the younger generation of skaters a chance to realize their ambition; that of having a season's ticket for the rink.

The B. C. I. senior football team is playing their final game of the local intercollegiate schedule this afternoon. The game was to have been played yesterday but the Napanee "fellers" could not make the trip. Coach Webb intends saving most of his fast juniors in order to stop the se-rushing Napanee team. The juniors must win today's game if they expect to cop the league honors.

Lou Marsh, in his sport column a few days ago, was lamenting the fact that Toronto would only have one team in the Ontario O. H. A. play-downs and a semi-finals. "Hog-Town" has had things their way, in the O. H. A., for most some time and it is good to see all of their junior teams in one group for at least one season. Now a junior team from Eastern Ontario will not have to battle two or three giant junior teams from the Queen City in order to meet teams of their own size and population in the play-offs.

Jack Dempsey still seems to hold the spotlight in the heavyweight ranks. After five years' absence Dempsey comes out with the statement that he will fight any of the present heavyweight aspirants, in New York, and the proceeds can be used for the relief of the unemployed and the needy. Dempsey seems to have acquired some of the showmanship of his late manager, Jack Kearns. Jack Sharkey, the Boston Tar, still feels the sting of his defeat at the hands of Dempsey some years ago. Sharkey would jump at the chance to get in the ring with the Manassa Mauler once again.

Frenchy Belanger, ex - fly-weight champion of Canada, is now serving in the work battalions of Northern Ontario. If Belanger extends his wares he should be in the "pink of condition" when next spring rolls around. It is expected that "Frenchy" will stage a comeback next spring when he returns from the northland.

After carefully study John B. Foster, baseball's critic, has come to the conclusion that the International League is quite a fledling greeter to the Major's League. At he says: "Where would Cassie Mack be without the help he has Jack Dunn?" The Athletics have Given, Earnshaw, Boley and Mahoney at the old Baltimore team. While St. Louis have quite a few players from the ranks of Rochester and Syracuse. Players like Martin, Derringer, Collins, Gelbert and Watkins at one time graced the parks of the International League. Toronto also was well represented in the Majors with quite a few players playing for Detroit.

Jimmy Lesko, claimant for the heavyweight wrestling crown advocates that bouts be divided into two periods each, as in vogue in Australia and in Portland, Ore.

Barns Burned During Night at Brantford

Brantford, Ont., Oct. 31—Fire which destroyed two large barns in Brant County in the district of King George during the night are thought to be of incendiary origin.

The barns burned last night were not very far apart and the flames illuminated the countryside for some distance as the buildings were steadily eaten up by the flames. Last night's conflagrations made a total of four barns destroyed in that county within ten days.

Sherwood's Denial That He's in Hiding

Mexico City, Oct. 31 (AP)—Russell T. Sherwood, who is desired as a witness before the legislative committee conducting an investigation in New York City, left here last night by train to return to the United States and denied that he was "hiding out."

The train is bound for the border at Laredo, Texas, and is due to arrive in San Antonio at 9 a. m. Sunday, but Sherwood refused to reveal his destination further than he would continue to San Antonio on the train.

Before he left he called newspaper men to his room at the Ritz Hotel and told them he was going. He also said he is not, and never has been, either an agent or employee of Mayor James J. Walker of New York, to whom, according to testimony heard by the legislative committee, he shared a safety deposit box.

Letters to the Editor

Editor, Ontario Intelligencer.

Dear Sir,—Would you kindly find space in your valuable paper for the following:

If a great painter was working on a beautiful scene would he choose for his canvas an old worn one on which to work as a background.

This is just what is being done regarding the esplanade. Every citizen will agree that the esplanade will be a durable piece of beauty. And the Moira River will be the canvas. How nice it will be to drive down this shore road and take in the scenery of Dead Man, Old Delivery Wagons, Wires and Garbage in general. What a fine scene that will be! Really a gem.

Now why not beautify the city in general by starting on the river which by the way are in very poor condition some of them. Look at Lingham street. We have the road and can't use it as it isn't even completed yet. The place we will pay for the esplanade will put every street needing repairs in our city in tne best of condition and I'm strongly in favor of this.

Think of the immediate relief this will be to the unemployed, the unfortunate laborer who certainly needs work or relief, at once.

I visited a home last Tuesday and was greeted by a mother and two little children, they had practically nothing to eat. No coal or wood with which to keep warm, and the furniture was smashed to burn in order to keep warm. That Mr. Editor is the true Man, the one that should be looked after. Now Mr. Mayor and Our Council, lets see you get behind a good construct ive governmental scheme. "We'll back you up", whereby these men, our neighboring brothers and sisters will receive enough work that they may pay their way, and live decently as we the citizens of Belleville so desire.

Thank you sir,

TAXPAYER.

Hallowe'en Festivities

It is not likely that any thills of yarn will be thrown from boudoir windows this Hallowe'en as they were in Belleville—it is not the mode of procedure now but years and years ago in England and many other countries, a ball of yarn figured prominently in the love affairs of young ladies. It was a superstition firmly believed by many in the land, an apparition of their husband to be would appear and she would see him from behind the curtains, as he passed the window. The young gallants of that time were aware of this belief and entered by the objects of their affections' and they had no scruples in taking advantage of it.

Although a young gallant may have been 'declined with thanks' by the lady of his choice, he was by no means daunted by acting the part of apparition would prove to the 'fair one' that fate had decreed him to be 'her man'. So, when next he appeared—as she heretofore haughty lady, she would listen with a blushing sigh' and success would crown his suit—all owing to the little ball of yarn. 'Believe it or not.'

that Fretis in attempting to pass the Littler car struck the latter's car, stripping one side of the Littler car and damaging it about the left fender. The Fretis' car going on for some little distance and turning into the north ditch. The Littlers' car remained on the roadway. Littler was thrown from the car severely injured and was rushed to the hospital where he was found he had a fractured skull. He did not regain consciousness and died about nine-thirty o'clock.

Fretis' Held

The accident hearing happened outside the city limits, it was investigated by the Ontario Provincial Constable Campbell and Provincial Police Sergt. of detachment Hagerman corps. Constable Campbell searched the car, but found only the contents to be quite in order. It was, of course, his intention to allow search in Fretis' car and therefore he proceeded to do so, Fretis suggested that he search Littler's car. This request and also that that Mr. and Mrs. Littler perceived the odor of liquor on Fretis' breath aroused Constable Campbell suspicious. He searched the car, but found nothing out of the way. Fretis was detained however, continued the search and investigated a rear seat. Liquor had been removed from the car before the constable arrived. Some of the beer was later found, it is said, in the city in a car belonging to another man, a friend.

Fretis was placed under arrest and lodged in the city police station. This Saturday morning he appeared before Magistrate Ponton in police court, charged with manslaughter and was remanded for one week. It is understood that bail of $5000 will be arranged today, by Mr. Fretis' solicitor, Solicitor Hagarse, appeared for Fretis.

In the Schools

The children of the public schools had a joyous time, yesterday afternoon, taking preliminary steps toward the inauguration of Hallowe'en. In the rooms of the various schools the children were held the youngsters appearing in all manner of costumes, while in the more advanced grades concerts and dramas were staged. The pupils all report it was one of the best afternoons they have had, so far, in their acquisition of knowledge.

At St. Michael's Academy, the two classes of the primary department had a jolly Hallowe'en party. The little ones came in fancy costumes and spent the afternoon playing favourite games. At the tea party that followed treats of all kinds were provided by the mothers and the children were given candies, cake, and soft drinks. The menu included even to ice cream this being donated by Monsignor Nicholson. All in all it was a gala time for the little ones.

Albert College

An annual event keenly enjoyed by the students of Albert College and their friends is the Hallowe'en party given for them by the faculty and lodges. This was held last evening and the College halls resounded with merry shouts during the traditional Spook Walk, more weird and startling than ever, and fun and the judges for the costumes were Rev. den making special reference to the county officials for their assistance and untiring efforts on behalf of the county.

Ex-Wardens Attend

W. H. Nugent, county clerk, was again chairman of the function owner which he has presided so ably for many years. In his remarks he eulogized the Warden for the splendid handling of county affairs and welcomed all on behalf of the chief magistrate. Especially was the family honored at his presence. Reference being made to the member of the Warden. The chairman introduced to the gathering, which numbered in neighborhood of 225, the ex-Wardens of the county at the banquet, they being: Harry Harryett, Fare, Stewart; Bruce Airhart, Marmora; Charles S. Rollins, Cen Hope; Dalton Ralph Rawdon; W. R. Wiggins, Bancroft; Dr. A. T. Embury, M.P., Bancroft; Thomas Montgomery, Sibling; Col. Ponton Vanderwater, Sidney; S. B. Rollins, Tweed; Gilbert Sills, Thurlow and Judson Gunter.

Council Introduced

The chairman also welcomed the members of the Federal Parliament, Dr. A. T. Embury, M.P., for Hastings-Peterboro and W. E. Tummon, M.P., for South Hastings, also Hon. J. R. Cooke, chairman of the Ontario Hydro Commission and introduced the members of the county council and the county officials. He especially referred to the Madoc Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star, the ladies of which had prepared the enjoyable repast. It was a treat for the "gods" and every speaker fittingly referred to the wonderful meal that had been set before them. The banquet was not without its entertainment and during the evening a wonderful program was given. Vocal solos were given by E. Sedford, Colin Ross and A. C. Anderson, violin solo by W. Scrivton, a quartette number by Messrs Ross, Anderson, Wellman and McPherson while W. Hawthorne gave a chalk talk. Every number was especially good and the assembly appreciated same by their hearty applause. The chalk talk was the feature of the evening, when Mr. Hawthorne, with crayons, depicted some of the men prominent in the County Council.

Hon. J. R. Cooke

The evening was crammed full of wonderful addresses, the principal one being given by Hon. J. R. Cooke, M.P.P., member for North Hastings and chairman of the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission. He spoke on the legislation of the Province as effecting hospitals and charitable institutions and gave a clear statement of the policy of the government. The speakers were all limited in time the assembly being able to break up good time and the evening was in no way brownse. In the addressing the visitors of Hastings County, the city, Dominion and Province was given and some interesting facts were gleaned. The toast list was the usual one to a banquet and was conducted in a most able manner by the chairman, the county clerk.

The principal speaker of the evening was Hon. J. R. Cooke who in his many years of friendship with the Warden, and his lifetime interest something of the activities of the Provincial government with regards to social legislation.

Origin of Parties

After thanking all for the cordial reception and paying due honor to the Warden, Mr. Cooke in part spoke on the legislation. "In olden times there was no continuity of office and out of this grew, the two political parties and both have done something to look upon with favor," said the Ontario statesman. "The single object of the British Empire is to unite all people and recognize the rights of all residents and the spirit that dominated that thought in the olden days can be put to use in the days that we live in. We have advanced along lines of social endeavor further than any country in the world and this applies especially to Ontario."

Old Age Pension

The old age pension in Ontario is costing over $9000.00 a day, the Mothers' Allowance $5000.00, the hospitals $28,000.00. The education-al system $40,000.00, while to the roads over $60,000.00 a day. Where does the province receive the money that pays these? Thirty three come from the amusements tax, timber royalties, corporation taxes, mining dues, succession tax, gasoline tax and 7 cent mortgage tax, the house 20 years ago the highway tax was less than $50,000.00 a year. Mr. Cooke then dealt with the law to pay for hospital and charitable institutions. The province provides for all those municipality if all the municipality is asked to take care of the physically ill. There are 26 hospitals for incurable cases and there are those who were thought incurable but now are living well. He reviewed the origin of hospitals in Ontario, the patients are able to pay a small weekly sum and if they can't pay a charge of 10 cents a day is made, the municipality is not asked to pay but the debits are of the railway tax and other sources.

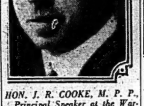
Hospitals

Mr. Cooke showed that certain departments had been opened for the several hospitals for feeble-minded. The patients are taught a trade and a commence in being set up, while the patient is able to learn a trade and if he does not get out on the world as a charge. The reformatories are also operated by the province and the inmates are taught trades and they are sent out in better shape to take care of themselves. Mr. Cooke explained the indigent cases in the hospitals and how it is taken care of by the municipality of the province. Twenty years ago the legislature began to take over the protection of the laborer. In 1914 the Workmen's Compensation Board came into being and today over $30,000 a day is being paid to disabled. Later women was given her franchise. These changes do not come through revolution but by gradual change. Then came the time, when the children was to be protected and the Mothers' Allowance Act was broadened to take in all cases pertaining to children.

Hastings County

Speaking of Hastings, Hon. J. R. Cooke stated that the assessable value was 18 millions and last year there was paid in special grants $550,000.00 which is nearly 3% per cent. of all assessable property. There was a statement in the press a few days ago that debt of the province was 470 millions and that statement is not correct. There is 18 millions of that amount in the Hydro and a sinking fund has been arranged to take care of the debt. There is 30 millions in the T. N. O. Ont. which is being taken care of through the earning of that railway, 36 millions is invested in farmers loans and this will be returned. There is only about 62 millions of a public debt against national resources of nearly three quarters of a billion dollars. We have everything in this province to make a nation great. We in this country are all of Anglo Saxon stock. Our ancestors have been through the hardships, and the province will come through trying times in better shape than ever.

Honor Paid Mother



Warden Charles Thompson replied to the chairman's address stating that he had been simply overjoyed at his fest. "I wanted my rural friends to meet my city friends and as the banquet had never been held in Madoc I thought it would be a bright idea to hold it in the metropolis of North Hastings. It was fellowship in all that implies could reign," said His Honor. He spoke of his mother in fitting terms, to her credit, for all his success and the help that she was always able to give on any question that arose. He thanked the members of the Eastern Star for the repast and hoped that all would leave Madoc with a happy memory of the Masonic Hall on Friday evening.

MAYOR G. A. REID OF BELLEVILLE

REEVE R. M. MITCHELL OF THURLOW

W. E. TUMMON, M. P. for Hastings South, and a former member of Hastings County Council.

Officials Praised

In replying to the presentation the warden thanked all for their kindness to him in the year nearly closed and especially referred to the officials, who were so earnest in their work, William H. Redfern, reeve of Sidney proposed the toast to the City of Belleville stating that a bond of friendship had been established that was permanent. He also stated the city of Belleville was centre of great agricultural district and that should the old timer come back he would be amazed at the progress that was made in all branches of civic welfare.

Mayor Reid

Mayor George A. Reid responded to this toast and after paying tribute to the warden and his family gave a brief resume of the city over which he presides. He spoke of the fine schools, churches, paved streets and the new bridges. The filtration plant and other activities. He said the population had been increased it now being 14,069 while the assessment had increased $250,000.00 and thirty new residences had been built in the ten months of the year. Building permits for the first ten months were higher than for the corresponding period of last year and that people living in the city were too near to see the prosperity that was in Belleville. The Mayor told of over three quarters of a million dollars being invested by foreign capital in Belleville. Particular reference being made to Swifts, American Hardware and Sangster Airways. T. V. Hooper spoke as President of the Chamber of Commerce he advocated a thorough soil survey of the county and that farmers institute a system of book keeping on the farm that would show the farmer his net profit at the end of the year. He asked all to work together.

Reeve Responds

J. O. Heslip in proposing the toofs to the County of Hastings eulogized the warden and then in his bright witty manner told a number of stories, that sent the audience into gales of laughter. The speaker referred to the high type of men that constituted this County and noted that the same friendly relationship existed between the reeves. J. A. McKinney, reeve of Trenditage Township, replied and spoke of the natural and commercial resources of the county paying particular attention to the agricultural side. He lauded the scenic nature of the county and the wonderful opportunity the residents had to carry on the land feature. Turning to the social side the speaker praised the Mothers' Allowance Act. The county making reference to the new hospital that had been built in Bancroft this summer.

Road Facts

Simeon H. Fox, road superintendent, gave some interesting figures on the road construction of the county. He stated there were 130 miles of Highway, five miles of Suburban Highway, which is the road system, when the Tweed-Belleville link of the 7 High-ways is completed, and 320 miles of county roads. He advocated a hard surface road as a great benefit to the Province and also that the Province take over the county road from Tweed to Marmora through the County of Hastings, said the speaker, in order to pay its way with roads and there will be no debentures issued." In the matter of committee work, the cost has been reduced from five to three per cent and a decrease in proportion in the same proportion. He suggested the government was paying proportionately too much for social service and enough for roads as these were the main avenues of development. The speaker showed the amount of money that was derived from the roads in Hastings County by the government in gasoline tax, the drivers' licenses and licenses fees.

Parentage Counts

The toast to the Dominion was proposed by Thos. E. Burnside and replied to by Dr. A. T. Embury, M. P. and W. E. Tummon, M.P. Mr. Burnside was of the opinion that much of the success of the Dominion was due to parentage. "Times are hard at present," said the speaker, "but if you are down and stay down, the country will never prosper. The economic university of the Dominion of Canada was stating the national debt of two and one-quarter billions was only seven per cent of the whole valuation of Canada. Dealing with the problems before the country today the speaker was of the opinion that better times would only come when the problem was taken in hand in a social way. He advocated the giving of one day's pay a year for relief and this would materially help the situation.

W. E. Tummon, M.P.

W. E. Tummon, M.P., speaking to the same toast covered the business carried by the Mother Country since the war. Although France and the United States had 60 per cent. of the world's gold, 'England had paid her debts and also the debts of the weaker nations, and would come out unscathed from the times which she is passing. Britain has carried the load and will carry it with her head high in the air and emerge still the greatest nation under the sun. The condition that England is in today is not of her own making but now that the election is over, the Mother Country will get back in making the world safe for democracy and still be the leading force in world affairs.

The toast to the Province was proposed by Col. Roscoe Vanderwater and due to the lateness of the hour Col. Vanderwater limited his remarks for the occasion. He nevertheless, delivered an able address on behalf of the big right hon. gentleman county to the banquet and hoped that a pleasant evening was enjoyed. He especially praised the officials for the fine repast set for the guests and at another time all would return. Mr. John Hillard replied but briefly to the toast, for the guests assembled.

Mr. George White, of Madoc, proposed the toast to the Province of Ontario, Hon. J. R. Cooke replying to the principal address. It was a most enjoyable function and the warden would also like to express appreciation on behalf of the ladies of the Eastern Star who prepared the splendid repast.
